SOME HOUGHS NECK NOTES

Quincy's Summer Resort Much in Evidence This Year

No special plans have been made for celebrating the glorious Fourth at the beach. There will be more or less doing however. Most of the cottagers will entertain guests over the holiday and there will be a number of private displays of fireworks in the evening.

It has been a long time since the beach held an illumination or festival. There was a time when these events were held every year and there were good times. Then the storekeepers got to fighting among themselves. Some wanted a one day affair and make it a rouser while other wanted to string it over three days each one of which was poorer than the other. The three day element prevailed and it was as expected, a fizzle. The storekeepers lost money and the people who went down to see the fun got buncoed. If all would pull together and have a one day celebration and make that a good one, all working together, it would be a good thing. Now is the time to begin to talk it up.

There has been quite a change in the class of buildings at Houghs Neck since the amendments to the building ordinance were passed, the only regret is that these same amendments were not passed long ago.

The crowds at the beach have been larger this year than ever before. This is especially true on Wednesday and Saturday evenings when the dance halls are running full blast. Many of the participants at these dances come from Quincy particularly West Quincy now that there is a midnight car for this section on these evenings.

The new cottage of Arthur W. Harris at Adams Shore has been completed and his family is now occupying it. Mr. Harris is at present in Europe but he will return in time to enjoy it for a part of the season.

If there is anybody who has not as yet applied to the City Council for a license as a common victualer let him do so at once. Last year there were over a hundred such licenses granted at the beach and there are probably more this year.

Several Houghs Neckers were noticed in the vicinity of City Hall Wednesday evening with their ears near the ground trying to find out what the Finance committee did with the school house lot orders. They will know for certain if they attend the council meeting next Tuesday evening.

The residents are very anxious that a combination fire alarm box should be located at the engine house. The object of this box is so that if the station is notified of a fire by telephone a dial can be almost immediately put on the box and an alarm sounded from any of the various boxes at the beach thus notifying the call men where the fire section is.

John County, superintendent of the Essex street sub-station of the Boston post office has purchased a house on Bay View avenue and will occupy the same this summer.

John Collins has purchased a house on Crosby street and will occupy it soon.

The Gas Company is laying its mains on River street.

Houghs Neck has a new bunch of constables, several having been appointed by Mayor Shea last Monday evening. They will come in handy in keeping things quiet on the Fourth and will assist the Associates in carrying out their plan to improve the condition of the beach.

A largely attended and very enjoyable hop was held at the yacht club house Tuesday evening. The annual ladies' day event will be held Thursday, July 8.

Houghs Neck furnished its share of sensations last Sunday when sixteen young men were dumped in the mud near the steamboat wharf. It is hardly necessary to say that the steamboat has commenced to make trips between the beach and Boston.

The much coverted Cavanagh lot is one stage nearer consumation. Next Monday night will probably see the order to purchase the lot passed or killed. If the matter is killed it will be late in the fall before it again comes to the front.

Did you ever notice how happy those spiders are that inhabit the office of Tom Dwyer? They are happy for they know that they will not be disturbed. Tom says that they bring him good luck and that they are welcome to remain free from paying rent as long as they want to.

The steamboat between the beach and Boston is again in commission and is being very well patronized.

The announcement of the annual ladies' day event of the Quincy Yacht club was made Wednesday. The program differs but little from other years and a good time is assured the many who will attend. Next Thursday is the day, if pleasant. If stormy the event will take place the following day.

There has been a noticable absence of the usual noises made by power boats off the beach, since the law compelling them to be muffled went into effect. Several have been hailed into court for violating this law but as it is a new one they have been let off with very small fines. When the law becomes more generally understood the chances are that the fines will be much larger.

Archie Baird is now a constable as well as President of the Associates. As some of the meetings of the associates have been stormy ones it is a good thing that he is clothed with the power to use his authority as a constable if occasion requires and lock up the disturbers in one of those cells at the fire station.

Harry Tirrell had a wedding anniversary some days ago and entertained a family party that evening. Harry made a genial host and served a fine supper.

JUDGE CAUGHT IN AUTO TRAP

The chauffeur of Judge James H. Flint of the Norfolk probate court was defendant in a hotly contested automobile case in the 2d district court at Hingham Wednesday, Judge George W. Kelley presiding.

Edward P. Noonan, Judge Flint's chauffeur, was charged with operating an automobile on East st., Hingham, at the rate of 22 miles an hour. Judge Flint as counsel for the defendant offered a plea of not guilty, and also appeared as the only witness against the government.

Officers Jones, Adams and Foster testified as to the conditions under which the machine owned and occupied at the time by Judge Flint was held up on East street.

Judge Flint in his testimony said that at the time of being held up by the police he was sitting on the front seat of his car and that the chauffeur was running the car under his directions because he was aware of the "traps" and also of the vigilance of the police of Hingham. He further testified that at no time while in the trap did his speedometer register over 11 miles an hour.

Judge Flint, in his plea for a dismissal of the case, said that he was not in court for the purpose of defying the law, but thought that under the law the "innocent" should be protected as well as the guilty punished.

"I have no quarrel with any of the officers," said Judge Flint, "but suppose they are liable to mistakes like automobilists." Continuing he said that his speedometer had been tested and found to be correct, and he did not see how the time of a $6.50 stop watch used by the officers could make out a case against the record of a $75 speedometer.

Chief of Police James suggested that the case be placed on file by the payment of costs, but Judge Flint would not accept this disposition of the case, intimating that a discharge or conviction were the only alternatives.

Judge Kelley, in rendering his decision, said that it had been proven in his court that a stop watch that cost but $2 was just as good a timekeeper as a watch costing $60, and that he did not agree with automobilists who came into court and testified that they could stop a car in going twice its length.

Judge Kelley also said that he had made a very careful inspection of the "trap" where Judge Flint was held up, and he found it to be an "S" curve, and the kind of a course that the law had in mind when the speed was reduced to the limit of eight miles an hour.

The chauffeur of Judge Flint was found guilty and fined $10. Judge Flint appealed the case to the superior court.

WALSH—MCKENNA.

A wedding of interest to a large number of Quincy people was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the parochial residence of St. John's church on Gay street, when John W. Walsh and Miss Susan H. McKenna were united in marriage. The groom is one of the best-know of the younger businessmen of the city, having been manager of the Henry L. Kincaide furniture store for many years. He is also a prominent member of the Granite City club, Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, and Quincy lodge of Elks and a few years ago he represented ward 2 in the city council.

The bride has been a resident of Quincy for many years and of late has been employed as one of the teachers of the Dillaway school, Boston. The cermony was performed at 2.30 by Rev. George A. Keelan, S. J., of the church of the Immaculate Conception, Boston. Rev. Fr. Keelan is a cousin of the bride and his sister, Miss Alice J. Keelan of Dedham, was bridesmaid. The groom was attended by his brother, Councilman Michael T. Walsh of ward 2.

The bride was dressed in a blue traveling gown and the bridesmaid wore gray chiffon cloth. After the marriage ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Margaret Walsh, 158 Quincy avenue. The reception was from 3 to 5 and was attended by only the members of the families and a few immediate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left late in the afternoon on their wedding trip and on their return they will make their home on 41 Butler roa, where Mr. Walsh has erected a new house, Mr. and Mrs. Walsh were remembered with many handsome wedding gifts.

QUINCY GAME IS PROTESTED

Rockland Claims Saturday's Pitcher Not Eligible

There is a story about that Pres. D. M. O'Brien of the Rockland baseball club, had formally protested the game won by the Quincy team in this city last Saturay on the ground that Thomas Gilroy, who pitched for Quincy, was not eligible to play in the Old Colony league, inasmuch as he is property of the Lawrence club of the New England league. According to the league constitution no man is eligible to play in the Old Colony if he is under contract to the team in a league under the national agreement. It is claimed by the Rockland management that Gilroy was purchased by the Lawrence team from the Nashville team of the Southern league, and that whether he has actually signed or not he is the property of that club and under the national agreement cannot play for any other team.

The Brockton Enterprise states that "according to reports which have been received" Gilroy is under the claim of the Lawrence club. It would be much better for the Rockland to get the facts and not depend on the "reports received." As a matter of fact it was through Ed Arundel of the Lawrence club that Gilroy was secured for the Quincy team. Arundel is a personal friend of one of the local stockholders and told the Quincy club that Gilroy was all right. Gilroy was once a member of the Lawrence and also the Fall River clubs of the New England league, but this season was sold to the Nashville club of the Southern league. Here he pitched great ball for a while, but the climate did not agree with him and he was not able to do his best work. He therefore asked for his unconditional release, which he received, and he came back home a free agent. Hence he is free to play wherever he gets a chance. If there is any trouble anywhere, it is with the Nashville team of the Southern league as Arundel says he has no claim on the man.

One of the officials of the local club said this morning that he had heard nothing of a formal protest. There was talk of protesting the game at the grounds Saturday, but it was thought best not to disappoint the crowd. The local officials got in touch immediately with Pres. Murphy of the league. He said that he had not received any formal protest from the Rockland team as yet. He also said that he would communicate at once with Frank Farrell of New York, who has the records of all the sales, purchases, releases and contracts in all organized baseball, and would find exactly where Gilroy stood. Not until word is received from Farrell can it be ascertained just what will become of Gilroy and the Rockland protest.

The Rockland team takes the stand that as the league has the rule for barring players who are ineligible, the rule ought to be enforced. This is a perfectly proper and just stand to take, for if the rules are not carried out, they might as well not be in existence. The bringing of ringers into the league is a bad thing and should be stopped at once to be sure, but it is always best to be sure whether they are ringers or not, before any trouble is made.

The post office department is generally up-to-date but the Quincy office was just a little bit better yesterday for a letter postmarked "July 1, 11 A. M., 1909," was received by a Ledger man yesterday afternoon.

Don't let your little ones have fire crackers, or worse, cannon crackers, not to speak of the toy caps. If you value the lives of your little ones, don't send them to eternity by means of the most terrible of all death—lockjaw. The cemeteries are full enough now. Don't help overcrowd them through thoughtlessness or carelessness. The innocent child knows nothing of the danger lurking within these crackers and caps but fathers ought to. Those kind of fireworks are dangerous enough for grown-up folks and too much so for little ones.

The letter from L. Grossman & Sons, published in Wednesday night's Ledger, should merit careful attention. If, as Mr. Grossman says, there are junk collectors in the city who store their junk in the cellars of their homes and in the stables with their horses, then it would seem to be up to the Board of Health to take a hand in the matter. That there are offensive conditions existing in this city in connection with the junk problem, there is hardly any doubt. The Board of Health has a tremendous power within its grasp and if there are any places in the city which are a menace to public health, the duty of the Board of Health is plain, regardless of any action which may have been taken by the city council, there should be no discrimination shown in matters of this kind. We venture the opinion that the place of Mr. Grossman's is as sanitary as any in the city, if not more so, and no one man or firm should be singled out on such grounds.

As part of its contract with the city, the Electric light company is supposed to turn on the street lights in the district where a fire alarm strikes in from, provided the street lights are not turned on at the time. Tuesday night an alarm was sounded from Box 42 at 9.13. The moon was within two or three nights of the full; therefore there were no street lights, although it was the dimest kind of moonlight. However the company was clearly within its rights in not lighting the streets but when the fire alarm struck the street lights should have been turned on in the section where the fire was supposed to be. The drivers of the various fire companies failed to notice the street lights if they were turned on with the result that the fire companies responding to the alarm were obliged to drive through semi-darkened streets. It isn't fair to ask the firemen to risk their lives by rushing their horses through the streets under such conditions. That part of the agreement concerning the lighting of streets in the case of a fire alarm, is all wrong anyhow, even if it is lived up to by the electric light company. The order as passed by the city council was to the effect that the lights should be turned on in that district where the fire is. If, however, boxes 23 or 26, in the Centre, should strike in after 1 o'clock in the morning, the company would be justified in turning on only the lights in the Centre. The Quincy Point and Wollaston apparatus, however, respond to those boxes on first alarms and under the conditions cited above would have to come part way through dark streets. When the next contract with the lighting company is made, providing the city fails to get all-night lighting, which ought to be, the company should be made to turn on the lights all over the city when a fire alarm is sounded after 1 o'clock because there is no telling but the fire may call for a second or general alarm which would bring apparatus from all parts of the city. If the city authorities fail to strike a bargain this time for all-night lighting every night in the year, there are many citizens who will be disappointed at least, not to use a more emphatic word.

Children Cry
FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

It is too bad that the company which furnished the relief steam fire engine for the central fire station, pending the building of the new engine, could not have sent the city something more modern. The engine that came is a heavy, second-class engine built for a two-horse hitch. It is heavier, if anything, than the old steamer, which was a three-horse hitch. It will be heavier, therefore, to drag around to fires and if there is any time in the year when the horses ought to have as light a burden as possible, it is during the days around the Fourth. It would have been much better to have kept the old steamer until after the Fourth. The hitch on the engine now at the central station is an old-fashioned one and is hard on the horses in that most of the weight comes on their necks. In matters of fire fighting equipment, the city is woefully deficient and the additions made in recent years have not been up to modern standards. Except for Combination 1 at the central fire station and Truck 2 at Wollaston, the city hasn't a piece of rubber-tired apparatus and now it is proposed to equip the central station with a steel-tired fire engine in spite of the opposition of all modern, up-to-date fire department officials to such machines. The city is to spend $500 for fireworks and band concerts this Fourth and the new steamer could be equipped with rubber tires for nearly half the cost and then the city would have something to show for its money for years to come.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

READY FOR GUN AT NEW LONDON

Varsity Boat Race Holding Big Crowd's Attention

THRONGS IN BLUE AND RED

Regatta City Filled, as Usual, With Partisans of Yale and Harvard Crews—Much Yale Talk of Oarsmen's Speed and Overtraining of Harvard Men, but Latter's Coach Expresses Confidence In Charges

New London, Conn., July 1.—With the freshmen and the four oared races out of the way, the scene was set today for the final and crowning event of the Yale-Harvard regatta, the struggle between the varsity eight oared crews.

CAPTAIN HOWE.

The minor events have served their purpose—the whetting of the appetites of the immense crowds for the big race. Speaking of crowds, the word seems hardly adequate to give an idea of the number of people that fill this city to overflowing and spill over the edges. Even last year's multitude, drawn here partly by the races and partly by the presence of President Taft, then the Republican candidate, is surpassed today. The long afternoon wait for the big race, which is scheduled for 6 p. m., is filled with the scenes and sounds incident to the gathering of a mass of college humanity. New London is used to the uproar and the sights, having had the college regatta here since 1878, but even the man who remembers the Harvard victory in that year declares that today's crowd is a record breaker.

New London Vivid and Noisy

To account for the scenes, imagine an assemblage of thousands upon thousands of college alumni and undergraduates, accompanied by their women folk, all plentifully bedecked with crimson or blue, wandering through the shady streets of this ancient town in groups and couples, swirling in opposite currents at the street corners, gathering in crowds in front of the hotels and in the squares and waving into one another's faces the flags and pennants with which they express visibly their enthusiastic rivalries.

For the noise, combine in your mind's ear the chattering, laughing, singing and cheering of the aforesaid thousands, mingling in a pleasing medley of noise with the booming of the little cannon on the yachts lining the course of the races, the roaring of the sirens of the same craft and the ceaseless honking and braying of the automobiles drawn hither by the regatta from every point on the compass. And don't forget the cries of the fakers, doing a rushing business in pennants, buttons, horns, whistles and other things that go with boat races and football games, to say nothing of the venders of lemonade and sandwiches.

Judging from some of the talk that is going around among persons who say they are disinterested, there will be only one crew in today's big race and that crew will be the one from the university west of here. Not that the Harvard crew has no partisans or that the Crimson hordes are forgetting themselves so far as to concede that Yale will win. Oh, dear, no! But there is so much talk of the wonderfully fast time made in practice by the Yale eight and the possible overtraining of the Harvard men that one can sometimes surprise even a Harvard rooter with an anxious look on his face.

To offset all this confident Yale talk the Crimson people are flaunting in the faces of their foes the Harvard victory of last year, when Griswold of Yale collapsed in the third mile and Hunt's collapse immediately after shattered Yale's hopes. Yale's answer to this historic argument is that not since 1882-3 has Harvard won twice in succession and this is a late day for the upsetting of that long record.

Of course neither Captain Howe of Yale nor Captain Cutler of Harvard is upsetting college traditions by claiming victory before the race. The coaches, Kennedy of Yale and Wray of Harvard, are not quite so reticent or modest, however, and each has been heard to assert that his charges are in good condition and need only the chance to prove their rowing skill.

The start of the big race will be well worth seeing. The Harvard crew knows how to get under way quickly, and the racing starts made by Yale this year have been a revelation even to the old men on the river.

CHANGE IN THE NAVY

Rear Admiral Potter Becmes Chief of the Bureau of Navigation

Washington, July 1.—An important change took place in the navy department today with the assumption of the office of chief of the bureau of navigation, one of the most responsible in the service, by Rear Admiral William P. Potter. He succeeds as bureau chief Rear Admiral John E. Pillsbury, who was placed on the retired list several months ago, but has remained in charge of the bureau.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM P. POTTER.

Rear Admiral Potter has had a distinguished creer in the navy. He is a native of New York and entered the service in 1865. He was advanced for "eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle during the war with Spain." At the outset of the recent battleship cruise Admiral Potter commanded the Vermont, and on the retirement of Rear Admiral Emory he succeeded to the command of the second squadron of the Atlantic fleet.

FINES ARE IMPOSED UPON STEEL FIRMS

Guilty of Collusive Bidding In the Boston Agreement

Boston, July 1.—The long drawn out series of cases resulting from the discovery by the finance commission of the famous "Boston agreement" in connection with bids for steel contract work reached still another stage when four firms pleaded guilty to collusive bidding and were fined by Judge Sanderson in the superior criminal court.

The Boston Bridge Works and the Groton Bridge company were each fined $1500 and the Canton Bridge company $2000 for agreed bidding in two contracts. The Oswego Bridge company, concerned only in one case, was fined $1000.

CALLS "FITZY" A PERJURER

Former Mayor of Boston Attacked by District Attorney Hill

Boston, July 1.—Former Mayor Fitzgerald was directly accused of perjury and of trying to "throw the government's case" by District Attorney Hill in his summing up of the government's case against M. J. Mitchell and T. F. Maher, charged with conspiracy to defraud the city of $13,000 by means of flagstone contracts during the Fitzgerald administration.

Fitzgerald was one of the witnesses in the case. His testimony throughout was marked by an absence of memory as to what he had previously given in evidence before the grand jury.

"There is just one thing that I want to say about that (Fitzgerald's) testimony and that is that it was not honest testimony," declared Hill, "and that Mr. Fitzgerald, when he came here, did not come here with the purpose of telling the truth to this jury and did not tell the truth to this jury, and that his object was to throw the government's case because he probably thinks that we rely on him."

STEAMER HELD UP

Suspicion That She Was to Engage in Filibustering Expedition

New York, July 1.—The Ethelwold, a small and apparently harmless little steamer lying on the South Brooklyn water front, was held up by United States customs officers on suspicion that the vessel was about to engage in a filibustering expedition against the West Indian republic of Santo Domingo.

The order to detain the steamer was received last night from the department of commerce and labor.

Salmon Fishermen Handicapped

St. John, July 1.—Although salmon are running in goodly numbers at Beacon Bar, the St. John fishermen are prevented from operating because of dredging operations which have been in there. Threats of destroying the ranges and marks have been heard.

Tug Cut In Two

Reedy Island, Del., July 1.—A misunderstanding of signals caused a collision between the sea-going tug Swatara and the fruit steamer Juan. The Swatara was cut amidship and sank. All hands were saved. The Juan was only slightly damaged.

Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

M'CLELLAN GETS AFTER POLICE

Upheaval In New York as a Result of Duffy Case

DECISION IN BOY'S FAVOR

His Picture and Measurements to Be Removed From Rogues' Galelry—Commissioner Bingham Censured and Ordered to Remove Two Important Officials Who Failed to Check Grievance—Gaynor's Victory

New York, July 1.—After an investigation which began a month ago, Mayor McClellan last night ordered one of the most severe shakeups in the history of the New York police departments. The upheaval comes with the mayor's decision in favor of George B. Duffy of Brooklyn, aged 20, whose picture and measurements have been retained by the police, although the boy was never convicted of felony or misdemeanor.

The finding is a victory for Supreme Court Justice Gaynor of Brooklyn, through whose letters the Duffy case was brought to the mayor's attention. Gaynor, who has been prominently mentioned as a probable Democratic candidate for mayor in the coming municipal elections, was subsequently sued for libel by Police Commissioner Bingham, who asks $100,000 damages. He bases his suit on Gaynor's open letters in the Duffy case.

In his decision McClellan not only ordered Duffy's picture and measurements removed from the Rogues' Gallery, but he censures Bingham for his administration of the police department in Brooklyn and directs the removal of two important police officials. These commands are to be carried out within twelve hours after their receipt.

The mayor's orders are primarily to restore the former police administration in Brooklyn under a deputy commissioner. Some time ago it was reduced to the rank of a precinct, with a professional policeman in charge. This the mayor brands as an absolute failure.

The officials to be removed, if the mayor's orders are carried out, are Deputy Commissioner Hansen and Daniel Slattery, Bingham's secretary. They are to be removed, according to the mayor's decision, "for their implication in the case of the Duffy boy, when as lay members of the commissioner's staff they should have been the first to check the grievance."

Hansen is further censured for "abusive language, lack of control and inability to exercise judicial functions."

That there may be no injustice in taking pictures hereafter the mayor directs that formal application to take such photographs first be made.

FIRST OF ITS KIND

World's Shoe and Leather Fair Ready For Business In Boston

Boston, July 1.—The first world's shoe and leather fair ever held will open here tonight. It is intended to illustrate the progress of the world in the making of footwear and other leather goods. One of the features will be a complete shoe factory with a capacity of 300 pairs a day. Every part of a shoe from the assembling of the materials to the last stitching will be explained.

No attempt will be made to rush shoes through on record time, but instead every shoe will be perfect and illustrative of the highest quality of American shoemaking.

The foreign exhibits will include those of factories at Erfurt, Germany, which are producing American shaped shoes.

Opposed to Duty on Hides

Boston, July 1.—Resolutions strongly opposing the 15 percent duty on hides and providing for the appointment of a committee to call on President Taft and ask him to use his influence to have removed "a real hardship and injustice" were unanimously adopted at a meeting of the New England Shoe and Leather Manufacturers and Dealers.

NEW ENGLAND FOOD FAIR.

Nothing succeeds like success. When the Massachusetts Retail Grocers Association announced its third Annual Food Fair and Home Furnishing Exposition to be held in Mechanics building, Boston, September 27th to October 30th, 1909, it was soon apparent that the big successes of 1907 and 1908 were not forgotten. Never in the history of Food Fairs have so many of the representative firms planned for elaborate and artistic display. Nearly every progressive, enterprising and up-to-date leader in the food product and household utility lines has secured space. This list includes the largest manufacturer of chocolate and cocoa in this country; the leading cereal producing concern; the biggest sausage making firm and a score of working exhibits of intense practical interest in these days of industrial education. There is quite evident, in these trades, a confident belief that this fall is to see a return of the long awaited business prosperity. The management is preparing to supplement these large firm outlays with attractions of superior merit.

All roads will lead to Mechanics building, Boston, next October, where the only big food fair in New England this year will be held under the same auspices and same management and in the same building as the past two years. In attendance alone this great Fair now holds the world's record for any similar Exposition with a total of 1,166,224 in 1907 and 1908. You can't fool the people; the Management of these expositions doesn't try to and that's why they succeed.

You won't brush your shoes with a handkerchief—of course not.

But you are glad to know that a "Nugget" Polish is on to stay—it never is sticky, never soils the clothing.

Here is what you will notice when you first use "Nugget":—

—That the tiniest amount of polish is required—a little dab is enough to produce a soft, lustrous "shine."

—That to polish the shoes with "Nugget" is a matter of but a minute or two.

—That there is really no work about it.

And then when you have found how easy it is to have well-groomed shoes—when you find your shoes wearing and wearing and wearing—you will always use "Nugget."

20,000,000 of tins each year are sold to folks who have found this out.

"NUGGET" POLISHES For Shoes

"Nugget" Polishes and "Nugget" Kits (Polish, Brush and Selvyt Pad) are sold at good shoe stores, drug stores, grocery stores and by dealers everywhere.

TABLEAUX AT DOWNS CHURCH

Young Ladies D. O. Club Give Unique Entertainment

An entertainment consisting of music and tableaux was held in the Park and Downs church Wednesday evening by members of the D. O. club, a young ladies organization connected with the church. The calcium light effects and artistic groupings together with the flowing white robes in which the young ladies were costumed combined to make the affair of more than ordinary success.

One of the features of the evening were the vocal solos of Miss Alice A. Jones of Newton. Among other pieces Miss Jones, accompanied by Miss Nettie Gram, sang "Malindy" by Clayton Johns, "A song of Thanksgiving" by Allitsen and "Good Night" by Chadwick. The appreciation of her work was well shown by the repeated encores which she received.

The curtains were drawn aside by two little girls, Clara Coombs and Edna Shay gowned in white with wreaths of flowers on their heads. Incidental music during the tableaux was played by Louis Coombs.

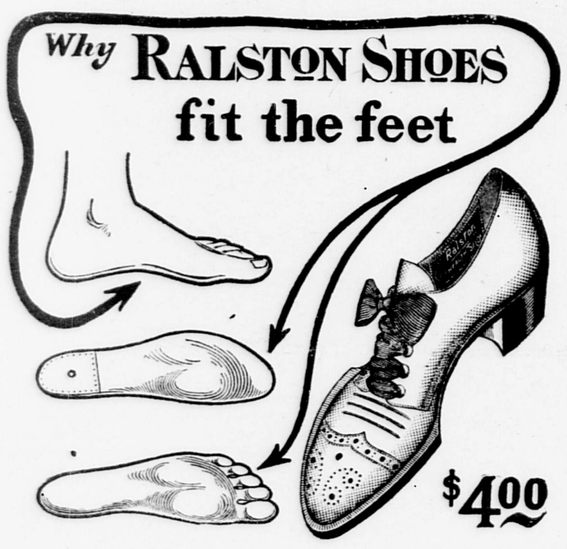
Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet



Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

BURNS LESS COAL ON RUN

Cruiser Salem in Five Days Run Across the Atlantic

The Fore River Ship Building Co., are more than pleased with the work of the scout cruiser Salem on her recent run across the Atlantic. It will be remembered that she did not do as was expected. This was found to have been due to foreign matter in her turbines.

The Salem then came to Quincy where she was overhauled and the bolts taken from the engines. She then joined her sister ships Birmingham and Chester.

On the five days run when the vessels steamed side by side the Salem burned less coal than either of the other ships.

All three of the much discussed cruisers maintained the same speed and in every way it was a fair test of the engines. The officers of the Birmingham and the Chester claim that the bottoms of their boats are much more foul than that of the Salem, while those on the Salem say that their boat has been in the water the same length of time. Three days ago the Salem left her sister ships, which had on board the members of the commission investigating into the Government of Liberia, increased her speed to twenty knots and arrived at the Charlestown Navy Yard late Wednesday afternoon. The Birmingham and the Chester arrived at Newport on Thursday. All the time that the boats were together there was no attempt at speed, the average rate per hour not exceeding 13.8 knots.

In the consumption of coal the Salem burned an average of ninety-five tons per day. The Birmingham burned about 110 tons a day, and the Chester, to the consternation of her officers and to the amusement of the men on the other two ships, burned an average of 130 tons a day. Why these should be the figures, when on the coal consumption test the Salem averaged 107 tons, the Chester 85 and the Birmingham 71, at the rate of 15 knots an hour, is not yet clear to the engineers themselves. Since the Salem has had her engines fixed at the Fore River works, where she was built, she has shown an improvement, but the other ships have evidently gone back.

In comparison of the figures it must be remembered, however, that a coal consumption test is very different from ordinary cruising. Then all the auxiliary engines, such as are used for dumping the ashes, running the dynamos, and distilling the water, are stopped and every attention is placed in turning out the most speed with the least coal. In crossing the Atlantic all the auxiliary engines were running and every comfort was taken. The only explanation that the officers of the other two ships offered in their messages over the waves was that while they were anchored off the coast of Liberia the bottoms of the ships got very foul. "No worse, I guess," said one of the officers of the Salem, "than when we were lying in the mud at Quincy."

That the Salem was burning the least coal was evident from the very start. The three boats left Madeira June 23d. On that day they travelled 327 miles at an average speed of 13.4 knots and the Salem burned 84 tons, the Birmingham 93, and the Chester 110. The next day, steaming at the same rate, the Salem burned 92 tons of coal, the Chester 101, and the Birmingham 104. With a slight increase in the speed on the following day the Salem burned 96 tons, the Birmingham 111 and the Chester 137. On the fourth day with the same speed maintained the log shows that the Salem burned 94 tons, the Birmingham the same amount as the day before, but the Chester consumed 144 tons. On the fifth and the last day that the three cruisers were together, the Salem burned 95 tons, the Birmingham 113 and the Chester 137. Then the ships separated. The Salem increased her speed to 18 knots and for the last twelve hours before arriving in Boston she steamed at 20 knots.

During the entire trip the Salem's engines ran with smoothness and satisfaction. That something is wrong with the Parsons turbine on board the Chester is the opinion of the officers of the Salem and they think that she will have to be attended to when she gets into port. Shortly after the coal consumption tests in which the Salem came out so badly it was found that something, perhaps a bolt, had got into the first row of the fifth stage of the turbine. When this was opened at the Fore River Works the teeth on which the steam catches to send the turbine around were ground down so that the steam was acting against the engine instead of with it. As the trouble was in the fifth row it was thought that the running of the cruiser after the mishap would only increase her efficiency at high speed.

This was shown to be somewhat true. When the Salem was off Provincetown on May 5, on her way to Bradford, R. I., she put on all the speed that she could, but, as luck would have it, she blew out a boiler tube and had to go on eleven boilers. Even though she was thus handicapped, she travelled at the rate of 25.1 knots an hour, which is the best that she has done since she was in commission. The highest speed which she has been known to travel is 26.88 knots, done on the builders' test. After coaling at Bradford, the Salem went to Las Palmas, a port of the Canary Islands arriving on the fourteenth. She remained there for two days and then left for Madeira, where she met her sister ships at Funchal and stayed for six days. The officers of the Birmingham and the Chester said that they had a bad time of it off the coast of Liberia, for they had to anchor in the open and that the cruisers rolled while at anchor and made life uncomfortable on board. They said that they certainly envied Commissioners Falkner, Scott and Sale, who went ashore and lived in the best of houses and had a good time, while they were left to boil in the sun and be tossed about on the swell of the Southern Atlantic. From what they heard the officers guessed that the commissioners accomplished what they wished, but as to their reports they knew nothing.

Captain Alfred L. Fry was pleased with the behavior of the Salem and nearly all the men on board, from the chief engineer to the sailors want a race with the Chester. The cruisers did not race across the ocean because they did not have enough coal for such a trip at full speed. The Salem was put into the drydock at the navy yard at ten o'clock this morning.

RESULTS OF SPORTS.

Many Interesting Events at Christ Church Picnic.

The Christ Church Sunday school held its annual picnic Wednesday at Glen Echo park, Stoughton. The day was perfect for a picnic, the park was in excellent condition and the large attendance made the affair a huge success.

On arriving at the picnic grounds the girls' base ball game was started, and after a spirited contest the team captained by Miss Mildred Smith won, the score being 6 to 5. A basket lunch was then served, among the goodies being bananas, peanuts, ice cream and cake, besides more substantial food.

The lunch over, the field sports were run off. These events brought out considerable competition and caused quite a little fun. The events resulted as follows:—

Running broad jump, (for seniors)—won by Everett Prout; second, John Smith; third, John Moyle; (for juniors)—won by W. Caddy; second, John Reynolds; third, James Smith.

100 yard dash (for seniors)—won by E. Prout; second, J. Smith; third, C. DeC. Beal; (for juniors)—won by Caddy; second, Reynolds; third, Ralph Prout.

Hop, step and jump—won by E. Prout; second, Murray; third, J. Moyle; (juniors)—won by W. Clark; second, Reynolds; third, S. Prout.

Badges were awarded for second places and a senior and junior championship badge to the one who scored the most points. Everett Prout took the senior badge and John Reynolds the junior.

The sports closed with a ball game between the older boys and the men, while others who chose enjoyed themselves dancing, bowling, boating, bathing and in various other ways during the afternoon.

A GOOD JOB.

City Teams Work All Night Cleaning Streets in City Square.

Commissioner Bainbridge did a good job in City Square Thursday night and this morning the streets were entirely free from loose dust and rubbish. The Commissioner started in shortly after 10 o'clock with the rotary sweeper and all the surplus dust was swept into the gutters and then carted off. Before the sweeper was put at work however, the streets were watered so that there was no dust flying. It was the intention of the Commissioner to give the streets another coat of oil but they were too wet. That will be done tonight. The teams worked all night.

—Col. Frank Touvelle, a rancher living near Medford, Oregon, is said to have produced a deep-rooted vine which brings forth three crops of berries in a season, which result has been obtained by grafting alfafla roots on the roots of the strawberry vine. Alfalfa roots deeply and produces three to five crops a year without irrigation. It occurred to him that strawberries might do the same if the vine could be made to extend down far enough so as to receive moisture from the soil throughout the season.—Scientific American.

ROCKLANDS PROTEST.

Last Saturday's Game With Quincy to be Thrown Out.

It appears now that the protest of the Rockland team of the game last Saturday against Quincy played in this city is perfectly proper. The Rockland management claimed that Thomas Gilroy, who pitched for Quincy in that game, was under contract to the Lawrence club of the New England league. The local officials claimed that Gilroy was eligible to play, inasmuch as President Arundel of the Lawrence team said that he was. However Arundel now state he was under contract to him, but that he (Arundel) did not know the rules of the Old Colony league in regard to players who were under contract to teams under the National agreement. The Quincy management however is not to blame, for they took the word of Arundel, which was the only thing they could do under the circumstances. Gilroy has now been sent to the New Bedford team of the New England league, and so no more trouble will be had from him.

The protest of the Rocklands will probably be sustained by the league officials and last Saturday's game, which was won by Quincy, will be thrown out and played over again at some future date. The thing is a matter of little importance, but still since the rule of the league is against a thing of this kind, it must be enforced.

In excavating for a drydock at Taranto, Italy, some interesting archaeological relics were discovered. Among them were a sarcophagus of the fourth century A. D. containing two intact bodies, many valuable Ionic and Corinthian vases, sepulchral furniture, and a curious terra-cotta group representing Cupid kneeling on the shoulder of Venus.

Water was more important than blood at New London last night—that is the water between the two college boats.

There was "water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink" on and around the Thames last night.

Thomas W. Lawson's daughter and her husband were married Wednesday evening while standing beneath an apple tree. That's the place where the first husband and wife stood when they stumbled and fell.

The New Haven railroad is doing a much needed job in filling the space between the rails of the inward track so that passengers from the outward trains will have a comparatively level surface to walk over while going to the depot platform.

The contract for furnishing coal for the public schools is coming back to Quincy this year after having been awarded to out-of-town parties for two years past. It is a matter of some satisfaction that Quincy dealers were able to underbid outside contractors on this proposition.

The job of cutting down three massive elm trees on Elm street was a Herculean task that was accomplished without interfering with a single wire on the street. The men on the job deserve congratulations. This pretty street, so thick with immense trees, looks as if a big hole had been knocked in the sky line where the three big, dead elm trees stood.

The desultory firing of cannon crackers in various parts of the city every night indicates that the advance guard of the July 4th celebrators has arrived. These young enthusiasts may not realize it, but the fact is they can be arrested for firing off these crackers in the public streets but this law, apparently, is honored more in the breach than in the observance.

Now that the portable stone crusher is ready to start up work and it is intended to crush the granite chips at the various stone cutting yards, it will be interesting to see just what kind of a street broken up granite will make. Different engineers have various opinions concerning the utility of granite for such purposes so that the experiment ought to be at least educational in this line.

It wouldn't be a bad idea for some councilman to introduce, before the summer vacation sets in, an order to buy the small piece of property near the plumbing shop at the corner of Chestnut and Maple streets and throw it into Maple street. If a one-story building is erected there, as is promised, it won't be a very pretty ornamentation to this principal street which leads from City Square to the new post office building. And, as the street will have to be rewidened some day in the future, it would seen a good policy to obtain this vacant strip of land before it is built upon.

The protest, on the part of certain Rockland base ball men, against the victory which the Quincy team won Saturday over Rockland, looks from the present distance like a piece of cheap sport. The Rockland men filed their protest without determining the facts of Gilroy's claim on any other club although the league officials were strangely silent when Quincy lost two games to teams which had men under contract to the big nines. The Quincy management realized that these professional players helped to defeat Quincy but no protest went up from the men interested in the Quincy team. Enforcing the rules is one thing and is the only proper thing, but to enforce them impartially and all the time is more essential. By the way, do you think the Rockland people would have protested Gilroy if the Rockland team had won Saturday?

This week witnessed a clearing up session of the district court which brought forth some interesting details. For several years past it has been the policy of Judge Avery to continue the execution of sentences in cases of misdemeanors, until the end of the month so as to give the accused a chance to pay his fine, an opportunity to stay at his work and remain home with his family and save himself the record of a jail sentence which is generally the result of not having the money to pay a fine. It often happens that on the day when these cases are continued to, the judge places the case on file on payment of costs, if the accused has shown a willingness to do better. On Wednesday 54 continued cases were called. A great many of the accused had paid the fines imposed on them by the court; others were let off with the costs of court and others asked for a further continuance and got it if their record showed they were doing well. One man, only, was defaulted. If all the men who had their cases continued to this week had been sent to jail in default of payment when their cases first came before the court, there would have been some hard stories to tell of more than one family. The method employed by Judge Avery is a humane one, it is a saving to the family of the accused, financially and morally, and any man who would abuse the confidence placed in him at such a time by the judge by not appearing in court at the time he agree to, ought not to find any fault when he gets the limit of the court's sentence, once he is arrested as a defaulter.

DID NOT COMPLY WITH ORDERS

Commissioner Bingham Is Removed by Mayor McClellan

CLOSEST ADVISERS ALSO OUT

Drastic Action the Outcome of the Alleged Persecution of Brooklyn Boy—Head of Police Had Served In Army and Diplomatic Posts—Had Differences With Roosevelt—Gaynor Is Now In the Limelight

New York, July 2.—One of the most drastic upheavals in New York city's police history came when Mayor McClellan summarily removed Commissioner Theodore A. Bingham for insubordination, after the latter's refusal to comply with certain orders issued by the mayor.

THEODORE A. BINGHAM.

The mayor's orders came at the conclusion of his investigation into the alleged police persecution of George B. Duffy, an inconspicuous and almost friendless Brooklyn lad, who, it was claimed, had been repeatedly arrested without just cause and whose photograph was retained in the rogues' gallery despite the failure of the police to obtain a conviction against him.

The mayor held that at least two of General Bingham's lieutenants had been guilty of misconduct in this affair and accordingly demanded their removal.

With Bingham's retirement went several of his closest advisers and the leading supporters of his regime. As the head of the new regime, the mayor at once appointed William F. Baker, hitherto a deputy commissioner, who indicated that a considerable change in the policy of the department was to be expected.

Bingham and his friends are outspoken in their declaration that the principal reasons for the mayor's act were political and that the commissioner's independence of the politicians had resulted in his removal only a few months before the important municipal elections of the autumn. In a statement last night the commissioner said:

"I leave the office with very little regret. It is a fatiguing task and this is what it leads to. Politics have brought about this change. I have done the best I could to give the city a clean and honest police administration, free from any tinge of party politics. But with the approach of an election the bosses are satisfied that it would never do to have a police commissioner who gave a square deal all around."

There are many ready to take up the cudgels in behalf of Brigham, and there are indications that some of the political reform organigations of the city will register their opposition to the mayor's action.

General Bingham, who is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of West Point, came to the New York police department shortly after he had retired from the United States army with the rank of brigadier general. He was then widely known in Washington, throughout army circles and at many diplomatic posts in Europe. He had occupied the post of superintendent of public grounds and buildings at Washington, but when President Roosevelt succeeded McKinley frequent differences of opinion between the two resulted in Bingham's removal to an army post in Buffalo, where the loss of a leg in the performance of his duty resulted in his retirement. His appointment as police commissioner was Mayor McClellan's declaration of independence of Tammany Hall and of opposition to political control of the police.

The climax of the Bingham-Duffy controversy has brought forward into the political limelight Supreme Court Justice Gaynor, who called the Duffy case to McClellan's attention in a series of scathing letters in which he attacked the Bingham administration of police affairs. Gaynor has for several weeks been mentioned prominently as a possible Democratic candidate for the mayoralty to succeed McClellan.

NO VACATION YET.

City Council Unable to Adjourn July 6 as Proposed.

It will not be possible, owing to the pressure of important business, for the City Council to adjourn for its vacation next Tuesday evening.

There is a very large amount of business before the council at the present time which it is desirable to dispose of before taking a vacation.

Meetings of the council have been very frequent for the past month yet it has been found impossible to get things cleaned up in season and at least one more meeting will be necessary.

Austin Peters head of the state cattle bureau has stated officially that the epidemic of rabies has about run out in this state as there are only a few suspected cases in some of the small towns in the western part of the state.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. FIVE CREWS ON EDGE FOR RACE

All Ready For the Intercollegiate Contest

SYRACUSE MEN CONFIDENT

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 2.—Just before the big five cornered intercollegiate rowing race between Syracuse, Cornell, Columbia, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania the question uppermost in the minds of the crowds seems to be: "Can Syracuse repeat her winning performance of last year?" According to the Syracuse students, who have gathered here in large numbers to see their men row, there isn't the least doubt about their ability to do so. A group of Syracusans is parading the streets of the city loudly proclaiming, in a parody of the old British song, "We want to win again, by jingo—yes, we do; we've got the men, we've got the boat, we've got the coacher, too."

CAPTAIN FISHER OF SYRACUSE

There seems to be considerable basis for the Syracusans' confidence in their orsmen. Not only have they the prestige of last year's victory to spur them on, but they have a mighty good crew to try again for the intercollegiate honors. Most of the men have sat in winning boats of one sort or another, and from all appearances there will be no collapse in the orange shell. In addition, they have had the most careful coaching possible at the hands of Coach James H. Ten Eyck, a member of the family that has made much rowing history. The Syracuse men are especially anxious to beat the Wisconsin crew, who are coached by Ned Ten Eyck, son of their own trainer. To add to the rivalry between the two crews, Syracuse's stroke is another son of the Wisconsin coach.

Probably the "dark horse" in today's race is Wisconsin, always considered a formidable contender for intercollegiate honors in rowing, despite the fact that it has never come out better than second. The western college has a large undergraduate body to draw from—this year there are over 5000 students enrolled at Madison—and Ten Eyck brought here a squad of twenty-five husky, able looking oarsmen, who have been rowing well together and have shown signs of individual skill and strength. The men have the added incentive of trying to retrieve their bad defeat of last year, when the man at No. 2 collapsed and the crew finished last.

It must be admitted frankly that Columbia does not look good today to the rowing expert. There have too many changes in the crew to develop the best there is in the men. They will row their best, of course, and they have their splendid finish as second last year to bear them up, but even candid Columbia men have been heard to admit that a victory for the blue and white today will be a big surprise.

In Cornell's favor are the splendid way in which the men have been rowing together in practice and the long list of carnelian and white victories. This year's crew is light, however, and doubts are expressed that the men can stand the strain. This year's squad has been very small, and Coach Courtney has had but ten men to pick his final crew.

Pennsylvania has not won a race here since 1900, when the first of the intercollegiate races was rowed, and she does not seem due for another victory. Only a small squad came up from the Schuylkill, and Coach Ward has been quoted to the effect that his combination is not a strong one. He was handicapped in developing his men by poor weather last spring, and, in addition, they have been here only since June 20, giving them but a short time to train on the course.

Summing up the opinions of the experts, it looks like Syracuse's race, with Wisconsin a strong contender and Cornell a possible winner. Victory by either Columbia or Pennsylvania would be the intercollegiate surprise of the season.

MESSINA AGAIN STRICKEN

Two Terrific Earth Shocks Level Ruins of Last December's Disaster

Messina, July 2.—Messina experienced two terrific earthquakes Thursday. They were accompanied by roaring sounds and had a stronger and more undulatory movement than the earthquake of last December which destroyed Messina, Reggio and other cities, laid waste so many villages in Calabria and killed 200,000 people.

The 25,000 residents of this recently stricken city were thrown again into a state of terror. They ran into the streets panic-stricken and last night nearly the entire population encamped in the open places, fearing to return to the structures which have served them as homes since the city was destroyed.

The broken walls of the old ruins were thrown to the ground and Messina was for a few minutes smothered in a cloud of dust. The only persons killed were a young woman and her infant.

Reggio suffered almost as severely as here at Messina. Walls were overthrown, but no casualties have been reported at that place. The earthquake affected practically the same zone as that of December, but the injuries to persons were relatively insignificant because almost nobody as yet inhabited the houses.

TWO MEN ASSASSINATED

Shot Down by Indian Student In London Imperial Institute

London, July 2.—A double assassination of a political character occurred late last night towards the conclusion of a public gathering at the Imperial institute. An Indian student, whose name is not known, shot and killed Lieutenant Colonel Sir William H. C. Wyllie and Dr. Calas Lalcaca of Shanghai.

Those near the assassin seized and held him until the arrival of police. He had two revolvers, a dagger and a knife. All were new and it is believed that the crime was premeditated.

The gathering at the Imperial institute, a building devoted to Indian and other colonial functions, was an "at home" to Indian students.

ZEPPELIN GOING ON HUNT FOR POLE

Will Make Trip In Airship of Special Strength

Berlin, July 2.—According to The Lokal Anzeiger, Count Zeppelin intends to make an effort to reach the north pole in his airship. The emperor accepted protectorate over the undertaking after listening to a report on the subject at Kiel by Professor Hergesell of the University of Strasburg.

The plan embraces a thorough exploration of the polar regions by means of a Zeppelin airship, before undertaking to reach the pole. A craft of special strength will be built for the purpose and the expedition will be fitted out under the management of Zeppelin.

WENT ON ROCKS IN FOG

Naval Collier Nero Is In a Most Precarious Position

Newport, R. I., July 2.—Impaled upon the rocks of Brenton's reef the naval collier Nero has resisted all attempts to free her from the stranded position into which she ran during a heavy fog.

The collier's pumps being unable to dispose of the great inrush of water to the leaking ballast tanks and to the bursted forepeak, Captain Kennedy ordered the boats ready for immediate launching and saw to the systematic distribution of the life saving apparatus, as the advent of a heavy sea might send the collier to the bottom. Standing by are the cruiser Castine and the collier Brutus.

PANIC IN PERSIAN CAPITAL

Looting Is Feared With Advance of Nationalist Forces

Teheran, July 2.—The advance of the Nationalist forces on Teheran caused a semi-panic on the bazaars. The merchants, fearing lawlessness and looting with which the disorganized police force would be powerless to cope, suddenly closed all their shops.

At the urgent request of the shah the British and the Russian diplomatic representatives will visit him today to discuss the situation.

Cuba Settling Spanish Bill

Madrid, July 2.—Cuba has paid over to the Spanish minister at Havana the first of the three annual installments of $300,000 for Spanish cannon left in the fortresses of Cuba and claimed by Spain under the terms of the peace protocol.

Busse In Critical Condition

Chicago, July 2.—Mayor Busse, who is in a serious condition as the result of an operation for appendicitis, is holding his strength fairly well and has a good chance of recovering.

Coroner McDonald and many policemen believe that it is Leon, but until measurements and facial characteristics are carefully gone over the identification will remain in doubt.

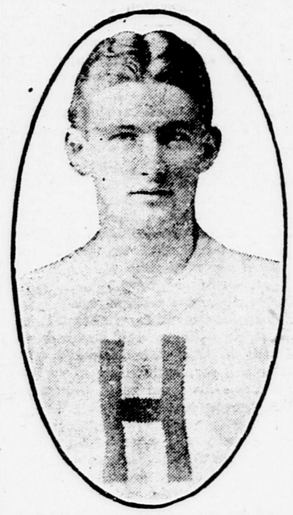
CRIMSON WINS THREE RACES

Administers Crushing Defeat to Yale on the Thames

A PRETTY VARSITY CONTEST

Harvard Men Rowed Two Strokes to the Minute Faster Than Opponents Right Through the Race—Wray's Wisdom In Deposing Sargent, Who Was Considered a Great Stroke—Minor Contests Easy For Harvard

New London, July 2.—In a grand exhibition of rowing by a crew remarkable for its physical power and endurance, Harvard defeated Yale in their annual 'varsity eight-oared race on the Thames. The crimson crew led slightly from the start and won by six boat lengths. Harvard's time was 21 minutes, 50 seconds; Yale's was 22 minutes, 10 seconds.



CAPTAIN CUTLER OF HARVARD

By this victory Harvard won her second consecutive boat race from Yale in twenty-eight years. Not since 1880 and 1881 has Harvard won two consecutive races from the Elis.

Although Harvard won by a handsome margin and administered a crushing defeat to Yale, the race was, nevertheless, a pretty contest right up to the last half mile. All the way up the river the two rowed with almost equal precision.

But the better work was in the Harvard boat. Rowing all the way two strokes and sometimes three strokes to the minute more than Yale, the Harvard eight crept ahead little by little. For two and a half miles Yale kept within a scant boat length of her rival. Then Harvard increased her lead first to three, then to four lengths and finally to five and six lengths. Yale spurted with her old time determination, but it was in vain.

Harvard, with a crew that averaged almost six pounds to the man, heavier than Yale, was able to row right through the race two strokes to the minute faster than the blue oarsmen. But comparisons of strokes and scientific discussion of methods of rowing will not wholly explain away Yale's defeat. Yale had men in her shell capable of rowing a splendid four mile race and this they did do.

The difference between the two crews was physical and not scientific. Yale strength was lacking, although the blue crew appeared up to the average of other years in point of power. But Eli had its limit of speed, and this limit was not equal to that of the Crimson eight, which had more than average power.

Incidentally, however, the race demonstrated that Wray is a great coach. Less than two weeks ago Wray deposed Sargent, a man considered a great stroke, and put in his place Roger Cutler, whose physical proportions caused many to have grave fears about the wisdom of this change.

It was this change, however, that saved the race for Harvard. Sargent, rowing in the form in which he had been in the Crimson eight's practice, could not have won for Harvard Thursday afternoon. By putting Cutler in at No. 8, Wray lengthened the Harvard stroke until it was equal to that of Yale's and at the same time retained Harvard's faster speed.

The race was rowed up stream with the tide. The time of the race was not remarkable and was forty seconds slower than the record time for an upstream race.

The race was started almost on the minute for which it was scheduled and was rowed without a single mishap. The policing of the course, which was lined from start to finish with all kinds of floating craft, was by far the best in the long history of boat races here on the Thames.

Harvard won the 'varsity four-oared and the freshman eight-oared races in the morning. The former was a boat race, the latter a farce. Harvard won the four by about five lengths, but the freshman event was a procession from start to finish, the Crimson youngsters winning by ten lengths.

THE SATURDAY BALL GAMES

Several Good Games Scheduled For Tomorrow

There is considerable doing in local base ball circles tomorrow, although the Quincy Old Colony league team is not to play at home. The Fore River apprentices play their big game of the season tomorrow when they cross bats with the apprentices of the General Electric company of Lynn. The game will be played in the upper field of Merry Mount park, at 3.30 in the afternoon. Both teams are playing fast ball, the local boys having won the last seven games played. This is considered the most important game of the Fore River team and will surely be a fast exhibition. As the Makaria and Quincy teams are playing out of town there ought to be a big crowd at the game. After the game both teams will go to the local Y. M. C. A., where a banquet will be served. While the supper is in progress, there will be music by the Fore River apprentices orchestra. In the evening the boys will go to Houghs Neck, where they will be introduced to the members of the Boston Red Sox, who will be at the beach for the evening as the guests of the Houghs Neck Associates. There will be a big crowd of rooters with the Lynn boys and they are planning to have a grand good time.

The Quincy team goes to Stoughton tomorrow, to try conclusions with the team that beat them two weeks ago, and they intend to come back with the game. The Adams A. A., and the Cranch A. A., will meet on the Old Colony league grounds and if there is a hot game in the city this will be it, as these two teams are old rivals. The Hemlock A. C., will clash with the Quincy Red Sox at the lower field of Merry Mount park. Besides these the Bigelows, the Atlantics, the Quincy Independents and the Excelsus have games booked for tomorrow also.

The Quincy Independents will go to Reading tomorrow where they will play their old rivals. Last Saturday they defeated the fast Norwell team 3 to 1 and incidentally gave Norwell its first trimming of the season. Quincy is playing some ball just at present and intends to even up the score with Reading which team beat them earlier in the season by the close score of 6 to 5. The team will be materially strengthened by the accession of Jocko Kelly, the star third baseman and captain of last year's champion English High team of Boston. Kelly will play the infield for the local team. Barrows the crack southpaw will be in the points for Quincy, with Johnny Rogers, the local star backstop, behind the bat. The fast Bigelows will play the Highland A. C. of Lynn at the Ward Two playground and will attempt to keep up their great record of the season, having been beaten by only one team this season, this team the crack Roger Wolcotts of Dorchester. Lefty Ford will do the twirling for the Bigelows and he will be ably supported behind the bat by Bill Avery.

NEW ATHLETIC CLUB.

Fore River Apprentices Organize With Hill and Neary at Head.

An athletic club has been formed at the Fore River works by the Apprentices of the company and will be known as "The Fore River Apprentices Athletic Club." The company officers of the club are E. B. Hill, president and James E. Neary, secretary and treasurer. The apprentice officers elected were Murray Kerr, manager o fthe baseball team and L. J. Hackett, manager of the track team. The club will take up all branches of athletics in their seasons. They already have a good baseball team and an outdoor track team, and in the fall they are going to have a football team. Later in the winter they will have an indoor track team and a basket ball team, and probably a hockey and cross country team.

The club has a big list of entries in the City Field day to be held next Monday at Merrymount park. They will have a relay team in the games, the runners on this team being Casey, Winchester, McCarthy and Joss. In the short dash the club will be represented by Casey and Winchester. Barker and Graham will run the half-mile and mile runs, the relay men and Clapp will be the quarter mile men, while Hackett and Barker will essay to take the money in the three mile run. With these entries the club is making a good start and ought to get away with a few of the prizes.

—Dreamwold the beautiful estate of Thomas W. Lawson at Scituate was full of fragrant loveliness Wednesday for the wedding of the daughter of the house, for not only were the 4000 crimson rambler rose bushes in full bloom but thousands of cut roses, Lawson pinks, and laurel were used every where.

LETTER FROM THE EXPOSITION.

With the opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, the New England club of this city has become one of the interesting places for New England visitors. The club quarters are centrally located in the Haller building and in addition to this, a booth for entertainment and information has been fitted out in the Manufacturers building on the Exposition grounds.

In the club room in the Haller building every facility for the comfort and convenience of visitors is maintained; they will be kept open from 9 A. M. until 8 P. M. daily, and each Wednesday evening special opportunities for entertainment and acquaintance will be afforded. Here will be found a register containing the names and addresses of every New Englander residing in or about Seattle, and this embraces some 2500 names. Guides and telephones are also supplied and no difficulties are to be apprehended by visitors who desire to locate old friends and acquaintances from the eastern state.

Much of the progressive history of Seattle and the great Northwest has been made by New Englanders and their direct descendants. It is the intention of the New England club to properly introduce their friends, relatives and states' people, to the newer lands of the Pacific coast; and in order to accomplish this in the most satisfactory manner, the club had been called into existence with the completion of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

The successful opening of the Exposition on the first of June brought to this city, the advance guard of the greatest tourists' season in the record of the western states. The city has thoroughly demonstrated its capability to care for the comforts of an enormous number of visitors, and the crowds have been handled in a way more successful and satisfactory than has been accomplished by any former great exposition.

The Exposition has fully justified the expectations and promises of its builders, and its attractions have proved their worth by the constantly increasing attendance received. It is beyond question the most beautiful world's fair ever built, and the exhibits and entertainment features offered are of exceptional merit. The formal opening by President William H. Taft assembled a crowd of 100,000 people, and the succeeding attendance has dialy extended into many thousands.

The magnificent statue of George Washington, executed by Lorado Taft for the Daughters of the American Revolution was unveiled on the 14th of June, and at the impressive event Embassador M. Jusserand of France was the principal speaker. The statue stands at the main entrance of the Exposition, and will occupy a promanent position on the present exposition grounds.

The entire season of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition is scheduled for special state, city and civic days, and these provide for an elaborate series of successive entertainments. Among these now named is that of August 5th, and this date will be devoted to New England visitors and be called New England day.

The club extends a cordial invitation to all New Englanders to have their mail addressed in care of the New England club, Haller building, Seattle.

GREAT LEGAL FIGHT COMING

Groundwork Laid For a Gigantic Anti-Trust Suit in Sugar Case

New York, July 2.—Through twelve men empanelled as a federal grand jury, the United States government has laid the groundwork for another gigantic anti-trust suit, with the indictment of the American Sugar Refining company as a corporation and six of its directors and two prominent lawyers as individuals. The defendant company and the individuals are charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade under a criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Bulky and in blanket form, the indictment contains fourteen counts. The closing of the Segal plant, the details of the $1,250,000 loan by which this was accomplished, and various details of the transaction are recited fully. The defendant company, it is asserted, controls 90 percent of the sugar trade in the United States.

CAPE COD CANAL.

Difference Between That and the Boston and Brockton Canal.

While the war department has granted permission to the Cape Cod Canal Co. to dump granite needed for the breakwater on the northern side of the cape there are many who still shake their heads and express grave doubts as to the final utility of the canal, says the Banker and Tradesman.

The difference between this canal and the proposed Boston, Brockton and Fall River canal is that the Cape Cod canal is being built by private enterprise and that vessels using it will have to pay toll. With the Boston and Brockton canal, in which Quincy is vitally interested, is or will be built by the government and will be free. The United States government is now making a survey for a free ship canal to be built and owned by the government.

The Banker and Tradesman says: "Apparently, the chief difficulty, as the navigators see it, will be the picking up of either entrance in thick weather and in the event of not picking up the entrance, the insufficiency of safe anchorage which is afforded on either side of the cape. These two conditions make the possibility of successful navigation of the cut-off an extremely dangerous piece of business.

"It is generally conceded that what navigators most desire in storms or fog is sea room and while the friends of the canal will claim that the trip from anchorage, say at Boston, to the northern entrance, is so short that advantage can be taken of the weather conditions ;at the same time anyone who knows the coast and conditions which prevail at certain seasons of the year will realize that attempts to make either entrance, particularly the northern, will become one of the most difficult navigation feats on the entire coast.

"Heavy easterly winds will also keep vessels off from the southern approach and while they might be safely anchored at the mouth of Buzzard's Bay, nine captains out of ten would rather be reaching up Vineyard Haven Sound and over the shoals than waiting for the wind to change.

"From the seaman's point of view, the Cape Cod Ship Canal is a big experiment and while it will, of course, shorten the distance to New York and southern ports, taking into consideration the toll which will be charged, together with the danger which will be incurred on account of the lack of sea room and safe anchorage, the possibility of financial success for the canal is not assured."

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Editor of Ledger.

In answer to an article which appeared in the Quincy Advertiser of Friday June 25th, entitled "Gets its Share, Houghs Neck Receives a Liberal Amount of the City Taxes," —the writer speaking about the proposed erection of a school building in that section says:—"Seriously gentlemen of the City Council are you going to spend the city's money for the erection of a schoolhouse at Houghs Neck with a capacity for six hundred pupils and a school population of a hundred and twenty-five? Are you going to vote to pay $76 per pupil a year to educate those children when teh average for the city is $23.-31? Are you going to do this on the speculation that Houghs Neck will grow so that ten years from now there will be children enough to fill the building?"

The writer does not take into consideration that a smaller building than one accommodating six hundred pupils might meet the need fully as well for a number of years as a larger building would. And certainly the need is a real one if there are a hundred and twenty five children who are growing up without having a school within a reasonable distance from their homes which they can attend. Such a condition is worse than in the farming districts of this state where there is at least a district school for sometimes not more than eight or nine pupils. Surely, Quincy with its noted school system cannot afford to tarnish that reputation by having it said that there are sections where there are many children who are debarred from a common school education because the city will not furnish buildings for a school in these sections.

The surest way for the city to make Houghs Neck grow is by building a school there. That part of Houghs Neck is one of the prettiest and healthiest parts of the city, but people will not buy and settle in a place where there are not proper school advantages for their children.

The writer in the Advertiser asks the City Council "What are you going to do with the overflow of the Wollaston, Massachusetts Fields and Quincy districts?" True, that also must be taken into consideration. A school building situated in Montclair or its vicinity would solve the matter of the overflow in Wollaston, Atlantic and Norfolk Downs for there are many children attending school in all three of these places who would be much nearer a school in Montclair than any of these other three. The Montclair section is a section unusually full of children and every day the number of families having children is increasing.

The present time is a very critical one in the educational development of the city. Is the City Council going to help the school committee meet this problem or is it going to fail them in this time of need?

WILL TRY AGAIN FOR AMERICA'S CUP

Lipton Is Ready to Race Under Any Modern Rules

Glasgow, July 2.—Sir Thomas Lipton has informed the Royal Uulster Yacht club that he is willing to challenge for the America's cup immediately.

Sir Thomas declares that he is ready to race under any modern rules, and will allow the New York Yacht club the choice of a rule, European or American, with a boat of any size the defenders may prefer.

LEON PERHAPS A SUICIDE

Body Resembling That of Murder Suspect Found In River

New York, July 2.—There appears to be a strong probability that the body of a Chinaman which was found floating in the Hudson river is that of Leon Ling, the murderer of Elsie Sigel.

The man's height, weight and general appearance tallies with that of Leon Ling, but as the body was nude except for a silk undershirt and had been in the water for more than a week, a thorough examination will be necessary.

If it is Leon, the cause of his death will be another mystery, although one theory, that of suicide, would appear reasonable.

DEATH CHAIR FOR TWO

Extreme Penalty For Monat and Conrow For Killing John Kliff

Poughkeepsie, July 2.—George Conrow was last night found guilty of murder in the first degree in being an accomplice with Napoleon Monat in the murder of John Kliff. Monat has already been sentenced to death during the week of Aug. 9.

Conrow, who is 27 years old, was a railroad conductor, and watched outside the little restaurant at Hopewell Junction while Monat murdered Kliff by hitting him over the head with a draft bolt. Monat then robbed Kliff of $525 and divided the money with Conrow.

Conrow will next Tuesday be sentenced to the death chair.

THE HOLIDAY BALL GAMES

There will certainly be enough doing on Monday to keep all the sports going the limit. The first thing of great importance is the monster field day under the auspices of the city, which will be held at Merrymount park at 9 o'clock. The games will be held as first planned on the new track back of the football field and will be of the best in that line. There will be five events open to all registered athletes, besides a half mile race closed to Quincy runners. There will also be an open team race, the distance being one mile. Valuable prizes will be given the winners of places in the several events, gold watches being the awards for first place and travelling bags for second places. Silver medals will be given to third men and travelling bags to the members of the winning relay team. Entries are coming in fast and it is expected that a large number of crack athletes will compete in the games. This is the first thing of its kind that has ever been attempted by the city and on its success depends its repetition in other years. A good crowd ought to come out to see the games, so that those who are working for the success of the thing will be repaid for their labor. No admission will be charged to see the games and they will be well worth going to see.

Another big thing on the card is the annual Atlantic celebration, which begins at 12 o'clock "the night before" and lasts till Monday night. The program there consists of all kinds of features, including a parade of horribles in the early morning, a big bonfire, ball games, band concerts, track sports and several other interesting features. In the evening there will be a beautiful display of fireworks.

In West Quincy the St. Francis court of Forresters hold a big field day on the Ward Four playground, their program including athletic and other features of a varied nature.

Then of course there will be the usual amount of baseball. In the morning the Old Colony league team goes to Taunton and will try to get back the game they lost to the champs in the opening contest. On the Ward Six playground at 8 o'clock the Fat Men play the Lean Men. At the Old Colony league grounds at 10.30 the Makaria and the Quincy Independents will cross bats for the second time this season. Both are anxious to win, so it will surely be a good game. In the afternoon the Old Colony team will be at home, having as guests the league leaders from Weymouth. This will be one swell game as the local team is going some just at present. There will be a big crowd of rooters over from Weymouth to cheer the Admirals along and the local management is preparing to handle the biggest crowd of the season. Tommy Gilroy will probably be in the box for Quincy with Johnny Murray behind the bat. Dewey has trimmed the home team twice this season, although only once in the league series, and so the local boys are going after the bame in dead earnest on Monday. Better come and see one of the best games of the year.

At the Atlantic field day, the main attraction of the afternoon will be the ball game between the old rivals, the Atlantics and the Makarias. These two teams have met twice this year, each having won one game. Each club has won every game this year except the one it has lost to its rivals, and each intends to go through the season without another defeat. This means that there will be one fast game down in ward six that day, and may the best team win. There will surely be some classy fielding in the game, and it will be worth going a long way to see.

Besides these games already mentioned there will be numerous other games of lesser interest. All the smaller amateur teams have games arranged, most of them double headers, so that it will be one continued hustle all day long.

Another big feature of the sporting program for the holiday will be the annual open doubles' tournament of the Quincy Tennis club, which will be held at the courts at the corner of Whitney road and Woodward avenue, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. The entry fee will be $2.00 and will be received by J. Brooks Keyes, 15 Alleyne terrace, up to six o'clock this afternoon. All matches will be best two out of three advantage sets, except the finals will be the best three out five advantage sets. The entries have been coming in fast and it is expected that the tournament will be one of the best in the history of the local club.

About the only thing in the yachting line is the annual Fourth of July regatta of the City of Boston. Several of the cape cats will probably sail in these races. However most of the yachtsmen will spend the day in cruising.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Polly, a child of the circus, is brought up by Toby, a clown, and by a boss canvasman called "Muvver Jim." She learns to ride Bingo, a circus horse, and grows to woman hood knowing no life except that of the circus. II—A church near the circus lot interests Polly. Jim rerpoves her for her reckless riding. III—Polly urges Bingo to unprecedented speed and falls. Toby and Jim carry the injured girl to tne parsonage nearby. IV—The Rev. John Douglas, much to Deacon Elverson's disgust, takes Polly into the parsonage. Tobby and "Muvver Jim" are received kindly by Douglas, who has placed Polly in charge of his colored servant, Mandy. Douglas promises to care for the girl until she is well. V—When Polly becomes conscious she declares that she must rejoin the circus at once. "Are you a sky pilot?" she asks the minister. Her mother was killed riding a circus horse, and her father "got his'n in a lion's cage." The minister reads to her about Ruth and Naomi, and Polly says, "I guess I'd like to hear you spiel." VI—Douglas offends Deacon Strong by defending boys who play baseball on Sunday. VII—Polly recovers her health, but is saddened by the death of Toby. Jim sends the news and promises to keep in touch with her. VIII—Polly recovers from the blow dealt her by Toby's death. She has ceased using slang and is educating herself under Douglas, guidance. She endeavors to improve Mandy's grammar. IJ—Deacons Strong and Elverson reprove the pastor for harboring the circus girl. Douglas declares that he is merely doing his duty. Strong declares that the girl must go. Douglas defies him. X.—Douglas suggests to Polly that she go to a seminary. Her quotation "And Ruth said, 'Entreat me not to leave three.'" reveals to both the fact that they love each otehr. Douglas takes her in his arms and tells her that she is never to leave him. XI—"Mubber Jim" calls and notes the change in Polly's Polly tells him she has abandoned the circus business. Deacons Strong and Elverson inform Polly that she can save the minister trouble be returning to the circus. Learning that the deacons contemplate discharging Douglas, she rebuffs Douglas, declares that she yearns for the circus and rushes away sobbing. XII—Douglas is very unhappy. A month passes and the circus plays a return engagement. Hasty, Mandy's husband, ascertains that Polly is not riding. Douglas believes she is ill and starts for the circus. XIII—Barker, manager of the show, reproves Jim because Polly will not ride in the minister's town. Polly admits to Jim that she loves the minister, but declares that he does not love her. She makes Jim promise to keep her secret. XIV—Polly's refusal to ride at the evening performance enrages Barker. H calls her a "dead one" and threatens to discharge her. Douglas meets Jim, who tells him that oPlly is well, but unhappy; that something must have happened to drive Polly from the parsonage. Douglas meets Polly, who says she is very happy in the circus life. He tells her of his love. Deacon Strong suddenly appears and reproches the girl for not keeping her bargain. Douglas demands "What bargain?" It then dcvelopes that Polly left him because she thought she was ruining his career. Strong continues to threaten the minister with the loss of his position. Polly insists upon sacrificing herself for Douglas.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he called, "although we are oblized to announce that our star rider, Miss Polly, will not appear tonight, we offer you in her place an able substitute, Mlle. Eloise, on her black, untamed horse Barbarian."

"No, no!" cried Polly.

"Polly!"

"Wait, Eloise! I'm going to ride!"

"You can't, not Barbarian! He don't know your turn."

"So much the better!" She seized the bridle from the frightened girl's hand.

"Polly!" shouted Douglas. He had followed her to the entrance.

"I must! I will!"

She flew into the ring before he could stop her. He took one step to follow her.

"You'd better let her alone and get out of here," said Strong. His voice was like a firebrand to Douglas. He turned upon him, white with rage.

"You drove her to this." His fists were clinched. He drew back to strike.

Jim came from behind the wagons just in time to catch the uplifted arm.

"Leave him to me. This ain't no parson's job." The pastor lowered his arm, but kept his threatening eyes on the deacon's face.

"Where's Poll?" asked Jim.

"In there!" Douglas pointed towa the main tent without turning h head. He was still glaring at the de con and breathing hard.

"He's bringin' her out," whispered Eloise, who still watched at the entrance. Jim dared not look up. His head was still in his hands.

"Is it over?" he groaned.

"I don't know. I can't tell yet." She stepped aside as Douglas came out of the tent, followed by a swarm of performers. He knelt on the soft grass and rested Polly's head upon his knee. The others pressed about them. It seemed to Douglas that he waited hours; then her white lids quivered and opened, and the color crept back to her lips.

"It's all right, Jim!" called one of the men from the crowd. "She's only fainted." The big fellow had waited in his tracks for the verdict.

Polly's eyes looked up into those of the parson. A thrill shot through his veins.

"It was no use, was it?" She shook her head, with a sad little smile. He knew that she was thinking of her failure to get out of his way.

CAUGHT THE SLIP OF A GIRL IN HIS ARMS JUST AS SHE WAS ABOUT TO SINK FAINTING BENEATH THE HORSE'S HOOFS.

"What!" cried Jim in alarm. He faced about and saw Eloise. He guessed the truth. A few quick strides brought him to the entrance curtains. He threw them back and looked into the ring.

"My God! Why don't Barker stop her?"

"What is it?" called Douglas. He forgot the deacon in his terror at Jim's behavior, and Strong was able to slip away unnoticed.

"She's goin' to ride! She's goin' to ride Barbarian!"

Douglas crossed to his side and looked.

Polly was springing on to the back of Barbarian. He was a poorly trained horse, used by the other girl for more showy but less dangerous feats than Polly's.

"She's goin' through her regular turn with him. She's trying to break her neck," said Jim. "She wants to do it. It's your fault!" he cried, turning upon Douglas with bloodshot eyes. He was half insane. He cared little whom he wounded.

"Why can't we stop her?" cried Douglas, unable to endure the strain. He took one step inside the entrance.

"No, no; not that!" Jim dragged him back roughly. "If she sees you now it will be the end." They watched in silence. "She's over the first part," Jim whispered at last.

Douglas drew back, his muscles tense, as he watched the scene inside the ring. Eloise stood at the pastor's side horror stricken at Polly's reckless behavior. She knew Barbarian. It was easy to guess the end.

"Barbarian don't know that part. I never trained him," the other girl said.

Polly made the first leap toward the hoops. The horse was not at fault; it was Polly. She plunged wildly. The audience started. She caught her footing with an effort. One, two, three hoops were passed. She threw herself across the back of the horse and hung head downward as he galloped around the ring. The band was playing loudly; the people were cheering. She rose to meet the last two hoops.

"She's swayin'!" Jim shrieked in agony. "She's goin' to fall!" He covered his face with his hands.

Polly reeled and fell at the horse's side. She mounted and fell again. She rose and staggered in pursuit.

"I can't bear it!" groaned Douglas. He rushed into the ring, unconscious of the thousands of eyes bent upon his black ministerial garb, and caught the slip of a girl in his arms just as she was about to sink fainting beneath the horse's hoofs.

Barker brought the performance to a halt with a crack of his whip. The audience was on tiptoe. White faced clowns and gayly attired acrobats crowded around Polly and the pastor.

Douglas did not see them. He had come into his own.

"That's because I need you so much, Polly, that God won't let you go away from me." He drew her nearer to him, and the warm blood that shot to her cheeks brought back her strength. She rose unsteadily and looked about her. Jim came toward her, white and trembling.

"All right, Poll?"

No one could ever remember just how the audience left the big top that night, and even Barker had no clear idea of how Jim took down the tents, loaded the great wagons and sent the caravan on its way.

When the last wagon was beginning to climb the long, winding road of the moonlit hill Jim turned to Polly, who stood near the side of the deserted ring. His eyes traveled from her to the parson, who waited near her. She was in her street clothes now, the little brown Quakerish dress which she had chosen to wear so much since her return from the parsonage.

"I guess I won't be makin' no mistake this time," he said, and he placed her hand in that of the parson.

"Goodby, Muvver Jim," faltered Polly.

"I'm glad it's like this," he said, then turned away and followed the long, dotted line of winding lights disappearing slowly over the hill.

Her eyes traveled after him.

"I belong with them," she said, still gazing after Jim and the wagons.

"You belong with me," he answered in a firm, grave voice, and something in the deep, sure tones told her that he was speaking the truth. She lifted one trembling hand to his shoulder and looked up into his face.

"Whither thou goest will I go; where thou diest will I die."

He drew her into his arms.

"The Lord do so to me and more also if aught but death part thee and me."

Mother Had Taken Him Eleven Months Ago From Guardian Appointed by Court When She Was Divorced From Husband—Foster Mother Now Steals Him From Home of His Grandparents In Boston

Boston, July 3.—To the already tangled skein of events which has marked the possession of 7-year-old Carlton Clark, there was added still another tangle when the boy's foster mother, Mrs. Sophie Creamer, wife of the chairman of the New York board of health, took him to New York, following his kidnapping by private detectives from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buchanan in the Dorchester district, parents of the child's mother, Mrs. Maud Clark.

Mrs. Clark had enjoyed possession of her son for eleven months since herself, kidnapping him from the Creamers' home in New York. Her possession was not undisputed during that time, however, she being indicted by the grand jury in New York on the charge of kidnapping and released later when no verdict was returned against her. It is said that Mrs. Creamer has been in Boston since Monday and that she hired detectives to secure the boy for her.

The history of the case is an interesting one. Some four years ago Forrest Clark was divorced from his wife in this city and awarded the custody of their only child, Carlton, then aged 3 years. The father had the boy adopted by Dr. and Mrs. Creamer, and at their home the child remained up to slightly less than a year ago.

At that time Mrs. Clark went to New York and brought the child back with her to the home of her parents in Dorchester. For this surreptitious means of securing her child she was indicted and subsequently allowed to return to her home.

Yesterday's transfer of youthful Carlton marks the latest twist in the tangle. At the time of Clark's divorce Mrs. Creamer was appointed by the courts as legal guardian of the child.

Two Thousand Persons Are Made Homeless by Fire In Cobalt

Cobalt, Ont., July 3.—Fire swept a half mile of Cobalt's streets, causing a loss of about $4[illegible],000, one death and the injury of six persons. It is estimated that 2000 persons are homeless.

Starting in the kitchen of a Chinese restaurant, the flames spread quickly and were soon beyond control. Business structures and many residences on both sides of the street for a distance of half a mile were swept clean.

The local fire brigade and an army of willing volunteers had a strong wind from the northwest against them and the use of dynamite was necessary to check the flames.

PLANS FOR THE NATION'S BIG DAY

Monday's Celebrations at Home and Abroad

QUIET TIME IN CLEVELAND

City Has Put Ban on Fireworks This Year—Lake Champlain's Observance of Tercentennary Begins Monday, With President Taft and Other National Celebrities In Attendance—Many Sporting Events

Throughout the length and breadth of Uncle Sam's possessions, which means nowadays a land on which the sun never sets, his sons and daughters will celebrate Monday the one hundred and thirty-third anniversary of the filing of the application for a divorce in the case of Mrs. Columbia against John Bull.

On Monday night the man on Mars, looking down on the broad stretch of earth and scattered spots over which the American flag waves, will see repeated the annual spectacle of a land in violent pyrotechnic eruption. He will, however, see nothing of the sort rising from the site of Cleveland, O., where the city fathers have decreed that Cleveland shall add zero this year to the total of more than 500 dead and many more hundreds wounded that represents the annual American sacrifice to exuberant patriotism. Fireworks are under the ban in Cleveland and in a few other places, but on the whole the celebration of the Fourth of July on July 5, the calender Fourth coming tomorrow, will differ very little from that of the past years. In every city, town and village, save in the cases of the exceptions mentioned, there will be fireworks, parades, speeches and, above all, athletic sports of various sorts.

More and more as the years go on Independence day shares with Memorial day and Labor day, the two other summer holidays, in the great outpouring of the American people for outdoor recreation. They do not forget their patriotic duties by any means, but hurry through them in order to participate in or view contests on land and water.

The center of the patriotic Fourth of July celebration comes this year at Lake Champlain, N. Y., beginning Monday. President Taft, Vice President Sherman and other national celebrities will take part in the commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the lake and the recalling of the historic events that have taken place along its shores, although the president will not arrive until Tuesday. Probably the greatest of the big cities' celebrations of Independence day will come in Pittsburg, where an old fashioned Fourth of July will be spent in speeches, fireworks, balloon ascensions, etc. In Washington Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor will be the principal speaker. Secretary of War Dickinson was to have read the Declaration of Independence, but had to cancel the engagement. Elmira, N. Y., has planned a celebration somewhat larger than the size of the city would seem to indicate. The Elmirans, wishing to be neighborly, asked the Canadian authorities in Kingston, Ont., to let the Princess of Wales' Own Rifles take part in the parade, but the Dominion officials decided that asking Canadian soldiers, clad in his majesty's uniform, to march in a Fourth of July parade was a little too much.

At Toledo, O., a big military tournament will begin Monday. In Philadelphia and Boston there will be great regattas, bringing together the best oarsmen of the eastern states, and water sports will claim the attention of crowds in other sections of the United States. For the fans there will be baseball games by all the teams in all the leagues, big and little.

On the day of days for Americans the temporarily expatriated Yankees will meet in many cities and dwell on their country's glories. In London, Paris, Berlin and other places there will be banquets and speeches.

THE FOURTH IN DENMARK

Crown Prince Will Help Danish Americans to Celebrate the Day

Arrhus, Denmark, July 3.—In this ancient Jutland city, situated on the eastern cast of the Danish peninsula, the Fourth of July will be celebrated tomorrow with a fervor and enthusiasm equal to those displayed in any city of the United States. The reason therefor is the gathering here of a large body of Danish Americans, come to visit the land of their forefathers. They have not forgotten their new home in their affection for the old and will show the residents of Aarhus what a real old fashioned celebration of the Fourth of July means.

Most of the Danish Americans here are from the middle west. At the head of the committee having charge of the Independence day celebration is Dr. Henius of Chicago. Last month Dr. Henius was received in audience by King Frederick at Copenhagen. His majesty showed great interest in the celebration and promised the attendance of Crown Prince Christian.

Legislature of 1909 Passed Many Far Reaching Laws

STATE TAX IS A MILLION LESS

State Tax Less by That Amount Than It Was Last Year—Roosevelt Club Opposes Hibbard—Court Gives H. M. Whitney Verdict

The great and general court has finally been prorogued and the session of 1909 is over. During the life of the session the governor vetoed four measures and allowed four others to become laws without his signature. In the last hours of the session a measure was passed amending the act compelling telegraph companies to put the date and hour upon each telegram sent, by providing that no extra charge should be made for this work. By this action the course of telegraph companies increasing the rate of 25 to 35 cents for messages of ten words is nullified. In all 539 acts and 143 resolves were enacted by the legislature.

Among the important acts passed by the legislature is the law for a rigid inspection of slaughtered beef; Boston charter; permitting the sale of ice cream, confectionery, soda and fruit on the Sabbath under legal supervision; providing for a holding company for stock of the Boston and Maine railroad; providing for the taxation of deposits in the savings departments of trust companies; giving the Boston school committee absolute control over the organizations of pupils; permitting the killing of deer by farmers under certain restrictions when the deer are found destroying the crops; prohibiting the taking of assignments of wages as security for small loans; providing for completing the inventory of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company; prohibiting the sale or gift of cigarettes to minors under the age of 18 years; consolidating the state board of education and the commission on industrial education; providing for a study of the transportation problem in Boston with reference to additional subways and tunnels; providing for a continuous appropriation for improving harbors and rivers, this appropriation to be spent by the harbor and land commission.

Some Rejected Measures

A number of measures of greater or less importance have been rejected by the legislature. Some of these were only demanded by a single class of citizens and not by citizens as a whole. Among the rejected bills were those for a direct nomination system throughout the state; the placing of lights on all vehicles at night; granting suffrage to women; providing for representation by the state at the Alaska-Yukon exposition; establishing an eight-hour day for workmen, laborers and mechanics employed by state, city, county or town; permitting peaceful picketing in times of strikes; the abolition of capital punishment; providing for a tunnel under Boston harbor to Chelsea square; resolve referring a prohibition amendment to the people.

It is worthy of note that the state legislature by the aid of Governor Draper has made possible a state tax smaller by $1,000,000 than the tax of last year. Ever since his inauguration the governor has bent his energies toward economy in state affairs. Last year as acting governor he saved the state nearly $1,000,000 by his well-known attitude in regard to various schemes for spending the state's money, some of them meritorious undoubtedly, but none of them absolutely necessary. This year the legislature has co-operated with him to such an extent that the state tax is less by $1,000,000 than it was last year.

Legislature Up to Average

It may be said without exaggeration that the legislature just prorogued is fully up to the average in every way. It may undoubtedly be called a high-class legislature. As a matter of fact one legislature does not differ so very much from another when a general average of all its members is struck. Some legislatures have greater responsibilities and are subjected to greater influences and stronger pressure to pass or not to pass certain legislation, and legislatures are generally judged by the legislation which they enact or by that which they reject. Certainly both branches of the great and general court have been well officered. President Treadway of the senate has proved an ideal official and has fooled the prophets who declared he would not make good. Speaker Walker has made one of the best presiding officers who has ever sat in the lower branch. He has been careful, consistent and earnest in his endeavors to protect the interests of the commonwealth.

Opposition to Hibbard

Mayor Hibbard is meeting with some opposition in his implied candidacy for renomination as mayor of Boston. The Roosevelt club, according to some of its members, has decided that he should side-step and allow some Republican of Irish birth or extraction to run for the nomination. The Roosevelt club is a Republican club made up of men of Irish birth or extraction, but it cannot be said that the organization is a unit against the mayor. Some of its members, notably Colonel W. W. Doherty, a well-known lawyer, declare that no meeting of the organization has been held and that the club is not hostile to Mayor Hibbard. On the other hand Thomas F. Doherty, another Republican and a member of the club, declares that such a meeting has been held and that the majority of the members desire to see nominated for mayor of Boston this fall a Republican, either Irish by birth or descent.

It is a little difficult for the ordinary person to see what a man's birth has to do with the matter. Either Mayor Hibbard has made a good official or he has not. If he has he deserves a re-election, and if he has not he should be turned down and someone else given an opportunity to fill the bill. Questions of race should have no place in the nomination or election of a mayor or common councilman. Fitness alone should be the standard by which a man should be judged and the question of birth should not figure in the problem at all.

Whitney Need Not Pay

Henry M. Whitney has won out in the suit brought against him by Malachi L. Jenkins for a further fee as counsel in the Springfield pink ticket episode. When the result of the pink ticket convention was brought before the state ballot law commission, Mr. Whitney employed Jenkins as one of his counsel. The commission gave Whitney its approval, declaring him the regular Democratic nominee, notwithstanding the fact that the convention on the face of the returns had nominated General Charles W. Bartlett of Boston. Mr. Whitney was so badly defeated at the polls that it would have been a case of extreme cruelty had he been compelled to pay additional counsel fees for an honor which proved so empty and unsatisfying. Since that time Mr. Whitney has fought very shy of politics and is not likely to be seen in the political lime light again.

The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Quincy prove the effectiveness of the great kidney remedy.

H. A. Vinton, living at 558 Washington street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. Before using this remedy I had severe pains in my back and loins, and they seemed to be of a rheumatic nature, I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but received only temporary relief. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, and began their use. They quickly banished the pains in my back and my health is better today than for a long time."

CONVENTION OF EDUCATORS

National Association of Teachers Begins Meeting In Denver

Denver, July 3.—With the gathering in this city today of thousands of teachers and others interested in educational work, the annual convention of the National Education association assumed shape, although the general sessions will not open until Monday evening.

The present active membership of the association consists of 6000 of the leading teachers of the country. All teachers and others actively associated with educational institutions, including libraries and periodicals, may become members of the association. Persons not engaged in educational work, as well as those eligible to become active members, but who do not wish to, may enroll as associate members. The association was established in 1857 as the National Teachers' association and assumed its present name in 1870.

Following the custom of several years, the Religious Education association will hold a conference in connection with the convention of the National Education association. This conference, having for its topic "The Relations Between Public Education and Religious Training," will meet next Monday.

DISCOLORED BY WATER

Body Found In the Hudson Was Not That of a Mongolian

New York, July 3.—Paul Sigel, the father of Elsie Sigel, who was murdered by a Chinaman on June 9, visited the Fordham morgue and pronounced positively that the body recovered from the Hudson river is not that of Leon Ling, the man accused of the murder.

A coroner's physician declared that the body was that of a white boy, apparently about 16 years old. The water had so discolored the body as to give it the appearance of a Mongolian.

The Sigel mystery thus again resolves itself into further search for Leon Ling. The police have no further progress to report.

SENATE ADOPTS THE TAFT TAX

Makes Corporation Levy a Part of the Tariff Measure

Washington, July 3.—The corporation amendment, which was suggested by President Taft, drawn by Attorney General Wickersham and presented to the senate by Senator Aldrich, chairman of the committee on finance, is an integral part of the tariff bill as that bill now stands.

After much tribulation the senate reached a vote on the proposition last evening and the amendment was agreed to by the large vote of 60 to 11. With all modifying amendments disposed of, many Democrats voted with most of the Republicans for the amendment. Only three Democrats voted against the provision on the final vote, but some refrained from voting at all.

BINGHAM'S REMOVAL

It Will Furnish Material For New York's Next Municipal Campaign

New York, July 3.—New York's new police administration, with Commissioner Baker at the helm, has started off quietly. There have been no more sensational removals.

The political pot boils fervently. General Bingham, the ousted commissioner, on the eve of his departure for his summer quarters in Nova Scotia, said that he would return to New York in the autumn and take an active part in the campaign preceding the municipal election. It is not unlikely that his removal will be made one of the principal issues of the anti-Tammany forces in the campaign.

Old Concern Embarrassed

Providence, July 3.—Henry R. Segar was appointed temporary receiver for the Nichols & Langworthy Machine company by Justice Tanner. The firm has been doing business at Hope Valley, but the plant was destroyed by fire on April 13, with a loss of $200,000. It is one of the oldest machine companies in New England.

Czar's Visit Opposed

Paris, July 3.—M. Jaures, a Socialist leader, in a violent speech in the chamber of deputies, voiced the opposition of the Socialists to the approaching visit of Emperor Nicholas to France.

Dominion Miners to Strike

Sydney, N. S., July 3.—The United Mine Workers of America in the employ of the Dominion Coal company decided to call a strike on Tuesday. About 6000 men will be affected.

Woman Killed by Taxicab

Boston, July 3.—Mrs. Katherine Mayall, 58 years old, was killed by being run over by a taxicab. The chauffeur was not taken into custody, being held blameless.

Cubans Legalize Cockfighting

Havana, July 3.—The house of representatives passed the bill legalizing cockfighting and the measure was immediately signed by President Gomez.

Lots of people will have money to burn tonight.

Never to bed but early to rise will be the motto of the Atlantic people tomorrow night.

After all the Fourth of July fire works are set off it is probable that the city council will have some of its own Tuesday night.

Unfortunately the city's new scarifying machine won't be here until after the Fourth so it cannot be exhibited in the "horrible" parade Monday morning.

Don't hold a lighted cannon cracker in your hand and don't run to see why the fuse went out. The chances are it didn't go out at all and you'll find it out only too quickly after you have picked it up.

The prizes for the city's field day sports are all bought and on exhibition. All of the prizes were bought in Quincy or through Quincy merchants. In this the city is setting a good example to the individual.

Forty six years ago today the battle of Gettysburg was being fought and there were a number of Quincy men engaged in that terrific combat. In and around Gettysburg it was probably the noisest Fourth of July that ever happened.

Officials of the Rockland team claim that their protest of the game played last Saturday is proper and was made only after it was found that Gilroy was under contract to the New England league team. That is a good, sound argument but it is also a fact that an official of the Rockland team who was at the game last Saturday said then, as soon as he saw Gilroy in the box, that the game would be protested.

Great success is being reached at the savings bank life insurance agencies which have been established in this city. At the Fore River works during the week ending June 26 applications for policies of an aggregate value of $11,731 were sent to be recorded at the office of the State Actuary, Boston. In the same week the Tubular Rivet and Stud works contributed a total of $6,437. The total now in force in the state is $783,637.

Sweeping the streets in and around City Square in the night time is an idea that should have been followed out long before, especially in the warm months. Such a practice saves a lot of dust raising in the daytime which always ruins, to a more or less extent, the stock in trade which the business houses in the Square carry. Then, again, the sprinkling of the oil during the night and early morning hours gives the oil a chance to work into the ground before the teams begin to cut it up and it also gives a chance for the unpleasant odor to wear off before pedestrians get around.

It would be a nice custom to inaugurate if somebody would start a movement to have a public reading of the Declaration of Independence from the steps of the First Church in City Square at midnight of July 3 every year. Beneath the steps are buried President John Adams, who signed the Declaration of Independence, and his son, the sixth president of the United States. The place for such a reading is most appropriate. Each Fourth of July in Boston the document is read at noon in Faneuil hall. How much more fitting it would be to read it right above the tomb of one of its signers who was also one of the men to prepare the document. Let's hope that the idea will be carried out and let the conclusion of the reading be greeted with the ringing of the bell in the belfry above the tombs and with all the noise and music that John Adams would have us observe the day.

ROWDYISM NOT PATRIOTISM.

The season of the year is at hand when considerable leeway is given in the discharging of explosives and the setting of bonfires in public places. It is well that the Fourth of July should be celebrated with a patriotic fervor and it would be strange, indeed, if the people of Quincy did not lay a special claim to the day since two of Quincy's citizens signed the Declaration of Independence and that is what the Fourth of July celebrates. John Hancock, born on the spot where the Adams academy now stands, was the first man in the Continental Congress to sign the Declaration of Independence and his fellow townsman, John Adams, afterwards president of the United States, affixed his signature shortly afterwards. Quincy was probably the only town that furnished two signers of the Declaration of Independence and it is, therefore, fitting that the people of this historic city should celebrate the anniversary of the birthday of the nation. John Adams suggested that each Fourth of July should be celebrated with bonfires, the discharge of guns and the ringing of bells and from present indications the present-day citizens of Quincy will amply carry out the ideas of that famous statesman.

There is, however, a proper way to celebrate the day and there is a wrong way. Why it is that the Young America thinks it proper to destroy property on the Fourth of July as a proper incident to the celebration of the holiday, it is hard to understand. The young people of Quincy certainly have leeway enough to celebrate the day noisily without resorting to the burning and destruction of property. With the exception of last year the city of Quincy has enjoyed a rather unenviable reputation in this respect. Last year more consideration was shown and the celebration of the Fourth of July was safe and sane if a bit noisy. Three years ago the other extreme was the order of the day. Two firemen were killed and many others were terribly hurt because of an accident that occurred to a ladder truck on its way to an alarm that was sounded needlessly by some evil minded party who set a bonfire as an excuse to ring the alarm.

As a result of this two women were left widows and a number of little children orphans while ten or twelve men suffered excruciating agony at the hospital for many weeks. To those of the younger element who may have made plans for a celebration of this Fourth which incurs destruction of property and perhaps risk of life and limb we say—Don't. Don't destroy property belonging to somebody else. It is very probable that you would seriously object if somebody came into your yard and destroyed something that belonged to you. Don't set buildings afire for the sake of watching the fire apparatus turn out. Such business can be prosecuted in the criminal courts and you may get a jail sentence if you are caught. Don't ring in false fire alarms. It is more than probable that the firemen and fire horses will be more than tired out answering genuine alarms. Don't let the holiday tempt you to descend to the level of the rowdy. There is no more excuse for a man being a rowdy at the Fourth of July than at any other time. The city has prepared a program of clean events that will tend to celebrate the Fourth in a proper manner. Citizens of Atlantic and West Quincy have also arranged for a safe and sober celebration of the day. The police have been more lenient here than in Boston in past years and will, no doubt, be as lenient this year with the boys who desire to discharge explosive or build bonfires. A real manly boy or a gentlemanly young man will appreciate this and will govern himself accordingly.

Remember that tomorrow is Sunday and that tomorrow night being the "night before" the legal holiday of this year, there should be no noisy celebration. There isn't a boy, girl, man or woman in Quincy who won't have just as long and glorious a Fourth if they wait till after midnight tomorrow before they begin to celebrate. And, also, remember the sick. Keep away from houses where you know there are people suffering from accident or disease. Keep away from the vicinity of the hospital.

Remember there is no telling but this Fourth may send you to the hospital or to a sick bed at home. It will be the exception rather than the rule if many do not find themselves such victims before the day is over. Therefore, be considerate of the sick. Celebrate the day as any patriotic American citizen should. Celebrate it in a manner that will show you appreciate the value of a free government and if you do this in the proper spirit you won't have any unpleasant remembrances to look back upon this Fourth of July.

MRS. R. ELMER MORRISON.

Although ill for a few weeks and seriously at times, the announcement this morning that Mrs. R. Elmer Morrison of Middle street, Braintree, had passed from the earthly to the heavenly life was a shock not only to relatives in Braintree and Quincy, but to a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Morrison was a woman of a most happy disposition and her presence was like the sunshine. She was much beloved. In the home circle she ministered to the comfort of her aged mother and made home a place beloved by her children and in passing out, leaves a great void but a memory, fragrant with good deeds; a faithful daughter, wife and mother.

Besides her mother, Mrs. Abigail Gregg, four children mourn her loss, Mrs. James Ellsworth of Savin Hill, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Quincy and Alva and Joseph G. Morrison of Braintree.

Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock from the Middle street home.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Boston, July 2, 1909.

The exodus from the winter to the summer capital has begun. Secretary of the Navy Meyer with his family led the way from sizzling Washington to the cool retreats of Massachusetts Bay. In a few days the federal government will be well established in the picturesque quarters on the North Shore. Boston people are taking much interest in the proceedings, and both automobile and trolley rides from the hub to Beverly and adjacent towns are very popular.

More publicity for Old Glory. All New England was interested, of course in the beautiful wedding of Miss Marion Lawson, daughter of the wizard of State street, which occurred on Wednesday beneath the ancient apple tree which has served as the trysting place of the young Chicago lumber man and his fair fiancee in the midst of the acres of roses at Dreamwold. In some respects the most spectacular event was the display of the largest American flag that has ever been unfurled in this country.

You cannot marry a suffragette without being a suffragist. Young men who have aspirations to the hand of some fair damsel belonging to the Progressive Woman's Suffrage Union must adjust themselves to the new rules and resolutions adopted by that estimable organization. No more will the damsel, upon being asked to share the burdens and some of the joys of matrimony, meekly say, "Yes, please" but she will demand an agreement, signed, sealed and delivered, to the effect that the prospective bridegroom shall not only lend his moral support to the cause of woman's suffrage but that he shall work patiently and hard toward its success. Possibly this will have the benefit of preventing some mismatches.

Last of all, in the procession of educational commencements comes the oldest and largest of our universities. The streets of the Hub this past week have been thronged with young, middle-aged, and old men, wearing the vari-colored hat-bands and neckties of their respective classes at Harvard, while they joined in the reunion festivities which accompany commencement at the Cambridge institution. Groups of young men wearing weirdly fashioned hats draped with gaudy hues and sporting socks and waistcoats to match, have caused wide-eyed astonishment among plain business folk until suddenly it was realized that this is the week of weeks throughout the year when old and young from far and near gather together and renew college friendships. Many of the classes make a three day celebration, taking trips to shore resorts for fish dinners, giving ball games, tennis tournaments, banquets, and the infinite variety of entertainment which the masculine mind is capable of devising.

It is now rumored that Boston is soon to have an establishment, similar to those unions which exist at the larger colleges of the country, at which the thousands of young women students of the various educational institutions of the Hub may find the social relaxation and the comforts and privileges which are accorded to young men at Harvard, Yale, Princeton and similar places. Many of Boston's institutions have their dormitories, models in themselves; but there are countless numbers of girls between the ages of seventeen and twenty-five who are obliged to live practically alone so far as congenial companionship is concerned, and who would eagerly grasp the opportunity of cultivating pleasant acquaintances under favorable circumstances. If the project is carried out this establishment will serve as a centre for students from every one of the surrounding schools and colleges. Teas and receptions will be given at suitable hours. The union will provide reading and recreation rooms where the too-ambitious student may smooth out some of the nervous wrinkles and relax the tense muscles.

This is the month to visit Boston if you have to come barefoot. Judging from the crowds every shoe manufacturer and dealer in the country and at least half their customers are in attendance at the opening of the first World's Shoe and Leather Exposition, which is being held in the new concrete structure "between the bridges," on the banks of the Charles River Basin. This is the most comprehensive undertaking ever attempted by the shoe and leather interests, and thousands of people who generally devote no thought to this industry beyond the price of each pair of shoes are flocking to the exposition to watch the demonstrations of shoe making from the unfinished hides to the exquisitely modeled product to be worn with dress suit or dinner gown. Despite the fact that Massachusett's principal industry is that of the shoe and leather trades, there are many interesting details presented at this unique exposition which the majority of visitors never dreamed of.

THE ATLANTIC CELEBRATION

Something Doing From Early Morn to Late at Night

The official program for the celebration of the National holiday next Monday shows that there will be something doing in this wide awake village from early morn until late at night. There will be no necessity therefore for the citizens of this ward to stray far from their own bivouac.

The celebration will start in at midnight Sunday night when a massive bonfire will be lighted on the playground near the depot. This over the older people will retire and try to get in a few winks of sleep. Young America will forsake his bed however and will pass the night in celebrating

The first scheduled event of the day will be the antique and horrible parade. This parade is scheduled to start at 5.30 and will be headed by the City band, which will furnish music during the entire day and evening. The parade will form at the junction of Squantum, Hunt and Newbury avenue and will move over the following route:—Squantum to Hancock, to Billings, to Faxon, to Edwin, to Clark, to Squantum to Botolph to Clive past the residences of Councilman Cherrington and Ex-councilman Badger, where it will be reviewed by Mayor Shea and the City Officials. The judges will also be stationed at this spot.

After passing in review of the officials and judges, the parade will continue to Walker, Squantum, Billings, Prospect, to Atlantic, countermarching to Atlantic to Hancock to Walnut, Chestnut, Myrtle, Hancock to the playgrounds where it will be disbanded.

Charles E. Dill is chairman of the committee on parade and the judges are Arthur G. Gray, Charles W. Reed and Alfred W. Jelinek. Prizes valued at $200 will be given for the best features.

At 8 o'clock there will be an exciting game of ball on the playground between the fat men and lean men of the village. Rednor P. Coombs is the chairman of this committee. This game will afford the residents a fine opportunity to size up who are fat and who are the lean men of the ward.

At 10 o'clock there will be a series of athletic sports on the boulevard foot of Webster street for which prizes valued at $100 will be given. The events include a 100 yard dash, 200 yard dash mile run, shot put, running high jump, broad jump, three-legged race, sack race and 100 yards dash for boys under sixteen.

At 11 o'clock there will be an entertainment at Music hall for the children. This will be in charge of Ward Whitcher which is sufficient guarantee that it will be all right.

At 1 o'clock there will be a series of water sports on the little sandy beach foot of Webster street. These events will include a fifty yard open race swimming under water, fifty yards swimming race for boys under sixteen, fifty yards swimming race for girls, diving contest and barrel roll. There will also be an exhibition of fancy swimming by James B. Greene of the 1908 Olympic team.

While this is in progress the baseball fans will gather on the playground where two games are scheduled. The first game is at 1.30 between the Glover A. C. and Atlantic juniors and the second game is scheduled for 3.30 between the Atlantics and Jamaica Plain teams.

In the evening at 8 o'clock there will be a grand display of fireworks on Faxon road with band concert.

The prizes will be awarded at a public meeting to be held Friday evening at Music hall.

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

FIELD SPORTS OF THE CITY

List of Entries For the Events at Merrymount Park

Entries for the big City of Quincy field day closed last night officially, but as usual there will be a chance for some of the slow ones to get their names in today. There are always a few hanging on till the last minute knowing that they can squeeze into the games, because they are well known runners. It is the same in this meet and there are several good men coming who have not as yet sent in their entry blanks. However these men will appear all right as they know the ropes and know how to get their entries into the hands of the handicapper. All the entries so far received go to the handicapper tonight to be passed on officially. There are some stars coming out to these games Monday, the nearness to Boston and the excellency of the prizes attracting some crack performers. In fact this is the only way to run a successful meet. Give good prizes and you can get the best athletes in the land, and if you run a good meet the first time, you may be sure of success the next time. The runners of today do not forget the places where good prizes are offered and they will be waiting these same meets year after year. The prizes offered for Monday's games are some of the best ever given in any meet in Boston and vicinity. The watches are beauties with fifteen jewels and well worth competing for. For second prizes dress suit cases will be given and for third gold medals suitably inscribed. For the members of the winning relay team dress suit cases have been secured. This dress suit case prize is something new and should please the athletes to the limit. It has always been the custom to give relay teams medals or cups, and the runners will be happy to know that there is something else in view tomorrow.

All the final arrangments for the meet have been made and if the weather is fair that is all that is wanted now. With such men as Frank Sheehan, Bill McVicar, Joe Elcock, Eddie Farrell and Eddie Ryder among the entrants, the meet is sure to see some good competition. Sheehan is the junior half mile champion of America and for four successive years won the New England half mile championship. He was also a member of the famous Olympic team that cleaned up everything in London last summer. Eddie Farrell is the champion broad jumper of New England and is certainly a star performer. He is entered in the 100 yard dash and the hop, step and jump, and if he does not carry off one of those watches he says he will know the reason why. Joe Elcock of this city is running for South Boston A. C. and has already won many honors this year. He is entered in the 100 yard dash and in the 440 yard run. Besides these there are also several other good men who with their handicaps will make the stars hustle to win. The list of entries so far received is as follows:

—A cool start and a hot finish was the climatological story of the month of June in Boston. The finish was so hot that the average for the month was hoosted 3.6 degrees a day, mean, temperature, above normal. The daily mean temperature was 69.4, which was within seven-tenths of a degree of the highest daily mean temperature on record for the month of June in Boston, in 1902. June of 1899 and last year were both warmer than last month. The rainfall likewise was abnormal last month, being 1.42 inches above the average. Unfortunately it was not well distributed, for 2.43 inches fell in one day, June 5.—Transcript.

IN THE WATER FOR SIX HOURS

Two Dorchester Men Rescued off Squantum

D. J. Swanton of 38 Belton street, Squantum, and Thomas Ross of 238 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, were rescued from a watery grave just in the nick of time Friday morning off the Squantum shore. The rescue was made by Alexander Courtenay and William Darnes after a most sensational effort on their part.

Early in the morning Courtenay and Darnes were aslepp in their camp when they were aroused from their slumbers by cries of help. Going down to the beach they saw an overturned dory off the shore and two men swimming close to it. Courtenay and Darnes jumped into a row boat and went to the rescue, of the men. The latter were exhausted when the boat reached them and Swanton fell into the bottom of the boat unconscious. The boat was pulled to the Squantum shore and the men were taken to Darnes' camp. Darnes is a graduate of the St. John's ambulance association of London and his knowledge of first aid to the injured helped him in the treatment of Swanton.

Swanton was brought back to consciousness after several hours' hard work but it was not until late in the afternoon that he recovered sufficient strength to go home. Ross and Swanton said the accident to their boat happened shortly before midnight and that a broken tiller was the cause. Just after the tiller broke a heavy gust of wind swung the boom around quickly and the boat capsized. Both men had been in the water six hours when rescued. Swanton sank three times before help reached them but each time was pulled back to the overturned boat by Ross. If help had not come when it did both men would have sunk from exhaustion.

SQUANTUM YACHT CLUB.

Besides a most delightful moonlight sail the Squantum Yacht club held its regular meeting on Thursday night when ten new members were admitted and four applications received for membership.

The monthly report of the treasurer showed the financial condition of the club to be such that the club voted to pay off $250 additional on its indebtedness which with the $250 authorized to be paid at the last monthly meeting make a total payment this year of $500 and all bills paid to date.

The success of the Squantum Yacht club both socially and financially is due to the interest taken by members of the club as all show a disposition to take hold and do everything they can to promote its interest. In illustration of this is Mr. William J. Croucher who was elected secretary of the club this year and who notwithstanding the fact that the club voted to authorize the trustees to pay him such a sum for his services as they might deem necessary, refused to accept any compensation whatever, also the hard work of members of the house committee consisting of Benjamin Sargent, William J. Croucher, Alex J. Tobin and William A. Field; at times sacrificing their own personal pleasure, in bringing the club forward to be one of the most popular on the so-called South Shore.

The members of the club are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the concert to be given at the club house on the boulevard on July 14th. The arrangements for this concert are being looked after by Mr. Benjamin Sarget of the house committee which insures a high class entertainment.

—Col. Frank Touvelle, a rancher living near Medford, Oregon, is said to have produced a deep-rooted vine which brings forth three crops of berries in a season, which result has been obtained by grafting alfafla roots on the roots of the strawberry vine. Alfalfa roots deeply and produces three to five crops a year without irrigation. It occurred to him that strawberries might do the same if the vine could be made to extend down far enough so as to receive moisture from the soil throughout the season.—Scientific American.

(Legal Title-Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

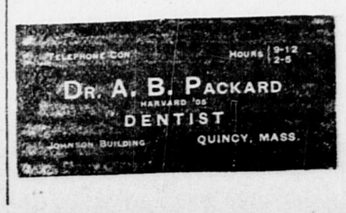
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.



THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

By JEROME SPRAGUE

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

"BUT, Bobbie, you're English and can't be expected to feel as I do about the Fourth of July," Felicia protested.

"I know that you've agreed to love me in spite of that," he retorted.

"I know it," she admitted, "and I intend to go on loving you if you don't turn out to be a dreadful tyrant like your fathers before you."

"Don't judge me by my ancestors," he laughed. "They weren't half as jolly as I am."

"You are nice, Bobbie," she agreed.

"Then go with me today and cut the stupid picnic."

Her eyes were fixed longingly on the gorgeous red motor that was hobnobbing with Aunt Marcia's shabby surrey in the country road.

GAZED AFTER HIM.

"I'd love to," she confessed.

"Please," he begged, with all his heart in his eyes.

And because it hurt her she said "No" very peremptorily, and he turned away with a frown.

"When you see me again you'll know it," he said savagely.

It was flung out with the frank rudeness of a little boy, and for a moment Felicia stared haughtily. Then she laughed.

"Oh, Bobbie," she emphasized, "you are so funny when you're angry!"

And Felicia, gazing after him blankly, scarcely heard the voice at her side.

"My dear, you needn't have stayed at home on our account."

"Oh, Aunt Marcia," said Felicia, coming out of her daze—"oh, did you hear"—

"Yes, and I'm afraid you've made him very angry, Felicia."

Felicia dropped a light kiss on the little lady's forehead.

"Honey, child," she cooed, "it's the spirit of my ancestors."

"But if you had an engagement with him"—

"It wasn't any more of an engagement," Felicia stated, "than I had with you and the children. It's his fault if he has a bad time of it. I asked him to go with us."

"Of course it couldn't be expected," said Aunt Marcia, "that he would enjoy our little Fourth of July picnic."

"He ought to like the things I like," Felicia insisted.

"Yes," said Aunt Marcia vaguely, "I should think he'd want to be where you are."

"Well, evidently he doesn't," said her niece grimly.

At the picnic Felicia was as gay as usual, and in her pale pink linen with a shady hat she looked like a rose, so that the people craned their necks to get a view of the pretty girl who had lived among them until, four years ago, she had gone to the city to cultivate her voice and had come back engaged to a titled Englishman.

After luncheon Raymond Andrews asked her to take a walk with him. Felicia had known Raymond since her little girl days, and she couldn't remember the time when he had not been in love with her.

They sauntered through the grove and came out at last upon a bluff that overlooked the lake. In front of them was a flat gray rock, and back of the rock was a tangle of vines which screened them from the road that skirted the bluff, and hidden behind the vines was a motor car at rest, with a disconsolate young man lounging in the front seat.

"So you are going to be married," Raymond said as Felicia perched herself on the gray rock, where she sat poised like a pink butterfly right in front of the screen of green.

"HAVE YOU COME BACK TO HELP US CELEBRATE?"

Felicia shook her head mournfully. "I'm not sure," she said.

"Everybody says it's settled."

"Everybody doesn't know," Felicia responded. "Bobbie and I have quarreled."

"He's a brute," Raymond said.

"He isn't a brute," Felicia flashed, to the extreme edification of the young man in the motor. "He's perfectly lovely."

"His title is lovely," with withering sarcasm.

Felicia laughed.

"Oh, Raymond," she explained, "I didn't even know that he had a title when I said I'd marry him."

"But you quarreled."

"It was my fault," Felicia confessed.

The green screen behind them stirred.

"Yes, it was my fault," Felicia continued, "but of course I couldn't let him know it—not on the Fourth of July. No American could give in to an Englishman on the Fourth of July could she?"

"You'll have to give in to him all your life," said Raymond sulkily.

And now the vines behind her were agitated so violently that she turned and met squarely the adoring gaze of the man in the motor!

Felicia did not hesitate. Without a thought of the shock to Raymond she reached out to the man who was peering at her over the vine screen. "Oh, Bobbie!" she said. "Have you come back to help us celebrate?"

Then they all rode back to the picnic ground in the big red car. A gray haired man was reading from a formidable looking manuscript.

"Listen, Bobbie," whispered Felicia as they approached the platform. "Uncle is reading the document which overthrew the schemes of your awful forefathers."

"Very well," he returned serenely. "Let us hear the real Declaration of Independence."

FOURTH FOR ALL NATIONS

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.

I love mankind in every clime
And long for all men's good,
I thrill to hear the call sublime
Of human brotherhood,
And yet one land o'er all the rest
My heart has taken thrall,
For we must love one country best
Ere we can best love all.

The heart for universal things
Still prizes what is near;
A song of native land it sings,
Yet holds all nations dear;
The man whose country is the world
To seek it need not roam,
For he will find its flag unfurled

It is not bounds and shore and sea
That mark a nation's scope,
But all the dear past's memory
And all the future's hope.
My country has a goal divine,
To link all lands as one
Till freedom shall as widely shine
As does the kindly sun.

So call on liberty's sweet name
And lift Old Glory high;
With sound and flame give glad acclaim
The Fourth of each July,
For thus the knell of tyranny
Most surely we can ring
Till all lands know equality
And earth contains no king.

God's kingdom on the earth moves on;
His chosen land is here
To spread the light of freedom's dawn
O'er nations far and near.
I prize all climes, but am most blest
In that which gave me birth,
For he who loves his country best
Loves best the whole wide earth.

J. A. EDGERTON.

The Rural Fourth.

The people who live in the country and in the smaller towns enter into the spirit of the day because of what the day means. The people of the city get away from town because it means rest. The city people are the ones who are always talking and arguing for the saner Fourth. It means much to the city where human life and property are at stake. A noiseless Fourth in the small town would not come under the classification of sane. Taken as a whole, the country is probably as glad when the day is over as it is glad to see it dawn. This may not be the sort of spirit that the fathers mapped out for the Fourth of July, but it is the sort that is abroad in the present age.

HOW FRANCE TAKES HER INDEPENDENCE.

The French Fourth of July is really the 14th, for it was on July 14, 1789, just thirteen years and ten days after the birthday of American liberty, that the Bastille fell, carrying with it the ancient monarchy and opening the way for the great republic of today.

Almost as nearly identical as the dates of the French and American holidays are their modes of celebration.

Early in the morning of the 14th of July every Frenchman exercises his ingenuity to ornament his windows with venetian lanterns and little flags. When the salvos of artillery announce the morning and the bells are ringing in all the church towers of all France, when the marines of every warship on the seacoast fire the great guns, French men and women are chanting in city, town and country "Domine, salvam fac rempublicam." In city, town and village the trumpeters sound the day in the open squares, and the sunlight of July in France shines upon a population enthusiastic, eager and excited. Each hour has its new ceremony or diversion. Each shows, from first to last, how solidly settled the republic is in the hearts of all these Frenchmen.

For days each year before the date for the great fete arrives Paris is given over to the decorators. Always the very leaders of design and artistic decoration, the French excel themselves and the world on this day.

On the morning of the 14th flags burst from every window of every building literally as leaves upon the branches of the trees—flags of every nation, from every corner of the earth. No city is more thoroughly cosmopolitan than is Paris. A. W. FERRIN

FOURTH OF JULY FOR CITY FOLKS.

The Fourth of July is not for the city except as a get-away day. When did you ever hear of a special rate excursion to the city to attend a Fourth of July celebration? The people of the country do not want to come into the city, and the people who live in the city do not want to stay at home.

With the rising of the sun the flags are a-flutter, and perhaps somewhere in the back streets there are the infernal bang-bang of the firecracker and the fierce report of the torpedo. But the masses are crowding the cars, surface, elevated and subterranean, rushing for the trains and scurrying for the steamers at the piers, provided the city is not inland, and autos are already far away. In fact, a big percentage of the city population generally gets out the day before.

The night of the Fourth is more patriotic than the day. Many who have remained indoors all day assemble on the stoops to witness the miniature illuminations and rocket displays of somebody who has taken it upon himself to amuse the people in the block. There are real patriots in every section of the city who wait for the night of what the orators call the natal day. Illuminated balloons chase each other across the sky. These have become noticeable features of the Fourth in the city. Who sends them up? City patriots.

Fortunately the passing of the Fourth in the city is as sudden, if not more so, than the dawn. By 10 o'clock the noise is over. Trains bearing the returning crowds are back in the great sheds long before that hour, and those who have been out of town are glad to scurry to shelter and get rest.

"WONDER WHERE THE NOISE IS!"

NFLUENCE OF THE DECLARATION.

While we celebrate on the 4th of each July the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, we perhaps do not reflect on the stupendous influence of that document on the world as a whole. It is safe to say that no political paper in all history has had so universal or radical an effect. Not only did its promulgation mark the beginning of the life of our own nation and not only was it the mother of the emancipation proclamation, but its advent started the wave of democracy and liberty now seen in every nation on the earth. Surely Americans have a right to be proud of a document that has literally inaugurated a new era of humanity.

Although it would hardly be within the truth to say that the Declaration of Independence had wrought all the marvelous political changes that have swept the world since July 4, 1776, it would be entirely within the truth to state that it has been the greatest single influence and therefore has the right to be considered the symbol of all the forces that have wrought these changes. And what a transformation it has been! Then liberty was nowhere. Now it is everywhere. Then England had sunk to well nigh her lowest stage of despotism, France was misgoverned and hopeless, Germany was a conglomeration of inchoate states, the Latin nations were in feudal bondage, Russia had scarcely emerged from semibarbarism, all of Asia was as she had been for thousands of years, Africa and Australia were unknown, and both North and South America were covered with fringes of colonies and vast savage interiors. Today every land beneath the sun has been touched by the new life, the new aspiration, the new freedom.

France was the first to respond to the call and with her own revolution drove the democratic wedge fashioned in America far into the heart of Europe. England, the very nation against which the American Revolution had been waged, was the next to be moved toward liberty by the new example, her two defeats by this country shocking her into sanity and her own thinkers forcing her to adopt reform bills, to take up a liberal colonial policy and to bring about a real revolution, although a peaceable one. Germany, too, heard the call, is yet hearing it and is moving to meet it. Italy shook off the thraldom of centuries, united her states and joined the ranks of the progressive nations. One after another the states of Europe either became republics or constitutional monarchies. Even Russia could not escape the universal wave of democracy. Last of all Turkey faces toward the sunrise and steps into the ranks of freedom. Poor Spain has tried several times to adopt republicanism, but the reactionary forces have been too strong and have held her till all of her colonies and most of her ancient glory have been swept away.

Following the example of the United States, all the Americas threw off the foreign yoke and became republics. Japan felt the new impulse, which is now also awakening China and India. South Africa experienced it, as she showed in her stubborn fight for freedom. And Australasia, touched by it, has the most enlightened and progressive governments in the world. Truly the Declaration of Independence has done its work, and the story is only half told. It will not be completed until there is a world republic and liberty comes to dwell among men forever. A. C. SQUIERS.

Worse Than George III.

When I look o'er the fatal list,
So sad and so absurd,
It almost seems July the Fourth
Is worse than George the Third!

FOURTH OF JULY IN FAR GUAM

By GEORGE H PICARD

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

WHEN the United States government took formal possession of its insular appanage of Guam one of its first official acts was to make an inventory of the leftover colonial impedimenta of the departed Castilians. According to the report of the officer who was detailed to attend to the matter—an incorrigible wag, as it happened—the only articles of any moment left behind by the ousted dons consisted of 365 annual and ablebodied holidays.

The first American governor of the islet, an efficient officer of the United States navy, was a reformer. With the holiday per se the gallant captain had no quarrel. But he made up his mind to reform the calendar. With that end in view and wishing to proceed cautiously, he sought the advice of one of the excellent Spanish missionaries who were still ministering to the spiritual needs of the Apians.

A ROUSING SALVO FROM THE CRUISER.

The missionary admitted that the matter could be overdone, but explained that the Guamese temperament required stimulation. That gave the governor his cue. Without further preliminary he began to descant feelingly upon the improved method of disposing of an overplus of enthusiasm which prevailed in America. The process, he explained, consisted in storing away vast quantities of explosive energy to be drawn upon whenever the occasion was actually worthy of special effort.

"Christmas, senor gobernador?" the Spaniard suggested mildly.

"Most certainly. Christmas by all means, but more especially the Fourth of July," the governor agreed.

A shadowy smile passed quickly over the missionary's ascetic face, and then he shook his head sadly.

"Fothojuly, fothojuly, excelencia, I know him not," he said.

"You shall make its acquaintance and so shall every man, woman and child on this blessed island!" declared the governor, with resolution in his tone. "Why, man alive, it's the greatest day of them all! There isn't a youngster in the whole United States of America that couldn't give you people points on how to celebrate. The glorious day is due in about a week—a week from Saturday. My men will teach you how to celebrate. They'll paint Guam red."

The peace loving missionary shivered slightly. Visions of Guam incarnadine floated before his eyes. Then a great light illumined his darkness.

"Pardon, senor gobernador," he said "it is the great holy day of the Americans. Since we are now of the Americans it must also be of us. It is the feast of the translation of St. Martin but perhaps it matters little; there are multitudes of saints remaining. Excelencia, we of Guam accept the holy day of the Americans."

Although this was not precisely what the doughty official had intended he let it go at that for the present. It occurred to him, of course, that instead of making a beginning at the weeding out process he had added another to the already overstocked calendar of the festival loving Guamese. Then and there he resolved that the American national holiday should be made so distinctive that it should thereafter head the list. The first American Fourth of July in Guam should be a revelation to Uncle Sam's new quasi citizens; no mere tropical merrymaking, with flower wreaths and guitar thrumming and churchgoing as the features, but a genuine outburst of Yankee enthusiasm.

It was indeed a red letter day for the inhabitants of faraway Guam. At daybreak a rousing salvo from the cruiser in the harbor struck terror to the hearts of the waking natives, who thought only of the dreaded trembler de tierra. Simultaneously the marines at the government quarters began a fire of musketry, the steam whistle of the warship contributed its hoarse discord, the church bells clanged as they had never clanged before, and the drums and fifes of the garrison added to the patriotic tumult. The Americans had taken pains to provide themselves with an abundance of the explosive agencies which alone make the Fourth what it should be, and there was little cessation in the glorious din throughout that sunny and ever to be remembered day. The generous and politic governor feasted the principal men of the island and their families, and no one was suffered to go hungry or unhappy. It won the Guamese forever and made them converts to the gracious festival which had been so auspiciously added to their calendar.

FOUNDER OF GRAND ARMY

Monument In Memory of Major Stephenson Unveiled In Washington

Washington, July 3.—With military and civic honors, as befitted the recalling to memory of a man who was trained in the peaceful profession of medicine and served his country in the ranks of warriors, the statue of Major Benjamin Franklin Stephenson, "father of the Grand Army of the Republic," was unveiled here today.

Participating in the ceremony of dedication were President Taft and other prominent men. The president delivered an address, but the orator of the day was Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania. The unveiling was preceded by a parade of United States soldiers, sailors and marines and the national guard of the District of Columbia.

The monument unveiled today is the first one erected to the memory of Major Stephenson, who was born in Illinois in 1822 and died in 1871. It is intended also to commemorate in granite and bronze his idea, conceived while he was serving as a surgeon in the Union army, of uniting the veterans of the federal army into a great fraternal organization.

The shaft is of granite about forty feet high and triangular in shape. On each of its three sides are groups in bronze representing the three cardinal principles of the Grand Army of the Republic—fraternity, charity and loyalty. On the western side is a bronze idealized medallion of Dr. Stephenson in the uniform of an officer of the Civil war.

The shaft has been erected at a cost of $40,000, the Grand Army of the Republic contributing $30,000 and the national government $10,000.

SYMPATHY FOR MORELEY

His Difficulties Increased by Double Assassination In London

London, July 3.—The murder of Lieutenant Colonel Wyllie and Dr. Lalcaca by Madar Lelof Dhinagri, an Indian student, has stirred England in a manner unknown since the Phoenix Park murders.

Great sympathy is felt for Viscount Moreley, secretary of state for India, the difficulties of whose position will be greatly increased by reason of the murders.

A strong feelng has been aroused against a number of the members of the house of commons and others, who encouraged the Indian agitation against the government.

Another consequence of the tragedy distasteful to Englishmen is that henceforth it will be necessary to afford police protection to public men.

MOTOR SUDDENLY STOPS WORKING

Flight of Wright Aeroplane Terminated by a Mishap

Washington, July 3.—The new Wright aeroplane was on its way around the Fort Myer drill grounds for the ninth time in its second flight last evening when the motor stopped. In gliding downward the machine struck a tree and was swerved around with such force that the skids were broken and the right wing badly crippled. Orville Wright, who was at the wheel, was not hurt.

On the first attempt Orville Wright flew about the field twelve times in a little less than twelve minutes. He had been in the air for a little more than eight minutes on the second trial when the accident happened.

Orville and Wilbur inspected the machine closely to see what caused the motor to stop. They did not announce the result of their investigations, but said that the aeroplane would not be ready for another flight before Tuesday at the earliest.

RELIEVED OF A POLYPUS

King Alfonso Will Now Be Able to Hear a Little Better

Biarritz, July 3.—Dr. Moure operated yesterday upon King Alfonso of Spain for the removal of a polypus. The king came to Biarritz to consult with the specialist concerning a deafness which he believed to be due to salutes fired in his honor during a recent visit to Valencia.

An examination, however, showed that the trouble was due principally to a polypus, which was removed without difficulty.

BRIEFS

Tuesdays eight page Ledger will contain full reports of the celebration of the glorious Fourth in all parts of the city.

Patriotic services will be held at the Congregational church, Quincy Point, on Sunday evening which Woman's Relief Corps No. 103 is invited to attend.

The members of the City Council are to be entertained to night by Councilman Nelsen at Lee's new inn at Squantum. The reputation of this host for serving shore dinners is so well known that a fine dinner is assured the Councilmen.

Dr. Nicholas A. Gallagher of Spear street, just graduated from the Georgetown Medical School, Washington, D. C., is now stationed at St. Francis hospital, Jersey City, N. J., as house physician. He expects to be home on a short vacation in a few days.

Fred Smith, the well known local ball player is home from New Bedford. He plays with Bristol, R. I., today, as do Patterson and Drake, also of this city.

The new float for the Quincy Yacht club has arrived and was put in place yesterday at the club's landing at Houghs Neck. The old float, which has been doing duty so long, was put out of business by the heavy storm a few weeks ago.

The Quincy Yacht club has raised its new flag for the year. Each year at the opening of the season a new pennant is thrown to the breeze.

The Boston Red Sox of the American league will be the guests of the Houghs Neck Associates at the beach tonight. The "Speed Boys" have fond memories of a swell time there recently, after which they won eight straight games.

The first of the two skeleton battle masts is now being constructed on the U. S. S. battleship North Dakota at the Fore River yards. To look at these masts, one would think that it would be the easiest thing in the world to shoot them to pieces, but experiments have proven them to be superior to the old solid steel masts. All the battleships in the U. S. navy are now fitted with these masts.

City Hall will be closed all Monday the day on which the Fourth is celebrated.

Some of the stores in City Square that sell fireworks will open their places of business as early as 1 o'clock on the morning of the fifth.

The prizes for the city celebration at Merrymount park are to be put on exhibition in one of the store windows in City Square.

Among the fleet of war craft now anchored in Boston harbor is the champion battleship Vermont built in Quincy. The ship is one of the best fighting machines in the United States nav ytoday and is a credit to the Fore River Company and to Quincy.

The General Electric Company apprentices of Lynn are the guests of the Fore River apprentices today. This afternoon they play ball and after the game they have a banquet at the Y. M. C. A.

QUICK WORK.

Central Station Combination Makes Record for Itself.

The company attached to the combination at the Central fire station were out for practice this week and made some remarkably quick time in laying hose. Two lines of 100 feet each were laid, the nozzles coupled on and water was played through the lines all in the short space of fifty seconds. This is unusually quick time and speaks volumes for the efficiency of this company.

MRS. ANN B. SAMPSON.

In the death of Mrs. Ann Blanchard Sampson, who passed away at her home on Wharf street, Wednesday after an illness of many months duration, the Point district, not only loses, one of its oldest residents, but whose thoughts were always for those about her. Although naturally of a quiet retiring and home loving disposition, she was ever ready to succor the sick and needy. Even from her sick room her thoughts and inquiries were of those less fortunate than herself.

Those who knew and loved her and those who were privileged to see her during the long days of her illness were constantly reminded of the brightness of her character, and marvelled at the fortitude with which she bore her illness.

Mrs. Sampson was born in Weymouth in 1827 and was a daughter of Charles and Ann Cushing Blanchard. She removed to Quincy with her parents when seven years of age and since that time has made her home here. She married William Henry Sampson in1848 and he lived to celebrate their golden wedding. Mr. Sampson died in 1903. Mrs. Sampson is survived by three children, a son and two daughters.

—The process of making metal ribbon by pouring a molten stream on a rotating drum has been so developed that narrow bands only one one thousandth of an inch thick may be produced at the rate of 2500 feet per minute, and a large machine just made in London has a dozen or more nozzles for giving as many ribbons at once. The ribbon is projected ten feet or so, falling unbroken. The process has been applied to aluminum, zinc, tin, lead, copper, silver and gold.

They will be instructed to prohibit the discharge of fireworks or bonfires, until after midnight Sunday. Orders will also be issued to the officers to enforce the ordinances in regard to the discharge of firearms in the public streets and to prohibit the building of bonfires in the streets. Any one violating the ordinance in this respect will be arrested.

Permits have been issued for a number of bonfires on private property and these are all that will be permitted.

THAYER ACADEMY.

Prof. Henry W. Holmes in his address to the Seniors last Saturday told of the practical value of poetry. The diplomas were presented by Rev. George A. Thayer of Cincinnati, the president of the board of trustees. Rev. F. R. Griffin of All Souls church was one of the speakers, and was introduced as one of the pupils of Dr. Gallagher at Easthampton sixteen years ago. Dancing concluded the festivities of the day.

Dr. Gallagher has been attending the 40th anniversary of his graduation at Harvard University.

The Boston Journal had the following comment: "I met at the South Station yesterday morning the Rev George A. Thayer of Cincinnati, who has come to Boston to take part in the commencement exercises and meet his Harvard classmates. He was formerly pastor of the Unitarian Society at South Boston, but went to Cincinnati in 1882. Very few of his old parishioners now live in South Boston, but he keeps in close touch with some who reside in Brookline, Newton and other suburban towns.

Mr. Thayer will visit his native town of Braintree, where his relative, Gen. Sylvanus Thayer, the founder of West Point, was born and lived. In the Civil War Rev. Mr. Thayer served as a captain for three years in the second Massachusetts Volunteers, commanded by Gordon and Andrews, both West Point graduates."

ATLANTIC HAS A ROUSING CELEBRATION

Citizens Outdo Themselves and Have Good Time. Prize Winners of Parade and Sports

The glorious Fourth is over and Atlantic citizens are tired but happy. This ward certainly did itself proud. Last year's celebration was pronounced a great success but that of this year was much more so. The committees having the affair in charge have worked early and late and the results showed how well they had performed their several assignments.

The day as far as weather was concerned was all that could have been desired as was also the crowd. Nearly everybody kept open house and not a few entertained guests from out of town.

The celebration really commenced at midnight Sunday when a huge bon fire on the playground was lighted. Thousands were gathered in the streets near the playground waiting for this event and as the flames mounted high in the air there was a mighty cheer and the celebration was on. Just as this fire was lighted an alarm was sounded from Box 65. Many thought that this was part of the program of young America but it proved to be for a disastrous fire, an account of which will be found elsewhere.

After the bon fire all but young America sought their beds to catch a few winks of cleep to fortify themselves for the strenuous day before them. The first event was the antique and horrible parade which was scheduled to start at 5.30. Long before this time however thousands from all over the city had gathered on the street corners waiting for it. The street railway ran special cars from Quincy and brought many while not a few came in automobiles and still others walked.

Lieut. McKay with a squad of officers were among the early arrivals and saw that things were kept moving. The only thing in the way of a disturbance was when a gang of Neponset toughs attempted to break up the procession but the prompt arrival of the police on the scene prevented this.

While last year's parade was good that of this year surpassed anything seen in Quincy for a long time some of the float features showing much thought and planning. The parade was fifteen minutes passing a given point, the formation being as follows:—

Officers Larkin, Duffy and Donovan.
Chief Marshal Henry B. Barnum.
Aids, Miss Olive G. Nugent and Miss May E. Buckley.
City band of Quincy.
Troup of Rough Riders.
Atlantic Signal Corps.
Co. B. Boys' Briggade.
Caddy boys.

FLOAT DIVISION.

Electric light.
Young America.
No race suicide on our street.
Merrymount Gypsies.
Thirteen Original states.
The Life savers.
Cage of "wild animals."
Neponset River Coal Co.

SECOND DIVISION.

Women in shays labeled "Right from the old sod."
Two men in carriages going to "Snake Bend."
Bingville sightseeing auto.
The latest style in hats.
Squantomato Go Cart.
Goddess in chariot.
Rug wagon.
Three of Timberlake & Smalls wagons.

THIRD DIVISION.

Pumkins Centre Horn Beand.
E. L. Goodridge Leader.
Globe newspaper girls led by clown.
Dutch Cleaner Girls.
Roosevelt's African Expedition.

This feature was one of the most original of the whole parade. Cornelius M. Duggan impersonated the recent President and he had with him Stealthy Steve. The half and half man Kermit Roosevelt with his nursing bottle, African Guide, natives and the like Stealthy was drawing a cart of cigarettes while in the rear of the feature were two small cages of animals for the President to shoot.

The latest in ladies gowns.
Last year's band.
Ambulance corps.
The boys from Happy Hollow.
Coxies army going to Washington.

In addition to these there were scattered through the line boys in costume riding bicycles, clowns, policemen etc.

The parade formed on Squantum, Hunt street and Newbury avenue and moved over a long route. The chiefs of the several divisions being Charles E. Gill, Louis F. R. Langelier, John Donovan, James C. Morrison, and S. Walter Nichols.

When the parade reached Clive street it was reviewed by Mayor Shea and a number of City Officials who included City Solicitor McAnarney, Assessors Adams, Falconer and Duggan, City Engineer Sargent, Park Commissioner Wadsworth. City Auditor Fairbanks, Councilmen Hobbs, Whiton, Smith, Bean, Gardner, McDevitt, Cherrington and Gilson, Ex-councilmen Barker, Badger and Sawyer, C. C. Hearn, Frank Curtis and others.

As soon as the parade had passed the party were entertained at breakfast by Mrs. Cherrington, Mrs. Badger, Mrs. Hobbs and other ladies in a tent in the rear of Councilman Cherrington's home.

Meanwhile the judges of the parade were busy deciding to whom the prizes should be awarded. There were so many good features that the task was a difficult one. The awards made were as follows:

FLOATS.

Second to float "Life Savers" arranged by Mrs. H. D. Gearwar.

Second to Ward Whitcher's menagerie.

Third to the caddies boys arranged by Briggs and Musgrove.

INDIVIDUALS.

First to "the latest style," arranged by Frank Doran.

At 8 o'clock there was an amusing game of base ball between the fat and the lean men of the ward. This game was brim full of amusing features and the only regret is that the game can not be given in detail. Six innings were played and the lean men tried out as many men in the box. Mayor Shea opened the game by pitching a left hander that came within twenty feet of the home plate, and President Hobbs of the Council umpired and showed the spectators what an enthusiastic base ball man he was and how well he knew the game. There was some kicking over his rulings but he said if they did not like it he would adjourn the game.

One incident will suffice to illustrate. Councilman Cherrington the star man of the lean men was running to second. The ball in play had gone over the fence somewhere. Umpire Hobbs takes the spare ball from his pocket, throws it to second and declares the runner and side out.

The make up of the two teams was as follows:—Lean men, Bean, Baker, Langelier, Badger, Cunniff, Cherrington, Johnson, McMann, Whall and Curby.

The fat men were easy winners the score being 13 to 8.

At 10 o'clock there was a series of athletic sports on the metropolitan boulevard at the foot of Webster street. The sports were restricted to Atlantic residents and the results were as follows:

220 yards dash—Won by E. A. Poland, Nat McClure second; time, 27 2-5 seconds.

An entertainment for the children was given at Music hall at 11 o'clock under the direction of W. Ward Whitcher. The program included: songs by Daniel O'Meara of the David Warfield company and William Smith, character sketches by Mr. Whitcher and an exhibition of Mr. Whitcher's trained "wild animals."

A series of water sport that attracted great attention was held off the foot of Webster street. The sports opened with an exhibition of fancy swimming by James D. Greene of the 1908 Olympic team. The sports resulted as follows.

Barrel roll.—Won by Edwin McCarthy.

Diving contest for girls.—Won by Grace Burke, Catherine Gay and Ruth Bean tied for second place.

At 1.30 there was a game of base ball on the playground between the Glover A. C. and the Clifton A. C., both juvenile nines. The Glovers won 5 to 4.

At 3.30 the Atlantic professionals and the Jamaica Plains crossed bats for the big game of the day. The Atlantics won by a score of 8 to 7.

The concluding feature of the day's celebration came at night with a band concert on Faxon road and one of the finest displays of fireworks ever seen in this city. The final attraction of a long day's enjoyment was witnessed by thousands and there were hearty cheers when the words "Good Night" were spelled out in letters of fire and the big celebration of 1909 was at an end.

First Annual Athletic Meet was A Grand Success

Never in the history of Merrymount park has such a crowd gathered to witness an athletic event as that which was present Monday at the first annual track and field sports given under the auspices of the city of Quincy. It was the first time that anything of this kind has ever been attempted by this city and to say that the affair was a success would be putting it mildly. It was said at first when Councilman Carey offered the order for the games, that the thing would not be a success, but it looks now as though these games would be an annual affair. There were fully 1500 people at the Park and all the events were run off in good style. There were a large number of entries including many of the best runners and jumpers in and about Boston. Among these were Frank Sheehan of the South Boston A. C., national junior half mile champion and for four years holder of the New England half mile championship; Bill McVicar, perhaps the best mile runner in New England; Joe Elcock of Quincy, running under the colors of the South Boston A. C.; Joe Brickley of the St. Alphonsus A. A., one of the best known of the interscholastic athletes; and Johnny McLaughlin, of West Quincy, who is rapidly developing into one of the best jumpers in the metropolitan district.

The feature of the meet form a local standpoint was the running of Marceau of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. This fleet footed youngster captured the one mile open race from a large field and also finished first in the half mile scratch race closed to Quincy runners. Marceau is a natural runner and uses his head to great advantage. With the proper coaching he has a brilliant future ahead. Hackett of the Fore River Apprentices, winner of the three mile run, also gave a clever exhibition of distance running. He had a big handicap but showed his class by breaking the tape ahead of a bunch of good distance men.

The hundred yard dash was also captured by a local man in the person of Joe Elcock. The final heat was a pretty race and was close all the way down until within a few yards of the finish. Then Joe made a burst and shot out in front of his opponents, winning the race by about two

COMPARISONS IN SCHOOL EFFICIENCY.

Comparisons may be odious, but they are interesting. The spirit of emulation impels us to compare our achievements with those of others. This is true of cities as of individuals.

The one phase of civic activity which in America consumes much of the public revenues, and which by its very nature has generally baffled all attempts at comparison, is the public school system.

Because the school deals in individuals rather than in inanimate materials it has been claimed that it is impossible to compare the system of one city with that of another in achievement. There are many respects in which this claim is a valid one. No measurement can be devised which will tell whether character is more efficiently developed by one system than by another, but many material tests can be made.

During the past two years the Russell Sage Foundation of New York City has conducted an extensive investigation into school conditions in different American cities. The results of this inquiry will furnish educators all over the country with facts concerning their schools which they cannot afford to ignore. The announcements which are now being made and which will soon be put in their entirety at the disposal of school authorities tell for a large number of American cities such facts as the number and cost of repeaters, the number of backward or retarded children, the rate at which the pupils progress through the grades, the proportion of beginners who continue until they graduate from the elementary course, and many other similar significant measures of school efficiency. These figures will give American school men for the first time standards by which they can judge their schools, compare them with those of other cities, and discover how nearly they have attained the highest possible degree of efficiency. Some of these computations are of especial interest to Quincy.

BACKWARD CHILDREN.

A child who is older than he ought to be for the grade he is in constitutes a serious problem for himself, his teacher and the community. These children make the work of the school teacher much more difficult, fill seats in already overcrowded school rooms, and finally becoming discouraged at their slow progress through the grades drop out after having received only the bare rudiments of an education. Some of these backward or over-age children are found in every school system, but they are more numerous in some cities than in others. Their presence furnishes one good measure of school efficiency. Among 31 cities studied, Medford, Mass., makes the best record with only 7.5 per cent. of her children in the retarded class, while the poorest showing is found among the colored children of Memphis where over 75 per cent. are retarded. In this series Quincy, Mass., occupies the 4th place with 17 per cent. of her pupils retarded. In all of the cities studied a little more than one-third of the children are above normal age for their grades. These figures probably represent with fair accuracy average conditions in city school system in this country.

CHILDREN WHO LEAVE SCHOOL.

In no school system in America do all of the children who enter the first grade complete the course. Attention has been called to the fact that many of the pupils in all school systems are backward. These backward pupils often do not stay to graduate. They become discouraged and leave school before reaching the eighth grade. This process is termed elimination.

It is of the utmost importance in judging the efficiency of the schools of a city. If of every hundred children who enter the schools but fifty complete a common school education it means that the schools are not doing what it is assumed that they do.

Among sixty-three cities studied Quincy, Mass., occupies the first place in respect to the proportion of pupils carried to the final grade. Here 82 per cent. of the children get a common school education; of each hundred who begin 82 continue to the eighth grade and 18 drop out.

WHERE EXODUS BEGINS.

Cities vary not only in the proportion of children who complete the elementary course, they also differ in respect to the point at which children begin to drop out in large numbers. Many colored children in Memphis and New Orleans leave in the fourth grade. In Baltimore, Camden, Newark and some other cities, the fifth grade is the dropping out point. Many cities, among them Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis, first begin to lose their children in large numbers in the sixth grade. Then we have a class of cities where the schools have stronger magnetic powers over their children and keep them to the seventh grade. In this group are Boston, Minneapolis, Grand Rapids and some twenty other cities. Four Massachusetts cities, Quincy, Fitchburg, Waltham and Haverhill, lose practically no children before the end of the course. They carry them through to the eighth grade.

In the average American city the tendency is to carry all children to the sixth grade, half of them to the eighth and one in ten through the high school. Quincy ranks in first place in respect to the magnetic powers of her schools. Here the first grade in which children begin to leave in large numbers is the eighth.

RETENTION THROUGH THE HIGH SCHOOL.

In the matter of pupils who continue to and through the high school there is even greater variability among the different cities than in respect to the continuation through the grammar grades. The best record is made by Newton, Mass., where for every hundred children who start in the first grade of the primary school, thirty-eight continue through the high school. No other city makes nearly so good a record. Camden, New York, Philadelphia and some other cities only carry three pupils through. Among the fifty-one cities studied Quincy ranks number 11. This city carries 18 per cent. of all her children through the entire course.

RATES OF PROGRESS.

The fact that the schools in different cities have in them large numbers of backward pupils means that many of the children are not making normal progress through the grades. In the standard system "normal progress" means making eight grades in eight years. Among the thirty-one cities studied in the Russell Sage Inquiry in no case is this record attained. Aurora, Illinois, where the children progress at an average rate of eight grades in 8.16 years, makes the best record, and Erie, Penn., where the rate is 12.4 years to complete eight grades, makes the worst one. Quincy stands in the 15th place among the thirty-one cities with an average rate of progress record of eight grades in 9.4 years.

REPEATERS.

Educators are more and more beginning to look upon the pupils who repeats grades as a trustworthy barometer of school efficiency. The child who has to go over the same grade and remain in the same class year after year because he or she can not keep up in studies with other children of the same age is technically termed a repeater. In the schools of fifty-five American cities studied there are two million school children. During the past school year 15 per cent. or nearly a third of a million did not pass and are taking their grades over again. It costs nearly ninety million dollars a year to run these fifty-five school systems. About fourteen million dollars of this sum is spent on the wasteful process of repetition. In Somerville, Mass., only 6.5 per cent. of the children have to go through the grades more than once. Camden, New Jersey sends 30 per cent. of her children through the grades twice. Cities which spend large proportions of their school funds upon educating repeaters have inefficient school systems. Among fifty-five cities studied Quincy, Mass., ranks in 38th place with 18 per cent., of her children in the repeating class. It costs the city nearly $140,000 a year for her schools. Of this sum about $25,000 is annually spent for educating repeaters.

SCHOOL BETTER FITTED FOR GIRLS THAN FOR BOYS.

It has long been known that more girls than boys go to high schhol and more girls than boys stay to graduate. The Russell Sage Investigation has shown for the first time that in our elementary schools as well, girls fare much better than do their brothers. In other words the schools are better fitted for girls than for boys. In the average city in this country there are 13 per cent. more retarded boys than girls, 13 per cent. more boy than girl repeaters, and 17 per cent. more girls than boys complete the elementary school course. Whether or not this is a result of the much discussed "feminization" of our schools caused by the great preponderance of woman teachers is a mooted question. What has been definitely shown is that our schools are better fitted to girls than to boys.

ARE CONDITIONS IMPROVING?

The question of tendency is not less interesting than that of conditions. If our schools are not so good as they ought to be or poorer than we thought they were it is important to know whether they are on the upward or downard path. The records of fifty cities have been studied to find out what change has been taking place in the last twelve years in the proportion of pupils reaching the upper grades. Taking the group as a whole a gradual but steady improvement is noticeable. Of the fifty cities studied, conditions in thirty-five are improving, while in the other fifteen the contrary is the case.

INDEX OF EFFICIENCY.

It has been said there are many phases of educational work which baffle attempts at quantitative comparison. We cannot measure the effects of education on children who pass through our schools. There are, however certain phases of the work of our school systems which we can measure and combine so as to shape them into standards of measurement and comparison.

It has been pointed out that many children leave school before completing the elementary course we also; know our schools are over-crowded in the lower grades and contain few pupils in the upper ones. In other words the ratio of finished product to raw material is lower than it should be, while the size of the plant is greater than it should be for the work it is doing.

By finding the product of percentages which give us the measurement of these two factors we may arrive at a single figure which will tell us, quite accurately, how nearly the school system is fulfilling its mission of supplying an elementary education to each child with the least possible amount of waste effort. Perfect efficiency in a human organization is as impossible as it is in a mechanical contrivance. Were such a thing possible we should find this efficiency expressed by 100 per cent.

Among 61 school systems thus studied, Fitchburg, Mass., most nearly approaches this ideal with an index of efficiency of 83. Camden, N. J., and Erie, Pa., stand at the other extreme with indexes of 26 and 23 per cent. respectively. Quincy is in the 4th place on the list with an index of efficiency of 76 per cent.

It is significant that the first seven cities at the head of the list are in Massachusetts. When results are computed by states, Massachusetts makes the best record, and New Jersey the worst, with Ohio exactly in the middle position.

IMMIGRATION NOT TO BLAME.

Almost invariably when it is shown that a city has a less creditable standing in any respect than has been commonly thought, the immediate response is that no surprise should be felt in view of the number of foreigners reaching our shores each year.

This claim is not substantiated by conditions disclosed in the Russell Sage Inquiry. Careful study has failed to demonstrate that cities having large foreign populations have less efficient school systems than most cities.

Among the large cities studied the contrary is rather the case. This is shown by reference to the following table which shows for each of eleven cities the index of school efficiency and the per cent. of persons of foreign parentage in the population:

	Percentage School Efficiency	Percentage Foreign Population
Boston	67	72
Minneapolis	63	69
Chicago	55	77
New York	52	77
St. Louis	51	61
Cleveland	50	76
Cincinnati	48	61
Jersey City	45	71
Philadelphia	38	55
Baltimore	35	38
New Orleans	31	38

Thes figures will surprise those who entertain the common belief that this ill is directly traceable to the immigrant. Among the cities in this table the three most American—Philadelphia, Baltimore and New Orleans—are the ones having the most inefficient school systems, while the most foreign cities—Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Boston—are shown to have very much more efficient educational plants.

—Devotees of outdoor life will be disappointed says the Jamaica Plain News that the so-called "daylight" bill ,introduced by Congressman Peters of the 11th district, is apparently not destined to early enactment. It is to be hoped, however, that Mr. Peters' pioneer work in this matter will eventually bring results.

PORTLAND HAS FIRE SCARE

Sailors From Battleships Give an Exhibition of Their Pluck

Portland, Me., July 6.—A fire which threatened the manufacturing center in the heart of the business section of Portland broke out a few minutes before midnight last night, a general alarm calling out all the apparatus.

The fire broke out in a large wooden building on Plum street occupied as a repair shop by the F. O. Bailey Carriage company, and spread by means of connecting wooden sheds to a three-story brick building on Union street, a distance of about 400 feet. These buildings were filled with much inflammable material and caused a decidedly threatening fire.

From the start magnificent work was done by scores of men on shore liberty from the battleships Wisconsin and Virginia which are in the harbor. They manned several lines of hose and were found where the danger was most apparent.

The fire was under control at 1 o'clock. The damage to buildings and contents will not exceed $25,000.

CHEMICALS IN FOOD

Contention That Use of Small Quantities Does Not Injure Health

Washington, July 6.—The rigid enforcement of the pure food law was again under fire today at the general hearing of the protests against some of its provisions held before the national board of food and drug inspection of the department of agriculture. The subject of the hearing was the use of soda, potash, ammonia, alum and other chemicals in food and the effect of the use of such ingredients on the health of the consumer.

The board granted hearings to the representatives of manufacturers, who contended that the use of small quantities of chemicals is needed to insure the preservation of food in proper condition and that such use is not detrimental to health. In opposition the government experts and others declared that experiments have demonstrated the deleterious effects of such use of chemicals.

TWENTY ROUNDS OF HARD MILLING

Stanley Ketchel Is Given Decision Over Billy Papke

San Francisco, July 6.—Stanley Ketchel of Michigan is still the world's middleweight champion. In a desperate, gruelling battle, during which the champion was constantly on the aggressive, he was awarded the decision over Billy Papke of Illinois at the end of the twentieth round, the scheduled number.

Ketchel claimed to have broken his right hand in the sixth round, and this assertion subsequently was verified. His left thumb also was dislocated.

The decision of the referee was greeted with a mixture of cheers and jeers.

Both men were bleeding freely in the eleventh, Papke in particular spouting blood from his mouth and nose until the center of the ring resembled a shambles.

The feature of the fight was the extreme viciousness with which both men fought and the apparent hatred that lurked behind every punch.

CUT FROM A SAW

The Only Blemish Found on Body of a Supposed Leper

New York, July 6.—The only blemish on the body of John R. Early, who was held in Washington for almost a year as a leper, is a patch of court-plaster between two fingers about as big as a quarter of a dollar and that very patch, it is said at the New York skin and cancer hospital, where he arrived Sunday, is proof that he is whole and sound.

Early cut his hand on a saw a few days ago and the court-plaster is used merely to protect the wound. "The cut is healing nicely," says his nurse, "but if Early had leprosy it would be a very different matter. He has not leprosy, but a mild case of 'dematitis venenata,' not at all dangerous."

London, July 6.—The Meadowbrook, L. I., polo team, composed of Laurence Waterbury, J. M. Waterbury, Jr., H. P. Whitney and Devereaux Milburn, won the second match played here for the American polo cup, 8 to 2.

The first game was won by the Americans on June 23, and as the cup was to go to the side winnig two out of three matches the visitors, by their victory of yesterday, have secured the trophy for America.

France and England Sought Domination of Our Land

DESTINY FAVORED AMERICA

Famous Event In Our History Being Celebrated In Commemoration of Champlain's Discovery of Lake—Crown Point Claims Site of Battle Fought by Explorer and Algonquin Allies Against the Iroquois Indians

Port Henry, N. Y., July 6.—At historical old Crown Point, where, three centuries ago, Samuel De Champlain with his Algonquin allies engaged in battle against the Iroquois, a struggle which has been described as one of the cardinal events of American history, there were begun the ceremonies of a week, undertaken by the states of New York and Vermont in celebration of the tercentenary of Champlain's discovery of the lake.

Within the ruins of old Fort St. Frederic and in the presence of a holiday throng, Governor Hughes of New York sketched briefly the objects of the celebration. Historical addresses were delivered by ex-Mayor Low of New York and Albert C. Barnes of Chicago, and Clinton Scollard of Clinton, N. J., read an original poem.

The occasion took on a dual significance in that it celebrated the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the lake and the 133rd anniversary of the independence of the United States.

Governor Hughes, after reviewing the historical significance of the occasion, came down to present day conditions, and said:

"Three nations join today in common recognition of the sons who here displayed valor and heroism worthy of the highest standards of each. Without taunt or bitterness, without vain regret for the inevitable, without the suspicions of ill will or the boastings of ill natured rivalry, we retrace the paths of early strife.

"Upon this vantage point have stood French and English, each in its turn bent upon dominating the future of this favored land. Each regarded the other as the foe of its ambition, and its rival in the scheme of conquest.

"But destiny would have it otherwise and amid these ruins of ambition were laid the foundations of the republic under whose banner we meet today, the friend both of France and of England, in whose blessings the children of both the ancient rivals share, whose peaceful progress is a boon to all mankind."

Judge Barnes pointed out that the occasion ought not to pass without a re-assertion of Crown Point's claim to the site of the battle of Lake Champlain. He said that here, then, of all places on this lake, should be erected a monument to the memory of this great explorer, who more than any other of his time was actuated by a worthy zeal for state and religion.

The New York and Vermont commissions contemplate the erection of a memorial to the discoverer, but its location has been a subject of discussion.

After luncheon Governor Hughes and the others went to Crown Point, where they viewed the first production of the Indian pageant given on a huge floating island. Scores of Indians from the Canadian reservation, in plumes and warpaint, gave an interesting production of the Indian version of Hiawatha, concluding with Champlain's battle. The addresses were delivered later in the old fort.

DEATH MARS REGATTA

Oarsman Drowned In a General Spill of Shells on Charles River

Boston, July 6.—Fifty-four men all struggling for their lives in the waters of the Charles river basin was the climax that marked the regatta of the New England Rowing association.

All were thrown into the river within a few seconds of each other, when their eight-oared shells sank under them as a result of the high waves that had been constantly filling the boats.

In the rush of rescue one man was drowned. He was Edward Norley, who pulled in the St. Alphonsus boat. A rope had been thrown to him from the official boat Oriole, but he failed to grasp it.

And was on deck some years before
Our worthy constitution,
Still you are ever young, sweet spring,
And if it does not tire you
We'd like to let you know again
How truly we admire you.

You come before our eager gaze
As fresh as any daisy,
And by the perfumes that you shed
You set the poet crazy.
He dashes off a frenzied line
Alive and full of meaning,

And on the fresh and placid air
You set the fog horn tooting.

TAFT'S VISIT TO NORWICH

Helps Old Connecticut Town Celebrate Its Anniversary

ASKS RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE

Takes a Fling at Pilgrim Fathers In a Good Natured Way—History Is Repeated In Grand Pageant In Which Indian Dances and Battles Are Faithfully Portrayed—Mock Uncas Eats "Human Flesh"

Norwich, Conn., July 6.—President Taft was the chief figure in the celebration of the 250th anniversary of this history-laden old New England town. In an address to the people, following a splendid military parade and civic display, the president, finding a theme in the church influence in the building up of Norwich, took occasion to express his views upon the liberty of religious belief.

He pleaded that every man should be allowed to worship God in his own way. The president declared amid laughter that the American forefathers came to this country ostensibly to escape religious intolerance, but as a matter of fact came in order that they might follow out their own religious ideas in their own way and with a large degree of intolerance toward any other form of belief.

"We have passed beyond that now," said the president, "and are coming more and more to realize the right of the individual to worship God as he may choose."

The day was replete with historic incident. An open air pageant depicted scenes leading down from the wars between the Mohican and Narragansett tribes of Indians, through the purchase of the site of Norwich town from Uncas to Revolutionary days, the welcome to Washington, the return of the soldiers from the Civil war, the dawn of peace, the present day and the hope of the future.

The pageant, held on a grassy plot, surrounded by giant trees, was a pretentious undertaking. Several hundred persons took part in the tableaux, the Indian dances, the battle between the tribes, the capture of Miantonomoh by Uncas, the death of the former and the portrayal of the march of historic events.

The fight of the Indians was carried out with great fidelity of detail, and even while the president looked on the mock Uncas supposedly cut from the shoulder of his dead enemy a piece of flesh and ate it with every evidence of fiendish delight.

It is historically related of Uncas that he afterward said that this was the sweetest meat he had ever tasted and that it made his heart strong.

After witnessing the pageant, the president was driven to the grave of Uncas in Sachem street, where a monument stands to his memory as the good friend of the white man. The president also was shown many other points of interest. It seemed that nearly every building in the city was of sufficient historic significance to bear a descriptive placard.

The president, arriving from Beverly by special train, was driven direct to the pageant. Later he reviewed a parade which was notable in many of its features, addressed the people from the reviewing stand, held a reception in the Buckingham Memorial and witnessed last night a brilliant display of fireworks.

Man Who Was Jealous of His Wife Uses Gun on Another

Brockton, Mass., July 6.—Jealousy over attention paid to his wife is said to have been the cause of the murder of Stanislaw Posinskis, a Pole, 25 years old and unmarried, whose head was nearly blown off by a charge from a shotgun which, the police say, was held by a fellow workman and neighbor, Norman Yeuzukiewitz, 29 years old and married. The shooting took place in Yuezukiewitz's house.

The police stated that Yuezukiewitz confessed that he killed Posinskis. Yuezukiewitz made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide in his cell at the police station.

Do you belong to the bandage brigade?

There was one big show from Atlantic to the sea.

Strictly speaking, there was no "night before" this year. There were two half nights instead.

The automobile express trucks which the police used for patrol wagons had the trolley freight beaten to a finish.

The city council has voted unanimously that Councilman John R. Nelson is one good fellow and a royal host. Councilman Nelson is a man of few words but he is a hustler after his ward's interests.

In spite of entreaties, requests and commands there were many who disturbed the quiet of Sunday by the discharge of explosives. Let's hope it was due to an overpatriotic fervor rather than a disregard of the solemnity of the day.

The appropriateness of a July 4th patriotic religious service, such as was held at the Quincy Point Congregational church Sunday night, deserves a wide recognition next year when "the night before" will come on Sunday. Would that we could educate the youth to a realization of the need of a more religious and less rowdy celebration of Independence Day.

A prominent citizen said yesterday that he was pleased to read an editorial in the Ledger a few days ago on the widening of Maple street. He said an order for this very purpose was introduced into the council last March and was referred to the committee on streets where it has since remained. It is to be hoped the order will not be kept in cold storage too long.

The glory of the holiday was considerably dimmed by the sudden death of Frank Pray, the loyal, kind and efficient janitor of the Quincy yacht club. To every member of the club and to nearly everyone at Houghs Neck Frank Pray was a personal friend in all that this term implies. As the winner of the Ledger's popularity motor boat contest last year Mr. Pray showed what a hold he had on the people of this city. His death will be a distinct loss to the Quincy yacht club and he will be missed by everybody who knew him.

FIRES OF THE NIGHT BEFORE

Several Bell and Still Alarms, But one Serious Fire

Although Chief Williams had his department well distributed so as to quickly cope with any fire there was but are but one serious fire the Fourth. That was at Atlantic at midnight Sunday and was probably an incendiary.

Saturday night the West Quincy apparatus went out to extinguish a fire in the street on Willard street. Box 62 and box 63 were sounded at 2.30 and 3.45 Monday morning and were false alarms. The Atlantic apparatus was also called out twice Sunday night on still alarms for incipient fires.

Alarms from boxes 62 and 63 at 12.01 on Sunday night brought out the Atlantic and Wollaston apparatus to a large blaze on the old Burr estate at 14 Walnut street, Atlantic, and but for the speedy work of the fire department would have resulted in the burning of many residences in the vicinity.

The fire, which from all accounts was incendiary, was started in the barn at the rear of the house and contained wagons and other effects of Hugh Gilmartin.

When the apparatus reached the scene the barn was thoroughly ablaze and sending firy sparks high in the air and upon the neighboring houses. By the time a stream could be brought to play on the fire, the rear of the house was also blazing furiously. Roofs of nearby houses were manned by the occupants and with garden hose and pails of water the dangerous sparks were prevented from doing any serious damage.

The blaze started a few minutes after the big Atlantic bonfire and on acount of its proximity drew large crowds from it.

The Atlantic Boys brigade, who were supervising the bonfire rendered valuable service, together with other men, in saving the furniture and other property in the burning house, from damage by fire, smoke and water. The spare wagon, placed in the Atlantic station was the first to reach the scene but on account of the breakage of the hose the Atlantic combination, which closely followed it got first water. After a short but hard fight the flames were brought under control and further damage was prevented. The all out was sounded at 12.45.

The blaze set on fire several hen coops, and after the windows were broken in by some kind hearted individual the distracted biddies flew in and out among the crowd until caught and confined. The house on the estate which is owned by Carlisle & Pope and occupied by the families of Rudolph Hedstrom and Edward Ryan was bady burned in the ell as was also the greater part of the roof. The barn was totally destroyed. Chief Williams estimates the damage to house, barn and contents at $2500.

In addition to this the exteriors of the houses of Frank Alden at 7 Myrtle avenue and M. E. Welch, 23 Myrtle avenue were badly scorched and blistered. Mrs. Welch claims that the fire was deliberately set by a crowd of men. Upon being interviewed by a Ledger reporter she said that just before the fire broke out she saw a crowd of seven or eight men run through her yard and down Oak avenue. Hardly had they disappeared when she noticed a bright light in the rear of the house and upon looking saw the barn all ablaze.

The Welch sisters state that a few minutes before, on their way to the bonfire, they met a crowd of fellows coming up Myrtle avenue carrying a large oil can but they thought nothing of it at the time.

The Welchs are now convinced that these are the same ones that set the fire.

The firemen at the Atlantic station had been watching this fire from the engine house sometime before the alarm thinking it was a bon-fire at Neponset so that the fire had a chance to make great headway before the alarm sounded.

After the first fire Officer Dhoogue was detailed to watch Box 63 as the box had been smashed when the false alarm was rung in at 2.30. At 3.45 when this box was again pulled for a false alarm as a result four young men from Neponset were arrested. They gave their names as Raymond Sweeney aged 13 years, William Doucette 14 years, Thomas Murphy 12 years, Harry Wayland aged 14 years, and William Quilty aged 16 years. They all appeared in court this morning.

DEATH FRANK H. PRAY.

Genial Janitor of Quincy Yacht Club Dies Suddenly.

Genuine regret is expressed on the sudden death of Frank H. Pray, the genial and popular janitor of the Quincy Yacht club house who died early Sunday morning. Mr. Pray had a room in the club house and about 2.30 W. J. Hudson going through the club house to the float, heard groans and located them in Mr. Pray's room.

Aid was immediately summoned by telephone and Dr. Jones who responded, worked over him for an hour trying to revive the fading spark of life.

The news of Mr. Pray's death was learned with genuine regret and the flags on the club house and yachts of the club were placed at half mast. Flags were also half masted on the Norteman and Great Head buildings.

Mr. Pray was a Quincy boy and was a son of the late George B. Pray of Quincy Point. He was employed for many years on the street railway as a motorman but became janitor of the club ten years ago. He was a man without an enemy. All who knew him were his friends and all admired and respected him. He leaves a widow.

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

CITY FIELD DAY SPORTS

yards. Brickley the low mark man got third place.

The final event of the day was the relay race between teams representing the Quincy Y. M. C. A., Cambridge Y. M. C. A., Fore River Apprentices, North Dorchester A. C. and South Boston A. C. The race was won by the South Boston team and was a pretty contest, the struggle being between the South Boston A. C. and the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. Frank Sheehan gave a fine exhibition of running in the last relay going away from a fast opponent in great style. Joe Elcock and his brother both ran for South Boston.

The prizes were gold watches to the winners in each event, dress suit cases to the second men and gold medals to third men. To the members of the winning relay team dress suit cases were given. Of the six watches given four were won by Quincy boys, namely, Joe Elcock, Marceau, winning two, and Hackett. Several local boys have also got new dress suit cases as the result of the games.

Johnny McLaughlin gave a good example of clean, honest sport after the games. Johnny had been awarded second place in the hop, step and jump by the judges, but on talking it over after the event was run off, Johnny found that he had not jumped as far as the man who had been given third place. He immediately turned over the second prize to his competitor and showed a true sporting spirit by so doing. It was a clean example of clean sports and shows the kind of athletes that are in the running game today.

The officials were as follows: John D. Ryder of the South Boston A. C., starter; William L. Elcock clerk of course, Dennis McGuinness of the Boston Globe, Theodore Hermanson of the Fore River shipbuilding company, James McCarthy of the St. Joseph A. C., T. J. Leonard of Boston and Alexander Elliott of Boston judges at the finish; William Mullane, James Brogan and James E. Neary timers; Charles Parker and Edward Desmond scorers; Peter M. Sullivan announcer and William A. Carey custodian and distributor of prizes.

The committee of arrangements, in charge of the field day, was composed of Mayor William T. Shea chairman, James Brogan of the Mohawk A. C., James E. Neary of the Fore River A. C., Charles Parker of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., Edward B. Desmond of the Copeland club and Daniel Driscoll of the Iroquois club.

The summary:

100 yards dash—Won by Joseph Elcock, South Boston A. C., (4 yds.); Ray Newton, North Dorchester A. C. (3 yds.) second; Charles Brickley, St. Alphonsus club (2 1-2 yds.) third; time, 10 2-5 seconds.

440 yards dash—Won by V. W. Luff, Cambridge Y. M. C. A., (24 yds.); Francis Howley, Boston College A. A., (26 yds.) seconds; George Reed, English high school (24 yds.) third; time 54 seconds.

Half mile run—(Scratch) Won by F. P. Marceau, Quincy Y. M. C. A., Thomas Elcock, South Boston A. C. second; Joseph A. Graham, Fore River apprentices, third; time, 2 minutes 15 1-5 seconds.

TODAY'S COURT.

The five young men from Neponset arrested at Atlantic for ringing a false alarm of fire were arraigned in court this morning. As they are all juveniles their cases were continued until next Tuesday.

Nicholas Garbarino and the men arrested in the gambling raid at Houghs Neck were in court this morning. Garbarino and Charles Sampson were arraigned for maintaining a gambling place and the others were arraigned for gaming. All cases were continued until Friday.

ENTERTAINMENT AT SQUANTUM.

Several of the city officials and members of the City Council were the guests of Councilman John R. Nelson Saturday evening at Lee's new Squantum Inn. The party left Quincy shortly after five o'clock arriving at Squantum in season to walk about the residential section and to see what a beautiful spot it was. It is hardly necessary to say that most of the guests present were surprised at what a very beautiful spot the section on the south-easterly shore has become and all were enthusiastic over it.

Shortly after seven o'clock the guests were ushered into a private dining room where one of the famous Lee shore dinners was served.

During the dinner there was more or less good natured knocking among the members of the Council, Mayor Shea coming in for his share. Some tried to draw him out as to his intentions at the next municipal campaign, but His Honor was not to be caught napping and simply winked his eye in a knowing way.

After dinner Councilman Nelson welcomed the guests and said he hoped to see them at Squantum often. He said there would be but little speechmaking, he would however call upon the Mayor. The Mayor responded briefly expressing his pleasure at being present. This same sentiment was also expressed by the other speakers who included President Hobbs of the City Council Councilman Whiton and Moir and others.

Those present included Mayor Shea, Assessor Adams, Tax Collector Carey, City Engineer Sargent, Councilmen Hobbs, Gardner, Nelson, Whiton, Freeman, Beale, Bean, Russell, Carey, Moir, Hadlock and Walsh and Clerk of Council Magee.

THE NIGHT BEFORE.

Police Kept Things Well in Hand Until Midnight, Then It was Noisy.

The police kept things pretty well in hand the night before until midnight. After that it was rather noisy in some sections of the city. Promptly at the hour of midnight the sky was brightly illuminated in all directions by the huge bon-fires that had been touched off. At Atlantic on the playground near the depot a large pile of old barrels and boxes had been gathered and Mayor Shea applied the torch to it on the stroke of 12. A large crowd from Atlantic and in fact from all parts of the city, were gathered on Hancock and adjoining streets to see the fun.

On Woodward avenue there was another and here there was another large crowd. There were also large fires in other sections of the city so that the day was ushered in with all due honor.

The police were strict in keeping the lid on until after midnight and they were also strict as to the use of firearms and while no arrests were made, they will summons fifty or more into court this week for violation of the ordinances by discharging firearms in the street. In respect to the boys it might be stated that a large majority of those summoned were old enough to know better. Quite a few drunks were taken in but in the most of cases they were released when they had sobered off.

AT WOLLASTON.

The "night before" this year in Wollaston was the most quiet this section has seen for years. The strictness of the police together with the attractions at Atlantic evidently drew away the rowdy element which has been in evidence in former years. After the bonfire some of the Wollaston all nighters took a dip at the beach which from all accounts was not all together warm. Through the day there seemed to be less noise than usual and local dealers say there was a marked decrease in the sale of fire works. In the evening although there was no public display of fireworks many of the residents contributed with private collections on their grounds. Many couples and small groups took Third Hill for a vantage point from which a fine view was obtained of the displays for many miles around.

VICTIM OF THUG.

Aged Man Assaulted in Quincy Point Boarding House.

Peter Nelson aged 72 years was the victim of a serious assault at the Creole house Quincy Point early Sunday morning. According to the injured man's statement he found a man in his room between 1 and 2 o'clock searching under the mattress of his bed. He grabbed the man who broke away and then struck him over the head with the water pitcher. He then ran away. Other lodgers hearing the racket came to his assistance. The old man was taken to the City Hospital where his antemortem statement was taken by the police.

FORESTERS FIELD DAY

City Officials Attend Field Day St. Francis Court

St. Francis court, M. C. O. F., held a field day Monday at the Ward Four playground. There was a large attendance all day, Mayor Shea and several of the city officials being present part of the day. The program included athletic contests of various kinds, which kept those present busy all day. J. J. Joyce had charge of the sports.

In the morning the Rail-Reds defeated the Bryant A. C. by the score of 6 to 3. Stan Bates, the crack southpaw of the Quincy High team, was in the box for the Reds and fanned 14 men.

At 2 o'clock the St. Mary's and the West Ends played an exciting game, the former winning 1 to 0. Then came the big game of the day, St. Mary's and Copelands, for a purse of $50.

Dick Williams fanned 14 men, pitching a steady game all the way. Kolson was in the box for St. Mary's. In the ninth inning St. Mary's got three men on bases and for a time it looked as if there would be something doing. But Williams tightened up and struck out Rooney.

There were also some field sports for boys and girls, and for old and young during the afternoon. They resulted as follows:

PAPER FOR MONEY.

The various great nations devote much study to the improvement of their secret processes of manufacturing paper for money and banknotes, the principal object being, of course, to render counterfeiting more and more difficult.

Our own government guards with extreme care every detail of the manufacture of this paper, laying special importance upon its secret of getting silk thread into the composition of the paper itself.

The efforts of this government, however, are not nearly so painstaking as those put forth in making the flimsy paper used for Bank of England notes, which are probably the finest paper money in the world. These notes are manufactured from fine Irish linen, and the peculiar properties of the Test water (so called from the river of that name) produce paper of a purity and texture unsurpassed. The secret of the security of the Bank of England note against forgery and counterfeiting is said to be entirely in the paper itself and not in the printing.

In addition, the notes show a watermark so cleverly devised that an expert from the mill can tell by a glance at the date of manufacture the very name of the employee who made it. The watermark is produced by a design countersunk in the woven wire bottoms of the trays in which the hot paper pulp is poured and dried. It has never been successfully imitated.

Extraordinary precautions are taken for the security of the mill where these notes are made, as well as of everything in the mill. There is, of course, a staff of police constantly in attendance and a private wire to police headquarters, nine miles away.

The watchmen who patrol the mill corridors every night must pass at each quarter of an hour clocks of wonderfully ingenious construction, the revolving dials of which are pierced with holes, which at the precise moment the watchman is due before them pass over a slot. The watchman pushes through a peg he carries, and the clock ticks on. Should he not present himself at the moment scheduled for him to appear, however, the timepiece immediately sounds an alarm.—New York Tribune.

DOCTORS KEPT ON THE JUMP

New York's Fourth Casualties May Equal Last Year's

FOUR PERSONS ARE KILLED

Casualties Thus Far Reported Number Nearly Two Hundred and Are Expected to Be Greatly Increased—No Fatalities In Boston Due to Fireworks, but More Than a Hundred Are Injured

New York, July 6.—Four dead and 192 injured—a score dangerously and at least one so seriously that death seems certain—was the record of New York's "old-fashioned" Fourth. The list of injured and perhaps of dead will be swelled with complete reports from Long Island and other suburban districts.

Last year's record was seven dead and 253 injured, and indications are that the casualties this year will probably equal those figures when the final toll is made up.

The hospitals are literally swamped with patients, most of them suffering from minor burns and cuts caused by explosion of fireworks.

Fires were numbered by the score, but none in New York proper did any large damage. Most of them were started by the careless handling of fireworks, matches or powder. The most serous fire in the vicinity of New York occurred at Ossining, where a business block was destroyed at a loss of $75,000. The blaze is supposed to have been started by a firecracker.

The Hub's Celebration

Boston, July 6.—Young America in Boston became aroused late last night and added a fitting accompaniment of noise to the various evening displays of fireworks, but otherwise, throughout the "night before" and during the entire day, there was a marked insignificant observance of the day along the lines of former years.

Not a fatality occurred in the city during the twenty-four hours due to fireworks. There were the usual number of incipient fires, but none of any considerable damage.

The police gave out the official list of injured in the Fourth of July celebration as 110 injured, five seriously.

"The Springfield Plan"

Springfield, Mass., July 6.—Springfield celebrated Independence day in organized fashion and great crowds watched the various parts of the "Springfield plan," which has attracted wide attention. Four historic pageants were given in various parts of the city. This was followed by a parade about three miles long in which the militia, boys' regiment and many floats took part. Land and water sports and illuminations, fireworks and band concerts were numerous.

Rhode Island's Quiet Fourth

Providence, July 6.—Police restrictions against the use of firearms served to give Providence the quietest Fourth of July in its history. There were no serious accidents and fewer fires than usual. Similar conditions prevailed all over Rhode Island, no fatalities having been reported from any section.

In Greater Pittsburg

Pittsburg, July 6.—One hundred and eighteen scorched fingers, seventy-one maimed arms and three burned eyes were the result in Greater Pittsburg for the Independence day celebration. The feature of the day was the unfurling of the largest American flag in the world, measuring 80 by 160 feet.

Washington's Quiet Day

Washington, July 6.—There was a marked contrast between this and other Fourths here. Not a firecracker was heard and no fireworks of any kind except those handled by citizens in charge of the public celebration. Not a single accident or fire resulting from the Fourth celebration was reported.

Mother and Child Killed

Camden, N. J., July 6.—During a celebration in Reservoir park a cannon exploded, a piece of which killed Mrs. Emma Hebel and her 6-weeks-old infant. Charles Nullian, 17 years old, had the top of his head torn off.

Quiet at Baltimore

Baltimore, July 6.—The observance of Independence day here was the quietest in the history of the city. There were no serious accidents. For the past five years the discharge of fireworks within the city limits at any time has been strictly forbidden.

Philadelphia's Report

Philadelphia, July 6.—One death and 380 persons injured, is the result of Independence day celebration in this city. There were more than fifty small fires directly due to the celebration.

Death of Melville Bull

Newport, R. I., July 6.—Melville Bull, former lieutenant governor of Rhode Island and for eight years member of congress from the first Rhode Island district, died in this city. He was 55 years old and unmarried.

THE GUILTY PARTY

By O. HENRY.

[Copyright, 1906, by S. S. McClure Co.]

A RED haired, unshaven, untidy man sat in a rocking chair by a window. He had just lighted a pipe and was puffing blue clouds with great satisfaction. He had removed his shoes and donned a pair of blue, faded carpet slippers. With the morbid thirst of the confirmed daily news drinker, he awkwardly folded back the pages of an evening paper, eagerly gulping down the strong, black headlines, to be followed as a chaser by the milder details of the smaller type.

In an adjoining room a woman was cooking supper. Odors from strong bacon and boiling coffee contended against the cut plug fumes from the vespertine pipe.

Outside was one of those crowded streets of the east side in which as twilight falls Satan sets up his recruiting office. A mighty host of children danced and ran and played in the street. Above the playground forever hovered a great bird. The bird was known to humorists as the stork. But the people of Chrystie street were better ornithologists. They called it a vulture.

A little girl of twelve came up timidly to the man reading and resting by the window and said:

"Papa, won't you play a game of checkers with me if you aren't too tired?"

"Checkers! No; I won't. Can't a man who works hard all day have a little rest when he comes home? Why don't you go out and play with the other kids on the sidewalk?"

The woman who was cooking came to the door.

"John," she said, "I don't like for Lizzie to play in the street. They learn too much there that ain't good for 'em. She's been in the house all day long. It seems that you might give up a little of your time to amuse her when you come home."

"Let her go out and play like the rest of 'em if she wants to be amused," said the red haired, unshaven, untidy man, "and don't bother me."

* * * * * * *

"You're on," said Kid Mullaly. "Fifty dollars to $25 I take Annie to the dance. Put up."

The Kid's black eyes were snapping with the fire of the baited and challenged. He drew out his "roll" and slapped five tens upon the bar. The three or four young fellows who were thus "taken" more slowly produced their stake.

"And, oh, what'll be done to you'll be a-plenty," said a bettor, with anticipatory glee.

"That's my lookout," said the Kid sternly. "Fill 'em up all around, Mike."

After the round Burke, the Kid's sponge, sponge holder, pal, mentor and grand vizier, drew him out to the bootblack stand at the saloon corner, where all the official and important matters of the Small Hours Social club were settled.

"Cut that blond out, Kid," was his advice, "or there'll be trouble. What do you want to throw down that girl of yours for? You'll never find one that'll freeze to you like Liz has. She's worth a hall full of Annies."

"I'm no Annie admirer!" said the Kid, dropping a cigarette ash on his polished toe and wiping it off on Tony's shoulder. "But I want to teach Liz a lesson. She thinks I belong to her. She's been bragging that I daren't speak to another girl. Liz is all right—in some ways. She's drinking a little too much lately. And she uses language that a lady oughtn't."

"You're engaged, ain't you?" asked Burke.

"Sure. We'll get married next year, maybe."

"I saw you make her drink her first glass of beer," said Burke. "That was two years ago, when she used to come down to the corner of Chrystie bareheaded to meet you after supper. She was a quiet sort of a kid then and couldn't speak without blushing."

"She's a little spitfire sometimes now," said the Kid. "I hate jealousy. That's why I'm going to the dance with Annie. I'll teach her some sense."

"Well, you better look a little out," were Burke's last words. "If Liz was my girl and I was to sneak out to a dance coupled up with an Annie I'd want a suit of chain armor on under my gladsome rags, all right."

Through the land of the stork-vulture wandered Liz. Her black eyes searched the passing crowds fiercely, but vaguely. Now and then she hummed bars of foolish little songs.

Liz's skirt was green silk. Her waist was a large brown and pink plaid, well fitting and not without style. She wore a cluster of rings of huge imitation rubies and a locket that banged her knees at the bottom of a silver chain. Her shoes were run down over twisted high heels and were strangers to polish. Her hat would scarcely have passed into a flour barrel.

"Sure, Miss Lizzie! What'll the chaser be?"

"Seltzer. And, say, Tommy, has the Kid been around today?"

"Why, no, Miss Lizzie, I haven't saw him today."

"I'm lookin' for 'm," said Liz after the chaser had spurted under her nose "It's got to me that he says he'll take Annie Karlson to the dance. Let him. The pink eyed white rat! I'm lookin' for 'm. You know me, Tommy. Two years me and the Kid 've been engaged. Look at that ring. Five hundred he said it cost. Let him take her to the dance. What'll I do? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

"I wouldn't listen to no such reports, Miss Lizzie," said the waiter smoothly from the narrow opening above his chin. "Kid Mullaly's not the guy to throw a lady like you down. Seltzer on the side?"

"Two years," repeated Liz, softening a little to sentiment under the magic of the distiller's art. "I always used to play out on the street of evenin's 'cause there was nothin' doin' for me at home. For a long time I just sat on doorsteps and looked at the lights and the people goin' by. And then the Kid came along one evenin' and sized me up, and I was mashed on the spot for fair. The first drink he made me take I' cried all night at home and got a lickin' for makin' a noise. And now—say, Tommy, you ever see this Annie Karlson? If it wasn't for peroxide the chloroform limit would have put her out long ago. Oh, I'm lookin' for 'm. You tell the Kid if he comes in. Me? I'll cut his heart out. Another whisky, Tommy."

A little unsteadily, but with watchful and brilliant eyes, Liz walked up the avenue toward the Small Hours Social club.

At 9 o'clock the president, Kid Mullaly, paced upon the floor with a lady on his arm. As the Lorelei's was her hair golden. Her "yes" was softened to a "yah," but its quality of assent was patent to the most Milesian ears. She stepped upon her own train and blushed, and—she smiled into the eyes of Kid Mullaly.

And then as the two stood in the middle of the waxed floor the thing happened to prevent which many lamps are burning nightly in many studies and libraries.

Out from the circle of spectators in the hall leaped Fate in a green silk skirt under the nom de guerre of Liz. Her eyes were hard and blacker than jet. She did not scream or waver. Most unwomanly she cried out one oath, the Kid's own favorite oath and in his own deep voice, and then while the Small Hours Social club went frantically to pieces she made good her boast to Tommy, the waiter—made good as far as the length of her knife blade and the strength of her arm permitted.

Liz ran out and down the street swift and true as a woodcock flying through a grove of saplings at dusk.

And then followed the big city's biggest shame, handed down from a long ago century of the basest barbarity—the hue and cry. Nowhere but in the big cities does it survive, and here most of all, where the ultimate perfection of culture, citizenship and alleged superiority joins bawling in the chase.

They pursued, a shrieking mob of fathers, mothers, lovers and maidens, howling, yelling, calling, whistling, crying for blood.

Knowing her way and hungry for her surcease, she darted down the familiar ways until at last her feet struck the dull solidity of the rotting pier. And then it was but a few more panting steps, and good mother East river took Liz to her bosom, soothed her muddily, but quickly, and settled in five minutes the problem that keeps lights burning o' nights in thousand of pastorates and colleges.

* * * * * * *

It's mighty funny what kind of dreams one has sometimes. Poets call them visions, but a vision is only a dream in blank verse. I dreamed the rest of this story.

I thought I was in the next world and there was a great crowd of us outside the courtroom where the judgments were going on. And every now and then a very beautiful and imposing court officer angel would come outside the door and call another case in a loud voice.

While I was considering my own wordly sins and wondering whether there would be any use of my trying to prove an alibi by claiming that I lived in New Jersey the bailiff angel came to the door and sang out, "Case No. 99,852,743!"

Up stepped a plain clothes man—there were lots of 'em there, dressed exactly like preachers and hustling us spirits around just as cops do on earth—and by the arm he dragged—whom, do you think? Why, Liz!

The court officer took her inside and closed the door. I went up to Mr. Fly Cop and inquired about the case.

"A very sad one," says he, laying the points of his manicured fingers together—"an utterly incorrigible girl. I am special terrestrial officer, the Rev. Jones. The case was assigned to me. The girl murdered her fiance and committed suicide. She had no defense. My report to the court relates the facts in detail, all of which are substantiated by reliable witnesses. The wages of sin is death. Praise the Lord!"

The court officer opened the door and stepped out.

"Poor girl!" said Special Terrestrial Officer the Rev. Jones, with a tear in his eye. "It was one of the saddest cases that I ever met with. Of course she was"—

"Discharged," said the court officer. "Come here, Jonesy. First thing you know you'll be switched to the potpie squad. How would you like to be on the missionary force in the south sea islands—hey? Now, you quit making these false arrests or you'll be transferred—see! The guilty party you've got to look for in this case is a red haired, unshaven, untidy man, sitting by the window reading in his stocking feet while his children play in the streets. Get a move on you!"

Now, wasn't that a silly dream?

Chosen Senator by Separate Vote of Two Houses of State Legislature

Atlanta, Ga., July 6.—In accordance with the provisions of the federal constitution, the two houses of the state legislature balloted today in separate session for a United States senator. Their choice was Alexander S. Clay, the present senator, who was named by the Democrats of Georgia in popular ballot. Tomorrow the two houses will meet in joint session to ratify their separate choice and hear an address by Senator Clay on national issues.

SENATOR CLAY.

Senator Clay was born Sept. 25, 1853, on a farm in Cobb county and was admitted to the bar in 1877. He served as speaker of the state assembly, president of the state senate and chairman of the state Democratic executive committee before his election as senator to succeed Hon. John B. Gordon in 1896. He was re-elected in 1903.

AERONAUT IS DASHED TO DEATH

Cut Loose With Parachute When Too Close to Earth

Portland, Me., July 6.—Mistaking the promiscuous firing of revolvers by the crowd below as a signal for the climax of his aerial act, James Corcoran, an aeronaut, 28 years old, of Lowell, Mass., was dashed to the ground, meeting almost instant death at the feet of 5000 horrified spectaters.

Corcoran was employed by Joseph Laroux. It was arranged that Corcoran should cut loose when he heard a certain number of revolver shots from Laroux on the ground, the latter to give the signal when the balloon should have reached a height of approximately 5000 feet.

After a few hundred feet up it hard for an aeronaut to judge correctly his exact height as he swings on the bar, so when Corcoran heard a fusillade of shots from the ground it is believed he was certain the signal had come for him to cut away in the parachute, although he was barely 500 feet in the air.

The distance was too short for the parachute to properly open and Corcoran dropped in a straight line, gaining speed as he neared the earth until his body struck the ground.

Indians Adopt Resolution After Great Row at Indignation Meeting

London, July 6.—An indignation meeting held by the Indian residents to protest against the murder of Lieutenant Colonel Wyllie by an Indian student, Madarl ol Dhinagri, broke up with a serious disturbance.

When a resolution was offered, expressing horror at the crime, an Indian student objected. Immediately there was an uproar. Chairs were thrown and sticks were used freely.

The dissenting student was severely beaten, and was rescued by the police with the greatest difficulty. The disturbance continued for a considerable time, and when quiet was restored the resolution was adopted.

BOSTON LETTER

Finance Commission For Boston Felt to Be Strong

NEW CHARTER IS CRITICISED

Chairman MacLeod of the Democratic State Committee Favors Vahey For Governor—Hibbard's Appointments Criticised

The new finance commission for the city of Boston gives entire satisfaction to the people of the city. Ex-Congressman John A. Sullivan has long been known as a careful, conscientious and energetic man. He did the best of work on the old finance commission and he did not hesitate to uncover graft, dishonesty and incompetency wherever he found it, regardless of the politics of the grafters. When Governor Draper looked about for a chairman of the new commission, Mr. Sulivan was the first man he considered. He has entire confidence in him every way and he believes that he will make an ideal chairman. He is a Democrat and a lawyer but has as fully the confidence of Republicans as of Democrats.

The other members of the commission, Charles B. Curtis, for a number of years a member of the Boston police board and a Back Bay lawyer, and Francis H. Balch, a lawyer, are Republicans. There are two other Democratic members on the commission, John F. Moors, a banker, and Geoffrey B. Leahy, a business man. The board is also entitled to a secretary.

The duties of the commission do not begin until the middle of August. These duties are to investigate from time to time any and all matters relating to appropriations, expenditures, accounts and methods of administration affecting either the city of Boston or the county of Suffolk or any department of either that may appear to the commission to require investigation. It has no authority to more than investigate and report.

The Two Boston Plans

Already there is much discussion over two plans of government proposed in the charter in regard to which voters have the right of selection. Those who were back of the legislation and are designated as reformers favor plan No. 2, claiming that plan No. 1 would place the government in the hands of the politicians. There are, however, several politicians who favor the plan also favored by the reformers. Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald for instance declares in favor of plan No. 2, and swears that he is not joking. There is a feeling among many that plan No. 2, which provides for a four-year term for mayor subject to recall after two years, may not work as well as its friend expect. Under this plan anyone desiring to be a candidate for mayor would be compelled to secure 5000 petitioners for his nomination. Candidates for members of the city council must also secure 5000 signitures to a petition for their nominations.

Some of the politicians say they are perfectly willing that plan No. 2 should be adopted, but add that the reformers themselves who brought about this legislation will be the first to march up to the state house and ask to have it repealed. On the other hand the reformers say they have outlined a model government and it is for the people to take it or again submit to the old rule of political bosses. Between the two contending elements the average voter will very likely be considerably confused.

Mayor Hibbard has not yet indicated a disposition to run for renomination, but everybody suspects him of intending to do so shortly. While Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald has not announced himself officially, everybody knows that he is a candidate and will be one until the caucuses are over. In the meantime Nathaniel H. Taylor, a former private secretary of mayors and a former city collector, has come into the limelight with a declaration of his intention to fight for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Tayor has been prominent in Democratic politics for a number of years. He is a newspaper man by profession. He was private secretary to Mayor Matthews and has a thorough knowledge of affairs at city hall. Just how much of a candidate he will prove to be remains to be seen. However, it is reported that John F. Fitzgerald is not worrying very much over Mr. Taylor's candidacy.

O'Neill May Go In

Ex-Congressman Joseph H. O'Neill is looked upon by many as the most formidable candidate against Fitzgerald who could be named. Mr. O'Neill, however, has not yet seen fit to throw down the gauntlet, thinking perhaps it is too early. He is a good fighter but Fitzgerald displaced him from his seat in congress and stepped into it himself. How much stronger O'Neill is today than he was at that time is a question. Certainly with three or four candidates in the field on the Democratic side Fitzgerald's chances would be good for the nomination. The election is another matter.

The Democratic state committee has begun to be active. Chairman Frederick J. MacLeod announces himself as regarding James H. Vahey the logical man for the Democrats to nominate for governor. He thinks the voters will want an opportunity of saying whether or not a merger without safeguards is desirable and also believes that the biggest issue before the people of this state is that of direct nominations. He also puts himself down as favoring plan No. 2 in connection with the Boston city charter as against plan No. 1, which provides for nominations of candidates by conventions. He is compelled to confess that in appointing the Boston finance commission, Governor Draper made most excellent suggestions.

There does not seem to be any particular question in regard to the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Most people consider it settled already that Mr. Vahey will capture the honor. The name of Colonel William A. Gaston has been mentioned in this connection, but the best political judges believe he will not enter the fight this year. He has never been a popular candidate and there is no particular reason why he would prove any more so at the present time.

Two Nominations Protested

A short time ago Mayor Hibbard designated Edward G. Richardson and Alonzo F. Andrews as assessors for the city at $4000 per year. There was at once a great deal of criticism of one of these appointments in view of persistent rumors as to his character. The finance commission took the matter up and after an investigation reported against these appointments on the ground that there were already assessors enough to do the work required and that it was not necessary to fill the vacancies. It was only a little while ago that Mayor Hibbard himself, commenting on these vacant places, took the same ground. He declared that there were already assessors enough to do all the work. It therefore occasioned much surprise when he nominated these men as assessors. Only a few days ago Mr. Hibbard declared that he would not withdraw these names but he has since decided to do so. In one instance at least the general impression prevails that the appointment should never have been made at all.

Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure every kidney ill.

James P. Daugherty, living on Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let others know what they have done for me. I suffered constantly from backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kindney Pills which I procured at the Cox, Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills as I have so much confidence in their merit."

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, July 3, 1909.

The tariff debate drags slowly on and the flow of oratory, like Tennyson's brook, seems destined to go on forever. On Friday Senator Aldrich, for the Committee on Finance introduced the corporation tax amendment. Despite lurid predictions of failure to reach an agreement extravagant and exaggerated reports of "insurmountable obstacles," and emphatic declarations that the entire subject of special taxation will be postponed until next winter, the Taft amendment has pursued a perfectly normal course, without hitch and without obstacle, and is now before the Senate as a substitute for the Bailey-Cummins income tax amendment. The original draft was prepared by the Attorney General and Senator Root under the supervision of the President himself. It was then submitted to a conference at the White House which was attended by the lawyers of the Cabinet and the Republican members of the Finance Committee. Certain changes having been suggested, Messrs. Wickersham and Root prepared a second draft embodying them and this was submitted to a second White House conference at which Speaker Cannon and Representatives Payne and Dwight were present in addition to those who had attended the first conference. The amendment met with the unanimous approval of all present, and the leaders of the House as well as those of the Senate predicted its speedy enactment.

Briefly stated, the amendment provides for a tax of two per cent. on the net profits of all corporations and insurance companies, except that mutual savings banks are not taxed. Corporations having a bonded indebtedness are permitted to deduct from the profits on which they will be taxed a sufficient sum to pay the interest on their bonds not in excess of their capital stock. In a word it provides for an income tax for corporations but does not extend it to the incomes of individuals as would the Bailey-Cummins amendment.

The Metropolitan press is filled with denunciation of the Taft tax which, it insists, will prove unjust and inexpressibly unpopular. When it is recalled that most of the great newspapers of the country are owned by corporations and will, therefore, be subject to the tax their opposition is not perhaps surprising. A glance ahead at the results of the Taft tax also reveals something of the reason back of the frantic efforts of the big corporations to misrepresent and render unpopular the President's proposition. For instance, it is estimated that the Standard Oil Company will under this amendment be compelled to contribute between $800,000 and $900,000 annually to the support of the government. The Steel Trust will have to pay a tax between these figures. The American Telegraph and Telephone Company will probably have to pay about $700,000 and the tax of the Tobacco Trust will exceed $500,000. The General Electric Company will pay between $230,000 and $300,000 ;and the Copper Trust, including the Amalgamated Copper Company, will contribute over $500,000. Even the Sugar Trust will have the pleasure of paying about $165,000 toward Uncle Sam's expenses, and a like sum will be contributed no doubt with little cheerfulness by the International Harvester Company. Most of the big railroads of the country will pay over $500,000 apiece into the federal treasury.

In the light of these figures and in view of the fact that the great trusts and corporations are being held up by the throat, metaphorically speaking, by the creature of their own generosity, the Republican party, it is hardly surprising that their cries and lamentations should rend the stillness of the midnight hour and almost cause the solid Capitol to tremble on its foundations. Jeremiah's lamentations over Jerusalem were as but whispers compared with the weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth of the trust magnates over the treachery of that party which has been to them "their father and their mother and all their relations."

Every now and again the benighted Oriental sets an example which the civilized nations of the world would do well to emulate. An instance of this has just occurred in connection with the atrocious murder of a New York girl by the Chinaman known as William Leon. Advices have been received in Washington to the effect that the Imperial government at Peking purposes itself to offer a large monetary reward for the apprehension and conviction of Leon, and the Chinese Charge d' affairs in Washington, Mr. Cu, has been instructed to send to all Chinese consuls prominent merchants and leaders of the tongs or Chinese secret societies, a letter urging them to call together their fellow-countrymen in their neighborhoods and, addressing them in the name of the Imperial government, to say to them that China is shamed and disgraced by this brutal murder and that every Chinaman who has the good name of his country at heart will do all in his power to bring the fugitive to justice. FORE RIVER APPRENTICES LOSE

After winning seven straight games the Fore River Apprentices were defeated Saturday by the Apprentices from the General Electric Company of Lynn. The score was 10 to 4. The local boys played in hard, for in the very first inning Boyle, captain and star catcher of team, got a foul tip on the first finger of his throwing hand. The member was broken by the crack and Boyle was forced to leave the game. This crippled the team and caused the boys to become downhearted. Hence the easy victory for the Lynn boys.

After the game the two teams went to the local Y. M. C. A. where a banquet was served. James E. Neary, who has charge of the apprentices at the Fore River, was the toastmaster of the post prandial exercises.

The speakers were F. A. Sedgwick, treasurer of the Fore River company; Mr. Gay, secretary of the Quincy Y. M. C. A.; and John Tuttle, who is in charge of the Apprentices at the General Electric Company; and the captains of the two teams. Mr. Sedgwick told of the good work that was being done among the Apprentices at the Fore River and said that he thought athletics helped towards keeping the boys interested in their work. Mr. Gay spoke of the relation between the Y. M. C. A. and the Apprentices and said that he was willing to co-operate with the boys in their good work. Mr. Tuttle told of the work of the boys at Lynn and thanked the local team for the fine time given them here. After the banquet both teams went to Houghs Neck for the evening.

THE HOLIDAY BALL GAMES

Two Wins for Quincy. Result of Other Local Games

It seemed that Quincy was baseball mad on Monday, for one could hardly turn around but what he would run into a game of some kind. The games of most importance were those of the Quincy Old Colony league team. This aggregation won two games and incidentally jumped into a tie with the Deweys for first place in the league standing. In the morning the team went to Taunton and succeeded in putting it onto the champs 6 to 2, and in the afternoon they took the Deweys into camp to the tune of 5 to 2, in one of the best games of the season, making four straight wins for the team.

The game was a pretty one to watch, there being some good free and timely hitting and some daring base-running. Sid Patterson was in the box for Quincy and with exception of the seventh when Dewey scored twice, he had his opponents at his mercy. He got grand support too, only one error marring the day's work. This was an error of judgment in the sixth, when Duggan and Burke collided in right centre and as a result Duggan dropped the ball. Lonergan, Duggan and Burke had a great day in the outfield, this trio retiring eight men on flies in the course of the game. Al Strobel at short played a great game, accepting six chances without the least semblance of an error, and in fact the whole team played winning ball and if they keep it up they will be hard to beat.

Win Adams did the twirling for the visitors and he was hit hard. The local boys found him for 10 safe hits, including three doubles. The hits came with men on bases and meant runs in almost every case. Nash at short and Butman at first played nice ball for the Deweys, each getting two hits and playing a clean game in the field. Dam also played a swell game getting two nice flies in left field and hitting Patterson for a double and single.

There was no scoring until the third inning, although Quincy got three hits in these sessions. In the third, however, the home team broke the ice and with an error, a pass, a sacrifice and hit they scored three runs. Lonergan opened with a pass, and when Strobel attempted to sacrifice, Adams hurled the ball over Butman's head sending Lonergan to third and allowing Strobel to reach second. A passed ball allowed Lonergan to score and put Strobel on third. The latter crossed the pan on Courtney's sacrifice to right field. Hoye then followed with a hit, stole second and third, and when Park made a wild throw to catch him at the third corner, Vin came over with the third run of the inning. Duggan closed the inning with a grounder to Nash.

Quincy's fourth run came in the fifth, on a hit by Courtney, his stolen base, an error by Park and Hoye's shot to O'Dowd. The last run came in the seventh. Lonergan started with a double and was sacrificed to third by Strobel. From there he scored when Lou Courtney hit a long fly to right, his second sacrifice fly of the day.

Dewey's only runs were scored in the seventh inning. O'Connell started the trouble with a two-bagger to left, and after Adams had grounded out Strobel to Cameron, Nash came to time with a single putting O'Connell on third, Nash taking second on the throw in to catch O'Connell who made a bluff to go home. Both scored on Skilton's drive to left. The ball went like a bullet and Hoye nearly got it. It would have been a great catch if he got it, but no one said anything when he missed it.

THE LEAGUE STANDING.

Quincy is now tied with Dewey and Taunton for first place in the league. The other three teams Stoughton, Rockland and Randolph are tied for second place. Following is the standing:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Quincy	5	3	625
Dewey	5	3	625
Taunton	5	3	625
Randolph	3	5	375
Rockland	3	5	375
Stoughton	3	5	375

MAKARIA DEFEATED.

Joe Ford's Quincy team put it all over the Makaria boys Monday at the Old Colony league grounds, winning by the score of 9 to 2. Simpson, the University of Pennsylvania star pitcher, did the twirling for Quincy and worked well. He only allowed five hits and these were scattered through as many innings. The Makaria team wasn't in it for a minute, although after the first inning the game was pretty closely contested. Penley was in the points for Makaria and the Quincy boys found him easy picking. They batted him for 12 hits, including several for extra bases.

There is considerable rivalry between these two teams and there was much speculation about the result of the game. Makaria trimmed Quincy in the first game of the seasan April 19, shutting them out 9 to 0. Since then there was much doubt as to the relative strength of the two teams, but Monday's game should dispel but Monday's game should despell this doubt. The score by innings:

Makaria	1	1	0	0	0	9	0	0	0	—2	5	2

MAKARIA AT BRAINTREE.

The Makaria team went to Braintree on Monday afternoon and defeated the Royal White Sox by the score of 10 to 5. The big feature of the game was the catching of Charlie Ganzel, the old Boston National league catcher, who did the backstop work for Makaria for three innings. While he was in the game Ganzel caught four strikeouts, nipped the only man that tried to pilfer second and showed that he can still bat some by knocking out three two-baggers out of three times at bat. Pretty good for an old timer that has been out of the game for so long. Stan Bates, the High school crack left-hander started the game for Makaria. He was replaced by Jimmy Michael in the second inning. Michael pitched a dandy game getting 14 strikeouts.

EXCELSUS WINS.

In a well played game at Merrymount Park on Monday afternoon the Excelsus class of Wollaston Park defeated the Quincy Red Sox by a score of 6 to 4. Pletsch pitched fine ball for the winning team while Clark did well for the losers. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

CRANCH WINS TWO.

The Cranch won two games defeating the Adams A. A. and the Bigelows. The game against Adams went eleven innings and was won 7 to 5. The Bigelows were defeated 10 to 9. The scores by innings:

POLICE RAID POOL ROOM

Eight Men Arrested at Houghs Neck for Gambling

Armed with a search warrant and accompanied by Officers Avery, Thorne and Phillips of the Quincy police force and Officer Philbrick of the Metropolitan police force, Inspector Goodhue made a raid on the pool room of Nicholas Garbarino of Sea street, Houghs Neck, Saturday night and arrested eight men on the charge of playing the notorious Kelly pool.

The raid was pulled off in pretty slick style and the officers connected with the job deserve credit for the way they did the trick. The poolroom has been watched for the past week by the police and it was thought that last night would be an ideal one for making raid. It proved to be just the night as the place was crowded with players, as well as men waiting to be shaved, for there is a barber shop connected with this establishment. The eight men taken were all engaged in the same game on one table and the play was at its height when the officers made their appearance. There was no escape for the ones inside, for the raiders had everything planned to the minute it was all off with the players when the raid was made. Officer Philbrick entered the place apparently to get a shave and on a given signal the others came. When the signal was given Officer Philbrick made a dash for the back door so that no one could make his escape in that way and as soon as the other officers got in, the front door and the windows were made secure, and the gamers were trapped. The names were then taken and the place searched for gaming implements. The officers seized the sixteen pool balls that were in use on the table, also six gaming pills, seven cues, two bridges, one triangular rack and one gaming bottle. In the meantime a call for the wagon had been sent to the police station and soon a big automobile truck of the Abbott and Miller company hove in sight ready to take the prisoners to the station.

When the men were booked at the station by Sergeant Barry they gave the following names and addresses. John Sullivan, 47, of 853 Sea street; Charles P. Jacobs, 17, Babcock street; Joseph A. Whalen, 20, Spring street; Clarence Whalen, 19, Spring street; John Whalen, 24, Spring street; Chas. W. Sampson, 37, Wentworth street; Bertram A. Brown, Sea street; and Elmer Winnett, 21, Temple street, Dorchester. Some of the men were released on bail later in the night.

The proprietor of the place, Nicholas Garbarino, was charged with keeping implements for gaming. The game known as Kelly is a notorious game and has been up against a crusade by the Boston police for some time past. There is quite a severe penalty attached to the offence and in Boston offenders have been receiving the full extent of the law in most cases.

All the players, with the proprietor and others who were in the place at the time, were in the district court this morning.

COUNCIL SETTLES SCHOOL LOT MATTER

Many Other Matters Considered At Tuesday Night's Meeting.

Street Orders Passed

Another strenuous meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. The session was a long one it being nearly midnight when an adjournment was reached. There were several lively debates and these with the large amount of business was what prolonged the meeting. The debates were on action on a petition to grant L. Grossman & Sons a license to keep junk. On the order to appropriate $18,000 to build the Squantum causeway and on the order for the installation of meters. The order for water meters was killed on roll call and the order to build Squantum causeway was ordered to a second reading. Councilman Gardner was the only absent member.

COMMUNICATION.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Maurice I. Gatcomb Sealer of Weights and Measures. Confirmed.

The Chief of Police sent a communication stating how the expressmen who held permits to transport liquor were complying with the rule to forward the amount of liquor transported. To License Committee.

PETITIONS.

Petitions favoring the granting of a junk shop license to L. Grossman and a petition against were received and laid on the table.

The Citizens' Gas Co. petitioned for permission to lay gas mains on Bates avenue. Referred to the Committee on Streets.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on the petitions to accept Madison avenue, Arlington street and to extend Furnace avenue.

Later in the evening a recess was taken that the Street Committee might consider the streets upon which a hearing had been held.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses. That of Mrs. Lee for an Innholder's license was laid on the table and later granted.

The petition of L. Grossman was received but action refused as the matter had been acted upon at the last meeting.

Councilman Richards moved to suspend the rules.

The motion to suspend the rules was lost by a vote of 9 in favor and 11 against.

SQUANTUM CAUSEWAY.

The joint Committee on Finance and Street reported a substitute order for $18,000 to build the Squantum causeway. Councilman Abele offered a minority report against the order.

In support of his report he said that if the statement that the job could be done for $2,000 was correct it was enough and he would not object to that amount.

Councilman Whiton argued in favor of the committee report. If anything was to be done it would be better to do it right at first. This half doing a job was expensive and poor policy. The $2,000 would not last two years.

Councilman Nowland said the city was not in the condition to expend so large an amount if a smaller sum would do a good job.

In reply to questions the Commissioner said that $2,000 would put the street in as good condition as the majority of streets. That is it would put gravel on the street and fill up the holes. It would be in the nature of a part of the permanent improvement.

Councilman Bryant thought Squantum was entitled to a street. It was false economy to partly fix a street. He believed the street should be repaired so that it would hold the gravel. As soon as the street is built this section will develop rapidly.

Councilman McDevitt was not in favor of doing so much here until something had been done in wards one, two, three and four.

Councilman Russell did not believe in doing the job unless done right and there was no special need of it being done at the present time. Something should be done for the people who live in Quincy all the time.

Councilman Gilson—if done as it should be the development will bring back more than the cost, within the next ten years.

Councilman Nelson said that there were 300 acres of building land at Squantum and that seventy houses had already been built. This order is to put the street in passable condition. There should be a fair approach to this section. The residents would give the gravel necessary to surface the street.

Councilman Walsh thought something should be done. He did not favor the larger amount but would vote for the $8,000 named in the original order.

Councilman Richards said that this was a business proposition and should be so considered. He believed in permanent roads. Instead of going to Squantum we should commence right at City Hall. He did not consider it a business proposition to expend $18,000 when $2,500 would do the job.

Councilman Freeman said that if $2,500 was expended the high tides would wash it all away.

Councilman Cherrington asked as to the width of the street. He believed it should be sixty feet. He would like to see the one road to Squantum done right.

City Engineer Sargent said in reply to a question that on a high course of tides the present street would be half under water.

Councilman Russell moved and was voted that the debate close at 9.45.

The minority report was then rejected. The Committee report was accepted, the order read and ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Finance reported an order appropriating $350 to settle Kincaide claim against the city. Ordered to a second reading.

The joint Committee on Finance and Streets reported an amendment to the order for $1,500 for Fenno street striking out the betterment clause. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Finance Committee reported an order for $1,500 for contageous diseases of the Board of Health. Ordered to a second reading.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the Executive on the order to pay medical bills of Officer Reiley. Accepted.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order for $250 to have the charter and ordinances printed. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an order abating the sidewalk assessment of Emma Merrill on Liberty street. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order for $32,000 for water meters making the amount $10,000.

Councilman Abele opposed. He believed in doing the whole job at one time. As long as there was one rate for fixtures and another for meters there was bound to be a grave injustice. The greatest leakage is in fixtures. We should stop this leakage as far as possible.

Councilman Bryant said this had been thrashed out in the Committee. When we come to the facts of the case it will be time to meter all at one time. But we should not do it until we find out. The Mayor and Commissioner are not in favor of doing the whole job at the present time. They want to put in a certain section and make tests to find where the leakage is.

Councilman Nowland believed in doing the whole job at one time. It would save money for the city. The Commissioner told the Water Committee that in Melrose the whole city was metered and the consumption was cut in half.

Councilman Whiton said the source of income of the city is from water and taxes. If the amount of receipts from water are cut down and the expenses not reduced we are going behind. He would like to see the whole city metered but it could not be done all at once. We must do a little at a time.

Councilman Flynn said that the Commissioner had said to the Water Committee he could save an amount equivalent to the interest by buying meters at one time for the city.

Councilman Freeman said that Chelsea had advertised for a large number of meters and found that nothing could be saved. If we do as proposed we will find out where the leakage is.

The Commissioner said he understood that the meter manufacturers had entered a combine and that nothing could be saved by buying in bulk.

Councilman Gilson said that Boston had just bought a lot of meters and got a discount and if Boston could do it Quincy should.

Councilman McDevitt thought it would be a great thing to start in and meter the whole city.

Councilman Bean favored the appropriation of the original amount. The committee on Water Supply had gone into this matter thoroughly and the Commissioner had said money could be saved.

The amendment offered by the Finance Committee was lost.

Councilman Bryant moved a reconsideration. On reconsideration the Committee's report was accepted. The order then took its second reading.

The rules were suspended and the order put on its final passage and rejected.

NEW STREETS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the orders accepting Holbrook avenue, Franklin avenue, Murdock avenue, East Elm avenue, Cummings street, O'Connell avenue, Norfolk street, Merrymount road, Newcomb place and Badgers lane.

Upon motion of Councilman McDevitt the orders for Quarry street and O'Connell avenue were laid on the table.

Upon motion of Councilman Moir the name of Holbrook avenue was

LADIES' DAY.

The plans for the annual ladies' day event of the Quincy Yacht club are completed and all that is required is a pleasant day to make the affair a grand success. The committee have engaged the steamer Houghs Neck and a large power boat so that all who desire to participate in the sail will be accommodated.

Special cars will leave City Square for the accommodation of those who desire to attend and will return in the evening at the close of the dance.

The yachts with their guests will pass in review of Commodore Robbins and after a two hours' sail in the harbor, will return to the float. At 5.30 a lunch will be served in the hall of the club house and in the evening the club house will be illuminated and there will be dancing until 10.30. During the afternoon while the sail is in progress there will be a promenade concert at the club house for those who do not care to participate in the sail, by Monk's orchestra.

ECHOES OF THE FOURTH.

That bonfire on Woodward avenue was a big one and a grand success. It is said two contributors to the pile who worked hard were girls, Dot Kitson and Edith Lovejoy who spent the week carrying railroad sleepers in a wagon.

And no accidents in Quincy is a record to be proud of when it is known that there were over seventy-five deaths in the United States and 1575 injured.

Quincy people are asking if the statement in a Boston paper is true that there was insufficient water pressure at the Atlantic fire.

With one Fourth just out of the way there is talk already of a grand celebration by Quincy next year. It is said a committee will organize soon and arrange for funds and special features for the day.

The Fourth comes on Monday next year so there cannot be much night before until after midnight.

Between a junk sign or a cuckoo whiskey, what's yours?

How many, do you suppose, of those who read the Declaration of Independence in public, Monday, hesitated when they reached the word "inalienable." Try it yourself.

Now that the precedent has been established, how long will it be before the various wards of the city will be asking for band concerts and fire works on July 4th?

What do the knockers say now about the Quincy base ball team? A jump from the bottom to the top of the Old Colony league in two weeks is a record of which to be proud. Give the team good support and boom the city as well as the nine. Encouragement will bring more results than knocks.

The Boston athletes who competed here Monday, and they represented the best of brawn and muscle in the New England amateur athletic circles, say the city of Quincy meet was the cleanest and fairest of its kind they ever attended. Praise from such quarters is praise indeed.

Quincy athletes more than held their own both in this city and in other places, Monday. The Y. M. C. A. for instance, has got a remarkable man in Marceau, while the Elcock brothers, although representing the South Boston A. C., are not slow. Hackett of the Fore River is a man worth watching as a long distance runner. He belongs to the Marathon class. When the city completes that cinder track on the ward 2 playground and does a good job, Quincy ought to be a great training ground for athletes.

In commenting on the Ledger's suggestion to have the Declaration of Independence read from above the tomb of President John Adams, one of the signers of that historic document each July 4th, a prominent citizen rises to amend by having also a band concert on the Fourth of July on the grounds of the Adams Academy, that being the place where was born John Hancock, the first signer of the Declaration of Independence and president of the Continental Congress which adopted the Declaration. The amendment is carried.

One fire alarm over the Fourth was a pretty good record for Quincy. It was almost too much to hope for. Quincy would have had a clear record in this respect if it hadn't been for the action of some young men who set a barn afire in Atlantic and came near cleaning out a street full of houses. It is too bad that such miserable specimens of humanity cannot be put in jail where they belong. No doubt they are out and around the streets but it may not be long before they will be known and then they will be held in contempt by every man, woman and child in the city. There is no room for such people in a civilized community.

Taken as a whole, the youth of Quincy behaved pretty well over the Fourth, South Quincy, Brewer's corner and West Quincy, which used to be the places feared most by the police, were practically quiet. Atlantic, on account of the celebration, attracted many people from outside the city and with them came a lot of hoodlums from Neponset and Roxbury. A few of them tried to start a riot and the famous, old time-worn cry of "kill the cops" was heard but was not put into effect from the fact that the police expected trouble of this kind and were prepared to meet it. The burning of the barn on Walnut street was as despicable a piece of business as has ever been recorded in this city. The fire communicated to four different houses and endangered life as well as destroyed property. We hope the police will bend every effort to land the miscreants in jail and it is to be hoped that the citizens ot Atlantic, for the sake of their local honor and pride, will cooperate with the police in wiping out the only stigma that was attached to the Fourth of July in Quincy.

The order introduced at the council meeting Tuesday night by Councilman Bryant for $290 to equip the new fire engine with rubber tires is one of the most sensible and practical orders introduced this year. Councilman Bryant was opposed to rubber tires for the engine at first. He seemed to think the idea was a fad. Fortunately, his good sense came to his rescue for he had reasoned the thing out carefully and had got advice from a number of fire department officials in Boston, all of whom bore out the Ledger's ideas as were expressed in these columns last week. There is one thing more than another about Councilman Bryant and that is his willingness to get up and acknowledge it when he has seen the light of reason. All men make mistakes at times but all are not so willing to acknowledge the fact. An honest man is always willing to do so and in this class Councilman Bryant seems to occupy one of the first seats.

As we suggested two weeks ago, if the council is going to continue with its midnight sessions, it had better begin in the afternoon. Tuesday night the midnight hours seemed to have a depressing effect on many councilmen who were not used to staying up so late and because many of them had been up, more or less, all night during the Fourth. A five minutes' recess was eagerly seized upon for a smoke to keep some awake; others went into the anterooms for a smoke and the messenger was kept busy bringing in members for a vote. At times many councilmen were nearly asleep and they had to ask almost continuously the nature of the various orders as they came up for a vote. Begin the council about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and adjourn for supper, if necessary. Midnight sessions are not conducive to careful consideration of public matters or intelligent discernment.

VICTORY AT LAST.

After many months of bitter debate, the city council Tuesday night passed an order to buy a part of the Cavanagh lot at Houghs Neck as a site for the proposed school house. Probably no subject of public necessity has aroused more widespread interest, not to speak of acrimonious discussion, than this Houghs Neck school house lot. It seemed as if the city council was irrevocably split on the matter; yet when the vote came last night on the matter there was but one councilman who was opposed to it. Throughout the long long months of agitation for a school house lot at Houghs Neck, the Ledger has not favored any one of the various lots mentioned except that it thought the Houghs Neck people, by reason of their being on the spot and knowing what they wanted, ought to be considered in the matter. We have felt that the people of the Neck knew what they wanted and where they wanted it and if they had honestly believed that Post Island or Great Hill was the place for a school house, we would have been willing to accept their verdict because in matters of this kind it is always a good policy to represent the people to be benefited and served, as closely as it is possible to do so.

There have been people in this city who have taken every opportunity to slure the people of Houghs Neck in this matter and belittle the subject matter in which the people of the Neck seemed to be vitally interested. Time and again the people of that place came to the city council chamber to attend public hearings and never have a more earnest body of men and women appeared at city hall to ask for accommodations than these same Houghs Neck people. It is a good sign when the people get so thoroughy aroused about school house accommodations. It is one of the best evidences that the people are good citizens. These people are not men and women who came to the Neck and put up houses out of boxes, as has been said of them, and then remained to work the city for their own political aggrandizement.

Many of them came as summer residents first and then, liking the place, they resolved to stay. The first thing they did, on making up their minds to be permanent residents of Quincy, was to see to it that their children were accommodated as far as school facilities were accommodated as far as school facilities were concerned and that it another sign that the people there are of the stuff of which good American citizens are made. When you see a man or woman totally concerned about the welfare of their children and who are equally interested in the public schools, you have got a pretty good combination to begin with. The agitation for a school house for the smaller children has been one of long duration. The subject has been considered time and again and often it looked as if nothing but defeat would be the result. But the people at the Neck kept at work and today have the satisfaction of seeing their fondest hope almost realized for there is little or no doubt that the mayor will sign the order once it gets to him.

When all is said and done there was considerable merit in the argument of the people at the Neck concerning the sending of the smaller children to the Coddington school on the electric cars. It is a pretty good trial to subject the mother, and the child also, to take her little ones of five, six or seven years, and keep them away from their home all day, subject them to the dangers of a long car ride and ask them to eat a cold meal at dinner time as many had to do while the children who lived near the school had their hot dinners as they should have. A child of five years is an infant, more or less, after all and to one of those tender years who has known nothing but a dependent existence every minute of their little lives, it is a hardship to take them from their homes early in the morning and keep them away all day without the ministrations to which they have been accustomed and which only a mother knows how to give. That was one of the strong arguments used by the people of the Neck. The hue and cry that they wanted an $80,000 brick building was a semi-political bugaboo invented on purpose to kill the school house project. The order for the lot has now passed and the people have got just what they wanted and they are to be felicitated on their good fight and their untiring patience in the cause of the public welfare.

ENDEAVORERS IN BIG CONVENTION

Twenty-five Thousand Meeting In St. Paul

LEADING MEN WILL SPEAK

William J. Bryan, Governor Johnson, George Nicholls, Member of Parliament; Dr. Clark, Founder of the Movement, and Others on the Program—More Than Three Million People Represented In Assemblage

St. Paul, July 7.—By far the largest convention in the twenty-eight years of history of the Christian Endeavor movement and one of the greatest gatherings of religious folk ever held in the United States is the convention of Endeavorers which began in this city today. Every state and territory of the Union and many foreign countries are represented among the 25,000 visitors to St. Paul. The city is filled to overflowing with the delegates to the convention and other visitors, and those who failed to secure accommodations in advance are housed in a tent city, near the new capitol. The convention will last until July 12.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON.

On the program are representatives from Mexico, Alaska, China, Japan, Wales, England, Germany and many other foreign countries, while Canada, from far St. John's to northernmost Saskatchewan and western British Columbia, is represented by hundreds of delegates. The membership of the society represented at the convention now exceeds 3,500,000.

The program is the strongest ever presented at an international Christian Endeavor convention. Among the leading speakers are Rev. Francis E. Clark, father of the Christian Endeavor movement; Hon. William J. Bryan, Governor John A. Johnson, Senator Beveridge of Indiana, Hon. George Nicholls, member of parliament, London, who came from England to attend the convention, as well as many leading pastors and missionaries from all parts of the world. Practically every prominent person connected with the society is in St. Paul.

There will be a monster parade and great patriotic service at the capitol as one feature of the convention. The educational exhibit of progress along civic, social and religious lines, with lectures by experts, is one of the most valuable features. This is held in the Armory, the second largest hall in the city. The central meetings of the convention will be held in the new Auditorium, seating over 10,000.

Some of the spectacular features of the convention are quite out of the ordinary. Twenty thousand Endeavorers will join at one time in a trolley ride to principal parks and points of interest. The same number will join in an evening song service on the steps of the new state capitol. A chorus of 700 trained voices will lead all the singing and will be directed by the most famous Endeavor chorus leaders in the world. There will be an international campfire, with speakers from every country in the world where Christian missions have made progress.

Bostonians Honored

New York, July 7.—The National Amateur Press association concluded its three days' convention here with a banquet. Miss Edith Muniter of Boston was chosen president. The association cup for the best amateur publication of the year was awarded to Edward C. Cole, a 15-year-old Boston boy.

Dickens' Granddaughters Pensioned

London, July 7.—"In recognition of the literary eminence of their grandfather, and in consideration of their straightened circumstances," is the reason given for the granting of a civil list pension of $2.50 a week to each of the four granddaughters of the late Charles Dickens.

YACHTS OFF ON CRUISE

New York Yacht Club Opens Its Annual Summer Season

New York, July 7.—With the departure today of the fleet of the New York Yacht club from Glen Cove, N. Y., for the annual cruise to Newport the summer season of New York's leading yachting organization was opened.

The length of the cruise is about 120 miles, principally along Long Island sound. With very favorable weather conditions the cruise may be finished in twelve hours, but it may be prolonged by lack of wind to twenty or even thirty hours. Immediately after the arrival of the fleet at Newport the racing vessels will enter the contests for the prizes offered by the Newport Yacht Racing association. These races will be followed by the annual regatta from Brenton's Reef lightship to and around Block Island and the return race in cruising trim from Newport to Glen Cove.

The race around Block Island will be a genuine test of ocean sailing. It will mean a contest of nearly sixty miles and at the best will be an all day affair.

HYGIENIC SCHOOLROOMS

Sentiment of Teachers That There Is Room For Improvement

Denver, July 7.—"No teacher with round shoulders and a hacking cough should be permitted in the schoolroom."

"The city is responsible for lower mentality and a weakened body in an increasing number of schoolchildren."

"Give the physical body its education as you feed the brain its words and figures."

William W. Hastings of Springfield, Mass., urged these precepts at the convention of the National Educational association and scores of teachers applauded. The sentiment was general for a more hygienic schoolroom, both from the standpoint of the pupil and the teacher.

A discussion on health in the schoolroom brought out the fact that most of the teachers favor wider playgrounds and more work for the body.

Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

PERSIAN CRISIS REACHED

Shah's Seat on Throne Is Now Considered Extremely Dangerous

Teheran, July 7.—Russian troops are being landed at Enzeli. There is an unconfirmed report here that the force consists of 3000 infantry and 800 Cossacks.

No news has been received as yet of a junction of the Bakhtiari tribesmen with the Nationalists under Siphadar, who is understood to have demanded that the Russian troops quit Persia.

Two years of turmoil in Persia has now reached a crisis. The uprising of the revolutionary forces, the formation of the provincialists, and the approach of the Russian expedition makes Shah Mohammed Ali Mirza's seat on the throne a dangerous one.

The revolutionists are forming within the city and are attacking the summer residences of the shah. Further conflict between the Cossack guard and the revolutionists is expected momentarily.

Not within the turbulent past two years has the situation been so serious. Russia is interposing to protect her interests. The Turkish government, on learning that the consul general at Tabriz is openly siding with the revolutionists, has recalled that official.

Seattle, July 7.—Thousands of delegates, representing the largest denominational society of young people in the world, have assembled here for the national conference of the Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will begin this evening and will last until July 12.

The Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, which has drawn the young folks and their leaders here this year, has made special arrangements to entertain them. In addition there will be excursions into the surrounding country, mountain climbs, public meetings and song service, etc. Among the last named will be the singing of the oratorio "Elijah" this evening by a chorus of 500 voices.

TEXTILE WORKERS' REQUEST REFUSED

They Asked For a Week's Vacation Each Year

Fall River, Mass., July 7.—The textile workers of Fall River and New Bedford have failed to secure a week's vacation in August of each year. The Textile Council of the two cities voted to ask of the cotton manufacturers a leave of absence.

A reply to the request says that the manufacturers' committee, after due consideration, unanimously decided that it would be impossible to grant the request.

FIRES PISTOL AT PRIEST

Woman Is Said to Have an Aversion to the Catholic Faith

Burlington, Vt., July 7.—An attempt to assassinate Rev. Joseph F. Gillis was made as the priest was on his way to celebrate mass at St. Mary's academy and the police arrested Miss Beatrice Thompson, aged 40 years, charging her with assault with intent to kill.

The woman, according to Gillis, came out of her house as he was passing through Loomis street, and fired a revolver at him, the bullet passing through the umbrella which he was carrying.

The police state that Miss Thompson has shown a fanatical aversion to the Catholic faith, but has never made any threats against the priests or others. The woman is very deaf and obliged to use an ear trumpet to hear at all.

Fr. Gillis says he is not acquainted with the woman and knows of no reason why he should have been attacked.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEAD

Wounds Inflicted Upon Little Amesbury Girl May Cause Her Death

Amesbury, Mass., July 7.—Because Ellen Coffin, 8 years old, asked his mother to buy one of the tickets which she was selling for a juvenile entertainment, George E. Lucy, aged 11, took his father's rifle and shot the child through the head, causing injuries which may prove fatal.

Submitted to an examination in the police station after he had been arrested, the boy said he did not mean to hurt the girl. The exact charge against Lucy is to be determined by the Coffin girl's condition.

TEST BETWEEN MINERS' UNIONS

American Body Against the Provincial Association

STRIKE ORDERED BY FORMER

Over Three Thousand Men Obey the Call, While Nearly That Number of Opposition Organization Remain at Work—Long Labor Controversy Has Grown Very Bitter During the Last Month In Cape Breton Mines

Sydney, C. B., July 7.—When the whistles sounded at the Dominion Coal company's collieries Tuesday over 3000 members of the United Mine Workers' organization refused to enter the pits and the great coal strike was on. The company employs over 6000 men in the mines, and less than half this number, all members of the Provincial Workmen's association, remained loyal, and proceeded to work.

The general impression of the first day of the strike is that the company has scored a triumph, as all the collieries, with but one exception, No. 7, were in operation. Of the 1800 men in No. 2 only 250 reported for work. This is the company's largest colliery, and the one in which the United Mine Workers' greatest strength lies.

Late in the afternoon the first real excitement in connection with the strike began, when about 2000 miners from the various collieries congregated about the main entry of No. 2 colliery at New Aberdeen. The crowd attempted no violence, but as the miners who had worked during the day attempted to leave for their homes they were followed by crowds of men and boys, who hissed and jeered them and called them names. The majority of the men took the jeers of the crowd in good part, while others resented it. No offer was made to inflict bodily harm on any of the men while coming from the pit.

The labor agitation in the mines of the Dominion Coal company has been in progress for nearly a year, the officials of the United Mine Workers of America, which is the American organization, seeking recognition by the company.

In this effort the American labor leaders were opposed by the Provincial Workingmen's association, which labor organization was formed here some time before the appearance of the United Mine Workers.

The Dominion Coal company's managers refused the request of the United Mine Workers, it being the intimation of Dominion officials that the American labor leaders were seeking to divert the Canadian coal trade to the collieries in the United States.

During the last month the controversy between the two labor organizations has grown very bitter and anticipating that a resort might be made to violence the Dominion Coal company built stockades around the mines, on the top of which were strung electric wires which could be used in carrying high powered currents. The company also enlisted more than 150 special officers for guard duty.

LAST SEEN IN STORM

Missionary Schooner and Score of Lives May Have Been Lost

San Francisco, July 7.—Schooner Monterey, Captain Anderson, from Kuskowin, Alaska, reports the possible loss of the missionary schooner J. F. Abler, which sailed from Seattle on June 3 with a crew of eight men and twelve or thirteen passengers.

When the Monterey arrived at Bethel, whither the Abler was bound, Anderson was informed by Indian trappers that the missionary vessel had last been seen struggling in a heavy storm at sea. The Monterey sailed up and down the coast, but saw no signs of the Abler.

BINGHAM MAY ENTER MAYORALTY FIGHT

Will Lead Anti-Tammany Forces If the People Want Him

New York, July 7.—What Tammany Hall may expect because of the recent ousting of Police Commissioner Bingham by Mayor McClellan is indicated in words attributed to Bingham, saying that he will be candidate for mayor on the anti-Tammany ticket if the people want him. This is the first statement committing himself on the political situation attributed to him since his departure for Chester, N. S., where he was interviewed yesterday.

"If my police administration has met the approval of New York city," he is quoted as saying, "and the people would like to see that same kind of administration in all of the departments carried on from the city hall in the person of the mayor, I am willing to undertake it."

ROW OVER HORSE TRADE

It Results In Riot In Stockyards, In Which a Negro Is Killed

East St. Louis, Ills., July 7.—In a riot at the National stockyards Chief of Detectives Ryan shot and killed William James, a negro. S. T. Bryne and William Rice were shot and five mules were killed. The wounded men will recover.

The trouble began during a horse trade, the negro threatening to shoot a horse trader. Detectives went to the trader's assistance and James began firing. He took refuge in a mule barn and a riot call was turned in. Citizens joined the police in shooting at the negro, who returned the fire until he was killed in the barn.

AN INQUISITIVE BEAR

Big Cinnamon Laid Out While Taking In Sights of Fort Plain

Fort Plain, N. Y., July 7.—A big cinnamon bear was killed after ambling into town within a quarter of a mile of the postoffice. The animal weighed 211 pounds and probably came from the foothills of the Adirondacks, about twenty miles north.

Fort Plain has 4000 inhabitants and bears are scarce in the corporate limits. Mill employes and farmers suspended work and joined the chase until bruin was slain.

OUR HOSPITAL

Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE

(Legal Title-Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

RIVALS FIGHT.

Proprietors of Moving Picture Shows Come to Blows.

There was quite a lively scrap at Houghs Neck Tuesday night between two rival proprietors of moving picture shows. Report says that the blows came thick and fast and that the hair flew for a few minutes. Both claim that the other man was to blame for the assault. The matter has been referred to Judge Avery who will hear the evidence and render his opinoin as to who the injured party is.

Friends separated the men after the fight and this morning both hot-footed it for Quincy and when an opportunity presented itself sought the ear of the Judge to tell their story and secure a warrant for the others arrest. The men will probably appear in court Thursday morning.

IN THE WORLD OF ATHLETICS

Newsy Notes of the Base Ball and Track Athletes

Quincy sure has got a fast club now and will be hard to beat. At present they are without doubt the strongest club on the circuit both in the field and at the bat. They have won four straight games since the change was made in the management and have jumped from the bottom of the league to the top.

"Lou" Courtney, the local second baseman, classes with any second sacker in the league. He is a swell fielder and when he strikes his gait with the bat, there will be something doing. The first part of the season he spent in the Maine state league and for the few weeks he was there he batted for over 400 and led the league by a big margin. He is hitting the ball hard now but they seem to go right into a fielder's hands.

If Strobel was a better batter he would be in the big leagues. There is no better as a fielder, for he takes everything that comes his way with the ease and grace of a Lajoie. His batting in this league is excellent, but when he was tried out in the National his stick work kept him down.

Tommy Gilroy, the man who caused so much talk by pitching for Quincy recently, pitched for New Bedford Monday against Fall River and was beaten 8 to 7. He was hit hard but with better support would probably have pulled out a winner.

Joe Foley ,the Holy Cross twirler, is doing the box work for Stoughton. Joe has fine speed and a good curve, but his head work is not all that could be desired.

The Quincy fans have yet to see the Randolph team of the Old Colony league. So far the local team has not crossed bats with the fast team from the shoe town. The only game scheduled thus far with this team was called off on account of rain. Now it is said that the next game will be transferred from Quincy to Randolph on account of the lawn party of St. Mary's church which is to be held on the same date, July 24. Quincy has played each of the other teams in the league twice, and it seems funny that they have not yet had a crack against Randolph.

Quincy plays Rockland again next Saturday at Rockland this being the third time these two teams have met this year. Quincy has won both games against this team and will try to make it three straight next Saturday. It is expected that a big crowd of rooters will accompany the boys to Rockland, as the local fans are enthusiastic over the recent successes of the team and will go anywhere to see them perform. A crowd of 25 of the royal rooters went to Taunton on Monday morning in a big sight-seeing auto, returning with the team in time for the afternoon game here against their old rivals the Deweys.

Joe Ford's Quincy Independents took quite a fall out of the Makaria team Monday morning at the Old Colony league grounds. The first time these two teams met, April 19, the Quincy team was without practice, while Makaria had been working hard for quite a while. The Quincy team was beaten 9 to 0, and since then have been anxious to try their prowess against Makaria again. Monday's game shows that they are in the run for the semi-pro-championship of the city this year.

That Atlantic team is going some just at present and will bear watching. They have lost but one game this year, that being the first of the season to the Makaria. Since then they have trimmed everything they have met, including Makaria.

Track athletics have received a big boost in Quincy this year. There have been two open meets here, one June 17 ,and the other last Monday and both have been unqualified successes. There are some good track men in this city, as was shown in the meet of last Monday, when four first prizes came to Quincy boys, Marceau winning two of them. Here is a comer ,this Marceau. He has the ear marks of a runner and with the proper coaching and training, he ought to make a big hit in running circles. He uses his head all the time, and this is what enabled him to get away with the two races at the city games.

Tom Elcock another local lad is doing extremely well in the running game. At Oak Island Monday afternoon at the Clan-Na-Gael games this flyer captured the quarter from such a well known crack as Robbins who it will be remembered went to England on the Olympic team last summer. Tom was passed by Robbins about 100 yards from the finish and for a time it looked as though he was beaten. Tom thought so himself when he saw Robbins go by, for Robbins, they say, was never caught after he once got by the field. Tom let out though and started after his man. He got him too ,though it was one of the closest races ever seen on the famous old track at Oak Island. Tom's prize was a solid gold 18 karat medal. worth $35 and is considered one of the best prizes ever given. The Clan-Na-Gael people had to get special permission from the A. A. U. to give these prizes.

SLOYD SCHOOL.

Some sixty boys enrolled for summer sloyd at the Y. M. C. A. today. This is the second year of the co-operative arrangement of the Quincy Women's club with the Y. M. C. A. and it bids fair to be even a greater success than last year. Mr. Charles Sampson is again the teacher. It is planned to continue the course one week longer than last year, making six weeks in all. Once a week each class will have an hour in the gymnasium for games and other sports and an opportunity for a bath.

HOUGHS NECK TO CELEBRATE

Signing of School House Lot Order to be The Signal

There is great rejoicing at Houghs Neck over the passage of the order by the City Council appropriating $6,500 to purchase the triangular Cavanagh lot as a site for the new school building. After much wrangling the order was passed almost unanimously. All that is now needed to make the purchase an assured fact is for the Mayor to attach his signature to the order and it then becomes a law.

The order carried the borrowing clause with it so that once it is signed the purchase is sure as Mr. Cavanagh has given his word in writing that he will accept the order as passed by the City Council Tuesday night.

The pen with which the Mayor signs the order will doubtless be much sought for by the members of the Associates. It will doubtless be presented to the Association and eventually be framed and hung in the new school building when that is erected.

The Associates are already planning to celebrate the passage of the order but nothing definite can be desided upon until the order has been signed.

The order reached the Mayor this morning and under the law he has ten days in which to do one of these things, viz approve, veto or let it become a law without his signature.

There is little question but what the Mayor will sign the order however. Then look out for red fire and sky rockets at the beach.

The police are giving the beach considerable attention this year and the sensational raid on a pool room last week is probably but a beginning of other things to follow. One of the objects of the association formed by the residents was to keep the beach clean and it is up to the members to cooperate with the police and give them any information in the way of tips. If the members know of any violations and do not see that the proper authorities are notified they will have no ground to stand upon when they appear before the council for an appropriation for police.

This afternoon will be a busy one at the beach for it is the annual ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht club. The day this morning gave promise of being all that could be desired.

There was a rumor about the beach Tuesday night of another drowning accident off Peddocks island but there proved to be no foundation for the rumor.

The Red Sox who were at the beach last Sunday carried away a good impression of the hospitality of the residents. They were made to feel at home and they certainly had a good time.

Some of the residents have been very constant attendants at the meetings of the City Council this year but now that the school lot question is settled the attendance from this section will fall off.

As far as an accounting of the city reveals, there were no accidents from fireworks in this city serious enough to demand hospital attention. Not a bad record for a city of over 30,000.

The new cents bearing the portrait of Lincoln will be sought for as curiosities. American coins bearing the portrait of some real person will be as agreeable as novel and the experiment should be limited on silver coins.

As illustrating the effect which the midnight hours produced on certain members of the city council Tuesday night, it was noticed that when a certain councilman, who is also a legal light, arose to address the chair he began. "May it please your honor."

The council committee on ordinances has reported a set of rules and regulations governing the conduct of pawnbrokers' shops but as yet no license for such a place has ever been granted in Quincy. It's a good record to keep free from stain.

The Quincy cup races will be held in about two weeks' time off Houghs Neck and Mr. Adams is confident the Crooner will put all the others to sleep.

Judging from the number of street orders passed by the city council Tuesday night, there ought to be a large number of decent thoroughfares ready for use by the time winter sets in.

The United States does well to insist upon a careful scrutiny of the agreement between Russia and China regarding the control of the Chinese Eastern railway and the adjacent lands. This does not imply that there is anything in it to which objection can properly be made, but it is desirable from every point of view that this government should have assurances, most convincing, that the principles of international equity and impartiality to which the United States and these powers are fully pledged, will not be violated, and to that end it is necessary that the terms and prospective effect of this latest agreement should be made perfectly clear.

At Tuesday night's council meeting Councilman Bryant said he intended to have a special committee appointed, or ask that the committee on licenses he directed to examine into the conditions of the property of the junk dealers with a view to eliminating the storage house phase of the junk dealers business, such as was degislated against by the council a week ago. This seems fair enough. It doesnt seem like a square deal to single one man out on this score and allow other places to continue. Quincy cannot afford to allow undersirable conditions, such as would affect the health or prosperity of its citizens, to continue in existence but one rule should be established for all.

The figures of the city auditor for June show that there have been increases in the collection of water, sewer and real estate taxes over the month of June of 1908 and 1907 with the exception of the real estate tax of June, 1908, which was larger than the amount collected during the past month. The amount of water tax collected was $2,083.65 more than in 1907 and $613.76 more than last year. In the sewer tax collections there was an increase of $92.53 over the amount collected in 1907 and an increase of $2,803.22 over last year. In the real estate tax collections there was an increase of $2,817.88 over the record of 1907 but a decrease of $1,147.37 from the record of a year ago. On the whole there has been a gain of $4,994.06 over the record of June, 1907, and a net gain of $2,269.61 over last year.

It is understood that officers of the signal corps have under consideration the feasibility of issuing proposals for bids for an aeroplane capable of fulfilling even more rigorous requirements than those which the Wright brothers are under contract to meet. Evidently the government is through with A. M. Herring who failed to comply with the contract to test and deliver an aeroplane to the government before the last of June. On account of his failure the corps has $20,000 at its disposal for the purpose of a heavier-than-air machine. This amount as well as that available for the purchase of the Wright machine come from an allotment made by the board of ordance and fortifications from its general funds and was not an appropriation by Congress as has been supposed. In fact Congress refused this year to make any direct appropriations for military aeronautics ,although European countries during the past year and this year have been spending large sums in this direction. France spent over $238,000 last year for flying machine, dirigible balloons, etc., Germany nearly $669,000, and Great Britain over $26,000; and about $1,325,000 was raised in Germany by private subscription for the Zeppelin Airship.

After all is said and done on the water meter subject, the only equitable way in which to settle the question of water rates is to do like the neighboring town of Braintree has done. In that town every house, shop and manufacturing concern using town water is metered and every user pays just for what he uses and no more. There never can be a more equitable method than that. Establish a certain price per thousand gallons, meter every place and then charge for the water used and no more. There are places in this city where there are no meters and the lawn hose is running all night long and if you were to suggest to these parties that their places should be metered they would feel insulted. There are other places with a faucet in a sink and perhaps a hose faucet outside, with a meter attached where the minimum cost is $16 and other houses similarly equipped, but without the meter, where the cost is $12. This compelling a citizen to pay for what he doesnt get or for what somebody else gets without cost is all wrong in principle and practice too.

They are talking already of naming the proposed school house at Houghs Neck. The name, however, will be chosen by the school board and, no doubt, the name will be appropriate. Of our present school houses the Adams and John Hancock are named for the well-known patriots who were born here; the Washington was named for the first president and the Lincoln for the martyred president of the civil war. The Coddington was named for Gov. Coddington of Rhode Island, who once owned the land where the school now stands, the Cranch was named for Richard Cranch, brother-in-law to John Adams and the first postmaster of Quincy, the Willard for Solomon Willard, a pioneer granite man; the Gridley Bryant for the engineer who constructed the first railroad in America, built in Quincy; the Wollaston, as a favor to that section of the city bearing the name of Capt. Wollaston, the first settler of Quincy; the Quincy for the well-known family which gave to the town and city its name and the Massachusetts Fields in honor of the name by which the Park and Downs section of Quincy was known by the Indians and from which the state gets its name of Massachusetts. A good name for the Houghs Neck school would be the Palmer in honor of Gen. Joseph Palmer, who lived at Germantown and who gave his money freely in aid of the colonists' cause during the revolutionary war. He lived on the site of the present Sailors' Snug Harbor and seems to be the only person of especial prominence of the period of Adams, Cranch, Hancock and Washington who lived near Houghs Neck. The Palmer school would be a worthy addition to the long list of eminent names with which our schools are endowed.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TO HELP OUR SHIPPING.

Everybody wishes to see the American marine resurrected, Mr. Burton we fancy, as much as anybody. But because our shipping is prostrate there is no reason whatever why we should commit an egregious economic blunder and embark upon a system of special privilege which would be the high-water mark of all the legislation of a similar character heretofore foisted upon us by the Republican party. The steps to be taken to resurrect our merchant marine are plain enough. President Cleveland, years ago, declared that "the ancient provision of our law denying American registry to ships built abroad and owned by Americans appears, in the light of present conditions, not only to be a failure for good at every point, but to be nearer a relic of barbarism than anything that exists under the permission of a statute of the United States." Yet it remains the law of the land. The next step is to reduce the tariff on shipbuilding materials, which now makes a difference, so shipbuilders testify, of forty per cent on "every conceivable item that goes into the cost of a ship." Far-sighted legislation would do infinitely more to resurrect our shipping than any ship-sub-sidy scheme yet developed. We may, at least, rejoice that the bill was beaten, while congratulating the country that there were twenty- eight Republicans who declined to obey their party's behest and favor a scheme for the enrichment of a few at the expense of public funds.—New York Evening Post.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

URGES RENEWAL OF PATRIOTISM

"We of New England need to renew our patriotism. The nation as a whole, I argue, has witnessed a steady growth in country love and material advancement; but that portion of it which was the cradle of our struggles and the source of our hopes has not kept pace with the greater areas and greater interests which have grown up with the renaissance of the south and west." Such were the words of Arthur L. Spring in Faneuil hall, "the Cradle of Liberty" on July 4th. These statements cause us to stop and think, with the conclusion that there must be something wrong with the training of "Young America." Why are not our American citizens more patriotic, and why does not the flag and the 4th of July mean more to the generation of the 20th century? The flag of our fathers of '76, who fought and bled to allow us its privileges and the men of '61 who maintained the union with their life's blood, are seemingly forgotten by the present generation.

Standing on one of the streets of Atlantic on the morning of July 4th my eyes were gladdened and my heart warmed by one float of the parade as it came up over a slight incline and instantly called to my mind one of the old day school orations entitled "Here Comes the Flag." Radiant in all its beauty, what should thrill the heart and inspire more patriotism than the colors of old glory? Large and small floated the flags with their stripes and bars in the sunlight as they did on the morning of that first 4th of July in the old city of Philadelphia. Red, white and blue, with its 13 original stars, multiplied and increased today, as it floats over every capital of the United States, representing the constitution to which the American people in all their wanderings have ever remained loyal at heart.

According to the award of prizes "Old Glory" did not inspire the feeling in the minds of the younger generation, and caused me to turn with sadness and question what the proud city of Quincy is doing to teach patriotism to this generation. That a city which boasts the dates of 1625 and 1640, which has lived through the struggles of '76 and '61, should ever see the day that the old flag would receive no recognition on the glorious fourth and present a living example to "Young America" that the artistic is more to be desired than the patriotic. The origin of this float was the product of the minds of students of the schools of Boston. Are the schools of the city of Quincy allowing our coming generation to lose sight of American patriotism and what the old flag signifies?

We of New England are proud of our ancestry, and from our "firesides has gone forth most that is best in the American character and spirit." We must love our city, and we must love the flag, the nation and the state, and if we are to maintain this high standard, must we not instil into our sons, native and adopted, by precept and example, what the old flag means, and as citizens, train the minds to what American patriotism should be.

A Patriotic Citizen.

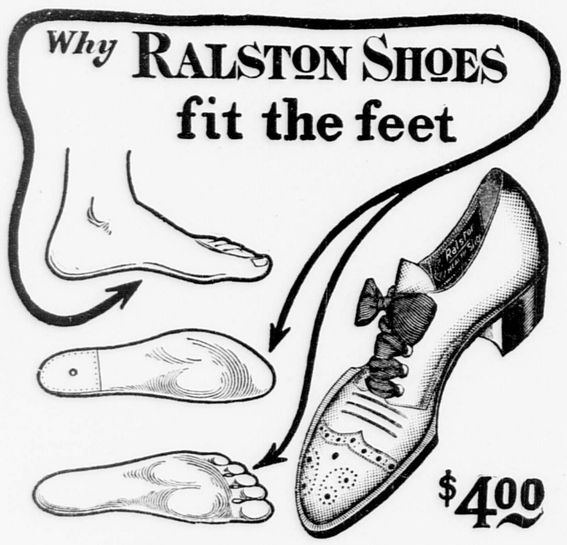
Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet



Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

TODAY WILL SEE THE FINAL VOTE

Senate Completes Consideration of Tariff Bill

ITS PASSAGE SEEMS CERTAIN

Will Be Sent to House as Speedily as Possible—Bailey Income Tax Rejected—Notable Amendment to Corporation Tax Provision—Aldrich and Lodge Defend Customs Court Proposition and It Is Retained

Washington, July 8.—With a general understanding that a final vote by the senate on the tariff bill should be taken by 4 o'clock this afternoon, the senate adjourned last evening in pleasant anticipation of the conclusion soon of the special session of congress.

It is expected that the bill as perfected will receive practically all, though not all, of the Republican votes, while it is understood that probably all of the Democratic votes, with the exception of the vote of Senator McEnery, will be cast against it.

When passed the measure will be hurried over to the house as expeditiously as possible, and it is expected that the house will be in session Friday morning in the hope of receiving it.

The income tax question, the corporation tax provision and inheritance taxes received much attention in the senate yesterday.

Senator Bailey moved his income tax amendment as a sub for the finance committee's provision, and without debate, a vote was taken upon it, and it was rejected by a majority of 19.

With the corporation tax provision thus securely established as a part of the tariff bill, there was considerable effort to amend it, and in one notable case this effort was successful.

Senator Clapp has been a severe critic of the provision ever since its introduction, because it excluded "holding" companies. He renewed his criticism and the ultimate result was the acceptance by Senator Aldrich of an amendment by Clapp striking out the exemption of such companies.

Next to the income tax the discussion of the customs court was the big feature of the day's work. The court was attacked as in the interest of the cities in which it would sit and the government, and as opposed to the interests of the importers.

Senators Aldrich and Lodge defended the court, the latter asserting that it would not only insure the honest and uniform determination of customs cases, but would save the government many millions of dollars.

The debate over the court provision resulted in the acceptance of the finance committee's provision.

SUFFRAGETTES' TACTICS

Drew a Crowd From Which They Were Finally Glad to Escape

New York, July 8.—A hurdy-gurdy and tambourines were used by two suffragettes, whose tactics met with such a boisterous reception in City Hall park that a riot nearly ensued. A good-looking woman pulled the hurdy-gurdy, while Mrs. Sophie Loebinger and Miss Helen Murphy, the suffragettes, wore badges and streamers lettered "votes for women" and carried copies of The Suffragette as they jingled their tambourines.

Within five minutes they were the centre of such a crush that they had to shriek for the police. Not a copy of the official publication was sold and there were no speeches. A squad of police made a lane for the two women to the nearest subway station, and home they hurried gratefully.

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY

It Now Holds a Position Ahead of That of Germany

Paris, July 8.—The Temps takes issue with M. Michel, who declared in the chamber of deputies during the course of the debate on the naval inquiry commission's report that Germany stood second among the naval powers.

The Temps points out that second place is held by the United States, and adds that all English authorities class the United States second among the naval powers. Germany, therefore, would be third and France fourth.

Workman Roasted to Death

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 8.—An explosion of a steam pipe in a colliery at Pittston killed George Underwood and probably fatally wounded James Williams. Underwood was roasted to death and Williams was terribly scalded.

New Steer-Roping Record

Nogales, N. M., July 8.—At a cowboy tournament the world's record for throwing and tying a wild steer was broken by Ed Hall of Nutt, N. M., who performed the feat in 21 seconds.

Lottery Legal In Cuba

Havana, July 8.—President Gomez last night signed the national lottery bill.

GREAT LOCAL OPTION FIGHT

Bristol, Va., July 8.—Tremendous interest is being manifested throughout the south in the local option election being held here today.

The liquor people are making a strong effort to get a foothold here, to supply the adjoining prohibition states, and from this vantage ground they hope to win back lost territory. It is believed that they could do a business of $5,000,000 a year from Bristol by shipping liquor into Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina, as Bristol would be by far the nearest "wet" point to the majority of this territory.

The temperance forces closed their campaign with a monster mass meeting. The liquor people have representatives here and have concentrated their forces on this fight.

Bristol voted dry two years ago by a majority of 207 and the temperance leaders claim they will have as large majority this time. The "wets" are claiming victory and are making a strenuous fight today. The women are marching and parading and are also serving lunches and praying and singing at the polls.

RIVERS ON THE RAMPAGE

Train Derailed and Many Persons Driven From Their Homes

Kansas City, July 8.—Swollen by unprecedented rains, Missouri valley rivers have left their banks and caused damaging floods. The most spectacular accident due to the flood was the derailing in a flooded plain of a passenger train bound from Kansas City to Denver. The rails spread near Pomona, Kas., and four of the ten coaches rolled in eighteen feet of water. Miss Laura St. Clair of Boston suffered a wrenched back and Miss Nannie St. Clair, a sister, sustained bruises and cuts.

Hundreds of people in Chillicothe were forced to leave their homes. Residents in the unaffected quarters have started to bake bread for the sufferers.

At Pattonsburg 1000 persons are imprisoned on roofs or in second stories. Many women and children are among those held prisoners by the river and their situation is causing general alarm.

POWERFUL FLEET OF ARMORED SHIPS

North Atlantic Squadron Maneuvering Off Cape Cod

Rockport, Mass., July 8.—A grand fleet of thirteen grim first class battleships assembled off Cape Ann and, with the flagship Connecticut leading, started of across Massachusetts bay to the general rendezvous of the North Atlantic squadron off Provincetown.

It is expected that four more battleships, a dozen torpedo boats and destroyers, a couple of cruisers and other smaller naval craft will join the main squadron in a day or two, making one of the largest and most powerful fleets of modern armored vessels that ever assembled in American waters.

The fleet will maneuver off the coast for three days, putting back into Provincetown on Saturday, so that the 10,000 or more sailors may have liberty day for sports in the athletic field among the sand dunes of Cape Cod.

COVERED EIGHT MILES

Odds Were Against Swimmer Who Tried to Make a Record

Boston, July 8.—Another attempt to swim the ten miles from the Warren avenue bridge over the Charles river to Boston light ended in failure when John Everett, aged 18 years, was taken from the water when within two miles of his goal.

Everett objected to giving up the fight, but his trainers believed the odds were too great, as the water was rough and the swimmer's face was bruised and swollen from the lashing of the waves and the intensely cold water was liable at any time to cause a collapse.

The eight miles was covered by the swimmer in four hours and fifteen minutes.

Aged Wife Murderer Paroled

Trenton, July 8.—Patrick Quinn, 90 years old, who has been an inmate of the New Jersey state prison for 22 years, was released on parole. Until yesterday he never saw a telephone or a trolley car and he refused to ride in the prison doctor's automobile to the railway station, because he was afraid of the machine. Quinn was sentenced for life in 1887 for wife murder.

Baldwin's Successful Flight

Norwich, Conn., July 8.—Captain Thomas S. Baldwin, in his airship, the California Arrow, made a successful flight last evening, circling over the city after flying in from the fair grounds, two miles distant.

Gas Kills a Doctor

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—Dr. Louis L. Hirsh of Wilkesbarre, Pa., was found dead from gas asphyxiation in his room in a local hotel. The windows of his room were closed and the gas turned on full force.

FLOWERS AND FLAGS.

Children by the thousands found their way to a big tent on the Common in Boston Monday morning. The hour appointed by the Floral Emblem society was eleven. Some children were there soon after eight, and by nine the line had been augmented by boys and girls of all ages, sizes and nationalities.

Many had been through this happy experience before, and they were eager to tell the others what was in store for them. "Sometimes they let you take your pick," they explained. That was almost too much to believe, but it was even so, as the doubters discovered when at last, the signal was given and the crowd pressed into the enclosure. Exclamations of delight and the eager, smiling faces of the children more than repaid those who had taken so much trouble to do this thing. Well might they shout with glee! Flags were everywhere, with flowers of every hue scenting the air.

The committee in charge never had so many contributions. From the finest suburban estates choice plants and cut flowers were sent; the city florists showed their customary generosity and friends of members sent the finest things from their gardens. With each gift of plant or flower went a flag, and as the children departed they made a sight worth going a long way to see, as they hugged their precious burdens and talked with animation of the "nice ladies in the tent."

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Quincy People.

There are days of dizziness;
Spells of headache, sideache, backache;
Sometimes rheumatic pains:
Often urinary disorders.
All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.
Here is proof in Quincy.
Mrs. George L. Mott, living at 99 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for entertaining a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, after everything I tried had failed to help me. Prior to using this remedy I was troubled a great deal with headaches and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times that I would have to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My eyesight was affected and spots would seem to float before me. My back also greatly annoyed me. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox drug store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally good results."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Informal Discussion on the Ins and Outs of the Betterment Act.

A regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held Wednesday evening at its rooms in the Adams building. After the routine business of the evening there was an informal discussion on the matter of accepting new streets under the act authorizing the assessment of betterments. The general sentiment seemed to be against this form of laying out streets the claim being made that it was unfair to the abutters on many streets, who have been paying taxes for many years on their property to be assessed when the street was accepted.

Many other matters of local interest were also taken up and discussed informally no definite action being taken on any matter.

—The Beecher elm, near Henry Ward Beecher's house and his church, at Orange and Hicks streets, Brooklyn, has been cut down. It had been killed by lightning. Beecher used to stop under its shade and talk with friends on the way to meeting. It was a very old tree. Mrs. Beecher died in the house opposite and loved the tree.—Springfield Republican.

—Too large a flag on a building looks like a dangerous proposition. The largest flag in the world unfurled at Pittsburg, Pa., the Fourth pulled thousands of pounds of tile roofing from the court house and several persons had narrow escapes.

WHIST PARTY.

Twenty Tables in Play on Lawn of R. J. Teasdale.

A well attended and enjoyable whist party in aid of the lawn party to be held June 24 by the ladies of St. Mary's parish was held Wednesday evening on the lawn at the residence of Robert J. Teasdale on Willard street.

Twenty tables were in play and the contest was a keen one. Six souvenirs were awarded for the best scores the lucky ones being Mrs. William D. Burns, Miss Anna Barry, Miss Nellie Morrissey, Martin Burns, Frank Murphy and John Vogel.

After the play, hot coffee and sandwiches were served and were very much enjoyed, as the air was slightly cool. The grounds were very prettily illuminated with electric lights and looked very attractive.

PROTEST ENTERED.

Young Ladies in Atlantic Parade Do Not Like the Awards of Prizes Made.

The young ladies who prepared and entered the float entitled "The National Colors," of the Neponset River Coal Company, have entered a protest against the award of the prizes in that parade. A special meeting of the committee to consider the same was held on Wednesday evening, July 7th, Charles E. Gill, chairman, presiding.

The meeting referred to was held at the residence of Charles E. Cherrington. No protest was received as this meeting according to those present, and no award was made to the feature. The only mention of this feature was the regret expressed that more notice was not made of it in the newspapers.

—Telegrams from various places in the country carry the information that prosperity has hit them. Prosperity always hits a locality without hurting it.

—A Chicago man ate his Panama hat the other day. We suspected this high cost of living business would go to the consumer's head sooner or later.

There are bigger furniture stores in the world than this, but none better.

There are bigger stocks, but none more carefully selected, none more dependable, well made, durable.

There are lower prices, but none for such high quality of goods. Lower prices than ours would mean unreliable, cheaply made goods.

QUINCY Y. C. LADIES' DAY

High Wind And Rough Sea Too Much For Sailing

The annual ladies' day of the Quincy Yacht club was held Thursday at the club house Houghs Neck and was a pronounced success. The only thing to mar the event being the high wind which kicked up such a rough sea that but few of the yachts ventured to go over the course. Those that did go were closely reefed and even then the passengers got more or less wet.

The wind was brisk from the northwest and a high sea was running. The bay was one mass of angry white caps and the little power crafts were tossed about like corks as they flew back and forth from the float to the yachts.

As the ladies began to arrive at the club house, and saw these white caps, they would shake their heads and murmur that they guessed they did not care much about sailing anyway. The Emeline, Commodore Robbin's yacht was moured out in the channel gayly decorated with flags of the national code ready to salute the fleet as they passed in review.

At 2.45 o'clock there was the boom of a gun from the Commodore's yacht and the figure 2 was run up to the mast head, denoting that course 2 was to be sailed. This meant that after passing in review the yachts were to sail to Pig Rock Beacon, thence to Black Can buoy, in Hingham Bay, thence to Jack Knife Ledge buoy, to Red Spar buoy off Sheep island, to the club house.

It was an exciting time transporting the ladies from the float, to the yachts anchored at their mourings, and not a few of them had the starch taken out of their white skirts in the trip. Once aboard they did not sail far as it was too rough and they returned to the club house.

Meanwhile the starting gun had been fired, and the more venturesome yachts had gotten under way. As they passed in review of the Commodores boat they saluted by dipping their colors, the salute being acknowledged by a gun from the Emeline. After the review the guests on the Emeline were brought back to the float as the ladies much preferred the club house to sailing.

There was plenty of opportunity for the guests to enjoy a sail for in addition to the yachts, the steamer Houghs Neck and the power boat Alert had been engaged. The steamer took a party of 200 and sailed over the course and those who had selected her for the sail made a wise choice.

While the sail was in progress the outer of the two floats at the club house broke away and floating off with a half dozen persons, who included several ladies. Strong ropes were brought into play and the runaway was captured and brought back.

Meanwhile those who watched the scenes from the club house were enjoying a fine concert which was given by Monk's orchestra. Those who know Mr. Monk need not be told that the concert was a fine one. The program was as follows:

March		Selected
Overture	(La Souveraine)	Herman
Arnina	(Egyptienne)	Luicke
Selection	"Red Mill"	Herbert
Serenade	"Magnolia"	Missud
Waltz	"A Stubborn Cinderella"	Howard
Selection	"Broken Idol"	Van Alstyne
Concert Medley		Catlin

Everybody was back safe and sound at the club house by 4.30 and fifteen minutes later the lunch was served. The arrangement for serving the lunch this year was different from what it has even been before and was a decided improvement over other years. A strong chain partitioned off the tables and when the lunch was announced the individual plates were all ready to serve. Thus there was an absence of the usual pushing and rush and everybody was served in short order. During the serving of the lunch the orchestra gave another concert which was a pleasing innovation.

After the lunch there was a lull in the festivities until 7 o'clock at which time dancing was in order until 10 o'clock when the event of 1909 came to an end. As a whole it was one of the most successful social events of the many held by the Quincy club.

The yachts to participate in the sail with their guests were as follows:

ARREST DUE TO JEALOUSY

Haskins Bride Blames Jealous Woman For His Arrest

The case of Arthur G. Haskins of Wollaston who was arrested for being a deserter from the United States Navy came up in the United States court in Boston, Thursday. The case was again continued until next Tuesday in order that the authorities at Washington might be communicated with. Meanwhile Haskins is a prisoner on the Wabash and his young bride is leaving no stone unturned to obtain his release.

His bride was Alice Thayer of Revere road, Quincy, and Haskins' arrest, followed four hours after the couples elopement to Providence. The bride claims her husband's arrest to be due to jealousy of a former sweetheart of her husband. The accused girl who lives at South Quincy stoutly denies the charge however.

The bride in a published interview says "My husband's arrest was caused by my mother and a former sweetheart of his. Neither of them wanted us to be married.

"Just think of it! Married only four hours and then to have Arthur snatched from me by detectives. It's awful. It was bad enough to have Arthur taken away, but several attempts have been made by my relatives, through my mother, to have me kidnapped since my marriage. They do not want me to be with Arthur.

"I am now staying at the home of a friend, but I have not been out of the house once without an escort. I dare not leave without someone going with me for fear that my mother or someone in her employ will kidnap me and take me somewhere and have me locked up.

"We have seen several people lurking about the house, and one of them went so far as to try to hire a room at 10 o'clock one night in the same house.

"The only possible objection my mother could have to Arthur was the difference in religion. He is an upright young man in every way. He never drinks and his friends all speak highly of him. He has no bad habits.

"He had been calling at my house for eleven months and until the last two or three weeks my mother always appeared friendly to him. Then, after a visit to the home of the girl that he used to keep company with, she turned on him and told me that if I met him again she would horsewhip both of us and make a scene.

"I asked my mother what objection she had to Arthur and she wouldn't tell me. All she would say was: 'When it's all over, I'll let you know.'

"She called Arthur a lot of names. That was Thursday evening, June 24. I met Arthur that evening and told him what had occurred at home. He told me that if there was any more trouble to let him know. Arthur and I and a girl friend of mine went to the circus that evening at Houghs Neck. When I returned home the doors were locked and I had to pry open a screen door to get in.

"I left home the next day after a stormy interview with my mother and she refused to let me have my clothes. The night before she gave most of my clothes away to the woman upstairs. I went to a friend's house that day and met Arthur that evening. My mother tried to have me arrested that night, and she also sent my aunt, Mrs. Emma Taylor of Weymouth, to the house where I was staying in an effort to get me out. I knew that if I went out that I would probably be taken somewhere and locked up, so I refused to go with my aunt.

Things were reaching such a climax that Arthur and I decided on Saturday night to go to Providence the next day and be married. We went to Providence Sunday and were married Monday. On Sunday while we were away detectives searched the house at No. 49 Chester street, Wollaston, where Arthur lived trying to find him.

"He was arrested the next day as we were entering the home of my friend after returning from being married. I began to cry right off and I haven't got over it yet.

"The detectives told us they hated to make the arrest more than any other they had ever made. They also told us that Arthur would not have been arrested but for spite.

"Since then my mother sent my grandfather and my aunt, Mrs. Mabel Totman of Weymouth, to the house in a closed carriage for the purpose of kidnapping me, but I outwitted them. They also tried to get into the house and reach me by sending another woman to hire a room. Just before the woman rang the bell we saw my mother up the street waiting.

I will never forgive my mother and the others who had a part in these proceedings. They have caused me a great deal of suffering. I will fight to have Arthur freed."

Mrs. Thayer mother of the girl in the same published interview denies the charge. She says:

"I did not threaten to horsewhip my daughter and Mr. Haskins, as she declares, and I did not try to kidnap her. I did send her grandfather and two aunts down to see her and try to get her home, but it is preposterous to say that I or they tried to kidnap her. My daughter Alice is a wilful girl.

"It is possible that Mr. Haskins' former sweetheart or her people may have informed on him and caused his arrest. I went to see them in regard to Arthur a short time ago to learn what kind of a young man he was. I wanted to know before I would accept him as a son-in-law. They did not speak very highly of him.

"On returning home I told my daughter what they had said and I also told her that she should know more about Mr. Haskins in case she intended to marry him."

HOUGHS NECK GAMBLERS

Fines of $25 and $10 Each Imposed by Judge Avery

The bunch of gamblers captured by the police last Saturday night in Garbarino's pool room at Houghs Neck were given a hearing in court this morning. The parties arraigned were Abel D. Brown, Arthur Holbrook, John P. Sullivan, Charles Sampson, Joseph, John and Charles Whalan, Elmer W. Winnett, Bertram Brown and Charles Jacobs.

Nicholas Garbarino was arraigned for running a gaming place as was also Charles Sampson. George Morey was also arraigned for gaming but as he is a juvenile his case was continued until next Tuesday. The complaint against Sampson for running a gaming place was continued until Saturday, July 17.

Garbarino was found guilty and was fined $25. He was also ordered to recognize in $300 bonds to refrain from gambling of any kind for three years. He took an appeal. Garbarino claimed that he was busy shaving people at the time and did not know that his tables were being used for gambling.

The other ten defendants were fined $10 each and their cases continued on probation until Sept. 30.

Big winds and big fires seem to travel as companions.

Speaking of the betterment act, many members of the Board of Trade are inclined to say, better not.

It is not out of place to again remark that we are having a mild winter.

It may be that the wind is tempered to the shorn lamb but it didn't feel that way yesterday to those who had summer flannels of tissue paper thickness on.

If the mayor hasn't got the writer's cramp by today he never will. A stack of orders almost as high as his desk was sent from the council chamber to his office yesterday for his signatures.

The city of Washington is to establish a curfew at 10 o'clock. Quincy has had a curfew law for many years and the bell sounds nightly at 8.55. It has been a good thing—by which to set your watch. Other than that, one might as well say with the poet: "Curfew shall not ring tonight!"

Houghs Neck is putting on its best bib and tucker in anticipation of celebrating over the new school house lot. Many ears down by the sea are anxiously waiting to hear the scratching of the mayor's pen that will make the recent council order a law.

The Boston paper which gives the credit of getting a late car to West Quincy to a certain citizen has got another think coming. The subject was first brought to public notice in the editorial columns of the Ledger and the suggestion was acted on before the editorial was 24 hours old.

The oil sprinkled in City Square yesterday morning was put down at the right time. It seemed too thick early in the morning, although the highway department men said it needed to be of that thickness in order to get a good grip on the surface of the street. Before the day was over and the wind was howling a regular winter-time northwester, City Square was as clean as a new oiled floor.

It blew great guns at Houghs Neck yesterday and interfered, in a measure, with the ladies' day program of the Quincy yacht club. There were but few ladies who cared to venture out in the rough sea but the hundreds who remained ashore had the privilege of witnessing one of the liveliest marine pictures ever seen off Houghs Neck. The boats that did go out gave a wonderful exhibition of bouncing while some of the fast motor boats seemed to hit only the high places. The surf on the bayside of Houghs Neck yesterday was the heaviest ever seen in summer months and resembled the ocean at Nantasket when the tide was at the full.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TARIFF PASSED BY THE SENATE

Ten Insurgents Recorded as Opposed to the Measure

PASSES BY VOTE OF 45 to 34

McEnery the Only Democrat Agreeing With Majority—Beveridge Speaks For Dissenters and Is Answered by Aldrich, Who Says That Bill Is a Fulfilment of Party's Pledge—May Be Sent to House Today

Washington, July 9.—The tariff bill passed the senate after 11 oo'clock last night by a vote of 45 to 34. Republicans voting in the negative were Beveridge (Ind), Bristow (Kas.), Brown (Neb.), Burkett (Neb.), Clapp (Min.), Crawford (S. D.), Cummins (Ia.), Dolliver (Ia.), La-Follette (Wis.), Nelson (Minn.). McEnery (La.) was the only Democrat recorded in the affirmative.

The failure of the senate to keep the promise made to thepeople by the Republican party respecting a revision of the tariff downward was the theme of Senator Beveridge as the debate on the pending bill was drawing to a close.

"Our votes," he said, "shall be cast in harmony with our party's pledges as voiced by our party's leader and the nation's president."

Suggesting that the "insurgents" would cast their votes on the final passage of the bill in conformity with their previous action, Beveridge said they would do so as a notice to the conferees to bring back a bill in which there were decreased duties.

Mr. Beveridge was answered by Mr. Aldrich, who said he had often seen men interpret their own judgment as the judgment of their party.

"The Republican party is a party of majorities," he added, "and the views of the majority in matters of legislation control party policies. The senator from Indiana does not speak for the Republican party. He has no right to call here the name of the President of the United States in support of any suggestion which he has made."

Mr. Aldrich declared that the pending bill was a fulfillment of the party's pledge. If senators wished to vote against the bill, he said, they should not attempt to speak for their party.

Mr. Crawford protected vigorously against any attempt by Aldrich to prevent Republican senators from the exercise of their judgment. He said he proposed to exercise his judgment and to follow his convictions in voting upon the bill.

Mr. Clapp also joined in the protest against any effort by the senator from Rhode Island to control his actions. "I am neither stung, silenced nor entombed by the words of the senator from Rhode Island," said he.

"It will take more than the senator from Rhode Island to read the state of Minnesota out of the Republican party," said Mr. Nelson, amid applause, which called down the gavel of the vice president with an announcement that such expressions were not permitted. The bill was then put on its passage.

The bill will probably be in shape to be sent to the house some time today, but it is not improbable that the hour will be so late that the house will have to adjourn before the measure can reach it. In that event it will be presented tomorrow.

As it passed the senate the bill contains almost 400 paragraphs. The senate made 840 amendments to the house provisions, many of which were added yesterday.

The senate sat continuously yesterday from 10 o'clock in the morning until late last night, stopping neither for luncheon nor dinner. Most of the many speeches were brief, and in the main the day was devoted to action upon amendments.

FOUND IN FREIGHT CAR

Blindfolded Boy Placed There by Father as a Gift to President Taft

New York, July 9.—A 9-year-old boy, with his eyes blindfolded, was found in a freight car on the Pennsylvania railroad near Jersey City. He said that his father, Edward Studier of Jersey City, had placed him in the car.

The father, when questioned at his home, admitted that he had put his son in the car, adding that he was sending the child to Washington as a gift to President Taft. He was arrested and will be held pending an inquiry into his sanity.

New York, July 9.—A new westbound record was established by the Cunard liner Mauretania, which clipped 17 minutes from her best performance heretofore, covering the long course in 4 days, 16 hours, 36 minutes.

THE SUMMER CAPITAL.

While many Presidents of the United States have visited Massachusetts. Mr. Taft is, with the exception of the two Adamses, the first to set up the "summer capital" within its borders. He has chosen for his vacation—if the President of the United States can be said to have a vacation—a resort justly famed for its beauty and for the health preserving quality of its air. Beverly is peculiarly well adapted to the convenience of the Executive who takes his powers and responsibilities with him wherever he goes. It is accessible, it is in direct communication with many points which the President may wish to reach personally or by his authority while the large representation of the diplomatic corps on the North Shore, by the facilities thereby afforded for foreign negotiation, rounds out its claims to be considered "the summer capital."

The term summer capital" is comparatively new, but if it is understood to mean a place whither a President resorts to escape the torrid heat of Washington it has reference to a custom as old as the Government. There is an impression that in the "good old times" public opinion and their own convictions on the subject compelled President to perspire in Washington for the salvation of the Republic. The fact is that Washington himself did many official acts when at a distance from the seat of Government; he resorted frequently to Mount Vernon and thence issued commissions and other papers whose validity was never questioned. He even thought it not improper to receive under the roof of his own house diplomats on their presentation. John Adams was absent from the seat of Government for more than a year, in the aggregate, during his presidency, and at Quincy were dated pardons, exequaturs, etc. The Virginia Presidents all had a natural preference for their old homes. Jefferson's periods of absence from Washington equalled one-fourth of his presidential term, and from Monticello he issued commissions, letters of credence, and even carried on direct correspondence with foreign Governments. These facts and many more to the same purport were set forth by President Grant in a message to the House of Representatives May 4, 1876, in answer to a resolution intended to censure him for frequent and prolonged absences from Washton, and especially directed at his "transference of the capital" to Long Branch. The Democrats were then in control of the House, and the resolution was for campaign purposes. Its mover was one Joseph C. B. Blackburn of Kentucky, who now thirty-three years afterwards, is connected with the administration of the Canal Zone and performs as an intermediary of the executive official acts at that distance from the seat of the Government of the United States.

Times have changed since it was thought political capital could be made out of a President's occupation of a summer cottage at Long Branch. The vacation habit has come with the change, and public opinion today more than passively approves "the summer capital." Presidents, today, like other Washingtonians, are anxious for a change of air with the oncoming of the heated term, though during that term the capital is much more endurable than it was a generation ago. The temperature of Washington is beyond the resources of science to modify, but sanitation has purified the,atmosphere and no longer do Potamac breezes bring from the "flats" orders like those which were wafted into the White House when Garfield was on his sick bed. All that the president can do in Washington, in the recess of Congress, he can do elsewhere, and, if he selects northern seashore or mountains, much more comfortably.—Boston Transcript.

LASTING ERA OF GOOD WILL

President Taft Declares That Champlain Celebration Will Fill Unique Place In History—Canadian Troops Take Part In Review at Burlington—City Holds Greatest Crowd of Visitors In Its History

Burlington, Vt., July 9.—President Taft's participation in the Lake Champlain tercentennary celebration ended Thursday and he left here last night for Washington. The celebration here was in many ways a repetition of the programs followed in New York state.

The president seemed more deeply impressed than ever with the sincerity of the expressions of good will which were uttered anew by the accredited representatives of France, Great Britain and Canada, and declared that the unity which existed between those great nations and the United States never can be torn apart.

The entire celebration, conducted in the shadows of ruined old forts which have been surrounded in days gone by with hordes of fighting men, and on fields where the soldiers of France, America and Great Britain have known the clash of swords, has been a veritable feast of peace. Peace and a lasting era of good will have been the themes upon which all the speakers have dwelt.

The president declared in his speech here that the Champlain celebration would fill a unique place in history as the memorial of renewed expression of the union and the amity among Great Britain, France and the United States.

French Ambassador Jusserand, British Ambassador Bryce, Governor Hughes of New York, Governor Prouty of Vermont and Postmaster General Lemieux of Canada were the speakers of the day, besides President Taft. The expressions of all were most felicitous.

The greatest crowd of the celebration period met the president here and it was spontaneous in its enthusiasm. After this greeting came a review of the troops, in which the Fifth United States infantry from Plattsburg barracks, the governor general's footguards from Ottawa and other military organizations participated.

During the afternoon the president witnessed for the first time the Indian pageant of Hiawatha given on floats. Last night, with other visitors, the president was a guest at a banquet, where he delivered his second address of the day—a brief parting word of congratulation and thanks for the excellent manner in which the celebration of Champlain's discovery had been carried out.

Burlington was fairly smothered under flags and bunting and held probably the greatest crowd of visitors in its history. The occasion was a holiday, and a touch of circus time was lent the day by the scores of popcorn tents, pink lemonade stands and catch-penny contrivances which were everywhere.

RUSSIANS IN PERSIA

Their Presence May Upset Plans For Invasion of the Capital

London, July 9.—The near approach to a crisis in Persian affairs has had little effect in removing the complexity of the situation.

That the shah is in danger is clear, from the latest Teheran dispatch, which says that a few days ago he made preparations to seek refuge in a foreign legation in the event of his troops proving powerless to stem the Nationalist advance. Word of the Russian landing at Enzeli, however, has restored the shah's confidence in a measure, and produced the impression in Teheran that the Nationalist plans will be upset and the idea of invading Teheran will be relinquished.

They Succeed In Extracting Sympathetic Speech From Gladstone

London, July 9.—Consequent upon a direct appeal to the king by Mrs. Despard and a deputation of suffragettes, Home Secretary Gladstone granted an audience to eight of the women's representatives.

After hearing arguments and reading heir petition, Gladstone made a sympathetic speech, expressing regret at the present involved situation and the belief that the matter would finally be settled and in a way satisfactory to the women.

SUCCESSFUL IN FIRST MOVE

Fortune Favors Colombian Revolutionists Thus Far

CAPTURE OF BARRANQUILLA

It Means That Anti-Government Forces Will Not Lack For Funds—Situation May Get Beyond Control of Holguin, Who Claims That Trouble Is Only Local—All Southern Colombia May Be In Arms

Panama, July 9.—Advices from Colombia report a very critical condition of affairs in that republic. As the result of the departure of President Reyes for Europe, the various political parties, which a few months ago seemed to be united, are now completely disorganized, and there are indications that Colombia is on the verge of a great revolution.

PRESIDENT REYES.

The movement on July 4 at Barranquilla was successful. The revolutionists captured the forts, the Magdalena river boats and the custom houses. About 80 percent of the importations into Colombia pass through Barranquilla, so that the revolutionists will not lack for funds.

No advices have been received here as to how the movement has been accepted by the rest of Colombia, but there are rumors that a serious situation exists at Bogota. There is a rumor also that certain influential Colombians are publicly in favor of following Panama's example and constituting a new republic to be formed of the departments of Cauca and Antioqua and a part of Bolivar.

Fears are entertained by Colombians who are inclined to peace that the situation will get beyond the control of the president-designate, General Holguin, who, however, is considered an able statesman.

What Holguin Says

New York, July 9.—A cable from Acting President Holguin of Colombia, dated Bogota, July 7, received last evening, was given out by Consul General Sarria as follows:

"Revolution local in Barranquilla. Rest of the country in complete peace. Gonvalez Valencia is in Tunja. Leaders of all parties have published manifestos condemning the movement, and advocating the revolutionists in Barranqiulla to lay down their arms. General Perdomo will leave day after tomorrow from Honda with six steamships, 2000 men and twelve Hotchkiss guns. Have 12,000 men under arms and if necessary can raise this number to 30,000."

Previous cable dispatches said that Perdomo would leave Honda for Barranquilla yesterday, not today as the private message indicates, but the number of men with which he would set forth was given at 3000. The report that the government has 12,000 men under arms is new.

The Gonzalez Valencia referred to has been proclaimed president by the revolutionists, and Tunja, where he is reported to be at present, is about seventy miles from Bogota.

A Gloomy Prediction

Guayaquil, Equador, July 9.—Advices from Colombia state that a revolution is brewing in the department of Cauca and that within a few days all the southern part of Colombia will be in arms.

Mutilated Old Glory With Fireworks

New York, July 9.—For shooting holes in the American flag with a Roman candle, William Scanlon, aged 19, was fined $10 in the police court. The complainant was a woman neighbor, whose large silk flag, flying from her window, Scanlon used as a target for fireworks.

Paris Green Kills Little One

Lowell, Mass., July 9.—Clara Mitchell, aged 21 months, ate a large quantity of paris green while her grandfather was spraying potato plants with the poison at Tyngsboro. All efforts to save the child's life were in vain.

Weston Behind His Schedule

Truckee, Cal., July 9.—Edward P. Weston arrived here on his transcontinental walk and after resting for two hours he took the Donner road over the Sierras. He is four days behind schedule and far from the goal.

BATTLE WITH BURGLARS

Woman Shot Dead by Intruder Who May Succumb to Bullet Wound

New York, July 9.—Two shoeless men, one of them wounded by bullets, are held by the police, charged with the murder of Mrs. Sophia Staber, wife of a New York importer of paper, in whose residence at Flatbush, L. I., occurred a fight with burglars in which Mrs. Staber met death.

They say they are Carlo Giro, born in Austria, and "John Smith." The latter speaks with a strong German accent and was the one wounded. He was told that he might not live and urged to tell the whole truth. He admitted, the police say, that it was a bullet from his pistol, discharged in a struggle with Mrs. Staber's son, George, which killed her.

Mrs. Staber was shot at 2 o'clock in the morning while standing in her bedroom door. The bullet struck her in the shoulder and, deflected by the bone, ranged down through one lung and the vital organs.

ANTI-TAMMANY FEELING

Shown In Resolutions Adopted by Taxpayers of Greater New York

New York, July 9.—Feeling against Tammany Hall and Mayor McClellan, which has been smouldering since the removal of Police Commissioner Bingham, crystallized at a meeting of the Greater New York Taxpayers' conference, at which resolutions were adopted demanding that the action which brought about the police department shakeup be rescinded. Rabbi Wise was the principal speaker.

"New York is in no mood to go back to the reign of Crokerism or Van Wyckism of ten years ago," he said. "Either Bingham of McClellan is guilty of malfeasance in office. If Bingham, we have the right to know. If Bingham be not guilty, then the mayor is guilty of betrayal of his trust, and we ought to have the restoration of Bingham or the resignation of McClellan."

BOSTON REACHES FOURTH POSITION

Hub Has Passed St. Louis In the Population Race

Boston, July 9.—Boston in its population is now the fourth largest city in the United States. According to the May bulletin of the state board of health, the present population is 624,921.

According to the last United States census, Boston stood fifth in the list of the large cities of the country, being surpassed by New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis. The estimated present population of St. Louis is 600,000 to 610,000, or less than that of Boston.

The population of Greater Boston is 1,195,663, or slightly less than that of Philadelphia, which in 1900 was 1,293,697.

TO FIGHT NEW TAX

Corporations Will Endeavor to Prove the Plan Illegal

Washington, July 9.—Confirmation of the expectation in many quarters that the large corporations of the country will seek to halt the collection of taxes under the corporation tax bill, if that measure is enacted, by an appeal to the courts to test the constitutionality of the law, was given here by a prominent official of the treasury department, who refuses to be quoted by name.

The possibility of suspension of this expected large source of revenue and the possible necessity in that event of a bond issue by the government to meet the situation in the treasury has caused concern, not alone among the treasury officials, but among the political leaders, who point to the bond issues by the Cleveland administration.

"TOO MANY OLD PEOPLE"

Albany Dominie Would Weed Them Out of Epworth League

Seattle, July 9.—A movement to make the Epworth League more democratic and to take it out of the hands of the bishops and other dignitaries found expression at the international convention, when Rev. J. H. Cole-convention, when Rev. J. H. Cole-auditors, of whom probably a third was gray haired, said:

"I don't like this audience. There are too many old people, too many gray heads. The Epworth League should be composed of young people. The place for the fathers and mothers should be in the prayer meetings, at the church."

Women Wanted Beer In Buckets

Pittsburg, Kas., July 9.—Although there are supposed to be no saloons in Kansas, fifty-six women were arrested at West Mineral, a coal mining center, on charges of disturbing the peace by wrecking four saloons for refusal to sell the women beer in buckets.

Aeroplane May Fly Today

Washington, July 9.—It is expected that a flight of the Wright aeroplane will be attempted this afternoon. The Wrights have until July 28 in which to complete the official speed and endurance trials before the board of signal corps officers.

SEABURY SOCIETY MEETINGS.

The series of meetings to be held at the Episcopal Theological school, Cambridge, July 12, to 25 are not exclusively for the members of a missionary society, much less for Episcopalians only. These meetings are for the public of Cambridge, Boston and vicinity, and both men and women are cordially invited. Especially will the evening meetings in St. John's chapel be found helpful and of public interest. There are no appeals for money and no registration fee is asked. For those who have the time, the Sunset meetings out of doors will be found interesting because at them missionaries tell of their experiences in their work.

Miss Julia C. Emery, one of the best known women in the Episcopal church has just completed a tour of the world inspecting missions. She arrived back last week. She will speak on the evening of July 20, and at 11 o'clock on July 21, remaining also for the meeting for women at 11 o'clock on July 22. Women in the Episcopal and all other churches are cordially invited to attend and hear her. She has visited for more than a year the missions of the Far East, and will give at the Cambridge meetings the first reports of what she saw and heard.

On July 13 and July 14 young men and young women are to come on the respective afternoons to consider work by them. Episcopal parishes of Boston, Cambridge, Brookline and near by cities are sending these young people to represent them. Fifty will be entertained at dinner on each of the evenings. On the afternoon of the first day the religious instruction will be given at 5 o'clock by the Rev. Samuel R. Colladay of the Berkeley Divinity school, and on the second day, at the same hour by the Rev. F. C. Powell of the Church of St. John Evangelist, Boston.

Mr. Alex F. Irvine is a socialist who believes the church offers the best medium for relief to injustice now done by monopolies and other public abuses. His addresses in the Church of the Ascension, New York, have attracted national notice. Radical in his statement of conditions, he is sane in his remedies, and sincere in his application of them. He is to speak in St. John's chapel, Cambridge on Saturday evening, July 17, and men are especially invited to hear him. He will preach in St. Paul's church, Boston, on Sunday morning, July 18 at half past ten.

Speakers and preachers from the Seabury society will be heard in several Boston, Cambridge, and near by churches. On Sunday morning, July 11, Bishop Talbot of Bethlehem will be the preacher in St. Paul's church, Boston, and at the Church of the Advent, Boston, the same evening. That morning Mr. Eugene M. Camp of the Church Laymen's union will speak in Christ church, Quincy. On July 18 Conference preachers will be heard in Christ church, Cambridge, St. Peters church, Cambridge, St. Paul's church, Boston, All Saints church, Brookline, St. Paul's church, Brockton, St. John's chapel, Cambridge, and the Church of the Advent, Boston. The preacher at the morning services at the Advent, on the 18th will be the Rev. Harvey Officer, Jr., of the Order of the Holy Cross. In Christ church Cambridge, the preacher will be the Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd, Bishop elect of Virginia.

From July 12 to July 23, the Saturday inter vening alone excepted, noon day meetings will be maintained in St. Paul's church, Tremont street, Boston. The hour will be 12.10 and the service will conclude at 12.35. Men are especially invited. Speakers will include Bishop Talbot, Bishop-elect Lloyd, Father Officer, and laymen from the Seabury Society. On July 13, 14, and 15 brief explanations will be given of work by laymen—what volunteers in many cities are doing, with suggestions about what they may do if they will.

On the concluding Sunday, July 25, in Christ church, Cambridge, at 10.30 there will be a missionary rally, with the Rev. Alfred A. Gilman of China as the preacher. Each morning at the school there will be Bible and prayer book studies, talks on Sunday school work and discussions of various problems confronting the work of aggressive christianity.

The Seabury society of New York, which is in charge of the meetings, looks forward to a permanent location for them. Coming to Cambridge this year is in order to make use of an offer of the Theological school, where are facilities for the meetings. A mountain location is to be the permanent one, if all goes well. The complete program of the meetings this year is ready, and will be found in most Episcopal churches. Meetings are open to both men and women, whether Episcopalians or not, or members of the conference or not. The Society desires them to be of the largest possible use to the greatest number.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE.

A general conference for christian workers is to be held at East Northfield July 31 to Aug. 15. The daily program of meetings will begin with a Bible class at nine o'clock followed by other services, conducted by well known speakers. There will be good music. A new departure this year will be a daily ministers' meeting for the discussion of ministerial problems. It is hoped this conference, the 27th annual, will be of practical and spiritual value.

ARRESTED AT CONCORD.

Charles Cook Wanted For Assault on Peter Nelson at Quincy.

Word was received by the police this morning of the arrest at Concord Thursday night of Charles Cook, who is wanted by the Quincy police for assault on Peter Nelson in a Quincy Point boarding house last Saturday night. Nelson, who is 72 years of age, was badly used up and is still at the City Hospital.

As soon as word of the man's arrest was received, Officer Lyons was sent with a warrant to bring the man to Quincy. Officer Lyons left early this morning and hoped to return in time to arraign Cook in court today.

It is alleged that Cook is the man who entered the sleeping room of Nelson for the purpose of robbery and that on being discovered he struck the old man over the head with the water pitcher. Other boarders had a tussle with the man but he got away. A description of the man wanted was sent out and resulted in the arrest at Concord.

Officer Lyons arrived back in Quincy at 1 o'clock and immediately took Cook into court. He was arraigned and held in $500 bonds until July 17.

NARWHAL TRIED OUT.

Submarine Subjected to Severe Test at Provincetown.

The submarine Narwhal built at Quincy, which with the Stringray and the Tarpon also built here, is at Provincetown with the fleet of war craft, was subjected to a severe test in the harbor on Thursday. There was a terrific gale blowing, kicking up a heavy sea, but despite this fact, the Narwhal was submerged ten times.

On Tuesday of next week all three of the submarines will be tried out in the presence of the naval board.

JOHN HANCOCK LODGE.

District Deputy Grand Master E. B. Prouty and suite of Rockland installed the following officers of John Hancock lodge, No. 224, I. O. O. F., of Wollaston on Wednesday evening.

N. G.—T. C. Hay.
V. G.—L. W. Frost.

I. G.—J. W. Houghton.
O. G.—Herbert Thomas.

After the installation the deputy with a few well chosen remarks presented Bro. Charles Berry with a Past Grand's collar from members of the lodge. Bro. Berry was so completely unnerved he could hardly express his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift. He would cherish it coming from the brothers of John Hancock lodge.

CITY COUNCIL.

The plans of the City Council are to adjourn at its meeting next Monday evening until September. The first plan was to adjourn last Tuesday but owing to the pressure of business and orders that required two readings it was found necessary to hold another meeting. If it had been possible the meeting would have been held Friday evening but that would not give the necessary three days intervening so the adjournment was made until next Monday.

The Finance Committee meet Thursday evening and the Committee on Licenses meet tonight while the Committee on Public Buildings will meet Monday night before the Council meeting.

FREDERICK HARRIS.

Frederick Harris, one of Quincy's best known young men died rather suddenly Thursday in Medfield, where he was living for his health. Although he was away for his health, still his death came suddenly and was quite a shock to his relatives and wide circle of friends. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harris of 70 Coddington street, and was 21 years of age. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2.15 from the home of his parents, followed by services in St. John's church at 3 oclock. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated Monday morning in St. John's church at 7.30.

—Duty calls a man to church on Sunday, and pleasure urges him to go fishing.

SATURDAY ON THE DIAMOND

Local and League Games Scheduled for Saturday

The only game of importance in this city tomorrow is that between Joe Ford's Quincy team and the Wollastons, to be played at Merrymount park. Colligan will pitch for Wollaston and says he is going to put it onto the Quincy boys. "Lefty" Ford, the wonderful little southpaw pitcher, who has been doing such brilliant work for the Bigelows this year, will be given a tryout by the Quincy tean. "Lefty" has some wicked curves and for a lad his size has excellent speed. With good support he ought to make the Wollaston team bite the dust. The Quincy team is playing some ball just at present and have been winning consistently of late. They ought to keep up their winning streak tomorrow.

The Quincy Old Colony league team goes to Rockland and for the third time this season will cross bats with that team. Twice so far they have taken the Rockland boys' measure and by the way they are playing now, they bid fair to repeat again tomorrow. The team will be the same as that which defeated Dewey last Monday, except that Roger Chase will be on the firing line instead of Patterson. "Sid" will be there ready to go on the job any time that he is needed. It is expected that a big band of rooters will accompany the boys to Rockland. The team will probably go in a big sight-seeing auto as they did on Monday to Taunton, and there will undoubtedly be a crowd of rooters on the auto as well. Quincy has got to win tomorrow if she wishes to stay at the top of the list. The three leaders play the three tailenders, and unless the three leaders win, there will be a big shake-up in the standing tomorrow night. There are all kinds of things possible from tomorrow's results. If Quincy wins and Dewey and Taunton lose, the local boys will be in the lead all alone, with Rockland occupying the cellar, Dewey and Taunton tied for second place and Randolph and Stoughton tied for third place. If Taunton or Dewey are the only leaders to win Quincy will go back into second place. But the best way is to wait until after tomorrow's games, for anything is liable to happen in base ball. Let us hope, however, that the local team keeps up its winning streak and at least stays with leaders.

The Makarias go to Norwell tomorrow and are up against a strong team. The Norwell boys have only lost one game this year and that was to the Quincy Independents under Joe Ford. The Makaria team is fast enough to beat this Norwell bunch if they only play their best ball. Of late however they seem to have a tendency to go up in the air at some stage of the game as they did against Quincy and lose the game in one inning. Jimmy Michael, the crack south-sider, will be on the slab for the local team and ought to get away with the game with any kind of support.

All the other local teams have games scheduled for tomorrow, either at home or away.

There will also be some good yachting tomorrow, as the interclub race with the Columbia yacht club is scheduled for tomorrow, as well as a launch race of the Quincy Yacht club.

—It cannot be too much emphasized that a tax on the net earnings of a corporation is not a tax on the rich in the sense that an income or inheritance tax might be, but rather a discrimination against one form of doing business.—Boston Transcript.

WITHOUT FOUNDATION.

Rescuing Story in Morning Papers Cannot be Verified.

Boston papers had a story this morning of a thrilling rescue, which occurred near the mouth of the Neponset river on the Quincy side. It was said that a young lady living in Squantum was the heroine and that she rescued from drowning four boys also residents of the Squantum district.

As far as can be learned from reliable parties no such thing ever happened and no boys of the names given reside in that district.

The heroine's name was given as Miss Marguerite Donahue, but as far as could be ascertained no girl of that name lives in Squantum.

SERVED HIS COUNTRY WELL

Death of Marquis De Gallifet, One of Leading Soldiers of France

Paris, July 9.—Gaston A. Auguste, Marquis de Gallifet, died last night of apoplexy. He was born in Paris in 1831. He joined the army in 1848 and became a colonel in 1867. He was with the army of the Rhine in the Franco-German war and was promoted to the rank of general of bridgade in 1870. He became minister of war when the Waldeck-Rousseau ministry was formed in June, 1899. He resigned the following May.

The marquis began his military career by killing the fencing master of his corps in a duel. During the Crimea war he was made a knight of the Legion of Honor for gallantry. In Mexico he was severely wounded at the battle of Puebla.

The troops which put down the Communists in Paris were under his command. In 1872 he was in charge of the El Goleah expedition, and he executed a rapid march through a desert country and subdued the tribes in revolt. He was one of the first recognized royalists to rally to the support of the republic.

SPIRITUALISTS IN SESSION

Investigators of Psychic Phenomena Begin Their Annual Camp Meeting

Lily Dale, N. Y., July 9.—The National Spiritualists' Association For the United States and Canada, comprising the main body of American men and women who believe in the investigation of psychic phenomena through mediums, opened here today its annual camp meeting, which corresponds to the Chautauquas of other bodies. The sessions of the camp meeting will continue until Aug. 29.

During the camp meeting the best speakers and mediums will appear on daily programs. On Aug. 11 there will be a grand rally, with a symposium of addresses by prominent spiritualists, such as President Warne and Secretary Kates of the association. The camp meeting is intended partly to serve as an introduction to the national convention of the spiritualists, to be held in Rochester, N. Y., in October.

TROOPS PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES

Six Hundred Will Preserve the Peace at Glace Bay

Glace Bay, C. B., July 9.—Martial law prevails in the Southern Cape Breton coal fields. Troops are guarding the collieries of the Dominion company and an attempt will be made today to operate the mines under the military protection.

Six hundred men from the Canadian permanent forces arrived here late last night and at once went on duty. The men were distributed among the various collieries, and now the general feeling is that the scenes which attended the first three days of the strike are at an end.

Sentries with fixed bayonets guard the approaches to all the collieries, and at No. 2 and No. 6, where the most trouble has been, machine guns command the approach.

A large number of men are now inside the fence at Dominion No. 2 and are housed in shacks there. With the troops to clear a way it is anticipated that many men who have stayed away during the past two days will return to work.

BACK TO ICY CLIME

America Has No Attractions For Lonesome Young Esquimaux

New York, July 9.—Mene Wallace, the unhappy Esquimaux who was brought to the United States fourteen years ago by Commander Peary, will sail on steamer Rosalind, from New York, tomorrow, bound for Greenland, where, among his own people, he will at least be permitted to live again the only life that seems to him worth living. Officers of the steamship company will finance the trip.

Mene is the only survivor of six Esquimaux who were brought to New York by Peary. The others, including Mene's father, died of pneumc

HEAVY FINE.

Chauffeur Fined For Reckless Driving at Houghs Neck.

One of the largest fines ever imposed on an automobile driver was that given Henry Scott in the Quincy court this morning. Scott was complained of by Officer Goodhue for reckless driving at Houghs Neck the night of July 5. The officer and other witnesses testified that Scott came to the beach early in the evening when he was held up because his rear light was not burning. Later or about 11 o'clock Scott started up Sea street with a load of girls and drove his machine through the crowded streets at a speed estimated to be 25 miles per hour.

At that time there was a crowd of people on the streets as the dances were just over. Here again Scott failed to have his rear light burning.

After hearing the evidence the court imposed a fine of $40.

STILL ALARM.

The combination from Central fire station was called out on a still alarm at 5.50 Thursday afternoon for a fire on the Granite street railroad bridge. When the apparatus arrived the fire was under control, Fred Williams, the popular clerk at E. J. Murphy's drug store having thrown several buckets of water on the blaze.

The firemen used a hand chemical to extinguish the blaze. The damage was slight.

Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

The Social Realm

Because the rose must fade
Shall I not love the rose?
Because the summer shade
Passes when winter blows,
Shall I not rest me there

Because the sunset sky
Makes music in my soul,

Shall I not take the whole
Of beauty that it gives
While yet it lives?

WATER TOWER ATTACHMENT

Recent Addition to Central Station Combination

The combination hose wagon at the Central Fire Station has just been equipped with a water tower attachment which is said to be capable of doing great work.

The new nozzle is similar to that used on the fire boats of the city of Boston. It is fastened to the side of the wagon and is operated by the men on the wagon. It is fed by two lines of hose from a hydrant and throws a stream from an inch to two inches in diameter. It may also be supplied with water by the steamer if found necessary.

When in use it throws a powerful stream capable of reaching the top of any building in Quincy and when drawn up near a building can almost flood it.

The new attachment was tried out Thursday night at the Central Fire station and Chief Williams says that it is a wonderful invention and a great addition to the apparatus of the department. In fact it is equally as good as an additional steamer would be. It will be given another trial next Monday evening on Quincy avenue near the fire station.

GAME WILL BE PLAYED OVER

Rockland's Protest of Game of June 26 Is Allowed

A special meeting of the directors of the Old Colony league was held last night in Hotel Belmont, Brockton, to consider the protest of the Rockland team against the game played with Quincy in this city on Saturday, June 26. The Rockland club claimed that under the rules no player who was under contract to any other league club or is under the protection of the national commission, shall participate in an Old Colony league game. The protested man is Tommy Gilroy, who twirled Quincy to victory against Rockland on June 26. The Rockland club claims that Gilroy was under the protection of the national commission at the time and was therefore ineligible to play in the Old Colony league. They asked last night that the game be thrown out.

After hearing both sides of the case the directors of the league unanimously voted to have the game thrown out and to have it played over again at some future date, to be decided by the managers of the Quincy and Rockland clubs. The Rockland and Quincy clubs did not vote on the protest.

Those present at the meeting were President Jerome F. Murphy, Secretary Frank Alger, Thomas V. Nash of the Weymouth club, John Hazelum of the Stoughton club, William McCarthy of the Taunton club, Treasurer Shaw of Rockland, President D. M. O'Brien of the Rockland club, J. B. Mahar, manager of the Rockland team and Manager George Guston and Secretary John Ford of the local team.

The Quincy representatives told their side of the story in a straight forward manner saying that the local management thought they were doing all right when they allowed Gilroy to play. They said that they understood that Gilroy was a free agent and eligible to play anywhere. The other directors and managers, including the Rocland officials, said that they appreciated the position the Quincy club was in and said they thought the Quincy management meant to be fair enough about the matter. They assured the local representative that there was no feel-

PROVES HE IS NOT A LEPER

Chickens Which He Raised and Their Eggs Were Sold In Open Market In Washington While He Was In Isolation—Doctor Says Eggs Would Have Carried Disease Had There Been Any Infection

New York, July 10.—John R. Early, the young southerner heralded about the country as a leper, gave a reception last night to prove that he is well. It was held at the New York Skin and Cancer hospital and was attended by medical men, a number of Early's friends and a sprinkling of the general public interested in the case.

Early, who lately came from Washington, where he had been locked up for nearly a year, received his guests cordially and discussed his recent isolation.

The reception was arranged by Dr. L. D. Bulkley, the specialist who brought Eearly here, to show that there is nothing leprous about the man.

"What did you do when they had you shut up?" he was asked.

"I raised chickens," he said, "and both the chickens and their eggs were sent in to Washington and sold in the open market. They wouldn't let my wife come within ten feet of me, but they had a watchman who brought me my food. He took no special precautions about it, either."

"If Early had been a leper those eggs might have spread the disease all over Washington," added Dr. Bulkley. "If it had been infectious at all, the eggs would have carried it."

What Early has, Bulkley explained, is a simple inflammation of the skin, produced by the alkali used in the pulp mill where he formerly worked in North Carolina.

Early will soon be free to go, Bulkley said, a careful examination having shown not the slightest trace of the baccillus of leprosy. But as a precaution, Early will probably be kept at the hospital for a week or so more, so that the diagnosis may be confirmed by other dermatologists.

Colombian Government Expects to Make Peace With Revolutionists

Bogota, July 10.—General Ortiz, who is in command of the steamers in the hands of the revolutionists, has telegraphed to the governor of Cartagena that he wishes to avoid bloodshed. Peace commissioners are now on the way from Bogota to Barranquilla, which is in the hands of the revolutionists, and they will endeavor to bring about a settlement of the movement against the government.

General Valencia, whom the insurgents have proclaimed president, but who has issued a public manifesto disapproving of their act, will arrive here tomorrow. The Colombian government, according to an official statement, has stopped military preparations.

PROBE OF CIVIL SERVICE

Suspicion That Law Is Not Administered as It Should Be

Washington, July 10.—General investigation of the operation of the civil service law to be made by the senate committee on civil service is authorized in a resolution introduced by Senator Borah, in co-operation with Chairman Cummins of that committee.

The resolution authorizes the committee to send for persons and papers and to take all steps necessary to insure a complete inquiry. Cummins says that if the resolution is adopted the subject will be earnestly entered upon. He says that there have been many criticisms of the law and many complaints as to its administration, including charges of favoritism.

EXPLOSION ON OIL BARGES

Two Men Probably Fatally Hurt and Heavy Monetary Loss

Providence, July 10.—Two men were probably fatally injured, the plant of the Texas Oil company here badly damaged and a lumber schooner burned to the water's edge this morning by the explosion of oil on two oil barges.

The barges contained 135,000 gallons of oil and were completely destroyed.

Missing Man's Body Found

Lynn, Mass., July 10.—The body of John Murray, aged 52 years, of Marblehead, was found tumbling about in the surf off Swampscott. Murray had been missing since July 1. There were some bruises on the body, but the medical examiner said that death was not due to foul play.

Marquis of Ripon Dead

London, July 10.—George F. S. Robinson, the first Marquis of Ripon, formerly lord of the privy seal, died last nevening. He was born in 1827.

SHOW LASTS SIXTY DAYS

All Kinds of Air Craft May Be Seen at Exposition In Germany

Frankfort, Germany, July 10.—Among the exhibits in the great international balloon and aeroplane exposition which opened in this city today and will remain open until October, are flying machines as well known as those of the Wright brothers, Count von Zeppelin, Major von Parseval, Count de la Vaulx and others whose recent exploits in navigating the air have held the attention of the entire civilized world.

During the exposition dirigible airships of rigid and nonrigid patterns, aeroplanes and spherical ballones will be seen in flight, and facilities will be offered visitors to make trips in airships, starting from the exhibition grounds. For sixty days during the exhibition there will be races and other competitions of a sporting and military character.

Experiments with aeroplanes will be carried out on a specially prepared velodrome in the grounds. The Zeppelin and Parseval airships will take passengers on excursions along the Rhine. During the races communication will be kept up by means of the exhibition's own wireless telegraph system and carrier pigeons. Numerous prizes have been offered.

PERSISTENCE REWARDED

Suffragettes Succeed In Getting Asquith to Accept Petition

London, July 10.—Four suffragettes who, under the leadership of Mrs. Despard, have been waiting patiently for the past few days in the vicinity of parliament, waylaid Premier Asquith in Downing street and tried to push through the police cordon which was drawn around the premier's residence. The women shouted: "Petition, petition; will you grant us a hearing?"

The premier turned on the steps of his home, saying: "I will take the petition."

He descended the steps and, having accepted the petition, entered his house without listening to any explanation.

The deputation withdrew, but, on returning later, were arrested and charged at the police court with disorderly conduct. They were remanded until Monday.

GEORGIA SHERIFFS' BUNGLING WORK

Man on Scaffold For Second Time Dies of Strangulation

Nashville, Ga., July 10.—With blood flowing from his mouth and begging piteously for water, Marshal Lewis, a negro, was led back to the scaffold to be hanged a second time after the sheriffs had made a bungling job of the first attempt to execute him.

The drop of six feet stretched the cotton rope so that the man's feet touched the earth. He was cut down and with the aid of one man mounted the scaffold a second time, talking coherently.

Lewis shot and killed Clifford Rutherford, assistant postmaster at Lenox, Ga., on April 12. He confessed his guilt.

FLEW FORTY-FIVE FEET

Trolley Car Jumps Curve While Going Twenty-Five Miles an Hour

Barrington, R. I., July 10.—Ten persons were injured, Motorman Fletcher and Conductor Greene probably fatally, when a trolley car left the rail at a curve in West Barrington.

The car was running at a rate of about twenty-five miles an hour and at the curve, where four highways cross, it is said that the street light was out and that Fletcher, mistaking a lamp further on for the one marking the curve, had no time to shut off the power and slacken speed. As a result the car was ripped from its trucks and hurled forty-five feet across the highway, where it brought up against a tree.

The Return Of Gypsy.

By ADDISON HOWARD GIBSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

In the amethystine haze of an April morning on the Arizona foothills the cowboys of Circle H wheeled their bronchos into the gray dust of the trail.

There was a wild jangle of spurs, a clatter of vestive hoofs, and they were off like one of the brown whirlwinds of their own desert to meet Gypsy and "the boss," who were coming to the ranch to spend a week.

They had derisively hurled "Arios, Layne!" at the bronzed young foreman as he leaned against the corral gate. They could not understand why he had persistently refused to join their reception committee.

It really was not the coming of Herington, "the boss," that was calling forth the unusual demonstration, but the return of Gypsy, their little comrade of the range, whom they had not seen for four years. It never entered their simple heads that two years of school in France, followed by two more of travel and society, might have changed their merry, fun loving little pet.

She was coming back as she had promised—that was the dominant consideration—and off they went, whooping.

Ned Layne, however, knew differently. He had seen her a year ago, and the knowledge had come to him then. She was a young lady, and they—and he—were only cowboys. As he leaned against the gate he thought of the old days. He remembered her eyes and voice on the evening before she departed into the world, and he remembered how she had said to him:

"Goodby, Ned. Father is going to give you the place of foreman. Make the most of your opportunities and buy out the Bar T. Don't forget me, Ned," and her eyes had been moist when she suddenly dropped them.

"I'll never forget you, Gypsy," he had promised stoutly, pressing the hand that fluttered in his.

"When I come home to the ranch I want you to be here to meet me," she added.

"I'll be sure to meet you," he returned. Then the train had borne her away to the new life, so different from that among the boys on her father's ranch.

Ned Layne and Gypsy Herington had been great comrades in those care free days, and if now he was the only one not riding out to meet her it was because he felt that those old days were gone forever and would best be forgotten. There should be nothing on his part to remind her of old promises and old thoughts that could have no place in her life any more.

Just a year ago Layne had seen her once at a great hotel in New York, where the wealthy ranchman and his daughter were stopping. He had gone all the way to the far eastern city for no other purpose than to see her, but the result had been a sadly discouraging one, and he had said farewell to his dreams. Gypsy, dressed in a bewildering gown and moving with bewildering ease and elegance among the elegant throng that oppressed the ranchman, was on her way to the opera under escort of an immaculately clad young Englishman possessed of a big title, and Layne was left to be entertained by her father.

She had asked him to come back and breakfast with them, but her changed bearing and the cool treatment accorded to him by the condescending nobleman had nettled Layne. He took the very next train back to the land of sunshine, where people were not proud and stuck up and did not forget old friends.

On his return the cowboys of Circle H had besieged him eagerly for news of their little chum of the ranch.

"Yes, I saw her," he answered, veiling the bitterness in his heart, "and she's a great belle in her society togs. She has a beau, Lord Percy Ellington, one of those plug hatted chaps, and she seems to like his attentions all right. The boss says he followed them back from Europe."

Having imparted this information to the news hungry men, Ned had gone off by himself under the starlight and finally abandoned all his old plans and hopes.

Ever since that night the young man had been formulating a plan for his future which he kept strictly to himself, resolved to execute the first step toward it when the owner of the ranch returned to his own again. Accordingly he mounted Muggins, his own pony, and rode rapidly away across the brown mesa before the party could arrive.

From an eminence his well trained eyes caught the blur of rising dust far up the trail. Nearer approach enabled him to recognize the ranch buckboard driven by Bob Cat Nick. Seated by the driver was the trim figure of Gypsy, while the stout form of Herington and a slender man wearing a derby occupied the back seat. Trailing behind or galloping proudly on either side of the vehicle rode the adoring cowboys, chatting merrily with their old friend.

At sight of the derby hat a frown crossed Ned's face, and, putting spur to the unoffending Muggins, the disgruntled young horseman rode off down the gulch.

"Ellington along!" he exclaimed. "Yet what right have I to be surprised or care for that? No doubt Herington wants to show his prospective son-in-law what a fine ranch he has for his daughter."

When he had reached the live oak thicket quite a distance away he let Muggins rest. Throwing himself upon the ground, he surrendered his mind to a train of miserable thoughts.

He had lain there a long time, when suddenly he was aroused from his bitter reflections by the clatter of hoofs over the rocky trail.

"And this is the way you keep your promise?" she said reproachfully.

He scrambled to his feet and, throwing one arm across the saddle on his pony's back, leaned there till he could summon self mastery.

"What do you care, Gypsy?" he finally interrogated, his eyes stubbornly refusing to meet hers.

Some of the brightness left the girl's face as she noted the misery on his.

"Tell me what it all means, Ned," she begged. "Why are you not yourself? Why do I find you so changed?"

"Changed? Heavens!" and he could not forbear a gesture of impatience. "You"—

"Here," she interrupted in the scolding tone of her privileged girlhood, "we come all the way from New York to pay you a visit at Circle H, arrive and find this on the table," and she held up a letter. "What do you mean by resigning? Why do you want to leave father's ranch? He is wild over it and sent me to find you."

"I should think Ellington might object to your riding after me," he remarked, his bronze cheeks reddening with scorn.

"Ellington?" Then a light broke over her face. "That funny lord! Why, Lord Percy is in England long ago. Finding me too loyal an American to buy a foreign title, he ended the long siege and departed."

"Who came with you and your father, then?" he inquired.

"Oh, that was Cousin Cyril, who is just out of college and needs the tonic of our mountain ozone."

Slipping lightly from the back of Slap Dash, she came over to Ned and in her old way put both hands on his strong young shoulder.

"Now, Ned," she said, "you won't leave Circle H, will you? Father needs you."

"Why did you treat me as you did in New York?" he moodily demanded, evading the question.

"Before a stranger—and Lord Percy at that?" asked she, laughing roguishly. "If, sir, you had come to breakfast next morning, I—I might have treated you otherwise."

He turned, facing her squarely. With one of his strong hands he imprisoned both of hers and held them against his breast.

"What would you have done if—if I had come?" he said breathlessly.

Her lovely face went very crimson under the searchlight of his eyes, but she answered bravely, "Ned, I'd have kissed you right out."

The foothills looked natural again. The sun shone with its old time glint and shimmer upon the gray desert sand. He had no longer the feverish desire to get away to fresh scenes.

"I'll stay at Circle H always, Gypsy, since you wish it," and, taking his written resignation from her, he tore it into fragments. "Say, sweetheart," he added, putting an arm tenderly round her waist, "I'll buy out Bar T tomorrow, and we'll run both ranches together."

Some Bathroom Mottoes.

It is very odd that while mottoes have been made, invented and borrowed for every other room in the house, the bathroom should be mottoless. Verses appropriate to the guest room come prettily framed, the dining room walls sometimes show a mural decoration of good cheer, an appropriate verse is carved into the library mantel, while smoking room, den and living room each boasts a special incentive to smoke, loaf or indulge in cheery chatter in painted, pyrographed or stenciled verse or prose. Only the bathroom remains mottoless.

Surely, with so vast a field for invention or imitation, there should be no dearth of mottoes for the bathroom. For example, take Bacon's "Cleanness of body was ever esteemed to proceed from a due reverence to God."

> The loss of wealth is loss of dirt,
> As sages at all time assert.
> The happy man's without a shirt.

Or Pope's scornful prod, "A heap of dust alone remains of thee." "Ay, there's the rub!" might be carved into the towel rack, while let into or over the tub Byron's "Once more upon the waters, yet once more."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Why the Indian Wanted a Desk.

A story is told of Quanah Parker, one of the old Comanche chiefs. Parker had been extremely valuable in bringing the Comanches into friendly relations with the whites. He found himself getting on in years, but without any property, and his white neighbors thought it would be a good idea to collect money to build him a house. They did this, and when the house was ready they told him, and he went to see it.

"There is no furniture here," he said.

"What do you want?" they asked.

He replied he wanted this and that and added, "I want a big desk—a great big desk."

"What do you want that for?"

"Well," he said, "I want to go in there and sit back in my chair and put my feet up on that desk, and some one will come in and knock at the door and say, 'Is this Mr. Parker?' 'Yes.' 'I want to speak to you.' And I will say, 'Oh, go away; I'm busy today.'"—Delineator.

LAUNCHING OF CLERMONT

Duplicate of First Practical Steamship to Be In Naval Spectacle

New York, July 10.—With appropriate ceremonies and speeches, the firing of guns and the blowing of whistles and in the presence of a group of prominent citizens the replica of Robert Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, was launched today at Mariner's Island, Staten Island.

The Clermont's sponsor was Mrs. Sutcliffe, granddaughter of Robert Fulton. An address on the historical features of the occasion was delivered by Edward H. Hall, the author and historian, who is assistant secretary of the Hudson-Fulton commission.

The duplicate of the first practicable steamship has been constructed for the purpose of playing a conspicuous part in the coming great celebration at the end of September and the beginning of October of the tercentenary of the discovery of the Hudson river by Henry Hudson and of the centennial of Fulton's epoch making feat of steaming from New York to Albany and back. The Clermont and the replica of the Half Moon, Hudson's vessel, which has been built in Holland, will be central features of the two weeks' celebration. Together they will proceed up the Hudson to receive the acclamation of the throngs that will crowd the banks of the river.

With the Clermont and the Half Moon will be reproductions of other historic vessels, such as the first sailing ferryboat navigated by the early Vanderbilt between Manhattan and Staten Island. The historic vessels will form the nucleus of a splendid naval parade composed in part of warships of this and other nations. The whole will be the most imposing and interesting naval spectacle ever seen in America.

$500,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

New York Detectives Keeping Sharp Lookout For European Thieves

New York, July 10.—In a search for thieves who are reported to have successfully engineered a $500,000 jewel robbery in London a week ago, New York detectives boarded the liner Mauretania before she docked and went over the vessel thoroughly. Both cabin and steerage passengers were scrutinized, but no arrests resulted. Other incoming boats for the next fortnight will be subjected to a similar search.

The robbery was one of the boldest which has occurred in London in many years. A Paris jeweler named Goldschmidt was the victim. He was held up and robbed in the lavatory of a restaurant. The thieves, it is believed, are well known continental experts. They are supposed to have sailed for America to market the gems.

ALL IS QUIET AT GLACE BAY

Provincial Miners Are Protected by the Militia

Glace Bay, C. B., July 10.—The presence of troops at the collieries of the Dominion Coal company had a quieting effect on the strike situation, and there was no interference on the part of the striking miners belonging to the United Mine Workers' with any of the men of the Provincial Workmen's association who desired to go into the mines.

Efforts were made by Mayor Douglas to have the troops withdrawn, but without success.

That the strike will now resolve itself into a waiting struggle is expected here. Under military protection, the output of the mines was materially increased yesterday. Approximately 3500 tons of coal was mined at the various collieries. Indications now point to a general strike of the United Mine Workers all over the province.

After a direct appeal to President Taft that the cavalrymen be permitted to stop one day in New York, authorization was obtained from General Wood, to whom the request had been referred, to have the command break its journey here.

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Keith's Theatre.

Week after week at Keith's big attractions are following each other in rapid succession ,the next to come being the famous Romany Opera company, the largest organization of the kind ever presented in vaudeville,—in fact is as strong as many of the productions that give a whole evening's entertainment. It will include in its present visit most of last season's successes and favorites, Miss Florence Quinn, the wonderful soprano, who made a tremendous hit and more than duplicated it as the leading soloist of "The Red Mill" Company; Sig. Ettore Campana; Sig. Ressini and Alexander Bevan who is still at the head of the organization. For the present engagement an entirely new production has been made under the title of "La Festo di Mezz Agosto." There are no less than sixteen people in the company, and it will be perhaps impossible to get together a company of artists in one engagement at any other time to equal this. The Romany Opera Company will be the leading attractions on another exceptionally strong bill, which will include a great Boston favorite, Charlie Case, the fellow who talks about his father. James Horne, the Boston leading man will return in the sketch "How To Win A Woman" in which the leading part will be taken by Kathryn Purnell, one of the best known actresses, who for years has been out at the head of her own company. In the cast will also be the old time actor, who has since won fame as a dramatic author. Justin Adams, author of the play "Quincy Adams Sawyer."

Orpheum Theatre.

Next week the Lindsay Morison Stock Company at the Orpheum theatre will present William Hawarth's greatest of all American naval dramas "The Ensign." No piece of late years has caused such comment as this play has. For aside from its intensely interesting plot and the beautiful love story that is told ithe play possesses historical value greater than that of any modern play. "The Ensign" deals primarily with an incident of the Civil War which is familiar to every school boy and girl in America. This incident, namely the Mason-Sidell episode came very near involving this country in a war with Great Britian. Many of the events of the Civil War are depicted so accurately that even historians have found them of value in compiling their own works. Perhaps the most interesting figure in the play is that of the martyred President Lincoln and many delightful traits of his wonderful character are presented. The leading role of "Ensign Ben Baird"' will be portrayed by Howell Hansel while the opposite role of Alice Greer will be taken by Miss Edna Bruns. Both of these characters furnish ample opportunity for a display of the talents which both Mr. Hansel and Miss Bruns are known to possess. Other favorites who will be congenially cast will be Mary Sanders, James Seeley, Rose Morison, Walter Walker, Katherine Clinton, William Hasson, Beverly West, Wyrley Brich and James Devine.

CINDERELLA AT WONDERLAND.

In addition to all the other great and pleasing attractions of Wonderland, that famous park down by the sea at Revere, the management now announces a free show of high cost and surpassing brilliancy and beauty, the fairy spectacle "Cinderella." The first performance will be given Monday night the 12 inst., on a specially constructed stage in the center of the great board walk area so that it can be easily and comfortably seen by thousands. There will be absolutely no extra charge of any kind connected with this captivating production in which about 50 young and pretty girls will appear in the dances, choruses, marches and so on. There will also be several clever and well-known players in the character parts and all will be handsomely costumed. Brilliant and novel electrical effects will be used and everything done to surpass, if possible the highly successful production of last season, "Alice in Wonderland." The little ones especially will want to see "Cinderella" for while the greater part of the production has been planned to please the adults there will be much in the unfolding of the story and in the introduction of the characters, particularly the elves and fairies, that will be sure to delight and mystify the children. Miss Irene Martin ,of the Castle Square Opera Company will be in the title role and the other parts will be as well cast. "Cinderella" will only be given in the evenings at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

Why not build a bridge to Squantum?

Now let's see if the automobilists believe in signs.

It is probable that "Kelly pool," by any other name would cost as much.

The House of Representatives revised the tariff down; the senate revised it up and now the house is going to revise the senate's revision. In the end the consumer will sample the real revision. At this distance it looks like the same old broth, a little more highly seasoned.

Many Quincy people of various creeds were glad to see and welcome Rev. H. Evan Cotton to our city Thursday. As rector of Christ church Rev. Mr. Cotton endeared himself to all classes and creeds in a manner that the many years since he left cannot efface.

There is a class of people, and they are not the ignorant, or low bred either, who ought to learn that the new post office is not a place to sling ink about promiscuously. If the building needs decorating no doubt the government is capable of doing it without the assistance of black and white sketch artists.

The highly interesting stories concerning individuals in and around this city which have been appearing in certain Boston papers of late, when contrasted with the hard, cold facts as brought out by careful and impartial investigation, would seem to show that there are many people who realize the value of a press agent.

What will probably be the last council meeting of the summer will be held Monday night. The present council has been the busiest on record. So far this season there have been more orders considered that were brought before the council during the entire year of 1908. Let's hope the councilmen will enjoy their vacation and come back rested and with renewed vigor to conduct the city's business for the best interests of all the citizens.

The order for placing rubber tires on the new fire engine evidently came in time. The concern making the engine was about to instal special springs under the fire box to prevent the enginemen from being shaken to pieces while riding on the machine. No doubt the machinery would have suffered as severely with steel tires on the engine and it was piece of sound judgment that prompted the order for rubber tires, even though the idea came at the 11th hour.

In the great fleet of Uncle Sam's sea fighters that are assembling in Cape Cod bay, Quincy is furnishing ships that will strike on top of the water and under the sea as well. In that fleet will be three battleships, two scout cruisers, a protected cruiser, a torpedo boat destroyer and six or seven submarines, not a bad showing for a city that has been in the ship building business less than 10 years.

Although it is not midsummer yet the politicians have already begun to plough up the political field preparatory to the fall campaign. Strange to say, the state election, with its representative and senatorial fights of prime importance to Quincy, seem to fail of attraction just at present, the mayoralty fight taking precedence over every other political subject. On the Republican side there is a halt, waiting to see of Mayor Shea will be a candidate for reelection. If he does not there will be the prettiest kind of a fight on the Republican side of the house for the nomination. So far the mayor hasn't said a word to indicate what his position will be. He apparently, will be a factor in or out of the race.

The police department is to be congratulated for its vigilance in apprehending the suspect in the assault case at the Fore River district for the assault was a particularly atrocious one. No city or town can afford to let crimes of that nature go on the records with nothing but a question mark behind them.

Quincy was the first city of the state as regards applications for savings bank life insurance during the week ending July 3. Boston was second and Haverhill third. The total written at the Tubular Rivet and Stud Company in this city amounted to $10,000 and at the Fore River Ship Building Company, $6,937. The work is progressing quietly but surely in a number of communities.

Among gentlemen there is such a thing recognized as honor. So far this year the autoists who rush through our city have not been molested. Police officers have asked them to run slowly but the slow pace has not been kept up. Now the police will display signs warning the autoists to run slowly through the streets of Quincy and, in return assuring a square deal. So far, the police have gone the limit in testing the code of honor. It is up to the autoists now to comply with the law and with the polite requests of the police department which represents the citizens of Quincy. If there is any more fast driving it is fair to presume there will be arrests and the autoists cannot blame the authorities of Quincy.

Quincy has built up so rapidly within the last two or three years that it would be hard work to pick out one place more than another that has made a record for itself in this line. Down on the westerly side of the track back of the Norfolk Downs depot, though, there is a fast-growing colony on land that a few years ago was considered almost uninhabitable. The swampy places have been slowly but surely filled in and home building in that section is continually going on. Manufacturies, too are increasing there and a new concern is to begin its plant there immediately. The people who have settled down in that section are akin to the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before.

INSTALLATION.

Officers of Manet Encampment I. O. O. F. Duly Installed into Office.

The newly elected officers of Manet Encampment I. O. O. F., were installed Friday evening by D. D. G. WARNING TO AUTOMOBILES.

Square deal automobile signs were put up Friday on Adams street near Presidents bridge and at the Quincy Point bridge. The signs read:

Automobiles take notice
Narrow Street-Settled

Use great care and get a square deal.

These signs will be tried out and if the automobile drivers heed them they will not be molested as the Mayor believes that it is better to use the automobiles fairly than to operate traps. If the signs do not do the work steps will be taken to rigidly enforce the law.

LOST CHILD.

The lost child call at 7.19 Friday night followed by one round from Box 42 was to summons help to search for Mary the 5 year old daughter of Michael Scully of 4 Clark avenue who had been missing since 9 o'clock that morning. The child was found soon after the alarm on Whitwell street.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Editors Daily Ledger.

Your issue of Thursday last, contains an alleged report of the meeting of The Board of Trade on the previous evening. According to this report, the betterment act was discussed. the "general sentiment" being against this method of constructing new streets.

On inquiry, I find that only six members were present, that the discussion was informal, not previously announced, and that only two of the six members spoke in opposition. One of these two, who by the way opened the discussion, owns property on a street now under consideration before the City Council for acceptance. As the Board of Trade has a membership of one hundred and three, an expression of opinion by only two members, especially under these circumstances, can hardly be considered as the "general sentiment" of this organization.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

MISS DENNEHY THE HEROINE

Facts About That Drowning Rescue at Squantum

There has been considerable talk lately about a story in a certain Boston paper, concerning a brave rescue of four boys from drowning off the Squantum shore. Careful inquiry at first brought no results to the local scribes about the affair and it was thought to be a weird dream of some Boston writer. The apparent truth of the matter came to light this morning, when a Ledger man got onto the story.

The real heroine seems to be Miss Margaret Dennehy of Squantum street, Montclair, and although she has as yet received no credit for her daring act, she appears to be the girl who so bravely brought the four boys to safety. Miss Marguerite Donohue is the name of the girl who it is said saved the boys, but no girl of that name could be located in Squantum or Montclair.

The real story about the affair is that Miss Dennehy and a Miss Margaret Donohue of Dorchester were out rowing on Thursday afternoon, the day of the rescue, and seeing the plight of the four boys, went to their assistance. It was Miss Denneby's boat and she was the one who went to the boys and rescued them. The four youngsters were on a raft and had been blown across the river. The boards of which the raft was constructed, parted and the boys became frightened. Miss Dennehy immediately took in the situation and started for the raft. The boys were transferred from the raft to the boat and taken safely to the shore. The affair happened on the Neponset river up near the golf links.

According to a story in a certain Boston paper last evening, Miss Donohue is given all the credit and Miss Dennehy is not mentioned at all. This paper also printed a photograph of Miss Donohue, as well as an interview with the mayor of this city. In the interview it stated that Mayor Shea said that the girl was entitled to a Carnegie medal and that if the Carnegie commission did not give her one "the citizens of Quincy will subscribe a fund and present her with a suitable medal."

Mayor Shea when seen this morning denied emphatically that he had ever had any interview with the author of the story and said that the first he knew of it was when the Ledger representative showed him the article in question.

He immediately called the Boston paper by telephone, but could get little satisfaction. He was informed that the story came from their regular correspondent, but the city editor did not know what his name was. He only knew that he lived either in Quincy or Roxbury.

The whole thing was thought at first to be a fake, but as usual the truth came out after a while and the case is now cleared up. It is always best however to be exact in a thing of this kind and to give the credit where it is due.

Miss Dennehy is only about 17 years old and is very modest about her daring feat. She says that anyone would do the same thing if the chance was offered. It was a daring piece of business, however, and the heroine ought to be recognized in some way. The wind was blowing at pretty good speed that day and it was quite a thing to transfer four frightened boys from the raft to the row boat and take them safely to the shore.

¶—Boston is not waiting for 1915 but is forging ahead and has passed St. Louis being now the fourth largest city in the United States with a population of 624,921. The population of greater Boston is reckoned as 1,195,663.

ing against the Quincy team over the matter, but said it was a question of where the rules must be followed to the letter. Otherwise there will be all kinds of ringers in the league under assumed names and this condition will soon break up any league. The local men stated that they thought that it was a general opinion that they did this thing purposely, but the other men present assured them that this was not the case, and that they understood that Quincy club simply got mixed up a little over the matter.

Another matter brought up before the meeting was that of applying for protection under the national agreement. It has been mentioned that the Old Colony league can gain admission in the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues under Class D, and if this is done the league will be protected from the big leagues, which of late have been drawing some of the best players from the ranks of the Old Colony, thus tending to injure the success of the league. Under the national agreement no player can be drafted unless he is paid for, and if there is any contract breaking, the offenders are out of organized baseball for good. Already many of the Old Colony league managers have expressed their desire to enter the national association. By so doing they can hold their players in the league, unless a sum of money, $300, is paid to the club for the man. This will also bring in quite a revenue to the league coffers, which would not otherwise be received. The price for admission to the league is $15 a club.

Last season the Stoughton team lost Henrickson, who is now playing with Brockton. Raymond the Rockland catcher, has been snapped up by the Binghamton club of the New York State league and Taunton lost Buck O'Brien to Indianapolis of the American Association. Ainsmith of the Rockland club has been taken by the Lawrence club. The latest grab and the one that is most interesting locally is the taking of the Quincy twirler, Roger Chase, by the Worcester club of the New England league. Of course all this will be stopped if the league goes under the national agreement.

Nothing definite was done last night about the matter, as it was thought better to have the matter looked up. President Murphy and Secretary Frank Alger were appointed a committee to look up the matter and report at a special meeting to be held later.

The sustaining of the Rockland protest and the throwing out of the game, will of course change the standing of the league. Quincy will drop from the tie with Dewey and Taunton for first place, and will stand in second place alone. Rockland will be in third place alone, while Randolph and Stoughton will be tied for last place. The following is the correct standing, not including today's games:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Dewey	5	3	625
Taunton	5	3	625
Quincy	4	3	571
Rockland	3	4	428
Randolph	3	5	375
Stoughton	3	5	375

MILTON TAX RATE.

A low tax rate and a just valuation make Milton a desirable place for taxpayers to live. The board of assessors announced the rate this week as $11.60, a reduction of $1.60. Milton not only has a low tax rate but has good streets, parks and every thing a modern town should have.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

The alarm from Box 31 at 6.28 this morning was for a slight fire on the roof of a five tenement house on Payne street owned by the heirs of Hannah McLennan. The fire probably started from sparks from a chimney and the damage will not exceed $10 for new shingles.

☞ Are you reading the Ethel Angier Boston letters published each Saturday in the Ledger?. They are bright and breezy, full of sketchy bits of Hub doings. Regular subscribers to the Ledger look forward to the letters each week with pleasant anticipations, enjoying the chatty style of the writer.

A new house is to be built on Sampson avenue for H. Winslow Chick of Middle street. J. H. G. Robinson has the contract. The cellar was completed this week.

An inward bound train was held up at the River street crossing about 6 o'clock last night by the breaking of an axle under the tender of the locomotive. No serious damage was done. Several trains however were late.

One of the gates at the Elm street crossing was out of commission all day yesterday, a team having collided with it at 2 A. M., and smashed the iron upright, knocking it over. An extra flagman was required.

About 200 were pleased to accept the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Wales last Saturday afternoon at the annual lawn party to the people of All Souls church. There were games for the children while the adults were content to meet their friends.

All Souls church was favored with a pleasant day and delightful temperature for their annual picnic on Wednesday to Nantasket. Most of the party went on a special electric car at 9.30 A. M., including Rev. F. R. Griffin, George O. Wales and others.

A SCHOOL PROBLEM.

A question of doubt arose in the minds of the school committee of Marshfield recently about the awarding of a medal that might raise a difference of opinion among the school authorities in Quincy. The facts are as follows. The L. S. Richards medals are given annually to the scholar in the High school also in the grammar schools of Marshfield for excellence in scholarship, character and attendance. The school committee and superintendent decide at the graduation to whom the medals shall be awarded.

The student in the High school who stood the highest in the class by the record was a young lady, but it was found a few days before the graduation that she had been cribbing and that of course told against her character, and she lost her chance of getting the medal. The question then arose whether it should be awarded to the scholar standing the next highest, a boy who stood the test in all of the conditions, and who knew of the girl's cribbing all along for a year or more, but failed to tell of it until just before graduation. The committee came to the conclusion that because the boy failed to tell of it before he should be deprived of the medal and it should go to the third best scholar but they did not want the decision to rest upon their shoulders, so they voted to leave the decision to the donor of the medals Mr. L. S. Richards.

After consulting others including Mr. Henry Wright, teacher in the Boston English High school, Mr. Richards differed from the decision of the committee and awarded the medal to the 2d highest, feeling that the young man, notwithstanding he did not tell of the cribbing until the last thing, (probably dreading to do it) earned the medal complying to all the conditions required. Mr. Wright and other college graduates agreed with Mr. Richards in his decision. What do Quincy school teachers and others say? L. S. R.

...ER ART FORGERS

PARIS THE CLEARING HOUSE.

The French Capital Is the Chief Mart For the Disposal of Imitation Antiques—Italy Leads In the Production of the Spurious Articles.

Italy has always been the classic soil for fabrications, but in some departments Holland and Paris run her close. Vienna has a specialty for rock crystal and thirteenth century gold work, Florence and Lucca for fourteenth century armor, London imitates the pate tendre of Sevres, Constantinople makes oriental weapons, Madrid Damascus swords, Dresden sculptured ivories, Aix-la-Chapelle pewter plate, Berlin Roman potteries, Amsterdam wrought iron, Rotterdam Indian porcelains, Odessa tiaras and antique jewelry, while Paris is the chief mart and clearing house for all these products.

Italian bronze statuettes, now so much sought, are turned out with dexterity and taste in Tuscany. It is said that it was from one of these foundries there issued the group of virtue oppressing vice, assigned to Gian Bologna, which is now the choice treasure of a celebrated French collection. Switzerland makes a specialty of Louis XV. repousse work.

As for renaissance and mediaeval jewelry, hardly a bit is real except what is in museums. It is not to be bought. In the disturbed epochs that followed the renaissance precious stones were broken from their settings and sold to meet urgent needs. The same need for extreme diffidence applies to the pretty bibelots of the eighteenth century, watches, chatelaines, bonbonnieres. Of modern fabrication, too, is the enameled jewelry of the sixteenth century. Vienna turns it out to perfection. And so cunning are the makers that, for example, they take care that the ring on which a locket is suspended should show signs of friction, well aware that the buyer who thinks himself cute will look for this indication.

As for the peasant jewelry, now so much bought and sought in Florence on the old bridge and elsewhere, the genuine is long ago exhausted, for, after all, peasants own but a limited stock. It all consists of clever copies or more often tasteful combinations of old designs. The stones, too, despite their fine designations, are rarely anything else but those marvelously clever tinted rock crystals so ingeniously made in Switzerland and sold by the ton if desired.

Venice is the great depot for ebony inlaid with ivory, and cabinets incrusted with tortoise shell, once its glory and now in their decadence, are still the joy of traveling Americans on the lookout for bargains. Buy if the object pleases you, but do not when you pay your dollars imagine you are exchanging new lamps for old. As for old clocks, grandfather or other, there is not one genuine in a hundred. Ware ivories! They are generally bone or, worse still, celluloid aged by the help of tobacco or of that invaluable handmaiden, licorice juice.

Nor does even glass defy the artificer. In the Museum of St. Germain can be seen Roman goblets, their outsides incrusted with dirt, whose iridescence has been obtained by fish scales fixed upon their surface. Sometimes real bits of iridescent glass film are transferred upon a modern framework. Cologne turns out lachrymatory vases by the gross, not even troubling to copy the old shapes, but using the long narrow bottles in which cheap sweets are sold. These are buried in dung after being smeared with some concoction of which the secret is guarded, and in a little time they issue from retirement patinated and iridescent. Old German and Bohemian glass is also excellently copied in Hamburg and Paris. Venice, too, has not forgotten its traditions and turns out its own old wares.

Sevres and Dresden innocently helped the counterfeiter by selling their not yet decorated pieces, if imperfect, for a trifle. On this genuine ground the forger worked with ease. This traffic has been stopped. Still the forger knows no obstacles or overcomes them, and false Sevres and Dresden are supplied by all dealers, and the purchaser rarely has the minute knowledge that will save him. In the eighteenth century oriental porcelains were openly made in England and Holland and sent to China for decoration, when they returned as real China porcelain, or the reverse process obtained. The porcelain was made in China and decorated in what was presumed to be the Chinese style in Europe. Paris at the present moment makes and exports old China porcelain, and many a tourist who buys a find at Hongkong or Shanghai merely brings back coals to Newcastle. Rhodian plates are made near Paris in absolute perfection. Except as a matter of sentiment there is no need to seek the old. Be cautious, too, in buying Greco-Roman pottery. It is mostly made at Naples.

Most of the genuine things were snapped up long ago or else are owned by museums or by the heirs of those for whom they were made and who do not need to part with them.—London National Review.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE EIGHTH WONDER.

Solomon in all his glory
Was not—maybe he was glad—
Decked out like the spring creations
That are now the latest fad.
He had reason to be thankful
For a favor such as that—
That he didn't round the diggings
Have to wear a new spring hat.

Think of Solomon, whose wisdom
Has been handed down to fame,
Sitting on his throne majestic
With his head in such a frame!
And if any of his ladies
Had come sailing into court
Thusly rigged I fear next morning
Would have found him one wife short.

Say, was ever in your knowledge
Doings in the name of art
Like the newest thing in headgear
That is designated "smart,"
Such a riot of disorder
Thrown together without plan
As the bunches being paid for Under protest by the man?

'Tis as though some straw and ribbons
In an earthquake had been caught
And the mighty forces working
Had the jumbled headpiece wrought
And had topped it off with feathers,
Fruits and blossoms or a bird,
Striving with a zeal misguided
For the height of the absurd.

Got the Answer.

"Why do I pay taxes?" vociferated the little man who was making a big kick because he imagined he wasn't getting all of the police protection, street lamps and general attention he thought he was entitled to.

"Because you can't dodge them," replied the man who couldn't resist the opportunity that came to hand to tell the truth.

Only Solution.

"What are you doing for a living?"

"Nothing."

"Pshaw! I didn't know you were married!"

Knew His Place.

"Who do you want?" asked the man who opened it.

"I am looking for the head of the house."

"Very sorry, sir, but you will have to call again. The baby is asleep."

Too Late For Him.

"So I have heard."

"Never seen one?"

"No; I often thought I would sit up long enough to witness one of these grand sights, but I always get sleepy and go to bed before the time."

Unclassified.

"He is quite a model man."

"Well, he has none of the smaller vices."

"What would you call the smaller vices?"

"Oh, I hardly know."

"Stealing elephants wouldn't be one, would it?"

Various Resorts.

"When man can fly I suppose he will spend his summers in Canada and his winters in Florida."

"Quite likely, unless"—

"Unless what?"

"He spends his winters in the repair shop and his summers in a hospital."

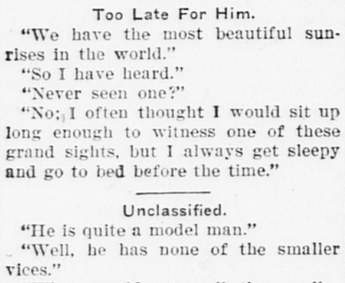
Worked Wonders.

"Jones is on the water wagon again."

"Reformed once more?"

"Well, he saw his wife's new hat, and nothing would convince him but what he had 'em again."

An Insinuation.



"His wife is a suffragette."

"What restaurant does he eat at?"

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The reason a sarcastic man is like a doctor is because he doesn't like to take his own medicine.

We can't see things as others do, for which we are more or less thankful.

We realize about once a century that we are insufferable egotists and unable to realize upon the realization.

It might cause us to grow pallid and pale if we could follow all the ramifications of one ordinary lie.

Being superstitious is an excellent excuse for doing things differently.

WINS PRINCESS IN FOOT RACE

Micmac Indian Runs Five Miles Close to Record Time

BEAUTIFUL BRIDE THE STAKE

Chief Agreed to Give Hand of His Daughter to Young Runner If He Could Outrun the Best White Man on Prince Edward Island—Victor Is Considered a Better Man Than Tom Longboat

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 10.—In order to win as his bride the daughter of a chief, Mike Thomas, a member of the Micmac Indian tribe, won a five-mile race last night against John Harley, a local crack. The Indian's time was 24:36 2-5, which is close to the world's record.

Thomas recently won a ten-mile road race under one hour. This was not enough to satisfy Chief Kars, whose beautiful daughter, Firefly, was being wooed by Thomas. Her hand was sought by many, but her smiles were only for the slim runner.

An agreement was reached between them and the chief that if the young brave could beat the best white man on the island the hand of his daughter could be had.

It was at sundown when the race started and up in the crowded stand Firefly sat with her father, and nearby were two sisters.

He took the lead that the start and held it by a few feet until the last quarter, when Harley went ahead, but not for long, for Thomas let out a war yell that was echoed across the valley by the entire tribe and he went by his white opponent like a flash, winning by twenty-five yards. Last night at Lennox Island the fires were burning as they never did before.

Thomas is considered a better man than Longboat. H ran thirty-five miles on the ice last winter.

He will be taken to Boston next season for the B. A. A. Marathon.

CZAR IN CENTRAL RUSSIA

Carefully Avoids Discussion of Politics at Poltava Celebration

Poltava, July 10.—The hopes of those who were expecting an important political announcement in connection with the celebration of the second centennial of the battle of Poltava were disappointed. Emperor Nicholas spent two hours among 4200 peasant delegates who had assembled here from Central Russia informally talking about their needs, but he avoided all reference to present problems in Russia and kept the historical importance of the celebration always to the fore.

The elaborate police precautions apparently were unnecessary, except to keep the spectators within bounds. The most significant feature of the festival was the spirit of loyalty exhibited toward the emperor in the heart of Russia.

OFF FOR Y. M. C. A. MEET

Main Body of American Delegates Sails From New York

New York, July 10.—On the steamer Kroonland, sailing today for Dover and Antwerp, is the main party of American delegates to the world's conference of Young Men's Christian associations, which is to be held in Barmen-Elberfeld, Germany, from July 28 to Aug. 2.

There will be many American delegates to the conference, at which the work of the associations in many lands will be discussed. The work has made rapid advances in Germany, which now has the largest number of separate associations, although it is still far behind the United States in total membership and value of property possessed by the associations.

CAR DASHED INTO FENCE

Two Men Killed In Canadian Automobile Club Races

Montreal, July 10.—C. K. Batchelder of Newport, Vt., and J. Twohey of Montreal were killed at the second annual races of the Canadian Automobile club at the Blue Bonnets track.

Batchelder was driving a sixty horsepower Stearns car in the ten mile open race for stock cars and Twohey was acting as his mechanic.

The Stearns dashed into the fence, flew over the embankment and came to a stop forty yards beyond. The two occupants were thrown into the air. Twohey's neck was broken and Batchelder was horribly mutilated, one stake having ripped open his abdomen and another knocking a great gash in his chest.

No Slaughter of Jews

Washington, July 10.—John H. Grout, American consul at Odessa, has cabled that there is no foundation for the reports that Jews are being massacred in Bessarabia. The conditions throughout the country, the dispatch says, are quiet.

Chinese Customs Ignored

Pekin, July 10.—The Russian officials continue to ignore the Chinese maritime customs on the Sungari river, which China recently opened to international commerce, and the boatmen refuse to conform to Chinese control.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

A Century of the Savings Banks—Sky-Line Dining Delights the Hubbites—The White City of Learning at the American Athens is to Have a New and Important Addition — The Bridge Walk over the New Three Million Dollar Cambridge Bridge Has Become a Summer Evening Amusement—A Memorial to the Late George T. Angell is to be Established.

Let New York plan for its "greater white way"; Boston is all the while improving its great white city of culture and healing. A new addition to the notable group of institutions in the Fenway will be that of the national headquarters of the United Society for Christian Endeavor. This building is to be erected at the junction of Longwood and Huntington avenues near the beautiful structures of the Harvard Medical school and the Normal school group. It will be in good company architecturally. Each year brings new features to add charm to this portion of Boston's park system, and it is only a question of a very short time when the Fenway will have a gathering of institutions such as is not equalled in any other city in the world.

A lady was walking along one of the business streets of the Hub recently just after the ash barrels had been placed on the sidewalks to be emptied. Lying on the top of one of these was a withered bunch of roses, thrown out from some office. A little Italian boy, "knee-high to a grasshopper," spied the faded flowers and when the lady came along he was fairly hugging them with rapture. Seeing a look of interest on her face the child impulsively held out one of the roses toward her, saying, "You can have one of my pretty flowers, lady." She accepted the gift in the spirit in which it was given and is preserving it as a reminder that she promised the little fellow a fresh, country flower on a certain morning each week if he would be at the same place when she passed along.

Restrictions on the sale of shooting irons have often been proposed, but not yet executed. Boston parents have lately been much stirred by the growing evil of careless use of firearms as painfully evidenced in the shooting of the little Coffin girl by a boy schoolmate. This was apparently one of the thousands of instances where young boys are taught the use of firearms, their imaginations quickened and inflamed by stories of hunting and warfare, until the subject becomes almost a mania with them. If the children must have dangerous firearms to play with—and as it is morally certain that their heads will be filled with stories of hunting prowess and bloody victories outside of their homes, even if not in them—it would seem to be imperative that the deadly bullets at least be kept out of reach, and that a distinct understanding of the dangers attendant upon the glorious sport be instilled into their youthful minds.

Sky-line dining rooms were popular in Boston on the evenings of Saturday and Monday before and after the Fourth, as indeed they are throughout the summer. During the holiday celebrations they gave an outlook over the city, enabling the diners to enjoy a panorama of the fireworks. Those hotels which have roof gardens or whose dining rooms are on the upper floor were well patronized and many tempting viands were allowed to cool untouched while the guests gave vent to admiring exclamations. From one of these hotels was obtained a particularly charming outlook over the city roof-tops toward the illuminated dome of the State house, from directly behind which the fireworks display of the Shoe and Leather Exposition was in progress. The glowing dome of the Capitol appeared from this point to be the permanent foundation for a superstructure of constantly varying brilliance and beauty.

"The bridge walk" is the latest form of recreation and pleasure for many Bostonians. It is only recently that more than a limited number of persons have realized the beauties attendant upon a stroll across the new three million dollar Cambridge bridge particularly in the evening, when the broad expanse of the Charles River basin is dotted with pleasure boats and when the reflections from the two bridges and from the exposition grounds form millions of sparkling ripples on the surface of the water. The walk, properly taken, begins at the Boston end of the old Harvard bridge, leads across to the Cambridge side whence one follows the Esplanade along the riverbank, past the exposition grounds and building, and on to the end of the Cambridge bridge. Half way across the latter structure the pedestrian stops by the tower nearer the Cambridge side and takes in the beauties of the scene. The walk terminates at the Boston end of the bridge, where it is wiser to take a car in order that the congested district of the West End may not detract from pleasant recollections of the American Venice.

Now let the friends of the friend of all dumb beasts speak up. A project is under way for the erection of a memorial to the late George T. Angell. A committee of prominent men has been appointed by the directors of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Educational Society, this committee to raise a fund for the building of a humane institution which shall serve as a centre for carrying on the activities to which President Angell devoted his entire life and thought. The chairman of the committee is Edward H. Clement, of the Boston Transcript, life long advocate of good causes and good movements. Mr. Clement in an article written for the July issue of Our Dumb Animals says: "Only a busy headquarters teeming with activities such as George T. Angell organized and left to our hands, a great building which shall ever publicly proclaim to all the right of our dumb servants to protection—such is his only fit monument." It is desired to make this memorial one which shall advance the purposes to which President Angell set his hand by establishing a home and headquarters for the continuance of the noble work which he organized. It is expected that generous contributions from every part of the world will be made toward this monument, which surely has the worthiest of objects, the protection and care of our animal friends.

A century of saving the pennies has nearly elapsed. A news dispatch states that over in Scotland they are preparing next year to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the first savings bank, which was started at Dumfries in 1810 by Rev. Henry Duncan, a Presbyterian clergyman, a friend of Thomas Carlyle and other great literary people. Duncan's little bank at Ruthwell Manse was a self supporting institution for the benefit of wage earners of the neighborhood. The Scotch are such a thrifty people that it is not surprising to find them leaders in teaching the world how to make the saving of little sums productive of immense aggregate wealth. New Englanders are to other Americans very much as the Scotch are to the English. While the founding of the earlier European bank is commemorated, it will be recalled that in Boston, not so many years later, the Provident Institution for Savings, still one of the most flourishing of the many savings banks of New England, opened its doors to receive deposits. From that beginning the savings bank system has grown until in Massachusetts alone there are now more than seven hundred million dollars on deposit. That is a magnificent showing, and one that makes the Bay State young woman proud of the old Commonwealth. And there are special reasons for being proud, not only because of the long continued success of the savings banks, but because some of them are already progressive enough to add to their facilities the opportunity to secure through them inexpensive life insurance and old age pensions, which practically every woman as well as every man needs in these days.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, July 3, 1909.

President Taft stands squarely behind the tax on the net earnings of corporations and he advocates it not merely as an expedient with which to sidetrack the income tax. He believes it to be a highly desirable form of taxation because it is the first step in a carefully devised system of federal control of corporations, and the next step, federal supervision of all issues of stocks and bonds, he will recommend to Congress in his first annual message. The President will not assent to any substitution in conference of the inheritance tax for this tax on corporations, nor does he belive that any such substituti on is contemplated, though many rumors to this effect have been flying about the country recently. The Republican members of the Finance Committee declare they have no intention of any such substitution and the House leaders, including the Speaker, predict with confidence that the corporation tax will be enacted as a part of the tariff bill. These facts, together with much other interesting information, were brought out at the White House this week, where President Taft talked freely with several friends.

The President made clear his views, also, regarding the various forms of special taxation which have been suggested in connection with the current deficiency of the federal revenues. Above all other forms of special taxation Mr. Taft prefers a graduated income tax, which he believes it would be improper to enact under the circumstances until its constitutionality is placed beyond question. He is of the opinion that every man should contribute through a direct tax a fair proportion of his income to the maintenance of the government not only for the sake of the revenue such a tax would yield, but because such contribution would bring home to every man a realization of his responsibility to and for the government of his country. He does not believe, however, that an income tax determined by an arithmetical ratio would be a fair tax. He is convinced that if the man who has an income of $1,200 a year contributes 1 per cent. of that amount to the support of the government, the man with an income of $5,000 a year should contribute a higher percentage, say 2 per cent. and the man whose income reaches into the tens of thousands should contribute possibly 5 per cent. or more, and so on. Mr. Taft regards a stamp tax as a proper revenue measure for an emergency, but as lacking in considerable degree that tendency to correct evils of distribution which would be accomplished by either a graduated income tax or a graduated inheritance tax. And last, the corporation tax, which President Taft regards as highly desirable from every point of view; primarily because it will insure a degree of federal inspection and public knowledge of the transactions of all corporations ,thus fitting in with his general economic plans in so far as they relate to corporations, and, secondarily, because it will yield ample revenue to obviate any deficiency.

The President takes emphatic issue with the allegations that the corporation tax is unjust, that it will not reach the wealth of the country. He firmly believes that it will reach men of wealth; and he further believes that in the majority of cases bond holders are also stockholders, that they are compelled to hold stock in order to protect their bonded interests. In short, Mr. Taft regards the corporation tax as a tax on wealth and as such as wholly just and proper.

Senator Root's address to the Senate this week, in support of the Taft plan for the taxation of the net earnings of corporations, is regarded by many Senators as the most notable contribution to the tariff debates of this Congress. One of the interesting features of Mr. Root's address was his statement that he expected the required three-fourths of the states to ratify the proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizing Congress to levy an income tax. "I think the United States ought to have the power to levy an income tax" he said. "I do not want it used to drive out of existence the protective tariff. But I do want my country to have the power which is possessed by other countries, to summon to its assistance in time of great need all the wealth of the nation. I shall vote for and advocate the amendment in my own State, and I hope it will be adopted." In speaking of the corporation tax Mr. Root said he supported it because he thought it better policy, better patriotism and higher wisdom than a general income tax.

There is a large number of naval officers in Washington just now who are living in mortal terror of what is known as the "plucking board." This is the special board which under the naval personnel law must choose a certain number of officers for retirement each year, provided a specific number of vacancies are not created through natural causes. MRS. R. ELMER MORRISON.

Mrs. Sarah Gregg Morrison, widow of R. Elmer Morrison, passed away after a painful sickness on Saturday, July 3d, and was buried Sunday, in the family grounds at Mount Wollaston cemetery. The obsequies were conducted at the home on Middle street by Rev. F. R. Griffin of All Souls' church, Braintree and Rev. A. A. Ellsworth of Quincy, who for many years was the family's pastor.

Mrs. Morrison was born in Greensboro, N. C., February 22d, 1852, the daughter of Joseph L., and Abigail (Curtis) Gregg.

Mr. Gregg died in the south when Sarah was about seven years of age, and Mrs. Gregg returned north, with her daughter and older son, to make their home with her grandfather, Samuel Curtis, of Franklin street, Quincy, the children receiving their education in the schools of that city.

On January 6th, 1860, Sarah Gregg and Mr. R. E. Morrison of the Braintree firm of A. Morrison & Sons, were united in marriage at Quincy, and the young couple went at once to live in the new and beautiful house built for them on Middle street, Braintree, where their four children were born, these being in order of age, Mabel Silsby, wife of J. D. Ellsworth of Savin Hill; Lizzie Curtis, wife of Henry M. Faxon of Quincy, and the sons, Alva and Joseph Gregg, both graduates of Harvard college and residents of Braintree.

Mrs. Morrison was a faithful worshipper at the First Congregational church where her husband was organist from his youth till his death, a period of almost thirty years. As he was the artistic and musical inspiration of North Braintree for a generation, so was she his complement in all social affairs of interest to the church and society, being always ready to impart her sweet sympathy in good words and kind deeds, far beyond the limits of kindred and sectarianism.

She was one of those quiet natures who make home a center of refinement and joy and while exercising a broad charity for all, was not wanting in deep convictions of the reality of our christian religion, which she taught her children and which constituted her faith.

There is not need of eulogy of such a character, not much to write not much to speak of but a great deal to feel, as heart speaks to heart. The simple funeral service, the abundant floral offerings, the presence of so many representative people were a silent expression of the large place she held in the love of the community. In some respects she seemed the keystone of the social arch, one on whom many in church and club life leaned.

Between the daughter and the greatly bereaved mother, now in her 84th year, there was established a beautiful and tender relationship, an example honorable to both, whose rude breaking up awakens our deepest sympathies. This sudden death has been a shock to the community, the previous sickness being known to but few, and it must be felt as a loss by the objects of her unnamed charities, —and how much more deeply by her children. Something gone out of the seen to the unseen, many must weep, but not for her.

On Sunday at sunset after the funeral there was a shower, the writer was looking over the cemetery towards the east, when over the new made grave of Mrs. Morrison, but, as if springing from the very spot a quarter-circle rainbow rose to the blue sky possibly a stairway to the departing soul, emblem not of loss but of hope.

—It cannot be too much emphasized that a tax on the net earnings of a corporation is not a tax on the rich in the sense that an income or inheritance tax might be, but rather a discrimination against one form of doing business.—Boston Transcript.

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts — exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

TRANSFERRED TO QUINCY.

Next Saturday's game scheduled for Randolph, has been transferred to this city, and will be played on the Water street grounds. The game is simply changed round with the game of July 24, which the local management desired to have transferred on account of the lawn party of St. Mary's church to be held on the same date. Hence instead of the Quincy team going to Randolph next Saturday, Randolph will come here and on the following Saturday the game scheduled for this city, will be played in Randolph.

QUINCY LOSES TO ROCKLAND

Fourteen Innings Required to Do the Trick However

For thirteen innings Quincy and Rockland battled at Hartsuff park, Rockland, on Saturday, and neither side was able to get a run across the plate. In the fourteenth the end came, like a thunder bolt out of a clear sky. It had been decided to call the game at the end of the fourteenth and the way things were going at the time, it looked as if the game would end in a tie. But the unexpected came in the last inning when Quincy managed to sneak a run over in her half. Rockland went her one better in the last half, scoring two runs and winning the game. The score was 2 to 1.

In the first half of the fourteenth round Joe Burke started by working Martin for a pass, and then pilfered second. He got away off the pivot sack and was stealing when a wild pitch by Martin allowed him to score the first run of the game. There was joy in the Quincy camp when that run was scored for it looked like victory. But Rockland started right after the game in her half of this inning. Mahar opened with a hit through the box to centre, his fourth hit of the game. Hamilton laid down a pretty sacrifice and Mahar was safe on second. He went to third on Kiley's out, Strobel to Bjorkland. Thornhill the next batter worked Patterson for a base on balls, and then Buck Ewing came to time with a beauty single to left, sending Mahar over with the tieing run. Thornhill took third and Ewing second on the throw in to catch Mahar going home. Fred Smith of this city, who caught a swell game for Rockland, was the next batter. He met one of Patterson's speedy ones a vicious crack and the ball went straight at Hoye on third base. Vin made a great stop, but in his anxiety to throw, made a wild heave to first, and Ewing scored. There were two out at the time and if Smith had been thrown out, the game would have ended a tie.

The game was replete with brilliant plays and one could not begin to enumerate them all. The slickest thing of the game, however, was Lonergan's catch of Kiley's fly in the tenth inning. The ball was labeled for three bases or a home run and was sailing for the woods in left field. Lonergan started with the crack of the bat and was running backwards when the ball was going over his head. The crack left-fielder put up his gloved hand and speared the ball. It certainly was a wonderful catch and it saved the day for the time being. Lonergan got a great hand as he came in, both from the Quincy and Rockland fans alike. The whole outfield was there with the goods all through the game, Billy Duggan making a grand throw to the plate in the second inning and retiring Smith when he tried to score from second on Martin's hit to the middle garden.

The work of "Allie" Strobel at short was phenomenal. This peerless short stop accepted 12 chances without an error and some of his stops were brilliant. Several times he made hair-raising stops that brought the crowd to its feet and saved the game for Quincy.

Mahar was the bright particular star for the Rockland team. At the bat and in the field he had a clean record. Seven times he stepped to the plate, four times he cracked out clean hits, one a double, once he sacrificed a man to second, once he got a pass and once he got hit by a pitched ball. This gave him a batting average of 1.000 for the day, as passes, sacrifices and hits by the pitcher are not counted as times at bat. In the field he accepted five chances without an error. Mahar sure turned in a great day's work.

Fred Smith, a local boy, was behind the bat for Rockland, and gave a clever exhibition. He had fifteen chances and not an error and at the bat got one pretty single. He made a big hit with the Rockland fans, for he held Martin's speed better than any catcher seen in Rockland this year. Martin pitched a swell game all through, with the exception of that wild pitch in the fourteenth. He had speed and curves and headwork, in fact everything that a winning pitcher needed. Seven hits were garnered off his delivery, one man got a free pass and 12 fanned the air. Going some for fourteen innings.

It would be useless to go through the whole fourteen innings describing the plays as they came along. Suffice it to say that for thirteen innings not a run was scored and for eight of these Quincy went out in order. In the first inning it looked as if Quincy would score. Burke started with a hit, was sacrificed to second and stole third. Here Martin put on steam and Burke camped on third while Strobel and Courtney fanned the air. In the second Duggan got a hit after there were two out. He stole second but got no farther as Murray hit the air three times and sat down. Not a Quincyite reached first after that until the eighth, when Bjorkland got a pretty single over short. He was sacrificed to second and went to third on Murray's out Kiley to Ewing. Patterson made a bid to bring him in, but Sid's best was a fly to Hamilton. Quincy also got men on in the eleventh and thirteenth but nothing came of it. Their only run came in the fourteenth as described above.

Rockland had men on the sacks in all but four of the fourteen innings and came mighty near scoring several times. Only great fielding saved the day. In the thirteenth things looked worst for Quincy. With two out Smith and Hart both singled in succession, and pulled off a pretty double steal. Sid then walked Martin and all the sacks were occupied. It was an anxious moment for Quincy people, but Patterson made McDevitt fly to Courthey and the suspense was over. Then came the fourteenth as related above. The score.

HOUGHS NECK ON DECK AGAIN

Two Cases Occupy Morning Session of Court

Houghs Neck occupied the platform at the district court this morning. There were two cases. The first was against Joseph H. Hunneman and his wife for violation of the Lord's Day Act.

Rose and Joseph H. Hunneman who run a photographic studio at Houghs Neck were summoned into court by Inspector McKay for violation of the Lord's Day act by taking photographs on Sunday.

Under the law it is illegal to charge for taking pictures on Sunday.

The modos operandi, according to police, by which the law is evaded is to sell a sandwich for 25 or 50 cents and to give away the pictures.

The witness testified that on Sunday July 4, he went into the Hunneman place and wanted his picture taken. Mrs. Hunneman who was in charge informed him that she could not charge for pictures on Sunday but she would sell him a sandwich for a quarter and give him the pictures.

The defendant claimed that he had a common victualler's license but was not present at Houghs Neck except nights and that his wife ran the business for him.

The court found that both defendants were guilty and fined each $5.

The cases of Charles F. Cook and Edward B. McCann were then heard.

McCann testified that he went to Cook's place and had some talk with him as to statements he had made. That Cook grabbed him and struck him. That he got away and got as far as the door when an employe grabbed him by the throat.

Cook claimed that McCann came into his place and walked up to him and asked if he had said so and so. Before he had a chance to reply McCann hit him on the chin. Then there was a mix up and that McCann did not hit him again.

Judge Pratt found each of the defendants guilty and imposed a fine of $5 each.

LAWN FETE.

Party in Aid of Park and Downs Church.

An attractive lawn fete was held on the grounds of the Park and Downs Congregational church Saturday afternoon and evening. The executive committee in charge of the affair consisted of Frederick O. Northrop, F. C. Blake, George Smith, Frank W. Knowlton and Mrs. S. S. Crocker. The decorations of Japanese lanterns and electric lights were very effective as was the arrangement of the booths in a circular effect.

Automobile rides were much in favor and from the start of the affair until late at night autos ladened with children and grown-folks could be seen shooting up and down the streets. Those assisting in this manner were A. B. Robbins, Dr. Charles E. Munroe, John Atkins, Hazen B. Chapman, A. W. Fay, William B. Cochrane and C. L. Gilliatt.

In a mysterious tent on the grounds, Mrs. Frederick O. Northrop in gypsy costume read the palms of those who entered. A phonograph concert under the efficient charge of E. B. Bird added to the afternoon's enjoyment. A ball game was also played by the smaller children, the boys standing the girls, with Delcevare King as umpire. In the basement of the church shooting and bowling were enjoyed.

The following were the committees and those in charge of the booths:

Ice Cream and Cake—Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. Charles Howarth, Mrs. L. A. Shay and Mrs. George Davis.

Candy and Sandwiches—Mrs. N. F. Northrop and Mr. G. A. Smith.

Bowling—James McDonald and Eugene Smith.

Shooting Gallery—Artemus Dingwall.

Tonics—Burpee Banks.

WEDDING TONIGHT.

Culmination of a Dinner Party on the U. S. S. New Jersey.

A wedding of local interest is announced for tonight when Miss Sadie Johnson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson will become the bride of James MacDonough, Warront Officer of the U. S. S. New Jersey.

The marriage will be solemnized at the handsome bungalow of the bride's parents at Adams shore. The engagement and marriage is the outcome of a romance that had its beginning at a dinner party on the New Jersey just previous to that ship sailing on the famous cruise around the world.

During the evening Mr. MacDonough paid marked attention to Miss Johnson and when the party broke up it had been all arrangsd that letters should be exchanged and souvenir postals sent during the cruise.

The fleet returned and Mr. MacDonough came to Quincy. The public announcement of their engagement was made ten days ago.

Miss Marion E. Johnson a sister of the bride will be the maid of honor and Warrant Officer E. W. Andrews of Washington, D. C., a former shipmate on the New Jersey will attend the groom. The ushers will include Warrant Officer P. Herbert, now a naval inspector at the Fore River, and Chief Boatswain F. R. MacDonough of the North Dakota a brother of the groom.

Sunday was another day of almost ideal weather for outdoor life and this city saw thousands passing through its borders to the beaches. Electric cars were run faster than ever before and every one was filled to the platforms. It is evident to anyone who studies the transportation question on a Sunday that the old New England Sunday has gone by. In the old days it was to church in the morning and stay at home the rest of the day. Nowadays it seems to be the rule not to go to church at all and to rush for the beaches as soon as the cars can carry one there. With those who work six days a week for their living and have Sunday to themselves, the day seems to be a day of enjoyment, not of rest. We doubt if any of the thousands who travelled to the beaches yesterday felt a bit more rested after they got home late last night or when they woke this morning. It may be, though ,that in these days of rushing at nervous top speed, there is a mental diversion obtained in going to the beaches on Sunday that serves as well as physical rest. At all events Sunday has got to be the big rush day of the week in the travel line. Whether or not this pell-mell rush that turns Sunday into holidays will be reflected physically on the succeeding generations will be an interesting subject in years to come. It is safe to say that the splendid physical heritage which the old-time Pilgrims and Puritans left to their children will not be surpassed if it is equalled. The old-fashioned Sunday was a day of rest and its observance was rigidly insisted upon. They were straight-laced times enough in those days but they did not produce neurasthenic frenzies, at least.

There was a general disposition on the part of automobilists Sunday to accept the city's assurance of a square deal by running slowly through the Centre. Sooner or later some reckless driver will try to convince the public that there is only one side to the square deal and then it will be time to pay the fiddler.

A council meeting without a discussion on a Houghs Neck school house lot will look somewhat unnatural.

It was no disgrace for the Quincy base ball team to lose that game Saturday . A game of 14 innings carrying a score of 2 to 1 and the winning run made in the 14th inning was something any ball team can be proud of, whether they win or lose. It shows Quincy has got a ball nine that is in the fight to stay. The 15-inning game at Taunton had the Quincy-Rockland contest one to the good.

There are a number of important matters coming up before the city council for a final disposition tonight and it is to be hoped they will not be rush through without careful consideration just because the council intends to adjourn for the summer. There are several orders that have got by successfully so far and they impress the disinterested tax-payer as not being the result of either public convenience or necessity.

CHILDREN'S SMILES.

Philadelphia has taken the lead in keeping children off the streets. In place of barren vacant lots where bad language and bad morals are bred into the child's mind, beautiful gardens of flowers and acres of vegetables have sprung up as by magic under childish care. Here is one way of dealing with the slum problem, always serious in summer, that other cities would do well to follow.

Sometimes a few of the tens of thousands from the tenements may be taken for a day in the country. They see wonderful trees, cows and horses and green fields, then return to the slums full of wonder but with little real knowledge of what they have seen or of hope for more in the future.

In Philadelphia it's different. As soon as school is over the children get their spades, rakes and hoes and start an attack on the vacant lots. Each child is his own boss. He raises whatever he pleases, and the result is something worth while.

The child gets fresh air while watching the onions sprout; pleasant and healthful exercises by pulling up weeds and keeping the garden clean; and, a substantial financial gain when the vegetables are raised and sold. The beauty of it is it doesn't cost anybody anything, only a little public spirit.—Beverly Times.

SCOTS HONOR REV. JAMES TODD.

Former Pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian Church.

Rev. James Todd, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, South Boston, who sailed for Europe Friday, was presented with a purse of money at a reception given in his honor by several friends at the Boston City club late Thursday afternoon. Mr. Todd is at the head of the executive department of the Scots' Charitable Society and he intends to visit Scotland on his trip, which led Alexander McGregor, who presented the purse, to remark that its contents might come in handy even though he was going to sojourn among his "'ain people.' "

At the dinner the centre of the table was decorated with a large floral model of the Laurentian, the steamship on which Mr. Todd is to cross the Atlantic. Captain Imrie, who commands the Laurentian, was also a guest.

Speeches in praise of Mr. Todd's work for his church and the Scots' Charitable Society were made by President Pirie, Mr. McGregor, Mr. Craig, Councilman Ballantyne, Dr. Martin and others.

The Man From Home

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

This romance deals with a curious admixture of American plainness and European high life; with a young Indiana girl dazzled by a title and in the clutches of a quartet of sharpers headed by an impecunious British peer; with the girl's Anglomaniac brother, a Russian noble in disguise, an escaped Russian convict and a faithless wife, and, most important of all, with the girl's shrewd, witty, courageous, resourceful guardian, Daniel Voorhees Pike of Kokomo. Daniel loves the Indiana girl and is determined to save her from the sharpers even against her own will. Read and you will learn how Daniel, with but a single friend to aid him, faced a most difficult dilemma and why he figured so prominently in an international romance in which heraldry was more important than hearts and cupidity far more conspicuous than Cupid.

CHAPTER I.

"IT'S A GIRL!"

HIS feet on the desk of the office in the Central Bank building, the gaunt young man with the stern features and the kindly gray eyes that always seemed a perpetual rebuke to the face in which they were set ruminated over the letter he held in his hand. His back was to the door—a half glass door which was also the main and only entrance to the room and which bore upon its translucent surface in ragged letters, worn by the polishing the glass had undergone, the words, "Daniel Voorhees Pike, Attorney at Law."

Pike himself had a queer twist of feature, a sort of whimsicality that pervaded the very atmosphere about him, and the smile with which he regarded the letter he held had a world of reminiscence and sadness in it.

As he gazed at it the letter seemed to fade into nothingness, and in its place there rose the picture of a day years before, a day that caused the dingy walls of the office to become tenuous and gauzy, and through the gauze he seemed to see another office—a ramshackle sort of place, with a tin sign showing through the window which informed the passerby that real estate was the commodity dispensed within. To Pike the picture grew yet more distinct, and in the broken bottom cane chair he saw the figure of a heavy faced man in his shirt sleeves engaged in smoking a corncob pipe.

In another corner of the room he could see a red headed boy poring over a pine table, laboriously copying in a round hand some title deeds. Then, through the reaches of the past, he seemed to hear the heavy faced man remove the pipe from his mouth and heard him speak.

"Dan," he said, "it's a girl!"

And he heard the gasp the boy gave forth as he turned about on his stool and looked with startled eyes into the kindly blue ones that glimmered into his own.

"Show her to Dan."

"A—girl!" he seemed to hear the boy say. "A little girl, Mr. Simpson?"

In his fancy he saw the big man nod, saw him place the pipe back in his teeth and extend his two palms until they were a foot or so apart.

"A girl, Dan," he heard, "'bout so long, Dan, and purtier than all get out. An' she's goin' to be a big responsibility, my boy. We'll have to sell a heap of lots to pay what she's goin' to cost, Dan—a whole heap of lots."

And gradually the picture seemed to fade away, and, like a dissolving view, its place was taken by another—the picture of a half timbered house that stood back among some trees at the corner of Main and Center streets. He could see the worn steps leading up to the veranda and himself approaching half fearfully along the gravel walk that led in from the rusty gate.

On the veranda sat the big man with the heavy features and the corncob pipe, and he heard the voice again bidding him come up. And then there was a call to some one within, and a woman emerged with a white bundle in her arms.

"Show her to Dan," he heard the man's voice say, and then, when the woman had removed a bit of the flannel covering from the little face and he had looked upon it, startled, abashed and marvelously choking as to the throat, the big voice went on again:

"She's going to be Ethel, Dan, that bundle of infancy. And maybe some of these days she'll be getting herself in a tight place, and it's going to be up to you, Dan, to help her out, and you're going to promise me that you'll do it, boy. Horace, the other kid, he'll grow up maybe to have sense, and he'll look out for himself, but it's a tough place for girls, Dan—a mighty tough place."

He could almost hear the hushed voice in which the boy had given the required promise and the awe with which he heard that the newest atom of humanity to arrive was already motherless, and then the picture faded again. Then came a succession of similar views.

He saw the dingy real estate office grow into a respectable brick building, and then into a handsome stone edifice, and the heavy featured man turn grayer and grayer and more somber and more hardworking, and he could remember the day when the tiny Ethel was brought to the office for the first time and of the manner in which she began to grow up. He recalled the day when she reached the mature age of twelve and of how he had presented to her a Bible for a gift and of the manner in which he had blushed for all his twenty-five years.

And then he recalled the day when John Simpson had confided to him that the "kids" were to be given advantages and were to be sent abroad to school. There came a blank after that, but he recalled as if it had been but yesterday the feeling with which he had gone off into a corner and wrestled with the grief that had beset him. He could even see the fluttering hand that waved to him from the car window as the train took her and her brother away.

Suddenly the door behind him opened and shut quickly, and quick steps caused him to drop his feet to the floor. He turned and found a visitor at his elbow.

"Dan," said the newcomer, "it's all yours. Jenkins just got a telegram that the K. and G. has decided to offer you the representation for this end of the state."

"That so?" responded Pike aimlessly.

"Of course it's so, man!" replied the other, shaking him vigorously by the shoulder. "Wake up, can't you? It's worth fifteen thousand a year to you!"

Pike turned quizzical eyes upon his friend and folded the letter he held in his hand.

"Much obliged to you, Tom," he said. "I guess I'm kind of upset today. Got a letter here that—jolted me a little. I'm thinking of going away for a spell."

"Going away!" ejaculated his friend with wide eyes. "Going away! Where?"

"I guess I'll take a trip across the water," replied Pike dreamily. "Always wanted to see those foreign parts, those Venices and Romes and Londons. Must be a queer tribe over there, Tom. Not much like us plain folks here, eh? Lots of high and mighty dukes and earls and things and coats of arms and crowns and coaches with white horses, eh?"

Tom Perkins sat down in a chair with a gasp of astonishment. He stared at his friend with frank amazement written on his face and opened his mouth twice before his lips formed the words.

"Europe!" he said at last.

"Europe," he replied. "Say, Tom, you remember Jim Cooley? They sent Jim over there, didn't they? Made him vice consul or something over in London? I'd maybe get a chance to see Jim and talk to him about—about old times."

His voice died down, and he regarded the wall again.

"Never happened to hear of folks over there of the name of—of Hawcastle, did you, Tom?" he went on. "I don't know what sort of business they are in, but I guess they're well to do. Never happened to hear of them, eh?"

Perkins shook his head, and Pike went on:

"Maybe I'll write to Jim Cooley and ask him about these people. Jim 'd be likely to know 'em, I guess. Vice consul must be a pretty big bug over there."

NEW CIGARETTE LAW.

There went into effect July 2, a new law which is in reality an old statute amended, dealing with the retail sale of cigarettes, and the posting of signs bearing copies of the law as amended. The new law comes under chapter 346 of the acts of 1909, and was approved by Gov. Draper May 3. The whole intent of the law is to give adequate publicity to the cigarette law, which since its passage has not been enforced as rigidly as it might have been. Since 1901 it has been against the law for any one other than the parent or guardian of a minor to sell or give a cigarette to any person under 18 years of age, but the enforcement of this law has been somewhat lax. The law reads as follows:

Section 1. Section 3 of Chapter 213 of the Revised Laws is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following: A copy of this section ,printed in not less than 18 point capitals, bold face, shall be posted conspicuously in the shop or other place of sale used by any person selling cigarettes at retail, and whoever violates this provision shall be punished as above described—so as to read as follows: Section 3. Whoever sells a cigarette to a person under 18 years of age, or whoever sells snuff or tobacco in any of its forms to a person under 16 years of age or, not being his parent or guardian, gives a cigarette to a person under 18 years of age, or gives snuff or tobacco in any of its forms to a person under 16 years of age, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $50. A copy of this section, printed in letters not less in size than 18 point capitals, bold face, shall be posted conspicuously in the shop or other place of sale used by any person selling cigarettes at retail, and whoever violates this provision shall be punished as above described.

Section 2. It shall be the duty of the police department of the cities and towns where such exist, and of constables in towns not having a police department, to see that a copy of the said section 3, as above amended, is posted in a conspicuous place where it can easily be read, in every shop or place where cigarettes are sold at retail. Any person unlawfully removing the said copy while cigaretts are still sold on the premises where it is posted shall be subject to a penalty of $10.

Section 3. Copies of the said section printed as above specified, shall be prepared by the state board of health, and shall be delivered without charge to the cities and towns applying for them.

Approved May 3, 1909.

This new law not only provides that properly printed copies of the cigarette law shall be posted wherever cigarettes are sold at retail, but it requires the state board of health to furnish the copies and the local police authorities to see that these are posted. The Massachusetts anti-cigarette league is sending out circulars for the purpose of having the newly-amended law given as much publicity as possible.

ANGELL MEMORIAL BUILDING.

The Directors of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and of the American Humane Education Society are planning to erect a Humane Building as a permanent memorial to their late President, George T. Angell. The undersigned have been appointed a committee to consider what style of building would be best. The first point to be considered is what funds may be available, and for the purpose of determining this, we ask that everyone send such sum as he wishes to contribute to Messrs. Kidder, Peabody & Company, 115 Devonshire street, Boston, or direct to the Treasurer of the Societies, 19 Milk street. Pledges of subscriptions, payable January 1, 1911, will also be received. Contributions may be made at once.

Mr. Angell always hoped for the erection of a building in Boston in which should be housed both our Humane Societies, and it is earnestly hoped that the interest and sympathy of the public will warrant such a building as other cities possess for similar organizations and one which shall be suited to the growing needs of humanitarian work.

Mr. Angell's work was not limited in its influence to this city or even to this country, where so many societies exist as the result of his efforts. We earnestly bespeak for this enterprise the hearty support of all friends of humanity everywhere. There is now in the treasury of the two Societies $29,000, which has been contributed for this purpose. Future receipts will be acknowledged in a special column in Our Dumb Animals.

All persons desiring information on the subject are requested to communicate with the Secretary of the Societies, 19 Milk street, Boston. All inquiries will be cheerfully answered.

Edward H. Clement, Nathaniel T. Kidder, Charles S. Rackemann, Committee.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

ATLANTICS DEFEATED AT LAST.

After winning about ten straight games Atlantic was trimmed Saturday by the crack Reading team. The score was 4 to 1. Reading scored all its runs in the fourth inning, by bunching two singles and two doubles. The home team played without an error, while Atlantic's record was marred by but a single misplay. Simpson, who pitched for Quincy against Makaria a week ago, was in the box for Reading and fanned 11 men. This defeat of Atlantic will make Makaria happy, for they put it onto Reading earlier in the season being one of the only two teams to defeat them this year. The score:—

QUINCY IND. WIN ANOTHER.

With "Lefty" Ford, the crack southpaw of the Bigelows pitching, Joe Ford's Quincy team defeated the Wollastons Saturday at Merrymount park, and used the white wash brush in the bargain, winning 9 to 0. Ford, who is only a boy and a small boy at that, allowed but four hits and struck out eight men. His work was excellent all through, the Wollaston batters being unable to do anything with his pitching. He was also there with the bat, too getting two hits, and knocking in Quincys first two runs with a clean single over third in the second inning. Rogers was behind the bat for Quincy and caught Lefty in fine style. Colligan was on the slab for Wollaston and was found for ten hits by the Quincy batters, Hoyt and Lefty Ford getting half of them. Hoxie the old Adams Academy star catcher and captain ,played with Wollaston and gave a good exhibition. The score:

Ex-Commodore Crane's Iris was an easy winner in the Cape Cat class at the open race under the auspices of the Columbia Yacht club at South Boston Saturday afternoon.

All four of the old rivals started in this the scrappy class but at no time was the Iris headed.

There was a stiff breeze blowing and the Iris took the lead at the start and held it throughout the race. She had nearly six minutes lead of the Busy Bee on actual time and two minutes on corrected time. The summary:

THE MORNING FIRE.

Hall of Quincy Associates Damaged $300.

The alarm from Box 27 at 3.12 this morning called the department to a fire in the hall of the Quincy Associates in the Keating building at the corner of Washington and Canal streets.

The fire which was probably caused by a cigar stub, was burning quite briskly when discovered and burnt a hole through the floor. Some of the burnt matter fell to the floor below occupied by the Boston & Quincy express and by an Italian grocery, but neither of these places were damaged.

When the department arrived the fire was burning in the middle of the floor and it required but a few minutes work on the part of the firemen to extinguish the blaze.

There was a new piano in the hall, which was somewhat scorched as ware also the other furnishings.

☞ The Norfolk Credit Co. is hiring extra help for their great sale to be held Wednesday, July 14 at 9 A. M.

COUNCIL ADJOURNS FOR THE SUMMER

Many Important Matters Acted Upon. Woodward Ordinance Vetoed

After one of the busiest months that the City Council has even had, which included a series of midnight sessions ,an adjournment was taken at Monday night's meeting until Tuesday September 7. There was not a great amount of debate at the meeting but a large amount of business was put through and the calendar cleared of most of the important matters that were pending. These included the passing of an order for $8,000 to build the Squantum causeway, the rebuilding of Granite street and Bates avenue and most of the orders in the calendar.

A veto was received from the Mayor of the new Woodward ordinance which was laid on the table. Councilman Cherrington, Gardner and McDevitt were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A VETO.

A communication was received from the Mayor returning without his approval the order amending the ordinance concerning the management of the Woodward Fund and Property. Council

The Mayor in his veto says:

"I return herewith Order 227—Woodward Ordinance without my approval for the following reasons—

1—Section 2, of Ordinance 15, the present ordinance, determines who shall constitute the managers of the Woodward Fund and Property. Order 227 repeals said section 2 of ordinance number 15 and proposes to insert in place thereof a section which in effect provides that the Board shall consist of the Mayor, City Treasurer and three citizens not otherwise connected with the City Government to be appointed by the Mayor and approved by the City Council. There citizens are to hold office until the expiration of one, two and three years respectively from the first Monday of April 1910, and their appointments are to be forwarded to the City Council during the month of February and to lay on the table at least thirty days before being approved.

There is nothing in the new ordinance which provides when it shall take effect. If approved by me it would go into force and effect as soon as duly advertised. When Order 227 became a law the present Board of Managers would be legislated out of office, and the new Board would not take office under the amended ordinance for several months, there would therefore be an interim during which neither Board would be in charge of the fund.

It seems to me if it is wise to make any change of the character contemplated by Order 227, the ordinance should provide that the present Board of Managers should continue in office until their successors have been duly chosen and qualified.

2—In my opinion it is an unwise departure from the policy the city has maintained towards the Woodward Fund to have the majority of the members thereof otherwise unconnected with the City government. If in the opinion of the City Council not more than one of the administrative officials of the city government, in addition to the Mayor, should serve on the Board, then I believe it better to have the Board consist of the Mayor, City Treasurer, two citizens to be nominated by the Mayor and approved by the Council, the City Auditor or the President of the Council. It seems to me that the City Council would be in much closer relations with the Board if it had one of its fore recommend that the number of officers a member thereof. I thereby citizens be limited to two and the President of the Council or the City Auditor be added to said Board. I believe it wise to have at least a majority of the Board members of the City Government, and representative of both branches thereof.

3—The existing ordinance provides that the City Clerk and City Treasurer shall ex-officio be the clerk and treasurer of the Board of Managers. I think it would be well to retain this provision, manifestly the City Treasurer is the proper person to act as treasurer of the fund. The amended ordinance does not contain any such provision. The City Clerk should ex-officio be clerk of the Board because if he is so retained the records of the Board will, at all times, be in the office of the City Clerk with the other records of the city.

If the ordinance does not provide who shall act as clerk then we can have no assurance that some one will not be appointed clerk who will not have an office at City Hall. If the Council thinks it unwise to have the City Clerk act as clerk of the Board then I would recommend that the ordinance be further amended so as to require the records of the Board to b always kept at City Hall and they should be kept in the vault in the Clerk's office with the other city records.

4—Section 2 of said Order 227 in my opinion should be amended so as to provide that members of the Board appointed by the Mayor and approved by the Council should hold office until their successors have been duly chosen and qualified."

Councilman Abele hoped the order would be passed over the veto. Last year a special committee had investigated the fund and recommended certain changes. The present committee had gone over the matter carefully with the City Solicitor. It was a good thing to take the management of the fund out of City Hall and place it in the hands of citizens where it belonged. He moved the veto be laid on the table. Voted 10 voting yes and 6 no.

GROVE STREET POND O. K.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health stating that the pond off Grove street is satisfactory drained. Placed on file.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Charles J. A. Nelson and James H. Sullivan as constables. Confirmed.

The Mayor forwarded a petition from Frank Flower for a permit to set a floating trap between Houghs Neck and the Beacons. To Executive.

GAS AND ELECTRIC LIGHT CO.

A communication was received from the Mayor calling attention to the fact that the contract with the Electric Light Co., had expired. That he had been negotiating with the company with a view of securing favorable terms for all night lighting. These negotiations had not been carried sufficiently far to enable him to submit a definite proposition with his approval to the Council. In view of this fact he recommends that a proper committee be designated by the Council to take up the matter with him as soon as he is able to get a definite proposition from the companies. Referred to Finance Committee.

A communication was received from the Mayor with inclosure from the Quincy Women's club asking for the use of the Council chamber for the purpose of exhibiting finished work of the summer class in sloyd, sewing and drawing . Laid on the table until later when Councilman Gilson offered an order granting the use of the Council Chamber which was adopted.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

A communication was received from the Mayor with inclosure from the Commission on old age pensions to the effect that a meeting would be held late in September at which persons interested would be heard.

A petition was received from the Scandinavian Socialist club for permission to run a wrestiling exhibition. Laid on the table until later when the permission was granted on roll call.

A petition to accept Taber street was referred to the Committee on Streets.

The president ruled that as this matter had been acted upon at the last meeting under the rules it could not again be taken up. It is outside all rules decency to again take up this matter.

Councilman Bryant hoped the president would not entertain the appeal. What is the Council thinking of to put the chair in such a position. He would

Those who expect a square deal should be willing to give one in return.

Some of the councilmen wanted to call three strikes on the three-ball shop ordinance.

The cinder track order for the ward 2 playground made a fine sprint and finished strong.

And now the scientific men have woke up to the fact that the tse tse fly isn't responsible for the sleeping sickness.

The Quincy girl who became the bride last night of an officer of the battleship New Jersey took a name that stands high up on the fighting list of the United States navy.

The order for the rebuilding of Granite street from City square to Fort Hill was a public necessity order that needed no defence. The street at present is in a terrible condition and has a great amount of heavy teaming over it every day. It was a mistake to postpone the building of the street so long as this.

A new official was added to the city's list last night. In the appointment of Frank F. Crane to the office of dock and water front commission an excellent selection was made . Just what value this office will mean to the city in the future, time alone will tell. If any man can make the office valuable, Commodore Crane is that man.

The suggestion of Councilman Bryant that the school committee be allowed to first have their say as to what school house plan they want is something that should have been done long ago. It ought to save a lot of time and if the plan had been in operation years ago much delay and hard feelings between the two bodies would have been avoided. But, then, it's never too late to mend or learn.

The suggestion to close the grocery and provision stores on Wednesday afternoons and evenings during the hot months doesn't seem unreasonable. Considering that these stores keep open Monday, Friday and Saturday evenings, and on the latter evenings until almost midnight, the clerks would seem to give a big share of their time to the public.

The street department is doing a fine job on Farrington street. A new experiment is to be tried on part of the sidewalk which will be watched with interest. The foundation of the sidewalk is composed of cinders and it is proposed to put a covering of sand and tarcola on top. This, it is expected, will give a sidewalk almost as good as a tar walk. Tarcola is the substance used in laying the dust on the streets.

The action which the city council took in regard to certain licenses Monday night was a sufficient warning to the other holders of licenses. While there was some doubt in the minds of certain councilmen whether a certain holder should forfeit his license in advance of his case being heard by a jury to which the case had been appealed, there is no mistaking the temper of the council on this subject. If there are other places in this city which have not been hewing straight to the line they have had a chance to catch there breath and can now start forth to keep on the mark set for them by the laws and ordinances.

According to an order introduced by Councilman Bryant and adopted by the city Council, a special committee of the council will examine into the premises of every applicant for a junk license and determine whether or not it is advisable to permit junk shops wherever an applicant may live. This is in accordance with the suggestion of the Ledger a few evenings ago that if the council is going to act on the junk shop question that all junkmen be treated alike. It is to be hoped the committee will give the question a serious looking into and will deal strictly but impartially with the matter.

Firemen who turned out at 3.12 yesterday morning in response to an alarm of fire say the street lights were not turned on while they were driving through the dark streets. It isn't fair to ask the firemen to get out of bed and drive their apparatus through the dark streets of the city when it is expected the street lights will be turned on. Let any man get out of bed quickly and go through the dark rooms of his own house in the night and he will have some idea what it means for a driver of fire apparatus trying to guide high spirited horses through narrow streets and around sharp corners. If for no other reason than this it was same relief to read from the mayor's letter to the council that he is trying to negotiate with the electric lighting company for all-night street lighting.

—Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture and recently returned to Washington from the West, made the statement that throughout the West the farmers are seeking in vain for laborers to cultivate their farms, and that there was not one of the great agricultural states but could furnish employment to thousands of laborers on the farms. If labor leaders seeking work for the 2,000,000 unemployed members of their organizations could induce an exodus from the cities, they could not only supply the demand in the agricultural sections, but would accomplish an incalculable good by relieving the congestion in the cities.

INLAND WATERWAYS.

Charles M. Pepper, for a number of years head of the Chicago Tribune News Bureau in this city, but for the past four years special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has had abundant opportunity in his travels about the world, to make a first hand study of the waterways of European countries. Mr. Pepper, after leaving active newspaper work, was appointed by President McKinley, a commissioner to the Pan American Congress held in the City of Mexico in 1902. Subsequently he was appointed by President Roosevelt, to visit the countries of South America and make a report on the Pan-American railway which report is one of the most exhaustive ever prepared by an official of the Government. Later Mr. Pepper associated himself with the Department of Commerce and Labor to make reports on trade conditions in both South America and in Europe, and he leaves very shortly for the continent to continue his investigations along these lines.

Speaking of the growing importance and the needs for a comprehensive policy of waterway development now being most strongly urged by the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, Mr. Pepper said:

"On the continent of Europe I got a very decided impression that those countries are fully up to date in utilizing their waterways. They are not content with what nature has done for them for they do a good deal for themselves in the way of improvements and of artificial waterways.

"Three points struck me—first, the constant improvements such as the deepening of the channels; second, the provision made for shipping and terminal facilities in the way of wharves and docks; third, the extent to which the natural waterways are supplemented by canals. ,

"Of course, everyone knows about the Holland canals, but I don't think that it is understood how Belgium also supplements her very complete railroad system with canals and shipping terminal facilities. You can go from Belgium to Paris by canal.

"Germany, however, seems to be the most advanced of the continental countries. The natural waterways to and from the interior are the Oder, the Elbe, and the Rhine. These waterways are very thoroughly supervised by the Government and they are just as thoroughly supplemented by canals.

"I spent a great deal of time in the iron and steel districts which are in Western Germany. The Rhine is the great thoroughfare for transportation of coal and ore, and also to some extent for the finished steel products. The Ems canal which runs across from the Rhine to the North Sea has a branch that leads down to Dortmund which is the center of some of the biggest steel works. The coal for this district lies close by, but much of the output of the Westphalian coal mines is transported to other iron and steel centers.

"You can get an idea of his inland navigation at Duisburg-Ruhort, which is the greatest inland port in Europe. This twin port, or rather triple port for Hochfeld adjoins it, accommodates a great variety of vessels and barges of 2,000 tons burden occasionally come up that far from the North Sea. About 25,000,000 tons of freight ar handled annually at Duisburg-Ruhort, and of this 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 tons is coal The coal is shipped both up and down the Rhine. The influence of the waterway on freight rates is that coal can be shipped from Duisburg to Antwerp, 135 miles being the rail distance, for 52c. per ton by water as against $1.55 per ton by rail. In the same way the iron ore is brought in from Sweden via Rotterdam at the rate of 54c. per ton by the river route as against $1.27 per ton by railway. The rail distance is 131 miles."

THAW'S CHANCES FOR RELEASE

Seem Brighter Than at Any Time Since His Commitment

TESTIMONY ALL IN HIS FAVOR

Counsel For State Impressed by Thaw's Intelligent Interest and Suggests Mutual Selection of Three Experts Alienists to Pass Upon His Sanity—Evelyn Thaw to Take Stand In Her Husband's Behalf

White Plains, N. Y., July 13.—If counsel can agree, a commission of three alienists, mutually selected, will pass upon the question of Harry K. Thaw's sanity. This was practically decided at a continuation of the hearing before Justice Mills in which counsel for Stanford White's slayer is trying to establish his right to release from the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

With all of Monday's testimony in favor of Thaw and with the indication that his wife will take the stand in his behalf, and with District Attorney Jerome eliminated, Thaw's chances for release appear brighter than at any time since his commitment.

After a string of witnesses who testified to Thaw's soundness of mind had told their story, Roger Clark, deputy attorney general, who is conducting the people's case, informed the court that he had been so much impressed by Thaw's intelligent interest in the issues at stake that he was willing to concede Thaw's right to a full and impartial examination.

He suggested that counsel for Thaw and counsel for the people agree to a commission of three expert alienists whose decision should be accepted by both parties to the suit, without reservations or equivocations. Charles Morschauser, for Thaw, was agreeable and asked that Dr. Baker, superintendent of the state asylum, and Dr. Austin Flint be named as two of the three.

Justice Mills favored the suggestion for a commission, but was of the opinion that the state ought to name two of the three experts. With that exception, he left the personnel of the commission to be determined by counsel for both sides.

Mr. Morschauser pressed for another advantage for his client by asking the court that, in the event of the selection of a commission in lunacy, that any one who had testified in previous proceedings be barred from the examination now in progress. Justice Mills left this point also to be decided by counsel.

Evelyn N. Thaw has abandoned vacation plans, it is announced, in order to appear for her husband. The testimony heard from jailers, innkeepers, real estate dealers, clergymen, a dentist and a reporter, all called by Thaw, was uniformly in his favor.

RAMMED BY NEW BOAT

Steamer on Lake Superior Quickly Goes Down With Fourteen Men

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., July 13.—Three minutes after the steel steamers Isaac M. Scott and John B. Cowle had collided in Lake Superior the Cowle had gone to the bottom in fifty fathoms of water, carrying with her fourteen members of her crew. The Scott, although damaged about the bows, put back to this port with part of the crew of the Cowle.

A heavy fog was responsible for the collision. The Scott, a new boat on her maiden trip to the head of the lake, had just straightened out her course up the lake, when the Cowle loomed up through the fog, only a few feet away, with 8000 tons of iron ore in her hold.

The Cowle was 445 feet long, fifty feet beam, and owned by the Cowle Transit company of Cleveland.

CRISIS DRAWS NEARER

Indications That Shah of Persia Will Soon Lose His Throne

Teheran, July 13.—Further efforts by Said Ed Dowleh, the Persian foreign minister, on behalf of the government, to reach a friendly settlement with the Nationalists, have failed, and serious fighting is now looked for. The Shiite sacred college of Mujtiheds has decided to bring its influence to bear on the situation, and mollahs already have crossed the Turkish frontier with orders to proclaim a holy war. A holy war against the Moslems is unprecedented, but to legalize it the shah and his supporters have been declared non-Moslems.

The Dominion Coal Strike

Glace Bay, C. B., July 13.—The Dominion Coal company declares that they have every reason to be satisfied with the number of men at work and the output. All the mines are running except Nos. 6 and 7.

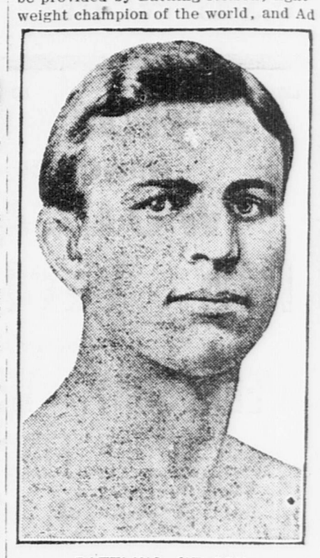
Hundred Lives Perhaps Lost

Mexico City, July 13.—A cloudburst at Orizaba caused a loss of $500,000. A large area is under water. It is estimated that the total loss of life will exceed 100.

NELSON-WOLGAST SCRAP

They Will Get Together In Los Angeles Before Big Crowd

Los Angeles, July 13.—One of the biggest crowds that has ever seen a prize fight in this city is expected to gather tonight at the entertainment to be provided by Battling Nelson, lightweight champion of the world, and Ad



BATTLING NELSON.

Wolgast of Milwaukee. The city is filled with Elks, among whom are exmany fight lovers, and they are expected to make the ringside look like a lodge session in full blast.

It is said that Nelson will receive $5500 for his half hour's work, while Wolgast will be paid $1500.

ORVILLE WRIGHT'S FLIGHT

Successful Trip In New Aeroplane at Rate of Forty Miles an Hour

Washington, July 13.—Orville Wright last evening made a successful flight in the Wright aeroplane at Fort Myer, Va., remaining in the air five and a half minutes, during which time the machine attained a speed of about forty miles an hour. He circled the parade grounds half a dozen times, a total distance of about three and a half miles. Each time the aeroplane circled past the starting point the spectators cheered.

After passing the crowd the sixth time the aviator decided to make a landing because the motor was occasionally missing. He descended easily, the machine sliding smoothly over the ground until it came to a stop at a point near the shed.

Both of the Wrights expressed themselves as pleased with the performance. They intend to make only short flights until the new bearings have become worn down and the propelling motor is working perfectly.

NAGEL DROPS LOAD OF "DEAD TIMBER"

Great Shakeup In Department of Commerce and Labor

Washington, July 13.—Approximately 100 employes of the department of commerce and labor were reduced Monday and the resignations of about ten others accepted.

This action was taken by Secretary Nagel as the result of an investigation into the "efficiency record" of the employes in his department. The reductions were made, it is stated, because the employes were found to have "loafed on the job," while those allowed to resign were found to be inefficient.

The secretary's determination to inject new life into the work of his department prompted this radical step. Further changes are to be made, it is intimated, and many of the clerks will receive promotions.

A Mysterious Drowning

Amesbury, Mass., July 13.—Patrick Campbell, 55 years old, an employe of the Atlantic Boat company, started from this city to deliver a boat at Bath, Me. Nothing was seen of him until his body was picked up a few hours later off Hampton Beach. There was no sign of his boat and the cause of his drowning is not known.

Bi-Plane Comes to Grief

New York, July 13.—The uncertainties which still attend aeronautics appeared when the bi-plane of Fred Schneider was totally wrecked at Morris Park. The machine rose straight up in the face of a heavy wind, buckled and tumbled backward from a height of twenty feet. Schneider escaped without a scratch.

Brazil Pays Homage to Cleveland

Rio Janeiro, July 13.—"Clevelandia," in honor of former President Cleveland, is to be the name of the municipality of Bella Vista de Palma, Brazil, because of Cleveland's services as arbiter of the question of boundary lines between Brazil and the Argentine republic.

Magistrate Loses His Job

Washington, July 13.—Colonel Garcia, a provincial magistrate of Guatemala, has been dismissed from office as a result of the demands of the state department for the punishment of the murderers of William Wright, an American negro, killed by a mob.

REDUCED TO ONE PERCENT

Corporation Tax Halved at Conference In White House

PERSONAL APPEALS BY TAFT

President Measuring His Strength With That of Aldrich In Efforts to Secure Downward Revision of Tariff—In Daily Consultation With Conferees—Drastic Action Expected If Diplomacy Fails

Washington, July 13.—At a conference at the White House Monday it was definitely decided that the rate to be levied under the new corporation tax shall be reduced from 2 percent to 1 percent, and that in redrafting the measure, now in conference along with the tariff bill to meet various objections that have been raised, due consideration shall be given to the demands of the mutual life insurance companies whose incomes would be seriously affected by the tax in its original form.

President Taft is the central figure in a number of conferences and is living up to the prediction made many weeks ago that in the conference consideration of the tariff he would actively lend his influence to bringing about a conciliation of the differences between the two houses. The president is in daily consultation with the tariff conferees. The conference report should be available, according to the president's information, by the end of next week.

That President Taft regards the tariff situation as of critical importance and to be handled better by diplomacy than by blows has been made plain to all his callers since his return to the White House last Friday.

It is the purpose of the president to leave no member unreached if it is apparent that an interview would promise benefit to the cause of downward revision. Outside the conferees, however, the president is dumb to all callers as to the merits of the Aldrich-Payne bill.

Upon the most complete authority it can be stated that all the powers of conciliation will be exhausted by the president before he will even contemplate a more drastic program. He is putting his own influence and powers of persuasion against those of Senator Aldrich.

President Taft has made it plain that he will not take either the people or the members of congress, outside the conferees, into his confidence with respect to tariff revision. This course he holds to be wisest, and absolutely to secure the results for which he is aiming. Any other, he believes, might defeat his purpose and bring about a situation between him and congress which would provide serious aspects.

ELKS' BIGGEST CONVENTION

Many Thousands of "Best People on Earth" Gather In Los Angeles

Los Angeles, July 13.—The City of the Angels is entertaining today thousands upon thousands of "the Best People on Earth." At any rate, so the members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks call themselves jocularly, and the hospitable folk of Los Angeles are not inclined to dispute the claim.

The city is lavishly decorated with royal purple and white, the colors of the Elks, and countless representations of the elk's head and the clock with hands pointing to 11 are to be seen. The convention is the biggest in the forty years' history of the order.

The convention will remain in session three days. The main business will be the selection of next year's convention city and the election of officers. For the high position of grand exalted ruler of over 300,000 Elks there are two candidates—Garry Herrmann, the Cincinnati baseball magnate, and J. U. Samis of Le Mars, Ia. Detroit is in the lead as a candidate for next year's convention and Boston for the 1911 gathering.

BILLPOSTERS IN SESSION

Hundreds of delegates to the convention of the Associated Billposters and Distributors of the United States and Canada are assembled here.

No Korean War Ministry

Seoul, July 13.—A change in the Korean cabinet is imminent, it being purposed to abolish the ministry of war. The change will cause no disturbance.

Councilman Whiton, if the Council has made a mistake and want to rectify it they have a right to.

Councilman Nowland rose to a question of personal privilege. It did not seem to him to be outside the rules of decency. He believed it no more than proper that the license should be granted.

President Hobbs said that when a gentleman appeals he ought to believe he is right and that he is honest in his opinion. Under the rules of the Council and under Cushing manuel any matter disposed of by a deliberate body could not again be taken up at the same session. NATIONAL RIFLE MATCHES.

Distinguished visitors are expected at Camp Perry, Ohio in August next to witness the National Rifle Matches. A cordial invitation to visit the matches has been extended to President Taft, Secretary of War, Dickinson, members of the Senate and House committees on Military Affairs, and other distinguished men. The National Rifle and Revolver Matches begin on August 23 and will be followed immediately by those of the National Rifle Association. It is not probable that President Taft will find it convenient to attend the matches although his interest in military rifle work and in the matches' to say nothing of the great range in his native state, is such that he may run out there for a day. He is a life member of the N. R. A. and during his administration of the War Department rifle practice made great strides forward.

In addressing the Senators and Representatives Gen. Drain said, in part: "There matches afford the greatest possible incentive to the men of the country to perfect themselves in the use of the weapons which would be placed in their hands for war. Without the incentive thus afforded it is doubtful if the wide spread interest in target practice which has been growing up in the United States for the last five years could ever been created. It is felt that in no other way can the safety of the country be better conserved than by the instruction of our men in rifle practice. Such a course seems to promise the most reasonable assurances of power to the Nation to preserve peace to ourselves and other countries." The National Matches proper, as distinguished from those of the National Rifle Association are shot under the direction of the Secretary of War, the rules for the same being prepared by the National Board for Promotion of Rifle Practice, of which Assistant Secretary of War Robert Shaw Oliver, is president.

The preparations for the National Matches are on a larger scale than ever before. Approximately one hundred regular army officers and 1,000 troops will be stationed at Camp Perry during the matches. Congress has appropriated $12,000 for the messing of the competitors during the national matches and the prize money will be largely increased. From 1,000 to 1,500 competitors will participate in the National Matches and those of the N. R. A. and many in the Ohio National Guard Matches and those of the Ohio State Rifle Association, and the Department of the Lakes Rifle Association which precede the National Matches. The contests begin August 9th and run to September 3d when the Sea Girl tournament opens.

OLD COLONY LEAGUE NOTES

Things of Interest About the League Teams

That fourteen inning game certainly was a hummer and one could not wish for a better game. There were only two errors in the whole game, one in the first inning and one in the fourteenth. Both were made by Quincy, one amounting to nothing and the other, a wild throw to first by Hoye, allowing Rockland to score the winning run. It was a hard game for either team to lose and a good one for either to win.

Oh, you Al Strobel. Al played one of the finest games at short stop ever seen on the Rockland field. Time and again he trapped balls that looked like sure hits and sent them across to first ahead of the runner. He is certainly a smooth, graceful fielder and is easily the best short stop in the league.

"Doc" Hurley started the game for Quincy on Saturday, but did not show the goods. Wise judgment pulled him out and sent Sid Patterson to the mound in the third inning. Although no runs were made off the elongated doctor, still he was going bad and only the greatest luck saved him. Patterson pitched good steady ball and had fine curves up to the eleventh inning when he was hit on his pitching hand by a drive from Mahar's bat. After that Sid could only throw a straight ball and had to depend on his head and his support. For three more innings he got by but in the fourteenth he lost out. Hard luck, Sid, but we are still with you to the end.

Patterson had Thornhill in for two strikes and three balls Saturday and then in trying to work him on his weak point, a neck ball, Sid passed him. Had he fanned him, there would have been another story.

Hamilton, the Rockland second sacker is a fast sure fielder and showed his class Saturday. He made several good stops that were labeled hits and received great applause for some of his classy plays.

Randolph comes here next Saturday for the first time. This will be the initial clash between Quincy and Randolph and as hte two towns are old rivals, a hot game can be expected. The Randolph manager says that there will be a big crowd of rooters down from the shoe town to make things interesting and to howl for their favorites. It will be a swell game without a doubt, and Quincy ought to get away with it.

"Pop" Mahar, the old Harvard star, captain-manager of the Rockland team, started the joy party Saturday in the fourteenth, with slashing hit through the box. This was his fourth hit of the day. Once with men on second and third Patterson deliberatly passed Mahar and took a chance on Hamilton. His judgment proved to be good, for Hamilton popped to Courtney and the danger was over.

There must have been some class to that game down in Taunton on Saturday. Randolph and Taunton battled for fourteen innings without a single score and then came the blow-ut in the fifteenth.

It was rumored about town Saturday night that Monahan, the star catcher for the Taunton team, had been run over by a train and had his leg cut off. This was not true, however, for it was learned later to be someone else.

The big sight-seeing auto that took some of the Quincy crowd to Rockland Saturday, broke down half way up. It got there on time howevrr.

Fred Smith of this city caught for Rockland Saturday and gave a clever exhibition. Smith is on the reserve list of the local team and was loaned to Rockland last Saturday. It would be well to keep a string on this clever backstop, for you never know when you might need him. He is a classy workman and is strong with the bat, something rather unusual in a catcher. He made a hit in Rockland and can have a steady job there if he wants it and if Quincy allows it. The local management will not, however, tie up Smith, but will let him play anywhere he desires, all the time keeping a string on him.

The Deweys have let Adams go, the report being that he was too expensive. Good money must be paid for players if a winning combination is desired. Adams pitched fine ball for Dewey and made a good impression all over the circuit. Dam pitched Saturday and got it put all over him by the Stoughton team. Dam is a fine outfielder, but as a pitcher he does not fit quite so well, that is not in the Old Colony league. If Dewey wants to stay with the rest of the clubs, she will have to pay good money for the players. Quincy found this out and now the local team is considered the fastest in the league.

Roger Chase, formerly of the local Old Colony league team, was given a tryout by Worcester in the New England League last week, but failed to show up well. Chase was probably nervous in the first game and perhaps with another trial will make good.

Harry Martin, the star twirler of the Rockland team, is easily the best thing in the league. He has everything, the build, the speed, the head and the curves. Watch his progress.

MURDERED WHILE ASLEEP

Aged Couple Supposed to Have Been Killed by Their Landlord

New York, July 13.—A coroner's autopsy proved conclusively that Thomas Verity, 73 years old, and his wife, Cynthia, 84, whose bodies were found in the ashes of the house at Patchogue, L. I., where they lodged, had met death from concussion of the brain. They had apparently been beaten to death in bed, while they lay asleep.

A motive for the murder is not easy to assign, although Peter Backalvitch, the landlord, is held as a suspect. What money the two had they got from their sons. They paid their rent by boarding Backalvitch, who lived below them on the first floor. When the firemen came they found him fully dressed outside the locked front door.

His explanation is that he was so hard pressed by the heat that he had jumped from his bed out of the window, grabbing his clothes as he fled.

PRESERVING POSTS FROM DECAY.

Every farmer is familiar with the rotting of his fence posts at the surface of the ground. The labor of replacing them and how to secure new and durable posts are sources of constant annoyance and expense. Even the more durable woods, such as chestnut, white oak and cedar, decay in eight or ten years. It is true that there are a few kinds of wood in the United States, such as locust and osage orange which give much longer service, but their supply, never very large, is rapidly becoming exhausted, and the farmer must now look to some other source for his posts. Perhaps directly on his farm there may be a patch of woods which includes such trees as black oak, beech, maple or pine, and cottonwoods and willows may grow along the banks of his streams. These are trees which heretofore have been thought of little or no use for posts, because of the rapidity with which they are attacked by decay. In their natural condition, they will rot in two or three years—too soon to pay for the labor of setting them. The Forest Service in its study of prolonging the life of fence posts has found cheap and simple methods of preserving them in a sound condition for an indefinite time, even though they are the poorest and naturally least durable woods.

Decay is not a simple process like the crumbling of stone or the rusting of iron. It is caused by low forms of plant life which thoroughly permeate the wood, discolor it and cause it to become disconnected and "rotten." To preserve the timber in a thoroughly sound condition, it is only necessary to render the wood unfit for the growth of these organisms. This is done by injecting into it substances poisonous to plant life.

One of the most widely used preservatives is creosote, one of the by-products of coal tar. When it is injected into the wood, decay will be retarded indefinitely and an old-field pine or a cottonwood fence post when properly treated will easily give a life of twenty years or longer. Such a preservative treatment costs about ten cents per post. The creosote can be applied by painting the wood with a brush or dipping it into the liquid, but much better results will be obtained if it is actually injected into the wood instead of merely coating the outside. If the brush method, or painting is used, the creosote should be applied at a temperature of about 180 degrees F. Two coats should be given at least twenty-four hours apart. If these posts are dipped directly into the preservatives, the creosote should be heated to about the same temperature. The best results of all can be obtained by first heating the posts in a bath of hot creosote and then either transferring them quickly to a bath of creosote at a lower temperature, or else shutting off the heat and allowing the post to remain in the oil as it cools. By such a method the sapwood will become thoroughly permeated with the creosote. Full details and specific directions for the treatment of different kinds of posts may be obtained by application to the Forester, Washington, D. C.

CHINESE JUSTICE.

Li Hung Chang and the Men Who Tried to Poison Him.

When Li Hung Chang was Chinese premier and was having a bitter fight with some of the more conservative members of the tsung-li-yamen he received as a present a magnificent cake which he had reason to suspect contained poison. He put the cake aside and set all his powerful machinery to work to find out who was at the bottom of the plot. The investigation was partly successful, the crime being traced to three men, of whom one at least was absolutely guilty. Li had the trio arrested and brought to his yamen. When they arrived they were ushered into his presence and were received in his courtliest manner. The cake was produced with the remark that politeness forbade his tasting it until the three generous donors had had an opportunity to enjoy its excellence. Li cut the cake, and one of his servitors handed it to the unwilling guests. Each took a piece and ate or pretended to eat it. One crumbled the pieces and let them fall upon the floor, but the other two ate calmly, without manifesting any emotion. Ten minutes and the two men began to show symptoms of suffering. Li smiled benignantly and said to the man who had not eaten, "Your wisdom is so great that I am compelled to preserve your head as a souvenir to transcendent genius."

The man was removed and promptly decapitated. To the other two the premier remarked: "The cake that you are eating is not the one you sent, but one which I had my cook imitate. The poison from which you are suffering exists only in your imagination. I know of no way to cure your present pain except by letting you share the same fate as your friend who has just left the room."

As they were led away the statesman said to his retinue, "It is a pity that a man who can eat a deadly corrosive poison with an unmoved countenance should so misapply the talent wherewith heaven has endowed him."

ICEBERGS.

How Those Found In the North Atlantic Are Formed.

The distance covered by an iceberg of the north Atlantic from the time it is formed until it reaches the banks is fully 2,500 miles. It may have been afloat for a year, exposed to wide changes of temperature, battered by ice floes, possibly other bergs and ceaselessly washed by the waves. Yet some of those seen 2,000 miles south of their starting point are nearly 300 feet in height and truly of majestic proportions, often 1,000 or more feet in length, while it is an established scientific fact that so much more of the bulk is under water than is visible that the largest bergs may extend into the ocean to a depth of over half a mile.

Their enormous size when they become detached from the glaciers is proved by the observations of explorers along the Greenland coast. A few years ago a berg was measured as nearly as possible around the edges. This distance was about five miles. It had several peaks estimated to range from 300 to 500 feet high. Judging from its appearance, it was a solid mass that had separated in its entirety from the glacial edge of Greenland.

As arctic navigators who venture far north often see a score or more of great bergs in a day, the tremendous glacial activity in this region can be appreciated. The majority of these that drift to the Grand banks come from Melville bay. Some of the distinct glaciers that terminate the Greenland ice cap on this coast extend along it a distance of fully twenty-five miles. Their thickness or height can only be estimated, but in places near the open sea it is believed to be several hundred feet.

Recent examinations of this coast show that during the short summer the formation of bergs in the bay is almost continuous. The glacial movement keeps pressing the ice forward until a thick stratum often projects many feet beyond that beneath. After a time the great weight overcomes the tensile strength of the mass and it falls into the sea, and a berg is created.—Day Allen Willey in Scientific American.

A Frog's Nest.

Puppies Both.

"I would give half my fortune to be in your little dog's place," said a "smart" young man in a railway carriage to a girl who had a toy terrier in her arms.

"And it would be the right place for you," she retorted, "for I am taking him to have his ears cropped!"—London Express.

A Natural Inference.

"Matrimony," said the lady who had just secured her third divorce, "is, after all, an uncharted sea."

"I take it, then," her friend replied, "that you have not engaged in your various ventures for charting purposes."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Manners form at last a rich varnish with which the routine of life is washed and its details adorned.—Emerson.

OUTLAW BAND EXTERMINATED

Story of American Soldiers' Fight With Savage Moros

A HAND-TO-HAND ENCOUNTER

Climax of Desperate Battle After Jikiri and His Followers Had Been Driven From Cave Almost Inaccessible and Upon Which a Terrific Fire Was Directed—Natives Supposed Chieftain Bore Charmed Life

Manila, July 13.—While detailed accounts of the last fight of Jikiri, the famous Moro outlaw chieftain, who was killed and his band exterminated in a pitched battle near Patian, on the Island of Jolo on July 5, have not been received, several brief dispatches and a letter or two from American officers who fought against the outlaw give a fairly complete story of the fight.

Hunted from place to place by the regulars and constabulary who had been in close pursuit, Jikiri took refuge in a cave that pierced the side of the crater of an extinct volcano. Here the outlaws gathered to make their last stand. As the soldiers came up the scouts located the party and the troops worked their way around the place until it was entirely surrounded and there was no chance of escape.

Captain Byram of the Sixth cavalry, who commanded the attacking force, then ordered a white flag displayed, and through his interpreter called upon Jikiri to surrender. The outlaw refused and also declined to accept a safe conduct for the women of his party, who remained with the band and bore their share of the fighting.

Captain Byram ordered up the guns and a terrific shell fire was opened on the cave. The missiles broke above and around the opening, but a ledge protected those inside from the fire of the guns and little damage was inflicted.

Storming parties worked their way up the steep slope, and finding footing on the ledge, endeavored to rush the larger entrance to the cave. The fighting for a few minutes was desperate, but the outlaws drove their assailants back by a savage spear charge. The soldiers were not completely routed and, taking up their posts at the end of the ledge, poured a terrible rifle fire into the mouth of the cave, the bullets glancing from the rock walls and throwing showers of sharp splinters of rock among the besieged.

Jikiri himself singled out Lieutenant Wilson, who commanded one section of the attacking party. Rushing from the cave the outlaw flung himself upon the American before Wilson could raise his pistol. With one hand gripping the officer's hair, the bandit slashed at his neck with the heavy native knife he carried, endeavoring to behead him. Lieutenant Baer saw his comrade's peril and dashed to his aid. As Jikiri swung back the knife to strike again, Baer shot him dead and Wilson dropped to the ground. It is feared that Wilson will be incapacitated from further service in the army, as the muscles and cords of his neck were severed by the bandit's knife.

Writing of the fight, American officers say that in the desperate hand-to-hand encounter on the narrow ledge some of the assailants may have been wounded by their own fire.

Hundreds of friendly Moros saw the fight at close range. They perched among the rocks where they could see the ledge, and not a movement of the combatants escaped their eyes. Many of them believed that Jikiri bore a charmed life, impervious to knife and bullet. They would not be convinced that he was dead until they saw and felt his body.

HOMERS' GREAT FLIGHT

Sixty-Seven Break Old Record In Covering Over 500 Miles

Baltimore, July 13.—In a flight of birds of the Southern Federation of Homing Pigeon Fanciers, a record that has stood for the past twelve years was broken.

The birds were liberated at North Bay, Ont., 510 miles from Baltimore, and the first to arrive covered the distance in 9 hours, 17 minutes, an average of 1600.05 yards a minute. The previous record was 1340 yards a minute.

Nearly 100 birds were liberated at North Bay, and of these sixty-seven beat the previous record referred to.

Coroner Kills Murder Tale

Wiscasset, Me., July 13.—Death due to heart failure was the verdict reached by Coroner Richards after an investigation of the finding of the body of Mrs. Abbie Cromwell, aged 77, in the bushes in Dresden. He stated that $15 in money was found on the body and there was no evidence of robbery or assault.

$80,000 For Brood Mare

Newmarket, Eng., July 13.—The sensational price of $80,000 was paid at Tattersalls for the brood mare Flair, the property of the late Sir Daniel Cooper. The previous record price for brood mares was $62,500, paid for Laf Leche.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

"Law case?" asked Perkins suddenly.

"Sort of," answered Pike quietly. "I don't know that I'd call it just that. Perhaps the trip would be a change anyway. And I'd like to see this man Hawcastle."

"Where does this Hawcastle live?" asked Perkins.

"England. Got a house he calls Hawcastle Hall."

"What about the K. and G.?" asked Perkins suddenly.

"I guess the K. and G. will have to wait awhile."

"There's something wrong with you, Dan," he said emphatically. "There's something mighty wrong. It ain't like you to go running off this way unless there's something behind it."

He stopped, for Pike was whistling softly to himself, whistling like the man who is striving to recall some tune that is only half forgotten. Then he turned to Perkins.

"Remember that old tune, Tom," he asked—" 'Sweet Genevieve?' "

"Get out!" snapped Perkins. "That's a million years old. Why don't you keep up to date if you're going in for music? What do you care about 'Sweet Genevieve,' anyway?"

"I used to know somebody that sang it—once—long ago," said Pike quietly. "I used to hear John Simpson whistle it years before he died and left all that money to me for those two kids. Tom"—he turned suddenly and transfixed his friend with an accusatory finger—"what would you think of a guardian that doesn't guard?"

Perkins regarded him rebelliously.

"Depends on whose guardian he is and whether the guardees want him to attend to business or not. If you're talking about those kids of John Simpson's, I'd say you've done about all you could be expected to. You've kept the money together, haven't you? You've made it grow. You've sent it along regular—over there. What more could any one want?"

"Maybe that isn't enough."

"When are those two coming home?" went on Perkins. "Why don't they come back and spend John's money where it was made—at home?"

"I don't believe they're coming back right soon," replied Pike. "Things sort of seem to attract 'em over there. It must be a mighty fine place."

"Huh!" replied Perkins disgustedly. "What's the matter with Kokomo? Why don't that girl come back home and marry and settle down? Tell me that."

Pike smiled queerly, and his head seemed to shrink into his shoulders a trifle as he thrust his hands into his pockets.

"I guess she's going to marry and settle down, Tom, all right," he said slowly. "From what I hear she's going to marry one of those dukes or earls I was mentioning."

"Marry a foreigner!" cried Perkins, jumping to his feet. "Why, I thought she"—

"Never mind what you thought, Tom," returned Pike. "I'm telling you she's going to be married. That's why I guess she won't be likely to come back to Kokomo. I guess Kokomo's a pretty poor looking place after some of those other places she's been seeing."

"How do you know?" asked Perkins, drawing his chair forward.

Pike lifted the letter he had folded up.

"I got this from her," he said simply. "Want to know what's in it?"

"Yes," answered Perkins.

"I can't let you read it, but it's from a place in Italy—Sorrento," he went on slowly, mouthing the unfamiliar word. "She says she's going to marry the Hon. Almaric St. Aubyn, heir to the ancient house of Hawcastle. And she wants to make a settlement on him. She can't marry without my consent, you know, Tom. If she does the money goes to the Kokomo Orphan asylum."

"Going to give your consent?" inquired Perkins.

"Don't know," answered Pike. "I've got to look the young man over first. I promised John Simpson I'd always look after her. That was when she was born. He said girls sometimes got into a tight place and they'd need some one to pull them out. Sounds good, doesn't it, Tom? Hon. Almeric St. Aubyn. Must be a member of congress or something over there. Maybe he'll be a senator some day. I can't object, Tom, if he's got a show to make a good living for her, can I? Say, what is a settlement, anyway? You don't suppose I've been keeping her short of money, do you, and she's had to borrow?"

"Don't ask me," he said. "I don't know anything about women. Why, Dan, I thought you'd mapped it out to marry"—

"That'll do for that," said Pike quickly. "We'll not talk about that now, Tom. Suppose you go down to Archie Toombs and ask him about Sorrento and how to get there and when a fellow gets there after he starts. I'm going to write a letter to Jim Cooley and get him to hunt up this Hawcastle."

When Perkins had gone Pike pulled open the letter and read it once again. It was the most formal of notes, beginning "Dear Mr. Pike" and ending "Yours sincerely." It contained a brief notice of the writer's intentions, or, rather, intentions in the event of a certain contretemps that to her seemed inevitable, and trusted that the end would meet with his approval.

He sighed as he folded it and returned it to its envelope.

"And that ends the guardianship," he muttered. "Wonder what I'm going to do with the old house now?"

AMERICAN FOREST SCHOOLS.

Washington, July 10th.

Forty-seven graduates of nine American Forest schools have just received appointments as forest assistants in the United States Forest service. But five of these appointees have been assigned to the Washington office, the other forty-two receiving appointments in the six administrative districts in the west. These men have secured their appointments as a result of passing the regular civil service examination which is the only avenue of employment as a forester under the government.

Forest Assistants are men who have completed their preliminary training for the profession of forestry, as the graduates of law or medicine have completed theirs, and are ready to enter upon practical work. Until they have gained experience, however, their positions are necessarily subordinate. They are at the foot of the ladder and must prove their fitness to mount higher. The government pays them $1,000 a year at the start.

On the National Forests the Forest Assistant often acts as technical adviser to the supervisors in charge, who are western men experienced in all practical matters, but usually without school training in the science of forestry. Or they may be assigned to the study of some particular problem which needs to be investigated in the interest of good forest management. As forestry means knowing how to get the most out of any given piece of forest land, it calls for studies and experiments, both scientific and practical much like those which have to be made in the interests of good farm management, and the Forest Assistant is prepared to do valuable work along this line.

There is a growing interest in the profession of forestry now, and many young men are asking how to get into it, and what it promises. Gifford Pinchot, United States Forester, in an address to the graduating class in forestry at Harvard University this year, said:

"The government and the country need more men trained in the knowledge of forestry, and it offers opportunity to make a man's life loom large and to count for much among the many phases of human endeavor. To be a good forester a man should combine something of the naturalist with a good deal of the business man To know how to use the forest he must be able to study it. He must have therefore the power of observation a fondness for nature, and the ability to penetrate her secret. Must be resourceful, able to stand by himself, willing to undergo the privations of rough life, and capable of commanding the respect of rough men, who quickly recognize virility and genuineness of character, but will not tolerate pretense or the assumption of superiority. A forester should be sound in mind and body, and should make the fullest college preparation for the service. This service means a free, vigorous life in the open air, and a clear, straight, fine wholesome manly condition of life.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS HEROES.

Harold Gore and Leon Brown Rescue Earl Gardner at Wollaston Beach.

Quite a thrilling rescue occurred Saturday afternoon at Wollaston, when Earl Gardner ,aged 8, was saved from drowning by the heroic work of Harold Gore and Leon Brown, both of Wollaston who were in swimming at the time. Young Gardner had climbed into a boat that was tied on the beach, pulled up the anchor and before he knew it, was rapidly drifting out to sea. When he noticed his danger, he was about 500 feet from shore and as he could not swim, he became frightened and called loudly for help. His cries were heard by the two above mentioned young men, who immediately dashed into the water and started for the drifting boat. The boy started to climb from the boat, but when he saw help coming he changed his mind and climbed back. It would have been all over with him if he jumped into the water for he could not swim a stroke and the water at that point was several feet deep. Gore and Brown soon arrived at the boat, however, and grabbing the painter, towed the craft ashore. The young heroes were greeted with cheers when they arrived on shore, a large crowd having been attracted by the cries of the frightened boy.

Both Gore and Brown are well known in the Wollaston district and are strong swimmers. They both played on the High school ball team the past season and made good records on the gridiron.

COLONIAL JACK.

Colonial Jack with his famous Sphinx was in town this noon for a short time. He stopped just long enough to get dinner and make a change of underware and then started on for Portland which will complete his journey of 9,000 miles, wheeling the Sphinx about the border of the United States.

Jack left Portland, Me., June 1, 1908 and up to the present time has completed 8,886 1-2 miles. From Portland he went west through the New England states to New York thence to Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington along the Pacific coast to the southern border and is now on his last lap of the long journey.

From Quincy he heads direct for Portland which city he expects to reach in five days when he will have completed over 9,000 miles inside of 400 days.

While in California he met and had dinner with Cronley who was in Quincy two years ago and who is making the same kind of a trip.

Jack says during the trip he has worn out eleven pairs of shoes five, wheels of the sphinx, three tires and has lost seventeen pounds in weight.

He has called at 1,100 post offices and has the stamp of each to prove his statement true. He has now been on the road 365 days and at the present time is 45 days ahead of time.

Jack is accompanied by his wife who however does not do the walking act but travels from city to city by cars. When he has completed his trip he will write a book of his travels.

Some boats have been overhauled and ordered out of commission until the law is complied with. CAPT. FOSDICK GETS THE PEN

Was Used to Sign the Houghs Neck School Lot Order

Mayor Shea made a few scratches with his pen, Monday on the order appropriating $6,500 for the purchase of the triangular Cavanagh lot and the order became a law. Likewise there was great rejoicing at Houghs Neck and the face of Capt. O. G. Fosdick wore one of those smiles that would not come off. The genial captain was happy for two reasons. First because the desired lot was to be purchased and second because the Mayor had decided to present to him the pen with which the order had been signed.

Captain Fosdick is the chairman of the school committee of the Houghs Neck Associates and he has frequently, fervently and dramatically pleaded with the Council to provide the children of Houghs Neck with a school building that the little ones would not have to be transported to and from school on the electric cars. It was a hard long drawn out fight but as usual perserverance won the day. The Associates will not let the attainment of the purchase of the Cavanagh lot go unnoticed for in the very near future red fire will be burned and the little stars from exploding sky rockets will illuminate the air. Then there will be something to eat and a flow of oratory such as seldom heard. The Associates have a right to feel elated and they can not be blamed if they want to celebrate.

Another step was taken by the City Council Monday night, in the school house question when Councilman Bryant offered a resolution which was adopted, requesting the school committee to forward plans of the building they desired to the Council as soon as possible. If everything works well the end of the year should see on order passed appropriating the necessary money for a school building.

MCDONOUGH—JOHNSON. . . . .

A real naval wedding took place Monday evening at the beautiful bungalow of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson of Adams shore, when their daughter Miss Sadie F. Johnson, became the bride of Warrant Officer James H. McDonough, chief machinist of the U. S. S. New Jersey. The wedding was of much interest to the younger social circles of this city and to the officers and men of the New Jersey.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, pastor of the Bethany Congregational church. The bungalow, which is one of the largest and prettiest of the summer homes on Adams shore, was tastily decorated and proved to be an ideal spot for a wedding of a naval officer. The tide was full and the water almost reached the house, making the groom think that he was indeed aboard ship, rather than in a bungalow at a summer resort.

The bride was attired in a beautiful dress of white brocaded net and Japanese silk, brought from Japan by the groom on the world encircling trip with the U. S. fleet. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Marion Johnson, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and she wore a gown of white embroidery. The groom was in the full dress of his rank and was attended by Warrant Officer E. W. Andrews, U. S. N., of Washington, D. C., who was a companion of the groom on the world cruise of Admiral Sperry's fleet.

The bride is one of the most popular of the younger social set of Quincy. She is a graduate of the Woodward Institute. Her father is well known and is one of the largest lumber dealers of the South Shore. He is also prominent in the local lodge of Elks.

The groom is one of the best known warrant officers in Uncle Sam's navy. He first met Miss Johnson, when the New Jersey was at the Fore River yards being rebelted three years ago. Shortly before the departure of the New Jersey for Hampton Roads to join the fleet, a tea was given on board, at which Miss Johnson was one of the honored guests. The engagement is thought to date from that time.

Mr. McDonough, is a southerner, being a native of Richmond, Va. His official home, however according to naval orders is Brooklyn N. Y. He is also a member of the Elks. He is a brother to Chief Boatswain F. R. McDonough of the U. S. S. North Dakota, now building at the Fore River yards.

TEEL'S BAND QUITS.

Union Band of Boston Refuses to Play With Non-Union Players.

Because the Granite City band of this city was not a union band, Teel's band of Boston refused to play and withdrew from the Orangemen's parade in Boston on Monday. Both hands had been engaged to play and when the parade formed in Copley square to march, teh leader of Teel's band discovered that The Granite City band did not belong to the union. He therefore withdrew from the parade and refused to play. The Orangemen were leaving for their annual outing to be held at Wrentham and were to march to the South station to take the train. Teel's band went to the station alone and when the rest of the parade arrived, the leader told his story to Grand Master Milligan. The grand master then told the leader that as his band had deserted him when it was most needed, he would not take the band to Wrentham. The leader complained that he could not afford to pay the $50 fine that was attached to the offence of playing with non-union musicians, but the grand master said that made no difference. He said that the band had made a contract and had failed to keep it.

Benjamin F. Teel, the leader of the band said that when he found out there was a non-union band in parade, he telephoned to the president of the Boston Musicians' Protective union and that official ordered the band out of the parade. There was quite a mixup for a while, but all came out all right in the end.

CROONER WILL DEFEND CUP

Yachts Selected For Challenge Cup Races Next Week.

The first of the series of races for the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup will be sailed off the club house at Houghs Neck next Monday at 11 o'clock. Tuesday's race will start at 12 o'clock Wednesday at 12.30, Thursday at 1, Friday at 2 and Saturday at 2.30.

It may not be necessary however to hold more than three races for as soon as any yacht wins three races the cup has been won.

The Crooner the new sonder boat built by ex-Commodore Charles F. Adams 2d has been selected by the Quincy Yacht club as the defender of the cup.

Judging by the work she has done in the races held thus far this season in which she has participated she will be a hard boat to beat.

In addition to being very fast Mr. Adams is the prince of skippers and no man is more familiar with the tides and currents in Quincy Bay than is Mr. Adams.

The Boston Yacht Club has selected the Ellen, owned by C. P. Curtis, Jr., as challenger for the Quincy cup, The Ellen was the challenger for the Boston Yacht Club last year. She is a light-weather boat, and up to the time of the cup races had been getting more than her share of first prizes, but in the cup series there was heavy weather and rough water and the Ellen was at a disadvantage.

In Hull bay the airs are very uncertain, and it is possible that in streaky weather the Ellen may again show a winning gait. She will probably be the only boat contesting for the cup that is not new this year.

The Corinthian Yacht Club has named the Sally X. owned by Lawrence F. Percival, as its challenger. The challenger for the Eastern Yacht Club will be the Wolf, owned by Caleb Loring. The Manchester Yacht Club has not yet named its challenger.

In the races of 1906 the cup was captured by the Windram Kid of the Corinthian club.

The Bonidrei of the Boston club was credited with three races and the Windram Kid with two. The Bonidrei was protested by the latter boat however and the protest was allowed.

In 1907 the Corinthian club successfully defended the cup with the Sally VIII securing three out of the five races with the Manchester the Quincy club challenger.

In 1908 the Quincy club again challenged for the cup with the Manchester and won out.

The Corinthian club defended the cup with the Vim and boats of the Manchester. Boston and Eastern clubs also participated.

But three races were necessary for the Quincy challenger won three straight races.

MOTOR BOAT MUFFLERS.

"It is not so much expense as ignorance of equipment that is causing the trouble between the North Shore motor-boat fishermen and the summer residents," said Norman L. Skene, the naval architect employed by the summer colony at Swampscott in their suits against the lobster fishermen along the coast, under the new muffler law.

Mr. Skene has made a study of the gasolene engine exhaust, and states that the solution of the difficulty depends on a simple principle of mechanics.

"Back pressure is what the engineer has always been afraid of. While underwater exhaust is the only noiseless and odorless method, it creates pressure on the boat and chokes the engine.

"The secret of using exhaust successfully is simply to reduce the pressure of the exhaust gases as near to atmospheric pressure as possible before discharging into the water.

"This is secured by discharging the gases through a suitable exhaust fitting on the outside of the boat. The reduction of the temperature and pressure of the exhaust gas is accomplished by the use of suitable expansion space or by the thorough mixing of cooling water with the gas, or better still, by a combination of both methods.

"The volume of this expansion chamber, when the simple type is used, should be at least eight times the volume of the piston displacement o fthe engine and all the cooling water must be introduced into this chamber at the point of inlet of the exhaust gas.

"Various patented silencers for the motor boat have been placed on the market. These accomplish the desired result on a much smaller scale by special nozzle which causes the gas and water to mingle in a thin sheet thereby cooling the gas very effectively. But their silencers are more expensive than the larger simple type. They offer the advantages of being more compact and cooler."

The simple method of exhaust chamber is nothing more than the ordinary cast-iron gasolene muffler with an inlet for a small jet of cool water. Its success depends on the size of the muffler.—Boston Record.

TO RESTRAIN STEAMBOAT CO.

city of Boston After Houghs Neck Co. For Back Taxes

Assistant City Solicitor G. A. Flynn for the city collector of Boston ,applied on Tuesday to Judge Rugg for on order restraining the Boston and Houghs Neck Steamboat company from continuing to carry on business on the ground that the company has failed to pay the taxes assessed upon it in the city of Boston in the years 1905 and 1906, amounting to something like $225.

The company is a Maine corporation and has an office in Boston. The boats owned by the company are taxed both in Boston and in Quincy.

The company is also indebted to the city of Quincy to the extent of about $480, for personal taxes, having failed to pay since the year 1903. Some time ago this city begun suits against the company and these are still pending in Norfolk county courts. Considerable correspondence has been carried on between officials of the company and the local collectors of taxes in regard to the taxes, but nothing definite has been done.

In regard to the Boston end of the case, James R. Murphy says the company was ready to give a bond to insure the payment of the taxes in Boston in case a decision adverse to the company is given. Judge Rugg instructed counsel to complete the pleadings within a week, and the case will then go to a master.

As far as can be learned the trouble is that the steamboat company claims that it has been taxed both in Quincy and in Boston for the same property. They have always settled up the real estate assessment in this city, but have let the personal tax slide.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY.

Members of Women's Relief Corps Regaled With Ice Cream and Cake.

The members of Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps were pleasantly remembered at the regular meeting of the Corps Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was held in Grand Army hall and the warm weather was rather uncomfortable, so that the members were in good condition to enjoy the treat which came at recess in the form of ice cream and cake.

The donor was Mrs. C. P. Gould who took this form of celebrating her first anniversary as a member of Paul Revere Corps .

THE HOT WAVE.

Quincy people in common with the rest of humanity in this section of the country have been suffering for the past two days from the hot wave that has prevailed. The daily papers report many prostrations, but as far as known, there have been none in Quincy.

Although the days have been warm, there has been a cool breeze at night so that sleep was possible. There is better air today and the weather man promises cooler weather for tomorrow.

COURT CLERKS.

The Police, District and Municipal Court Clerks' association , of which John P. S. Churchill of the Quincy court is the clerk, is holding its annual outing today. The party are on board of a steamer enjoying a trip about the harbor. On their return tonight, they will have dinner at the Bass Point house, Nahant.

APPARATUS IN A MIXUP

Good Work on Part of Driver Prevents Serious Smashup

The alarm from Box 27 at 11.01 this noon was for a fire among some brush in the rear of Elm place. The brush made quite a smoke but was quickly extinguished.

There came near being a grand mix-up at the corner of Elm street and Quincy avenue, when the Central fire station apparatus were responding to the alarm. The combination was the first to leave the station and was going down Quincy avenue at top speed, with Johnny Faircloth at the wheel. Just as the heavy truck was turning the sharp corner at Elm street, the nigh horse slipped on the crossing and went down, dragging the middle horse with him. The off horse kept his feet and dragged the other two along for some little distance before he could be stopped. Tearing on behind the combination came "Jimmy" Connell and engine 42 going as only Jimmy's horses can go. It was up to Jimmy to do some quick thinking and cool work ,in order to get by the crippled combination and take the corner in safety. Jimmy was there with it all right and took the corner skilfully, but having only a few inches to spare.

In the wake of the steamer came the big heavy hook and ladder truck, thundering along at a good rate, "Nibble" Knight being in charge. It was even a tougher job to get the ladder truck around the corner than it was to go around with the steamer But "Nibble" showed his skill as a driver and passed the obstruction in safety.

After the other teams had gone on, John Faircloth, assisted by some citizens, started to get the fallen horses on their feet. Driver Faircloth talked to the horses as if they were human beings, and they understood him perfectly. He had them under perfect control and they never moved until the harness had been cut off them. Johnny has practically brought these horses up, and they understand every word he says.

The nigh horse, who was the first to fall, hit his head on the curbing, and received quite a gad cut over the right eye. He was also cut about the legs. The middle horse, who was pulled down had his right hind leg strained and limped a little when he walked. Outside of this there was no damage done. but it was indeed an arrow escape, for the citizens in the vicinity of the spill, for the horses and especially for the drivers. The drivers of all the trucks deserve great praise for the skilful way they handled the horses. Only cool and experienced reinsmen could have taken that sharp corner and passed the crippled combination in safety.

While the horses were down Chief Williams came flying along on his way to the fire. He stopped a minute to see what was the matter nad then continued on his way. A relief hose wagon was sent to the fire in place of the regular combination, but fortunately there was no need of any hose.

Under the new ordinance no clam under an inch and a half can be taken. Don't be a clam.

The Wolf and the Ellen are coming down to Quincy next Monday to challenge for the Quincy cup. Where's little Red Riding Hood?

From the published accounts of the Chinamen's outing at Peddocks, Monday ,the conduct of the Chinese women, are contrasted with the white women, was clear white.

The rowdy who makes a public nuisance of himself on trains and cars seems to be increasing in numbers of late. If effect is any criterion of the methods used, the imposing of $10 fines by the district court doesn't hit the mark. If there is anyone who deserves to be brought up with a sudden turn it is the obnoxious rowdy who makes a nuisance of himself on public conveyances. The courts can stop this kind of business and insure railroad trains and electric cars against such conditions. In justice to the decent, law-abiding citizens who have to use these trains and cars the courts ought to put the lid on.

In spite of the repeated accidents and loss of life, men will continue to try and get aboard of a train while it is in motion and most of them make for the cars in the middle of the train. If a man misses his footing while trying to get aboard one of these middle cars there is little, if any chance, of saving himself in time. Every day at the Quincy depot there is a constant running for trains while they are in motion. If a man feels that he has got to make a try for such a train he had better wait till the last car and avoid the chance of being cut in two if his footing should miss.

THE WOODWARD FUND

The proposed new city ordinance governing the Woodward fund was vetoed by Mayor Shea and this veto was laid on the table at the meeting of the city council, Monday night. The objection of the mayor seems to be against the makeup of the new board of managers, as proposed by the ordinance, which makes it consist of the mayor, city treasurer and three citizens not connected with the city government. The argument in favor of this clause of the ordinance is that under the present ordinance the board is composed of the mayor, city treasurer, city clerk, city auditor and one citizen elected by the council, and that the board, because of a majority of its members being representatives of some administration, the fund will be controlled by politicians.

It is not clear why a similar situation would not exist if, as is suggested by the proposed ordinance, three citizens can be appointed to the board instead of the city clerk city auditor and one citizen as is now provided. If any mayor wanted to make the Woodward fund a nesting place for politicians there would be nothing to prevent his appointing three citizens who had rendered him political service. Of course the city council can or cannot confirm the appointees and might balk at too palpable a game of politics and refuse confirmation. Suppose, then, that the mayor found the council opposed to him on the matter of appointments and chose oher men equally obnoxious and a second confirmaion was refused. Who is to say where this game might or might not end and what would the Woodward fund be doing in the meanwhile?

Under the proposed ordinance the city clerk who has always acted as clerk of the managers since Quincy became a city, is eliminated and no provision is made for keeping the records at city hall where they belong. It would seem that the city clerk of any administration is responsible enough to be clerk of the board if the city treasurer is responsible enough to be treasurer of the fund. Why the new ordinance allows the city treasurer to remain on the board and dismisses the city clerk is hard to see in the light of good business policy.

It seems to be a good suggestion that is offered by the mayor to the effect that if a change is proposed at all that the city council be represented by its president or by the city auditor. At the present time the city auditor is the representative of the city council and one citizen chosen by that body is a second representative. In the present ordinances it is provided that the administrative end of the city shall be represented by three men, the mayor, city clerk and city treasurer and the legislative end by the city auditor and a citizen not holding public office. It is doubtful if a much better arrangement can be made than this whatever ordinances are adopted. It is to be regretted that there is such a desire in this city to tinker the Woodward fund every little while. There may have been alleged abuses in connection with this fund, but at the worst they have not been very bad. The fund was left to Quincy with certain restrictions with the understanding that if the wishes of Dr. Woodward were not carried out, the fund should revert to Dartmouth college. If there is going to be continual firing away at the Woodward fund there may be a hole driven through it some day and some smart lawyer may make that hole large enough for Dartmouth college to crawl through.

There seems to be an undesirable state of affairs in connection with the educational end of the Woodward fund at the present time and one evil is enough. As the council can examine the books of the Woodward fund at any time its sees fit, it would seem to be a good policy to let well enough alone.

UNCLE JOE IN A DEFIANT MOOD

Refusal to Name Hill as Tariff Conferee Brings About Crisis

SNUB FOR PRESIDENT TAFT

He Had Requested That Connecticut Congressman Be Given a Place in the Interest of Downward Revision —Indications That Chief Executive May Brush Dust Off the Big Stick and Threaten a Veto

Washington, July 14.—Speaker Cannon's snub to President Taft by the refusal to appoint a New England man to a place on the tariff conference committee has materially strained the tariff revision situation.

Trained observers believe that the situation has reacher a crisis. When the break comes it will find either President Taft or the uncompromising tariff men in undisputed control. In other words, it will make plain to the country whether the Republican platform pledge of downward revision is to be redeemed or not.

This is quite apart from the corporation tax feature—which is concededly turned over to the administration for adjustment.

The speaker of the house has been co-operating with Mr. Aldrich in the senate to defeat downward revision. His affront to the president was not generally known until Tuesday.

It was known that Representative Hill of Connecticut was entitled by seniority to a place on the conference committee; but he is a downward revision man, and he was not appointed.

It now develops that President Taft, some days before the conferees were named, asked Cannon in a letter to name Hill. Instead, the speaker put on Fordney and Calderhead, who are both ardent high tariff advocates.

He advanced as a defense a desire to have a more just division geographically than would have been possible with an added New England man, but he failed to convince the men opposed to the Aldrich-Cannon combination.

As summed up by a leading eastern Republican senator, who is closely in touch with developments both at the White House and in the conference committee, the tariff situation as it stands is far from bright for revision downward. He said the trend of things in the committee is away from downward revision.

He pointed out that Aldrich believes in the senate bill, and in a general way is intent on adhering to it as closely as possible—making, of course, some inevitable concessions in conference. Further, he said, the disposition of the majority of the house conferees, led by Dalzell and Fordney, is even more pronounced against downward revision than is that of the senate conferees.

In this situation, according to this senator, Taft will be compelled to get down the big stick and probably will be forced to see defeated his purpose to bring about revision downward.

This senator declared emphatically that it will not suffice for the president to merely indicate what he wants; that a conciliatory policy will fail in this case; that the president has to do with the shrewdest and most pronounced of the high tariff leaders in congress, and that it will require not kind words but a club to get them to follow a downward revision program. In these circumstances the whole question of what is to happen to the bill in its final formation rests with Taft.

Smoky City Hears That Parks and Health Are Well Regulated

Pittsburg, July 14.—Mayor Magee of Pittsburg, Director of Public Works Armstrong, and Dr. Walters, director of health and charities, with eleven councilmen, will leave this city in about ten days for an inspection trip to Boston.

They have heard that that city's system of parks and board of health are the best regulated in the country.

Within the next three years Pittsburg expects to spend about $1,000,000 for a system of parks and playgrounds.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

From a drawer in his desk he pulled a framed picture that showed a delicately featured girl, with big, frank eyes and a wealth of light, curling hair that was half hidden by a big garden hat. There was a smile about the lips that seemed very engaging, and the muslin dress she wore had been accentuated in its simplicity by the art of the London photographer. Pike had preserved the picture, which had been given to him by old John Simpson the day before he died, and he sighed as he looked at it.

Then he laid it face down upon the desk and dropped his chin into his hand. It may have been an hour that he sat there, and in that time never a thought of his legal business crossed his mind. He was busy with a fanciful picture of an unknown city that in spite of his desire seemed to take on the aspects of a larger Kokomo, and in his fancy he could see a big, well knit young fellow bending eagerly over to look into the face of a girl, and he heard her call him Almeric.

"Must be a mighty fine man," he mused—"a fine big man—to capture her."

Then Perkins came in to ask if Pike wished to sail from New York for Havre in two days' time, stating that it would be necessary to leave that night if Pike wished to take passage on her.

"I'll go, Tom," he said. "Maybe you'll drop in here once in awhile and tell folks that ask for me that I'll be back in a month or so."

Then he sat down and wrote to Jim Cooley at London.

At 8 that night he stepped aboard an eastbound train and the next afternoon was in New York. Sorrento seemed a long way off, and it was with a heavy heart that he walked up the gangplank of La Provence.

CHAPTER II.

THE EXILES.

Six years of life abroad, and these during the most impressionable period of their young lives, had left an indelible imprint upon the two young people.

Horace Simpson had taken to himself the manners of the Harrow and Oxford youth. He had eschewed the society of what he had learned, with parrot-like aptness, to call those "vulgar Americans" and had confined his social intercourse solely to such of the European "haut ton" as he could manage to scrape acquaintance with.

And this last was a somewhat uphill task, for, whatever else one may say about the English, they are inclined to view with very little favor the possessor of no other attribute than money. True, there are exceptions, and these but prove the rule.

Ethel, who had grown into a really beautiful young woman, had followed suit, so far as in her modest powers lay. Such of her school friends as would permit the half formed acquaintance to ripen she had retained. Such others of her own modest beginnings she had quietly but emphatically dropped. From plain democracy she had sought the antithesis, and the leap was all the more an earnest one because of its breadth.

The Simpsons—and they had added their mother's maiden name and linked it to the paternal nomenclature with a hyphen—had been deeply bitten with the aristocratic virus and after a long and arduous struggle had managed to meet Lady Creech.

This titled mondaine had the misfortune to be viciously short of patrimony and inordinately long of lineage, and, while her life of self denial had doubtless embittered her, she had a most inordinate value of birth and a distinct appreciation of cash; hence when it came her way to pick the Granger-Simpsons out of the slough of commonplace acquaintance she did it with a royal favor and for a stipulated consideration.

"Really, my dear Hawcastle"—she pronounced it as old sailors pronounce "fo'c's'tle"—she was wont to say, "really, of course, they are quite impossible, but the girl is an adaptable little thing, and I may be able to make something of her in time, while the boy—ah, I fear I shall have to leave him to you and St. Aubyn."

"Do as you like," replied the Earl of Hawcastle, with some choler, "but keep them out of my way as much as possible. I positively will not be badgered by these unbaked colonists."

"One might stand a quantity of badgering, Hawcastle, for £300,000," at which the genial earl would squirm nervously.

At any rate, the Simpson children began to be seen in the second stratum of London society and met endless numbers of the shopworn nobility, but, sad to relate, never one of the truly respectable. To those who know their London there are several layers of nobility, and the layer the ordinary individual meets, who has no social prestige to begin with, is composed of that peculiar class that lends its name to doubtful directorates, to queer prospectuses, to struggling milliners with an eye on the main chance and who gladly extend unlimited credit to their patrons in return for modest and well put advertisement.

Strangely enough, the Hawcastle-Creech combination did not drag the willing Simpsons into the glittering presence of the real set.

On the contrary, with a somewhat dog in the manger policy, they awakened both the earl and his sister-in-law to the fact that they wished no sharers in those American dollars that John Simpson had sweated his brow for, and as a consequence they proposed a little trip—a quiet, ante-season trip—to Sorrento, where not a guest would disturb them and where matters might be given a chance to right themselves.

And there, strangely enough, the Simpsons met the Comtesse de Champigny and were quite delighted to find the gifted and brilliant Frenchwoman an intimate of the earl's. The second morning of their arrival the gay comtesse put in an appearance and with a promptitude that was astonishing took young Horace under the widowly wing and marked him for her own. And that same morning the noble earl took his equally noble son into the shrubbery and spoke to him.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Any man can lay it; all reliable dealers handle it. One sure way of telling REX Flintkote Roofing is by the boy trade-mark that appears on every roll. Never buy any without it.

NATIONALISTS HOLD TEHERAN

Enter Persian Capital Without Organized Resistance

ROYALISTS BADLY SITUATED

Strictest Discipline Maintained by Invaders, Who Guarantee Foreigners Security of Life and Property—Real Constitution All That Is Demanded—Populace of City In Sympathy With Revolutionary Soldiers

Teheran, July 14.—Recent events in Turkey are being repeated in Persia. The Constitutionalist forces, the advance of which on Teheran for a time was not considered serious, are now in possession of the greater part of the city, which they entered without encountering any organized resistance.

SHAH OF PERSIA

While Sardarasad and Sipahdar, the leaders in the movement, concentrated the attention of the Royalists by demonstrations to the west, a strong body of Nationalists and Bakhtiaris made their way unnoticed around to the north, from which point the capture of the capital was not difficult.

The guards at the northern gate were disarmed and the invaders marched in, the foreign section leaders taking up their quarters in the old mejliss building. This gives the Nationalists command of the city, with the exception of the artillery square and the drill ground adjoining.

The Royalists are badly situated to make further resistance and the Cossacks, under command of Russian officers, remain outside the city, entirely cut off from their comrades in the artillery square. The strictest discipline is being maintained by the Nationalists, who are placing guards at the gates and other points as the Royalists are disarmed.

The Nationalist leaders, in a note to the Russian and British legations, guarantee security of life and property to foreigners, adding that nothing is demanded from the shah but a real constitution. Sipahdar already has summoned the members of the mejliss to witness the opening of parliament.

Sipahdar and Sardahasad, the Nationalist leaders, are in possession of the building of parliament. Many of the Royalist soldiers, including a number of Cossacks, have deserted to the Nationalists. The populace of the city is enthusiastic over the advent of the Nationalist force. They throng the streets, wearing red badges and offering encouragement to the revolutionary soldiers.

London Hears of Fighting

London, July 14.—A special dispatch from Teheran says that the Nationalists attacked the Cossacks in the barracks and artillery square for two hours last evening, without succeeding in capturing the positions. The combat was fiercely waged, the Cossacks using shrapnel.

There is little sympathy in England for the shah, who stands a good chance of losing his throne. Great Britain, in conjunction with Russia, consistently urged him to re-establish the constitution, the failure to do which has placed him in his present uncomfortable position.

Easy Victory For Fitz Herbert

Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., July 14.—S. C. Hildreth's Fitz Herbert easily won the $14,900 net Lawrence Realization stakes, one mile and five furlongs, at Sheepshead Bay. The time, 2:45, is a new world's record for the distance, being a fifth of a second faster than Africander's time.

The Moroccan Uprising

Madrid, July 14.—A dispatch from Tetuan says that Roghi, leader of the rebellious tribesmen, made an attack on Fez and succeeded in forcing an entry into the city. His followers pillaged the stores. The fate of Mulai Hafid is unknown.

Weston Nears 'Frisco

Suisun, Cal., July 14.—Edward P. Weston is on the next to the last stage of his trans-continental journey. He hopes to arrive in San Francisco this afternoon.

ENTERS ON SECOND WEEK

Dominion Coal Strike Appears to Be No Nearer a Settlement

Glace Bay, C. B., July 14.—The second week of the United Mine Workers' strike in the Cape Breton coal fields finds both sides grim and determined. The United Mine Workers' officials gave out the statement that the result of the seven days already elapsed is to demonstrate the strength of that organization and to add materially to its numbers.

The Provincial Workmen's association's officials are in like manner well satisfied with the showing made by their organization, and the opening of the second week finds them optimistic as to their ultimate success.

The Dominion Coal company, which is the third party to the strike, reports a firm grasp on the situation and is confident as ever of its ability to win.

FARMERS ARE LOSERS

Protracted Drought In the East Has Seriously Injured Crops

New York, July 14.—New York city and the territory for 100 miles around is in the grip of a serious drought, according to detailed reports made to the local weather bureau.

Throughout this territory, which includes rich farming and truck-raising land in southeastern New York, northeastern Pennsylvania and eastern Connecticut, there has been no rain since the middle of June, and as a result vegetation is parched and wells and rivers are drying up. Potatoes, berries and small produce at this season of the year usually yield farmers tens of thousands of dollars.

Meanwhile the danger is aggravated by the outbreak of forest fires, which are burning in several places to the north and south of New York city.

CURTIS AEROPLANE MAKES GOOD FLIGHT

Travels One and Two Thirds Miles at Forty-Mile Clip

New York, July 14.—Glen H. Curtis, in the aeroplane he recently sold to the New York Aeronautical society, made three flights last evening, near Mineola, L. I. In the second flight he remained in the air two and a half minutes, going in a great circle at the rate of about forty miles an hour for a total flight of approximately one and two-thirds miles.

One turn he made so sharply that the machine tilted and almost struck the ground. During the flights he maintained an average height of forty feet.

Curtis hopes to try for The Scientific American cup with flights on Long Island today.

CHAMPION BIGAMIST

"John Madson" Evidently Had Courting Reduced to a Science

San Francisco, July 14.—Christian C. Johnson, sentenced at San Jose to serve seven years in the penitentiary for bigamy, is reported to have confessed that he is the mysterious "John Madson," wanted in many parts of the country for matrimonial ventures and systematic swindling of women under promise of marriage.

Johnson declares that he has been married to so many women that he cannot count them off-handed.

One of his most amazing feats, according to his own confession, was the making love to ten women at one time in Portland, Ore.

A WONDERFUL FEAT

Young Boston Girl Swims Over a Spot Which Has Defied Professionals

Boston, July 14.—Rosie Pitenhof, 14 years old, at flood tide succeeded in swimming across Hull Gut, from Peddock's Island to Pemberton shore, and back again.

To swim this narrow waterway with the strong cross current has been the ambition of both amateurs and professional swimmers and many have crossed one way, but Miss Pitenhof is the first one known to have passed over and back without a rest.

The gut is about half a mile wide. The girl was in the water twenty-two minutes—nine minutes crossing and thirteen minutes returning.

Wright Aeroplane Again Disabled

Washington, July 14.—Orville Wright made two unsuccessful attempts to maneuver his aeroplane in the air at Fort Myer. In the second trial Wright failed to stop his motor before making the landing and the machine, in scraping against a little knoll, broke the crossbar between the skids.

Possible Changes In Bay State

Washington, July 14.—It is said at the department of commerce and labor that some changes in the force of the Massachusetts lighthouse and immigration services are expected. Efficiency reports from all the field force are not in yet and no action will be taken until they are complete.

Wolgast Bests Nelson

Los Angeles, July 14.—Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast went the full ten rounds here last night. No decision is allowed under the law, but the bout was easily in Wolgast's favor.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.

Houghs Neck Stock Broker Reported to be in Trouble.

Frederick W. Mills, 39 of 42 Bay View avenue, Houghs Neck, a well known Boston stock broker, was arrested Tuesday by Inspectors Rooney and McCauley, on the charge of larceny. Mills has a place of business at 15 State street and 45 Devonshire street. When arraigned in court before Judge Harris he pleaded not guilty. He was bailed out later and was held under bonds for trial July 20.

The complaint against him was made by Louis S. Cohen of the firm of S. Cohen & Co. of 50 Winter street. Cohen charges that Mills did him out of $1,050 ,there being five different counts altogether. These were named in the warrant and run from Feb. 15 to May 23.

Neither Cohen nor his attorney would talk on the matter, but it was learned that Cohen had been dealing in stocks of late and that Mills had been handling his business. Cohen noticed that his losses were quite heavy and he became susupicious The police claim that when Cohen asked for confirmations of his sales, he found that his trades had not been made so that his winnings would exceed his losses. He immediately reported the matter to the police and Mills' arrest was the result.

Mr. Mills is evidently a summer resident at Houghs Neck, for the local police officials do not know the man and he could not be located at the beach this morning.

NIGHT BATHING.

Large Crowds in Nightly Attendance at Public Bath House.

Tuesday night was a busy one at the public bathhouse at Quincy Point. One of the biggest night crowds in the history of the house was present, the warm weather of the past few days bringing the crowds from all parts of the city, as well as from places outside the city. Some of the swimmers came about six o'clock, although the tide was not high till about eight, and many stayed until quite late in the evening, some sitting around on the shore, long after the tide was too low for swimming. The lights were on full force and very much enjoyed, especially by those who could not swim very well. The beach and water is so lighted by these powerful lights, that one can go almost out to the floats and still be able to see almost as well as in the day. Even on the second float it is possible to see anyone in the water on the shore, although the features can not be made out. The lights have proved to be one of the best additions that could have been made to the already popular bath house and with any kind of warm swimming weather, they will be used this summer to the limit.

M. O. WAVE RECEDES.

The Country Is Learning Its Lesson. Why Experiment Extravagantly and Disastrously?

The entrance upon a new year finds public sentiment in a more subdued and thoughtful state on the matter of municipal ownership and operation of utilities. The country experienced a sort of wave on this subject, but the wave is receding. It has been something of a fad, and fads have to possess some pretty good staying qualities if they are not swept away.

The failure of Cleveland to make a success of a street car system managed by the city is a case in point that has excited much comment and much serious reflection. And the more the people of that city reflect the less liable they seem to be to make another effort in that direction.

But this case only serves to illustrate a general principle applicable everywhere. It is a truth that municipal operation of all such utilities is expensive to the taxpayer. It is a truth that all business, whether conducted by the city or by a private corporation, must be conducted with the same regard for economy, the same regard for making the investment self sustaining and profitable.

And it is true, whether it ought to be or not, that those who manage a municipal enterprise do not exercise the care in this regard shown in private enterprise. The tendency is directly to extravagance and waste and toward doing things on a lavish scale. This is so notoriously true in enterprises undertaken by the government that the utmost watching is necessary to prevent the treasury from being raided and wasted.

When it comes to the municipality precisely the same danger is found. The idea is inbred apparently that whenever the public undertakes anything money is not to be spared. Wages and salaries are more thought of than the cost of the investment and the need of making a business showing. Men do not plan or think or work for the public with the same idea of conserving the interests of the proprietor that they do in a private enterprise.

These fundamental difficulties confront every municipally owned enterprise in the country. And the feeling is now gaining ground that the city that undertakes any scheme for itself must make a showing alongside of any private concern that may offer to render the same service. There is no sentiment any longer in the case. It is a matter of business strictly. The public have no pride longer in the thought that they own and operate any utility if the tax they pay to maintain it is more than would be the expense of private operation.

And all these considerations operate to force the municipal plant of whatever name to make a showing which in the nature of things it is most difficult for it to make; hence the receding of the municipal ownership wave. It gives away to perfectly natural and inevitable conditions.—Kankakee (Ill.) Republican.

Had to Sell.

Mishawaka, Ind., installed an electric light and water plant in 1890 at a cost of $60,000. It was forced to sell the electric plant, presumably because it could not meet payments on it, though definite information cannot be obtained from the city officials. The city rents and operates the plant, but since 1904 has purchased most of its current.

GRANITE MAN INJURED.

John Pettipit of Conant street, West Quincy met with a painful accident Tuesday at his stone shed on Copeland street. One of his men was using a heavy hammer which slipped off the stone and broke, a piece striking Mr. Pettipit on the right hand severing an artery. SQUANTUM Y. C. POP CONCERT

Broad Piazzas Present Gay Scene. A Social Success

The broad piazzas of the Squantum Yacht club house, with their unsurpassed ocean view presented a gay scene Wednesday evening with the hundreds of yachtsmen and ladies who had gathered to participate in the pop concert, one of the annual social events of the club.

Commodore Bryant was the host of the evening and to his efforts and those of an efficient House Committee is due, in a great measure the success of the affair.

Small tables were placed about the upper and lower piazzas and at these ice cream, cake and tonics were served, while the concert was in progress.

It was a delightful way to pass a pleasant evening after an uncomfortable hot day. There was but little air stirring but that little was wafted across the piazzas and every breath of it taken infused new life into all.

It was high water at 9 o'clock and at such an hour there are few views that will surpass that from the club house. Stretching from the left to the right, almost as far as the eye could reach were the long rows of lights that illuminate the Quincy Shore Boulevard.

Away across the water to the north were the lights of Marine Park at South Boston. In front in the dim distance could be seen the lights of Nantasket while at the right Great Hill, Houghs Neck loomed up like a mountain. What better setting for a picture could be desired?

From 8 until 10 o'clock there was a pleasing concert which included selections by Vernon's orchestra and between their numbers there were vocal selections by a quartette composed of E. E. Bullock, F. R. Jordan, F. E. Allen and B. M. Sargent with Mrs .Allen as accompanist.

Across the club float a screen had been placed and several of the songs were illustrated by pictures thrown upon this screen by the stereopticon. Many of the popular airs were sung and to these the audience were invited to join in singing the chorus.

During all this time a bevy of attractive young ladies were kept busy circulating in and about among the tables serving refreshments.

A number of the City officials and members of the City Council were the special guests of Commodore Bryant and he was kept busy looking after their comfort. In this party there was included Mayor Shea, Assessors Adams, and Duggan, City Engineer Sargent, Tax Collector Carey, President Hobbs and Councilmen Beal, Bean, Carey, Flynn, Moir, Nelson Walsh and Whiton and the clerk of the Council, Postmaster Hammond and others .

After the concert the younger set adjourned to the hall on the upper floor of the club house where dancing was in order. As a whole it was one of the most successful of the many social events for which the Squantum club is famous.

Albert E. Gore was arrested by Inspector McKay Wednesday for an assault on Daniel H. Coleman a driver for Johnson Bros. market. The story of the police is that Coleman was sent to Gore's house to collect a bill. A wordy argument followed during which it is alleged that Gore made an sault on Coleman with a flatiron.

A complaint was sworn out against Gore and in court this morning Judge Pratt imposed a fine of $25.

WILL CELEBRATE.

Signing of School Lot Order to Be Commemorated.

Houghs Neck is determined that the signing of the order to purchase the Cavanagh lot for a school building shall not go unnoticed, but just what form the celebration will take has not been decided upon as yet. The Associates will hold a meeting tonight and the matter will probably be taken up and the plans outlined and a committee appointed.

—The War Department has had its attention called recently to an unusual citizenship case. It is that of an enlisted man of the coast artillery corps. He came to this country in 1903, at which time he declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States and gave his residence as Brooklyn, N. Y. He enlisted in the army and since 1904 has been employed on a vessel engaged in planting mines. The vessel is now at San Francisco, where he applied for completion of his naturalization, but the application was denied on the ground that service on a mine planter could not be considered residence in the United States. As the War Department has no jurisdiction in naturalization cases it will be up to the courts of New York to decide this interesting case.

SUCCESSFUL LAWN PARTY

Held On Grounds At The Residence of Mayor Shea

A very successful lawn party was held Wednesday afternoon and evening on the grounds surrounding Mayor William T. Shea's home on Common street, West Quincy. The affair was held under the direction of Miss Katherine Shea and was in aid of the big lawn party of St. Mary's church, which is to be held Saturday, July 24.

The party was a big success, the grounds being crowded all afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the children were in evidence, hundreds of the small boys and girls enjoying the cool shade of the trees that shaded the lawn. The older people came in the evening and the number present would seem to indicate that the party was a mecca for West Quincy people as well as many from other parts and from surrounding towns.

During the day there were all kinds of things on sale on the various tables, including refreshments and fancy articles of all kinds. At the end of the evening everything was gone, the tables having been completely cleaned. During the evening there was music by a hurdy-gurdy, which kept everyone happy. There were also solos and readings during the evening.

The grounds were prettily and attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns and electric lights, which were strung across the tables in an artistic manner, lighting the whole place up as if it were day time. There were several city officials and members of the city council present during a part of the evening.

The general committee in charge of the affair and those who were on the tables, were as follows.—Miss Margaret Riley, Miss Josephine Grignon, Miss Rebecca Conway, Miss Mary Pickering Miss Louise Pickering, Miss Nellie Pickering, Miss Susie Pickering ,Miss Rita Lyons, Miss Lillian Berry, Miss Leisha Elcock, Miss Elizabeth Elcock, Miss Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Mollie Sullivan, Mrs. Annie Scollard, Miss Grace Elcock and Mrs. Nellie Dackers.

THOUSANDS CLASH AT STEEL PLANT

Strikers Attack Men Who Choose to Remain at Work

Pittsburg, July 15.—Riots, in which about 4000 employes of the Pressed Car Steel company took part, occurred Wednesday. Half of the workers had gone on strike in the morning and at noon the company closed up its plant, whereupon the employes who had remained at work clashed with those who had quit.

In leaving the plant they were attacked by strikers armed with pieces of slag, iron and other missiles, and special watchmen stationed there commenced to fire revolvers over the heads of the crowd.

More than a hundred persons were more or less seriously injured, and only the arrival of a sheriff's deputy and a squad of special officers prevented serious trouble when the night force started to work at 6 o'clock.

Recently the company changed the plan of paying its men from regular time work to a system known as "pooling." This involves the completion of each piece of work before wages are paid. When a large force of men is at work and a number of cars are started it may be more than a month before payments are made.

KEYSTONE STATE GRAFTERS

Sentences of Men Who Held High Positions Are Affirmed

Philadelphia, July 15.—The conviction in the Dauphin county court of the men charged with conspiracy to defraud the state in the matter of the furnishing of the new state capitol at Harrisburg was affirmed by the superior court Wednesday and, unless an appeal to the supreme court prevails, W. P. Snyder, former attorney general, and J. M. Schumaker, former superintendent of public buildings and grounds, will have to serve their sentence of two years in the penitentiary.

The court was unanimous in its decision, which applies also to John Saunderson, contractor, and former State Senator Mathues, but both have died since their conviction.

Strangled on the Scaffold

Winnipeg, Man., July 15.—Owing to the slipping of the noose, Gary R. Barrett, who killed Deputy Warden Stedman in the Alberta penitentiary, died of strangulation fifteen minutes after the trap was sprung at Edmondton prison. Barrett went to the scaffold protesting his innocence.

FORE RIVER CO. ENTERS SUIT

Seeks To Recover $125,000 Balance Due For Creole

Service was made Wednesday on the State Commissioner of Corporations in the matter of the suit of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., against the Southern Pacific Co. to recover $225,000 the balance due for the building of the steamship Creole

It is said that the suit arises out of a dispute over the speed made by the Creole in a run from New York to New Orleans.

The Creole was one of the first steamships equipped with the American Curtis Turbines and it is claimed that she did not develop the contract speed.

The matter has been in dispute ever since the steamship was built.

At the office of the company in Quincy, this noon nothing was known as to the suit against the Southern Pacific Company and the belief was that if there was any suit it was one brought by the Southern Pacific Co., against the Fore River.

The Creole was launched Sept. 19, 1906. She is 440 feet long with a moulded breadth of 53 feet. At her trials in Massachusetts Bay she developed a speed of 18 knots her average being 17.92 knots.

MCMAHON—KELLEY.

On Wednesday June 30 Miss Annie Kelley of Brockton, was married at St. Patrick's church to William McMahon of 224 West 11th street, New York, a well known private detective of that city. Miss Kelley is the daughter of Mrs. John Kelley of New Brunswick and sister of Mrs. P. W. Mannex of West Quincy and is well known in this city.

The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. W. E. Tierney. Joseph McMahon of Millis, brother of the groom was best man and the bridesmaid was Miss Nellie Peden of Milton, cousin of the bride. The bride was becomingly gowned in old rose messaline with plumed hat to match while the bridesmaid wore white lace over silk.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McMahon went by motor car to Millis where a reception was given them at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Thomas McMahon. Over a hundred guests were present to extend congratulations.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. McMahon went to their new home in New York city.

—A new anti-noise ordinance has gone into effect in New York city. Hucksters cannot now shout their wares, neither may they by the ringing of bells and the blowing of horns tell of their stock in trade.

—The slogan adopted by the Negro congress a few weeks ago in a southern city is good for all races. "Down with dirt, darkness and disease."

—Putting the city voting lists in the public and branch libraries of the city as recently done by Boston is a good idea and worthy of copying.

Who has plugged up the rain faucet?

Will the electric light contract be expanded or contracted?

It is somewhat singular that box 27 should go over two years without being sounded and then should be rung two days in succession.

The Boston yacht club is to be represented at the Quincy cup races next week by the Ellen and the Corinthian club by the Sally. Come on girls, the water is fine.

Official entertainments were the order of the night Wednesday evening. Mayor Shea had a lawn party on his grounds and Councilman Bryant's yacht club had a pop concert.

It is a fact worthy of notice that the $10,000 bequest filed in the probate court in this city Wednesday for the benefit of the Old Ladies' home in Taunton was made by a man.

The presence in our city on a vacation trip of "Jake" Kilrain, recalls the days when prize fights were the real article in which the best man won and not alleged fights for points arranged for the purposes of manufacturing bets.

There is certainly good drivership in the Quincy fire department. Some of the maze-like manouvers that certain drivers had to go through yesterday at the corner of Quincy avenue and Elm street would have done credit to a circus or a wild west show.

Rose Pitinoff, the girl who swam Hull Gut twice Wednesday without stopping, is at present a Quincy girl. She promises to be one of the world's greatest swimmers and she has certainly accomplished feats so far that the best of men swimmers could not surpass and she is only a mere girl as yet.

Kindness to dumb animals tells in a crisis as was demonstrated yesterday when two horses of combination 1 fell down while going to a fire. These animals had never known an unkind word or a cruel hand. They had full confidence in their driver and were willing to give, in return, full service even to the obeying of a command while suffering excruciating pains from lacerated wounds. It is a pleasant thing to know that in our fire department the horses are trained by kindly acts and encouraging methods. Though thoroughly scared as they must have been by the sudden accident which befell them yesterday, they didn't lose their heads after they heard reassuring words from their driver. That was as good a test as one could wish for.

As guests of the Squantum yacht club, many councilmen and other citizens had their first view Wednesday night of the new Quincy Bay boulevard. The picture presented in the evenings when the new lights are turned on and the tide is in, is one that makes a most delightful impression. There is probably no spot along the whole shore of this or any other city in the state that has better natural scenery than is afforded on this same reservation. The entire lower harbor with its many islands can be seen plainly and as far seaward as Boston light. It would be an excellent thing if the metropolitan park commission could be induced to give band concerts on the boulevard at a point about midway between the two yacht club houses.

President Taft recently played a pretty joke on a considerable number of Washington correspondents. He assembled a score or more of them in the cabinet room and then told them he had sent for them to tell him that he had no news for them . It appears that many of them had been seeking interviews with him and refusing to take the word of his secretary that the President had no views he cared to make public, so he concluded to send for them and tell them himself that such was his position.

President Taft, according to the news from Washington, is exerting his influence to secure lower duties. That is commendable so far as it goes and there is do doubt that the Congress leaders will yield slightly to his influence, but it will be so slightly that the consumer will never know the difference. The House debated for hours and then cut the duty on wire nails, which every man who builds a house or a chicken coop must use, from 1 cent a pound to 1-2 cent a pound. Then the Senate debated gravely for several hours and raised it to 3-4 cents. In conference between the two houses the subject will again be debated gravely and probably a compromise will be reached whereby the duty is fixed at 5-8 cents and the public will be asked to applaud this great reduction. It may be argued that even the present duty of 1 cent a pound is not high, but that is a short sighted view. The duty enables the steel trust to charge a cent more a pound to the jobber, who in turn charges not only his additional cent but the profit on that cent, probably half a cent. Then the retailer charges another profit on the cent and a half and by the time the nails reach the retailer that 1 cent equals at least 2 cents, probably more. Yes, the President will exert his influence in favor of lower duties and the Congress leaders will yield to that influence, but when all is said and done the consumers will get the worst of it, as usual.

TARIFF HARDSHIP TO POOR

The result of the tariff will be to increase the cost to the consumers of woolen goods of all kinds. In fact the experts, basing their conclusions of notice already given by the mills of the increased prices for the coming season, calculate that the people will pay during the next year over $200,000,000 more for woolen goods than they did this. The mills have notified their customers of advances in price of from 20 to 25 per cent all along the line and the buyers for the retail dealers will have to pay $120,000,000 more for men's suits alone than they did last year. It was to relieve the consumers from this sort of extortion that the voters demanded a revision of the tariff and the Republicans, in response to that demand, pledged themselves to a revision to be performed at a special session of Congress to be called immediately after election. The session has been called and the work of revising the tariff is nearly complete but in almost no instances are the necessaries of life affected. Those things which the man of moderate means must buy, which cut so large a hole in his income, will be not lower but in many instances higher as a result of a Republican tariff revision. The House and the Senate stood positively on the declaration that the wool schedule must not be cut. It is true that the House made a few minor changes but they were insufficient to affect prices to the consumer and even those the Senate rejected. Many years ago the wool industry was described as a pulling infant which must be nourished at the cost of the entire public or it would perish. It has doubled and trebled but it is still an infant to the support of which every man, no matter how small his income, must contribute. According to the figures compiled by Treasury experts and made public by Secretary MacVeagh every man who buys a $15 suit of clothes pays $9.25 for actual value and $5.75 as a result of the tariff, and still the people stand for it. Nor does this argument appeal very strongly to the men who make the tariff. Were they to voice their thoughts they would doubtless say, "Well what is the difference? The people who are fools enough to stand for being robbed to that extent would probably waste their money on a shell-game or a bunko-game if we saved it for them." And perhaps they are right.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

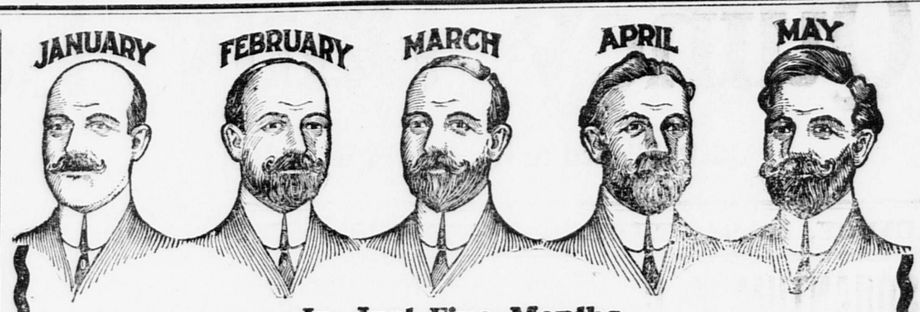
WYETH'S
SAGE AND SULPHUR
HAIR RESTORER
Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head



Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

UNCLE SAM HAS FARMS FOR SALE

Offers Indian Lands In the Northwest

REGISTRATION BEGUN TODAY

Agricultural and Grazing Land In Montana, Idaho and Washington Hitherto Occupied by Aborigines to Be Thrown Open to White Settlement—Choice of Locations to Be Determined by Lottery.

Coeur d'Alene, Ida., July 15.—With the opening of today's mail by James W. Witten, government superintendent of land opening in this place, the first step was taken in the throwing open to white settlement of more than 700,000 acres of agricultural and grazing lands in the northwest.

The government offers to settlers three Indian reservations—that of the Coeur d'Alene Indians in northern Idaho, that of the Spokanes in Washington and that of the Flatheads in Montana. Registration begins today and will continue until Aug. 5. All who desire to register for these lands must go in person to the registration points at Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., to register for Flathead lands, to this city to register for Coeur d'Alene lands and to Spokane to register for Spokane lands. Applications by mail will be received only at Coeur d'Alene, where Judge Witten will conduct the lottery for the choice of lands beginning on the morning of Aug. 9. Applications, which may be sworn to before a notary public, must be sent to Judge Witten by ordinary mail, not by registered mail, and the envelopes must bear no distinguishing marks, such as return cards or addresses of senders.

Soldiers and sailors of the civil war, Spanish war and Philippine insurrection or their widows or children may register through agents. This means that the veterans or their heirs do not have to come to the northwest to register.

About 3750 farms will be opened for settlement. For several months the land office has been recieving from 800 to 1000 letters from prospective settlers inquiring as to the conditions governing the lottery. Only 3000 or 4000 people can hope to recieve the prizes.

It must be understood that the lands are not to be given away, but must be paid for within five years on terms fixed by the government, at the rate of from $1.25 to $7 per acre. The farms to be sold measure 160 acres each. There are conditions of settlement, etc., to be met by the purchasers.

The principal crops produced on these Indian lands are wheat, oats and hay, but much of the soil has also proved itself to be admirably adapted to the cultivation of potatoes, sugar beets and other root crops, also tree and vine fruits.

For One Moment

consider whether or not it would be worth while for you to look over the properties listed below:

A 7 Room House in very good condition, steam heat, large veranda, 2 hen houses, stable, summer house, 18,000 square feet of land, shade and fruit trees, a large garden full of vegetables of all kinds. Price very reasonable.

A 2 Tenement House 5 and 8 rooms 2 baths and modern in every respect, 7000 square feet of land, cemeted walks, shade and fruit trees in rear, shrubs and hedges in front of house. It is a fine home and a good investment.

A 2 Tenement House 8 rooms and basement cemented cellar and furnace all in good condition, 7000 square feet of land, hen house, shade and fruit trees. This is a desirably property.

Beside the above mentioned properties I have a considerable number of others in prices from $700 and up also house lots in any locality.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's.

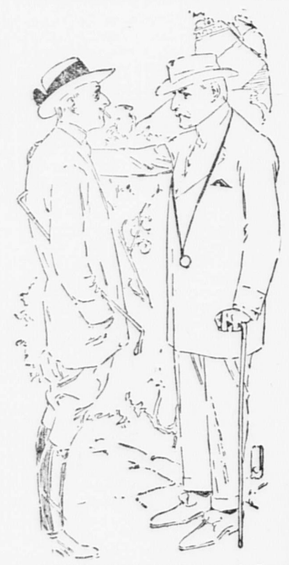
"You've got to do it, St. Aubyn," he said. "The family honor is at stake. For heaven's sake, marry the little fool! What if her scurrilous name is Simpson? You can make her forget it. We are stony broke, my good boy, and she has a hundred and fifty thou. That will keep us going for another year or two, and if Helene can capture the young ass, Horace, I'll force her to divide with me."

"But it's such a beastly bore, governor," drawled Almeric St. Aubyn, and he flicked idly at the rhododendron bushes with his stick.

He was a pale, washed out youth, with an inimitable drawl and a shimmering of intellect that might, if it had been given an opportunity, have resolved itself into a good working imitation of a brain. To his friends he was "that hopeless ass" and to his enemies and debtors—of the latter not a few—"that beastly bounder, St. Aubyn."

"You see, governor," the honorable Almeric went on, "it isn't as if I cared for the little gal. I'm a queer beggar,



"The family honor is at stake."

you know, and it's fearfully rough on a chap to pretend interest in such a little vulgarian. Of course I know we're awfully hard up and all that sort of thing, but"—

His noble father seized him roughly by the arm.

"You don't have to live with her, you know," he said savagely. "It will be easy enough to make it so unpleasant for the minx that she'll be glad to go back to the States, and she can't get back a penny. We'll have that tight enough."

The Hon. Almeric laughed.

"Oh, all right, old chap!" he drawled. "I'll lift her to the infernal seventh heaven, or whatever you call it. Don't expect me to moon over her, though."

And that compact being settled, the earl went off for his morning walk along the cliff and Almeric to keep his engagement for a morning ride with Ethel Granger-Simpson.

CHAPTER III
IN DISGUISE.

AN hour later Mariano, the maitre d'hotel of the Regina Margherita, stepped out upon the terrace and began to lay a cloth upon one of the small round tables that stood close to the white marble balustrade. On the other side of the wall could be heard the mandolins and guitars of the fishermen, and Mariano glanced up crossly as the song arose upon the morning air.

"Silenzio!" he cried, and for a moment the music died down.

Mariano went at once to the table upon which he had spread the cloth and placed silverware and delicate china upon it, and he was thus engaged when Michele, the commissionnaire, appeared at the top of a flight of marble steps that led into the eastern wing of the hotel, fronting on the terrace.

"Here is M. Ribiere to see you, sir," he said softly, with a backward glance over his shoulder, and Mariano straightened up instantly, with a smile of welcome, for Ribiere was an old and valued accomplice in the gentle art of soft Italian legal stealing.

A tall, alert young Frenchman, clad in an English walking suit of gray and carrying a portfolio beneath his arm, ran lightly down the steps and approached the maitre d'hotel.

"Ah, Mariano!" he cried as he approached.

"M. Ribiere!" he chattered gayly. "This is one of the days of days"—

The music burst forth again, and he whirled about angrily in the direction of the lemon grove.

"Silenzio!" he cried, with waving hands. "Silenzio!" and turned again to Ribiere. Michele, with a glance at them, went back within the hotel.

Ribiere turned a warning glance toward the hotel and whispered in Italian:

"Let us speak Engleesh. Fewer understand."

Mariano again bowed and spread out his hands in assent.

"I hope m'sieu still occupy the exalt' position of secretar' to monseigneur the gran' duke."

The Frenchman walked quickly to one of the little wicker tea tables that were scattered about, sat down and opened his portfolio.

"We will not mention either the name or the rank of my employer," he said gravely. "There are reasons of state. You understand?"

The maitre d'hotel threw up his hands in despair, and his round eyes rolled heavenward.

"Again incognito! Every year he come to thees hotel for two, three or four day, but always incognito!"

Von Buelow Would Not Accept Coalition Finance Bill

HE TENDERS HIS RESIGNATION

First German Chancellor Compelled to Leave Office Because of Adverse Parliamentary Majority Succeeded by Bethmann-Hollweg—Business Pertaining to Change In Office Conducted by the Emperor In Public

Berlin, July 15.—Prince Von Buelow, chancellor of the empire, has retired from office and is succeeded by Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg. Various other changes have been made in the cabinet, following conferences which the emperor had with his ministerial advisers.

PRINCE VON BUELOW

The emperor, departing from all court traditions, transacted the business pertaining to the change of chancellors with the broadest publicity during three hours, for all Berlin to see. He received Prince Von Buelow upon a small garden terrace between the palace and an arm of the Spree in view of a great crowd of spectators who had gathered an Elector's bridge, some fifty or sixty yards away, and in Burgstrasse, on the other side of the narrow stream.

The emperor first appeared on the terrace, walking alone. He stopped now and then to watch the play of an Italian fountain, a souvenir of one of his Mediterranean cruises. Shortly a servant announced Von Buelow. The emperor greeted him warmly, and together they promenaded the lawn. The emperor, who wore an admiral's uniform, several times took off his cap and waved it. After twenty minutes, the emperor embraced the prince and waved his hand affectionately as the latter withdrew.

Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg then appeared. The emperor walked and talked with him for half an hour, gesticulating frequently and in an animated way. Later he received in audience several members of the federal council from the kingdoms of Bavaria, Wurtemberg and Saxony, and informed them of the change of chancellors. Finally, he received together Dolbrueck, Sydow, Wermuth and Von Trott DuSolz, who stood in a row with their hands behind their backs listening to the emperor's remarks.

The emperor presented the retiring chancellor with the order of the Black Eagle, set in diamonds, and with it a cordial letter, which is published in the Official Gazette, expressing his reluctance at parting with his chancellor and subscribing himself "your grateful sovereign."

The political aspects of the change are important. Von Buelow is the first German chancellor who has been compelled to leave office because of an adverse parliamentary majority. Caprivi fell, it is true, partly on account of Conservative opposition, but not through direct parliamentary defeat.

The change is regarded by the Liberals as a long step towards ministerial responsibility to the reichstag. It was brought about, oddly enough, by the Conservatives and Clericals, parties opposed in principle to an absolute parliamentary system. They, in co-operation with eighteen Polish members, whose policy is opposition to all governments, were able to defeat Von Buelow's finance measure by eight votes. The chancellor could have remained in office had he accepted the coalition finance bill, with the direct legacy dues eliminated, but he chose rather to retire.

Thorne left the house and invited Winterton to follow. The latter apologized, but Thorne refused to withdraw his remark and was suspended.

HAVE ENOUGH OF FIGHTING

Head of Persian Cossacks Submits Terms For Surrender

AGREED TO BY THE INVADERS

Safety Will Be Guaranteed as Far as Possible and They Will Continue Services Under Future Government —Royalists Use Shrapnel Against Nationalist Sharpshooters With but Little Effect—Shah Refuses to Yield

Teheran, July 15.—The Royalist forces apparently have had enough of fighting and are prepared to admit the supremacy of the Nationalists.

The secretary of the Russian legation, late last evening, in behalf of General Liakhoff, the military commander of Teheran, submitted written proposals for the surrender of the Cossacks under his command. He asked first that the Nationalists should cease attacking the Cossacks, that the Cossacks should be allowed to continue service under the future Persian government, and that their safety be guaranteed if they laid down their arms.

Sipahdar and Sardarasad replied that the officers and the Cossacks were free to return to their homes as soon as they surrendered their arms; that their safety would be guaranteed as far as possible and that, as the constitutional government required trained troops, the Cosssacks would be taken into service and would receive the usual pay.

The action of Liakhoff followed a long day of fighting, during which, however, little damage seems to have been done. The Cossacks were besieged in the central square of the city and those outside the walls kept up a continuous rifle and artillery fire on the mejliss building, while with shrapnel they endeavored to dislodge the Nationalist sharpshooters from the roofs of houses. Their fire was erratic and a number of the shells struck the telegraphers' houses close to the British legation.

The fighting in the streets of Teheran became serious when the Persian Cossacks opened a heavy artillery fire on the Nationalists, who attempted to rush the Cossacks' position from the north and east. The Nationalists succeeded in occupying a garden close to the house of Liakhoff.

The British and Russian ministers have urged the shah to arrange terms with the Nationalists, but the shah has refused, and it is now reported that the Nationalists will make an attack on the Sultanatabad palace, where the shah has taken refuge.

THAW'S "THREAT TO KILL"

State Will Again Attempt to Have It Admitted as Evidence

White Plains, N. Y., July 15.—Evelyn Thaw, although on hand in court Wednesday, did not resume the stand to testify for the state in opposing her husband's attempt to prove himself sane, and thereby gain his freedom.

Again today the state will attempt to show that the alleged "threat to kill," which may have an important bearing on the determination of Thaw's mental condition, should not be excluded, and Justice Mills intimated to Thaw's counsel that unless further legal reason was advanced for excluding Evelyn Thaw's testimony he would be inclined to admit it.

Attendants at the state asylum for insane at Matteawan testified Wednesday that Thaw had always appeared rational in speech and actions while under their observation. Several physicians testified along the same line.

NO FILING TIME CHARGE

Telegraph Companies Bow to the Will of Massachusetts Law

Boston, July 15.—The Postal and the Western Union telegraph companies issued orders from their New York headquarters yesterday that charge for the additional five words giving the time of filing of all telegrams sent and received in Massachusetts should be discontinued.

The quick and unexpected change in attitude on the part of the two big companies caused general surprise. The orders for no extra charge for the information as to time of filing went into effect at once.

THE NEW DOCK COMMISSIONER

Mr. Crane Well Qualified For This Important Office

To Frank Fessenden Crane falls the honor of being the first gentleman to hold the office of Dock and Water Front Commissioner, under the new ordinance creating the office, which was passed by the City Council last month. That he is a gentleman well qualified for the position no one who knows him can deny, and the Mayor has made no mistake in selecting him for this important office.

this city. He long ago realized the importance of developing Quincy's unsurpassed water front, and it has been rather a hobby with him. There is however no one more familiar with our water front and its possibilities than Mr. Crane. He it was who was selected by the Mayor and the two business associations to represent the city before the Inland Water Ways congress and he was recently a delegate to the conference held before the congressional committee in Washington, and to his good work is due in a great measure the securing of an appropriation to make the government survey now in progress.

There is to be another conference in Washington at an early date at which the new commissioner will be present.

Mr. Crane is a Quincy boy and for years has been prominently identified with yachting, having held the office of Commodore of the Quincy Yacht club for several years. He is the owner of one of the fastest cape cat boats in Massachusetts waters, the Iris, and he has always taken an active interest in yachting events.

Although the office of Dock and Water Front Commissioner carries no salary with it, Mr. Crane did not hesitate to accept the position, fully understanding the large amount of work that will eventually be developed upon the office.

Quincy's superb water front has been prominently before the public from the time that the Fore River Co. decided to locate its plant here, and to Mr. Crane is due in a great measure the final locating of that plant in

THE WRIGHTS' AEROPLANE

The Many Difficulties In Operating It Are Due to Its Newness

Washington, July 15.—The Wright brothers may find it necessary to obtain a further extension of time in which to complete their official aeroplane speed and endurance trials. Up to this time Orville Wright has not made one flight that can be called as successful as the average flight made by him at Fort Myer last September.

On account of having a new aeroplane Orville Wright has encountered numerous difficulties. He declares he is now satisfied that he has overcome the various difficulties that have been encountered, but as he has only twelve more working days in which to complete all his work it is generally admitted that he will be granted a further extension by the war department.

The Wright aeroplane, after having been repaired, was damaged again last evening while being moved in its shed. The skid broken in Tuesday's attempted flights had been replaced, but while the machine was being lifted too much strain was put on the new skid and it snapped.

WITH TAFT AS UMPIRE

Aldrich and Payne Will Look After Disputed Tariff Schedules

Washington, July 15.—The big disputes over the tariff bill will be fought out between Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne, acting for the senate and house respectively, with President Taft serving as umpire so as to prevent any drawn battles. This was decided by the conference committee appointed by the two branches of congress.

It was said that such schedules as lumber, coal, hides, oil, iron ore and similar raw materials could best be adjusted by the two leaders, who know the tempers of their respective houses concerning these disputes. Of course, any decisions reached by Aldrich and Payne will be reviewed by the full conference.

A CAMP FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Mr. Faxon Gives Two Acres of Land For That Purpose

It is among the possibilities of the near future that Quincy may have an ideal tuberculosis camp, the only thing that prevents the immediate establishment of the camp being the lack of necessary funds.

The establishment of such a camp has been made possible by Henry M. Faxon who has offered the Tuberculosis society two acres of land upon which to establish it. The land given by Mr. Faxon is situated just off Quincy avenue, near the old Job Faxon farm. It is high and dry and makes an ideal spot for such a camp. The offer to give the land was made some days ago but has not been accepted as yet owing to the lack of funds necessary to establish the camp.

Such a camp in Quincy would be of inestimable value to the local physicians, who are waging war against the great white plague and it is to be hoped that the funds necessary to establish it will soon be forthcoming. Before the camp can be established it will be necessary to pipe the lot for water as well as to connect it with the sewer. It will also be necessary to either erect open wooden shelter houses or tents. All of these things cost money and the society is unfortunate in not having the funds.

Quincy with its granite cutting enterprise makes a fertile field for tuberculosis and there is an abundant opportunity for the local society to educate people how to live so as to combat the dreaded disease.

The tuberculosis exhibit and lectures held in City Hall last fall did much to open the eyes of the public as to the modern method of fighting the white plague and the Quincy Women's club are to be commended for its work in getting the exhibit here. The committee of the Women's club having this line of work in charge are still hard at work and it was due largely to their efforts that the tuberculosis society was formed shortly after the exhibit. Dr. J. F. Welch is the president of the society or club and the board of directors includes ladies and gentlemen from all wards of the city.

The first steps toward establishing a camp was to get the land. This difficulty has been overcome by the generosity of Mr. Faxon. Now will some philanthropic person come forward with the necessary funds to make the camp a possibility?

It is understood that the Women's club have offered the use of its rooms for a dispensary and that it will furnish a nurse to visit the camp when it is established. Let everybody come forward with their mite that the desired results may be accomplished.

THOMAS—SCOTT.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, 183 Willard street, West Quincy, was the scene of a most happy event Wednesday evening, when their eldest daughter, Ada Mabel, became the bride of David Even Thomas.

The spacious parlor had been beautifully decorated for the occasion by the Patterson Floral Co. of Wollaston and precisely at 8.15 the bridal party entered, taking a place directly beneath the pretty wedding bell of pinks arranged in an arch of vines and fragrant flowers.

The groom was supported by his brother, Charles E. Thomas of Braintree. The bride entered on the arm of her father, by whom she was presented for marriage, and was attended by her sister, Miss Anna B. Scott. Here in the presence of relatives and about sixty guests the impressive ring ceremony of teh Methodist Episcopal church was performed by Rev. Carl H. Raupach, pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church.

Both bride and bridesmaid were attired in dresses of white batiste trimmed with applique lace, the former carrying bride's roses and the latter a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas.

After the ceremony, the happy couple were the recipients of most enthusiastic congratulations and tokens of good wishes by the large number present and then dainty and delicious refreshments were served. Among the places represented by the invited guests were Boston, Brockton, Newtonville, Bridgewater, Milton, Holbrook, Nova Scotia, Braintree and Quincy.

The wedding presents were numerous, some coming from New York, Milwaukee and Washington, D. C., and were altogether beautiful and valuable. Among the gifts was a substantial purse of money, partially in gold, from the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas, and from Mr. William Scott, Mr. George Scott, father and brother of the bride. The groom's gift to the bride was a brooch of pearls arranged as a cluster of grapes, to the best man, a gold stick pin and to the bridesmaid, a gold locket and chain.

At 9.40, the bride, attired in a becoming traveling suit of gray, and the groom, took a carriage to Quincy Centre to connect with the late train for Boston. As they bade good bye to their many friends, it looked as though they would be allowed to depart in peace, contrary to the usual custom, but on boarding the train later at Quincy, what was their amazement to find on the same train nearly all their guests of the early evening, who had skilfully caught the train at Quincy Adams before it reached Quincy.

Of course all these young folks did their best to give the happy couple a proper "send off" when the midnight train for New York pulled out of Boston.

Both bride and groom are among the most estimable young people of Quincy. Mr. Thomas holds a splendid position in Washington, D. C., as secretary to the Chief of the government department of Education. Here the newly married couple will welcome their friends "at home", 134 come their friends "at home," 1264 E street northeast ,after August 15th. All wish them a happy life.

GELEBRATION NOT WANTED

Capt. Fosdick Not in Favor of Crowing Over Victory

If Capt. Fosdick, chairman of the School Committee of the Houghs Neck Associates, is consulted and his wishes heeded, there will be no celebration over the signing of the order for the purchase of the triangular Cavanagh lot for a school building.

In conversation with a representative of the Ledger this morning Capt. Fosdick said that he was glad of an opportunity to express himself in regard to the much talked of celebration. He said that, all reports to the contrary, he was not in favor of any celebration at the present time.

There was some difference in opinion, said the captain, over the selection of a site for the school building and he considered it poor taste for those who favored the purchase of the Cavanagh lot to parade it with a brass band and display of fireworks.

His idea was to keep quiet and not do anything about celebrating until such time as the corner stone of the new building was laid or the building erected. Then he would celebraate.

He felt that the celebration should be in the form of a family reunion and that all the children should be present and take a prominent part in the exercises. By that time any friction that had arisen over the purchase of the lot would have disappeared and all would unite and have a grand celebration.

There was no meeting of the Associates Thursday night as anticipated. There will be a meeting of the Associates next week, however, when the matter will doubtless be taken up.

As it was largely due to the persistency of Capt. Fosdick and his associates on the committee that the lot desired was purchased, his wishes will have considerable weight.

BRAINTREE WANTS TEAM.

A number of sporting men in Braintree are trying to induce Manager Hazelum of the Stoughton team of the Old Colony league to transfer his team from Stoughton to Braintree. The matter is already being talked over about the town and the leading sporting men seem to think the team would be a paying proposition in Braintree. No definite proposition has as yet been advanced to get the team to locate there, but the promoters are feeling their way, to see how the team would fit financially.

Braintree always was a good baseball town and it seems reasonable to suppose that with a good team there now, it could make a paying proposition. Of course where Braintree is so near Randolph, Weymouth and Quincy, all of which are represented in the Old Colony league it might happen that the schedule could not be made right so that the crowds that now attend the games regularly in these towns would continue to do so. It would not interfere much with the Quincy team, for the locals have a big following that will come here to the games anyway. But in Weymouth, the team depends a whole lot on the people of Braintree for support ,as does the Randolph team. Hence, if there was a team in Braintree it would seem that the crowds would be drawn away from Randolph and Weymouth. However, the proposition is, can the Braintree team pay, and in so ,will the Deweys and Randolphs continue to pay?

POLICE ON WAR PATH.

Getting After Bicycle Riders Who use Sidewalks.

There have been many complaints made of the manner in which some of the men employed at the Fore River use the sidewalks along South street for bicycle riding. The crowd that do this seem to think that pedestrians have no rights and the failure for a pedestrian to move out of the way at their approach is met with a torrent of abuse. Several people have been run down and others especially ladies, have had narrow escapes.

Thursday afternoon Inspectors McKay and Goodhue were sent down to see what could be done to stop the nuisance. As a result of their visit the names of ten sidewalk riders were taken and they will be hailed into court to answer a complaint for riding bicycles on the sidewalk.

A stiff fine by the court imposed on some of these fellows might have a wholesome effect.

"JACK" STAR TO THE RESCUE

His Prompt Action Prevents Drowning at Bath House

But for the quick and efficient work of Capt. "Jack" Starr of the public bath house, there might have been a fatal drowning accident at that place Thursday morning. A little girl, who was not a very strong swimmer, but who thought she was, started to swim out to the raft, and when about half way out, she became exhausted. Capt. Starr was right on the job, however, and swimming to the girl, held her up and brought her safely to shore. This is the first time this season that there has been anything like an accident at the bath house, which speaks well for those in charge. Capt. Starr keeps a close watch on the children all the time ,and he has to, for they delight in going out to the rafts. Nothing pleases a little boy or girl more than to get out to the rafts. If they can swim at all they attempt it and some of them go on those dangerous water wings when they cannot swim a stroke without them. Hence it will be seen how necessary it is to keep an eye on the little ones.

This brings to mind another thing of importance ,that probably has not been given much thought, and that is the installing of a telephone at the bath house. The house is located far from the cars and quite a distance from the nearest doctor. If an accident happened that required medical aid it would be quite a long time before a doctor could be summoned. It would be necessary to go half a mile or so to the nearest doctor, with a chance of finding him away. One of most likely things to happen at a bath house of course would be a drowning accident and one of the first rules of "first aid" is to "send for medical aid as soon as possible." Now that the bath house has been equipped with electric lights it seems that it might be well to further guard against any fatality by installing a telephone there. The poles are there and it would be but a small matter to run telephone wires down there. Several people have mentioned this and it seems to have become a necessity.

The shining planet this week of evening tides is "Jack" Starr of the public bath house.

It isn't surprising that the bill collector who ran up against a flatiron, had the starch taken out of him.

Before the accident to the horses on combination 1 becomes ancient history, wouldn't it be a good idea to suggest placing rubbers on the horses' shoes?

Remember, Quincy plays at home tomorrow in the Old Colony league. After such a game as the team put up last Saturday there ought to be a goodly gathering to say "Welcome to our city."

City hall is evidently preparing for an old home week celebration. At the door of the treasurer's office is a sign marked: "Pay Your Water Bills here," and at the tax collector's door is a sign: "Pay Your Taxes Here." All citizens anxious to meet the requirements of these signs will be heartily welcomed.

Now that the Quincy bay boulevard is proving to be the mecca for so many people who live in sections far away from that shore, wouldn't it be a nice thing if the street railway company would lay some modern rails on the Downs loop line so that cars might be had for the boulevard more than once an hour?

Yesterday was St. Swithin's day, Candelmas day of midsummer as far as weather prognostications are concerned. It is a saying as old as "the oldest inhabitant," that if it rains on St. Swithin's day there will be 40 days of wet weather and if the day is dry the succeeding 40 days will also be dry. All of which may, or may not be true. However, it would be cruel to disturb fancy's imaginative paintings but, just the same, don't sell your umbrella for awhile or let your rubber overshoes go to the junk collector.

The feat of old man Weston in walking from New York to San Francisco in 105 days was a wonderful one. Speaking of walking, how many people, do you think, would walk from Quincy Point, West Quincy, Wollaston or Atlantic if they needed to make a purchase in Quincy Centre? And yet it is only a few years ago before the electric cars were running, when the residents of those sections thought nothing of walking to Quincy Centre and back. Hundreds of them walked from the outlying districts to attend the town meetings and were glad of the chance. If a representative of the present-day generation was asked to walk from Dobles corner to the Centre nowadays they would consider it a severe hardship. Considering the way in which Quincy is blessed with magnificent boulevards, both on the sea side and in the Blue Hills, it is a pity that more people do not take to walking, one of the cheapest and best of exercises.

It looks good to see some real curbstones going in on School street. For a city that turns out more curbstones than probably any other granite centre in the country, this city has the meanest and most unserviceable lot of alleged curbstones that ever disgraced a street. The curbstones on School street had nearly tumbled over into the gutters with the result that the sidewalks were going the same way with every rain storm. There is a particularly bad piece of curbstone at the corner of Elm and Mechanic streets which ought to be looked after before sombody is hurt.

Many Quincyites rubbed their eyes when they read the Ledger Wednesday night and learned that engine 42 was located at the central fire station. Hundreds wondered that the department had grown so big but the explanation was that the engine company which is building the new steamer for Quincy loaned the city old engine 42 of the Boston fire department which the Amoskeag people had recently bought from Boston. The City Council made a serious mistake when it allowed old engine 1 to go out of the city. It was one of the best engines ever turned out of the Amoskeag shops. Although a third size engine she had pumped better and longer than some second size engines of the Boston department. For the sum of $1,500 she could have been put in first class condition and the city would have had a splendid reserve engine. And if Quincy ever needs a second engine at a fire here it will need it mighty quick and won't have it.

The excessive dry weather is having a disastrous effect on the trees, although there is not much doubt but the gypsy or brown tail moth is helping out. On most of the side streets of the city the ground is covered with dead leaves as in the fall of the year though on the whole the condition of the trees is much better than was the case a year ago. Supt. Stewart of the gypsy moth brigade says the results show the spraying machine, which showers the trees with arsenate of lead. is doing effective work and is killing moths and elm tree beetles by the thousands. If the city can hold its own in the line of exterminating the pest this year there ought to be some relief in sight for next season as by that time the parasites imported to destroy the moths will have multiplied enough to be of effective work. These parasites are something in the nature of a moth in themselves while some varieties are of the beetle species and the state experts are going to liberate them by the thousands on the principle of the dog eat dog plan.

A WORTHY CHARITY

The generosity of Henry M. Faxon has again been effectively demonstrated by his offering to the Anti-Tuberculosis society the use of two acres of land near the old Faxon homestead off Quincy avenue as a site for outdoor camps for those afflicted with "the white plague." In an official communication to the public, the Boston association for the relief and control of tuberculosis says that "The granite quarries of Quincy help, by their sharp irritating dust, to bring the death rate from tuberculosis to a figure larger than that in any other city in the state, so there is peculiar reason why Quincy should be interested in this disease." This is a startling statement to come from a society which deals with tuberulosis statistics and it ought to serve to arouse the people of Quincy to a realization that prompt measures must be taken to prevent any further spread of the disease as well as to control cases that already exist, if such athing is possible.

The land which Mr. Faxon has offered the local society for the prevention and control of tuberculosis is situated close to the boundary line of Faxon park which his father gave to the city. It is a rolling, hillside and fronts on Quincy avenue and runs back to the old Faxon homestead where the late Henry H. Faxon was born. In conjunction with the movement to establish an outdoor camp, the Quincy Women's club bas offered the use of one of the rooms in its club house for a dispensary. It is an unfortunate fact that most cases of tuberculosis are found in the poorer classes who do not have the opportunity for living in sunlight and air as much as their condition would warrant. Perhaps by means of this proposed open air camp a stand will be made against the ravages of this dread disease and if only one step forward is gained, there will be the thanks of humanity to extend to Mr. Faxon and to all others who may be instrumental in bringing to a hopeful fruition this magnificent work of charity. Such a camp will cost money to equip and maintain and a splendid opportunity for charitable work is hereby offered to those blessed with money.

—At last bridge whist is on the wane, a popular successor having been found in auction bridge. It has struck London and it's only a few days' journey to America.

—Denver has taken a stand on the Sunday funeral question and hereafter there will be none held on that day unless ordered by the Board of Health.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

EVELYN THAW FEARS HARRY

Declares That He Had Threatened to Kill Her

NOT ANXIOUS TO TESTIFY

Tells Court That She Would Incur Husband's Everlasting Animosity—Quoted Later as Saying She Testified Because of Treatment She Received at Hands of Thaw Family—White's Alleged Misdeeds

White Plains, N. Y., July 16.—Harry K. Thaw's wife went on the stand here and gave damaging testimony against him. It was the strongest point scored so far by the state in its fight to keep Thaw in the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan. He demands his release through habeas corpus procedure on the ground that he is a sane man. When Thursday's session was concluded adjournment was taken until July 26.

For three days the state has been trying to bring out that Thaw threatened his wife's life on one of her visits to Matteawan as tending to show his irrationality. Blocked at first by objections which were sustained by the court, Thaw's attorney at last failed to show that the alleged conversation at Matteawan was confidential as between man and wife, and when Evelyn Thaw took the witness chair her lips were unsealed.

And she told, as if in fear, what Thaw's lawyer has sought most to keep back, of his alleged threat to take her life if he were released from the asylum. Whether assumed or not, the trim figure in blue expressed fear while she was testifying.

"Did Harry K. Thaw threaten to take your life?" she was asked directly by Deputy Attorney General Clarke. "Did he at any time say this to you or this in substance: 'I shall here?"
have to kill you when I get out of

The courtroom was hushed and Evelyn Thaw turned appealingly to Justice Mills. She begged to be allowed not to answer because she said she knew she would incur his everlasting animosity; and her attitude indicated she believed he might carry out his alleged threat. She also urged that she was still Thaw's wife and, no matter how he had treated her, she did not want to testify against him.

But the court ruled that the only possible ground upon which she could decline to answer was that it would tend to incriminate her and he added he did not see how that would be applicable to her situation. Then Evelyn Thaw answered the question.

"Yes, he did," she said, in a low voice.

"What were his exact words?" demanded Clarke.

"He said: 'When I get out of here I suppose I will have to kill you.'"

"Why did he say that?"

"We were discussing his mental condition. I had asked him what he meant and he said: 'You know I was not crazy on the night that I shot White.' I asked him again and he said: 'You know that I missed White by two minutes on the day before.'"

Harry K. Thaw, when asked about his wife's testimony after court, said he was not surprised at her attitude, but he emphatically denied that he had ever threatened her life.

Evelyn Thaw on the stand gave a familiar Thaw trial touch to the proceedings, as did some of the other testimony dragging out unsavory details concerning the career of Stanford White.

Dr. Meyer of the state lunacy commission testified that he had talked with Thaw in regard to the reasons which led him to shoot Stanford White, principally the alleged debauching of young girls, which Thaw said was carried on in White's various rendezvous.

Anthony Comstock told of his efforts to assist Thaw in getting sufficient evidence of White's practices to prosecute him criminally. Up to within a day or two of the tragedy, the witness said, he had seen Thaw and obtained data from him in regard to White's conduct. He was of the opinion that Thaw was sane.

Other witnesses told of their experiences with Thaw when he appeared sane. Three more witnesses, besides Thaw himself, are to testify, according to Thaw's lawyer, but the long adjournment was taken in order that both sides may have the opportunity to study the records of the evidence at Thaw's two trials for the murder, which are in the possession of District Attorney Jerome.

Before leaving White Plains for New York Evelyn Thaw discussed her testimony somewhat at variance to her attitude on the stand.

"If the Thaw family had done the right thing by me I never would have taken the witness stand to testify against my husband," she said. "But they wouldn't guarantee me the allowance I asked for when the annulment proceedings were begun. If they had done that I would have been far away from here today and Harry would have a better chance of getting his liberty."

AUTOS ARE BARRED FROM BAR HARBOR

So Decreed by Vote of the Citizens of Eden

Bar Harbor, Me., July 16.—Automobiles will be barred from Bar Harbor, according to a large majority vote of the town of Eden, of which Bar Harbor is a section, at a special town meeting called to take action on the new state law authorizing the towns of Mt. Desert Island to vote on the admission or exclusion of automobiles.

As automobiles cannot enter the island except by passing through some portion of the town it would seem as if the opponents of automobiles on the island would be successful.

The neighboring town of Southwest Harbor is voting on the question today. In that town the sentiment is said to be in favor of admitting automobiles. Mt. Desert and Tremont will vote on Saturday and it is generally believed that they will ratify the action of Eden.

President Taft Rebukes Judge Landis In Reducing a Sentence

Washington, July 16.—President Taft administered a rebuke to Judge Landis of Standard Oil fame and indorsed the doctrine that promises made to the accused by the prosecution ought to be fulfilled.

The woman is Mrs. Marion Gray, aged 22, of Benton, Mich. Mrs. Gray was prosecuted by the federal authorities for conducting a matrimonial agency. On condition that she destroy her records and her list of addresses of willing bachelors and plead guilty, she was to escape with a fine.

Instead of a fine, Judge Landis gave her one year's imprisonment. President Taft reduced it to one month. A curly-headed boy of 4 years entered into the presidential consideration of the appeal for mercy.

Madrid, July 16.—The Spanish government expects to send a total of 8000 troops into the Riff region of Morocco, but it officially declares that the trouble at Melilla is purely local and does not affect its relations with Mulai Hafid.

There is a strong belief here that Mulai Hafid will fall, and, in that event, Spain, with ample ships massed on the African coast, will be in a position to regain some of the prestige lost to France as a result of the Casablanca intervention.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's.

Ribiere paid little attention to him, but opened a notebook and removed a fountain pen from his pocket. Mariano shrugged his shoulders and went on setting the table, then stopped and looked up.

"Each time we lose the honor to have it known," he went on. "In Naples, everywhere, are reech American peoples that would give large pourboire to mingle with his highness"—

The secretary lifted a warning finger.

"Have I not said it is to be incognito, and yet you prate of highness in the first breath. Would you wish he shall withdraw his patronage?" He looked starlugly at the man opposite him. "See that you do not offend again." He consulted his watch.

"He comes in his machine from Naples. As on former visits, all is to be as before. No one must guess. To all he must be Herr Grollerhagen"—

"Herr Grollerhagen!" ejaculated Mariano quickly and with astonishment in his round features. "Herr Grollerhagen!"

"He wishes to be known as a German," went on M. Ribiere. "It pleases him to be so thought."

Mariano stood lost in contemplative astonishment.

"What a man," he sighed—"of caprice, eccentrique, so wonderful! Ha!"

The secretary smiled in a superior manner.

"You have said it. Last night he talked by chance to a strange North American in the hotel at Napoli. Apparently he is much interested. Today he has that stranger for companion in his automobile. I remonstrate. What use? He laugh for one-half the hour."

Again the maitre d'hotel remained lost in astonishment. For some moments he stood with the napkin in his hands gazing out over the wonderful bay that lay before the hotel.

"He is not like those cousin of his in Petersburg and Moscowa," he said at last, with a touch of awe in his tones. "And yet, though monseigneur is so good and generoso, will not the anarchist strike against the name of even royalty himself? You have not that fear?"

The secretary shivered in the soft warm air and seized his companion by the wrist.

"I have!" he said quickly. "He has not. I take what precautions I can secretly from him. But of what use? You have few patrons?"

"It is yet so early in the season. "Those poor musician"—he pointed off beyond the gates—"they wait always at every gate to play when they shall see any one coming, but of late they are disappoint. Within, with us in the hotel, are but seex people, all of one party!"

An expression of relief crossed the Frenchman's face, and he opened his notebook quickly.

"Good!" he murmured. "Who are they?"

Mariano scratched his head with one ruminative finger and bent his brows upon the table in thought.

"There is milor', an English excellency—the Earl of Hawcastle; there is also his son, the excellency honorable Almeric St. Aubyn; there is Miladi Creeshe, an English miladi, who is sister-in-law to Milor' Hawcastle."

Quickly Ribiere jotted down the names in his book and then looked up.

"Three English," he said. "Good so far. Those English are safe."

Mariano went on:

"There is an American signorina, Mees Granger-Seempsone. Miladi Creeshe travel with her to be chaperon." Here he became enthusiastic as the memory of sundry pieces of gold and silver wakened his keen thoughts. "She is young, generoso; she give money to every one; she is multa bella, so pretty, weeth charm"—

"You mean this Lady Creeshe?" interrupted the Frenchman, with a puzzled frown.

"No, no, no!" cried Mariano in horrified amazement. "Miladi Creeshe is ole lady and does not hear so well; quite deaf; no pourboires; nothing. I speak of the young American lady. Mees Granger-Seempsone, who the English honorable son of Milor' Hawcastle wishes to espouse, I think."

Ribiere wrote rapidly in his notebook and without looking up said:

"Who else is there?"

"There is the brother of Mees Granger-Seempsone, a young gentleman from also North America. He make the eyes all the day at another lady, who is of the party, a French lady, Comtesse de Champigny. Ha, ect amuse me!" And he burst into a respectful titter.

Ribiere looked at him with grave astonishment and bent once more to his notebook, over which the pen flew with a practiced hand.

"Why?" he said shortly.

Mariano smothered his mirth with the napkin he carried and with an effort controlled himself.

"Becoss," he answered—"becoss I have thought that madame the comtesse is so good a friend of the ol' English Milor' Hawcastle. A maitre d'hotel see many things, eh, and I think Milor' Hawcastle and madame have known each other from long perhaps. This dejeuner is for them; also I think from what I hear that both have been in Russia one time. They spik togezzer in Russ."

HUNTED FOR WIFE SHOOTER

Priest, Police, Firemen and Mattress Figure in His Capture

Hudson, Mass., July 16.—During the course of a family quarrel at their home here, John A. Magorty, aged 37, fired two bullets into his wife's body, and the woman's condition is said to be serious. Magorty was captured after a desperate struggle.

After the shooting Magorty locked the doors of the house and as he was known to be armed there was some hesitancy about forcing an entrance. The fire department was called on for help and a line of hose was played into the room in which Magorty was supposed to be hiding. After some moments it was found that Magorty could not be flooded out.

Then Rev. John T. Mullin climbed through a window and was followed by the police. After a systematic search was made through the house the priest, noticing a ladder leading up to a trap door to a small attic, climbed this and, raising the trap, called upon Magorty to give himself up.

In the meantime, fearing that Magorty might start a fusillade of shots, one of the police officers had equipped himself with a mattress which he held in front of him as a barricade. Magorty, however, did not use his revolver, but leaping down through the trap door made a break for liberty and was finally overpowered by the officers.

MANY PERISH AMID RUINS OF VILLAGES

Earthquake Hits Greece and Causes Much Destruction

Athens, July 16.—Several villages in Jamaica were destroyed by an earthquake. All the houses in the village of Hamari have fallen and so far the bodies of twenty dead have been recovered from the ruins.

In the neighboring village of St. John, although it has been entirely razed to the ground, there was not a single victim.

The province of Elis was also shaken by an earthquake. Several villages were destroyed and many persons perished. The material loss is heavy.

BIG BUILDING COLLAPSES

At Least Seven Men Employed by Contractors Lose Their Lives

Philadelphia, July 16.—In one of the busiest sections of the city and at a time when thousands of pedestrians were passing to and fro, a five-story brick building which was being reconstructed for the United Gas Improvement company collapsed, burying or pinning beneath the ruins thirty-two persons, seven of whom are dead, one is missing, one fatally injured and twenty-four more or less seriously injured. Those killed were workmen employed by Sax & Abbott, contractors.

The two lower floors of the building had been torn out and the three upper floors were braced by heavy timbers and steel girders. It is supposed that the moving of one of the girders loosened the entire structure. The crash came without warning and the roar of the collapse was heard for blocks.

A general alarm was sounded and rescuers responded hurriedly and for hours worked among the ruins. It was a sweltering day and several were overcome by the heat and dust.

TAFT HAS FIGHT ON HIS HANDS

Insists on Corporation Tax In New Tariff Bill

IS ASSURED OF ITS PASSAGE

Informs Aldrich and Payne That He Will Not Retreat From His Aggressive Position Regarding It, Despite Their Appeals—Also Demands Free Hides, Oil and Coal, and Reduction on Lumber

Washington, July 16.—Evidences of friction between the president and the conferees on the tariff bill have begun to disturb the hitherto pleasant relations existing between the White House and the Capitol. They have become apparent in the many calls that have been made upon the chief executive and as a result of the frequent interchange of views.

A last effort has been made by the conferees to induce the president to consent to the striking out of the corporation tax amendment without success. The president not only told Senator Aldrich and Chairman Payne that he would not withdraw from his position in favor of this tax, but that he was assured of sufficient votes to keep the provision in the bill and to insure its adoption in both houses. The president reiterated this position to several of his callers Thursday and is said to have told them that he has been absolutely confident from the first of the enactment of this tax into law.

Pains were taken at the White House to make it clear that President Taft did not send for Aldrich and Payne on the occasion of Wednesday night's conference, despite the intimation given out in legislative circles that these two leaders had been summoned by Taft upon word reaching his ears that the corporation tax was about to be dashed to pieces on the rocks.

The conference, it is said at the White House, had been sought by the legislative leaders, who reported to their colleagues that Taft stood solidly for the tax and would not retreat from his aggressive position regarding it.

All of these newly discovered facts have revived the talk of a possible veto by the President when the bill reaches him. The president's mail for two weeks or more has been heavy with letters urging him to veto any bill conforming to the senate measure.

The president, according to authoritative information, is still hopeful that out of the conference consideration will come a satisfactory measure. The president has indicated to the conferees that he is particularly interested in securing free hides, free oil, free coal and a material reduction in the lumber schedule. He also has expressed his interest in other schedules which have to do with the necessaries of life. Followers of the tariff debate know what a fight the president has upon his hands to secure the free entry of hides, coal and oil.

CASTRO PRAISES HIMSELF

Tells Venezuelans That They Owe Him a Debt of Gratitude

Caracas, July 16.—The manifesto which Cirpiano Castro has addressed from Santander, Spain, to Venezuela, in which he attempts to justify his rule from the political, military, diplomatic and administrative points of view, was read at a joint session of congress amid the jeers and laughter of the delegates.

The communication is divided into three parts, each dealing with a subject as specified above. The former president extols his virtues in glowing terms, and describes how much the fatherland owes to him. To everybody's surprise congress referred the message to a special committee for report.

"WHAT IS WHISKEY"

President Taft May Know After Reading Through Ocean of Briefs

Washington, July 16.—The vexed problem of "What Is Whisky?" is still unsolved and the government printing office already has turned out a partial record in the case covering 1328 pages.

Since this volume went to press the lawyers have filed ten briefs and there are more to come. The president will have to read all of these before rendering a final decision.

Evans Left $12,000,000 Estate

Salem, Mass., July 16.—The will of Robert D. Evans, President Taft's summer landlord, who died last week as the result of injuries received by a fall from a horse, leaves his whole estate, valued at $12,000,000, to his widow. Upon Mrs. Evans' death the estate is to be divided between his heirs and hers.

Russian Invents an Aeroplane

Odessa, July 16.—An aeroplane invented by a resident of Odessa was given two experimental flights here. Captain Grekoff was the pilot. During the second fight, while at a height of 300 feet, the machine got out of order and came down. Grekoff escaped injury.

BRIEFS

Frank Rielly, switchman, in the Atlantic tower for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., is enjoying a month's vacation in the west.

L. McCloud formerly of West Quincy has returned to this city from Vermont. He reports that farming is the best for years up there.

Thursday seemed to be picnic day for various families and little groups of happy youngsters were seen hastening toward steam and trolley cars for a day's outing.

Charles A. Dutton is giving his house and store a handsome coat of paint. Mr. Dutton has one of the prettiest estates on Holbrook road.

Albert Morrisset of Crescent street West Quincy, is attending the Shoe and Leather exposition, as an expert cutter for the Regal Shoe Co. of Whitman, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas of West Quincy start for Washington, D. C., to-day, where they will spend a three weeks' vacation. After returning he will resume his regular duty in the United States Patent office.

The Montclair Improvement society holds a meeting at the home of Mr. Frederick Kessler, president of the society, this evening. This society is composed of men in and about Montclair and is an especially energetic one, bringing many needed improvements to the locality.

St. Theresa's parish, West Roxbury, is to have a lawn party tomorrow afternoon and evening. Rev. Julian E. Johnstone, formerly of St. John's church of this city is now connected with St. Theresa's church and is working hard for the success of the affair. There is to be a Quincy table at the party, in honor of Fr. Johnstone.

Theophilus J. Craig, the 17-year-old son of James Craig, of Franklin street, has showed great proficiency in arithmetic at Burdett Commercial College, obtaining 97 per cent in that study, the highest for several years. He stood No. 3 among 900 pupils. He averaged high in all studies, and has accepted a good position with the White Star Steamship line.

The third annual outing of the Norfolk County associations, G. A. R. and W. R. C., will be held Thursday, July 22, at Bass Point, Nahant. They will leave Rowe's wharf, Boston, at 11 A. M., for an hour's sail. Dinner will be served immediately on the arrival of the boat. The American Cadet orchestra of ten pieces will furnish music on the hotel piazza. Members of the association are invited to attend and bring friends.

Montclair and Bellevue Park people gaze with pride upon Farrington street since its improvement by the city. The street has been straightened, raised, electric car track placed in the middle, and a foundation of crushed stone put on and well worked in with the steam roller. Splendid sidewalks have also been made on both sides of the street and with the overhanging trees, makes Farrington street one of the prettiest in the city. When the city has expended the appropriation for the laying out and building Holbrook road, it will be a long search to find prettier building sites than these two thoroughfares.

THE SATURDAY BA LL GAMES

Good Games are Scheduled for All of the Diamonds

LEAGUE STANDING.

	Win	Lose	No. Game
Taunton	.700	.600	.667
QUINCY	.600	.500	.555
Dewey	.600	.500	.555
Rockland	.500	.400	.444
Stoughton	.500	.400	.444
Randolph	.400	.300	.333

Unlike last Saturday when there was only one game of importance in this city there will be several excellent games tomorrow. Perhaps the most important game of the day will be that between the Quincy and Old Colony league teams at the Water Street grounds. This will be the first clash of the season between these teams and as great rivalry exists between the two towns in athletics in general, it is expected that there will be a record crowd at tomorrow's game. Randolph is at present at the bottom of the list tied with Stoughton, but there is a fast bunch of ball tossers representing the town and they are playing swell ball. The fifteen inning game they put up against the Taunton champions last Saturday at Taunton is evident that they are going pretty fast.

The local team is also travelling at a fast clip and have come to be known as the "speed boys" of the Old Colony league. They are certainly a classy lot of all round players and the team that gets a game away from them will have to go pretty fast. Win Adams will occupy the slab for Quincy tomorrow, with Patterson ready to jump in in case anything happens as it did in Rockland last Saturday. Both men are in good form and will keep the opposing batters guessing all the time.

Adams was with the Deweys till last Saturday, but was too high priced for the Weymouth team. He is a cool, heady pitcher and pitched excellent ball for the Admirals while he was with them. They stayed at the head of the league till last Saturday when they got an awful beating by Stoughton. Another of Adams' former teamates will also be seen in the Quincy line-up, Arbie Dam having been secured to play in place of Billy Duggan who is away on an automobile trip to the White Mountains with a party of friends. Dam had some trouble with the Dewey management and got through.

The rest of the team will be the same as usual, Murray catching, Cameron at first, Courtney and Strobel at second and short ,and Hoye at third. Lonergan and Burke, with Dam, will make up the outfield. The Randolph team will line up as follows:—Clancy 3b., Sullivan c., White 2b., Gunn rf., Goode lf., Maley cf., Brennan ss., Shaw 1b. and Thompson p.

Another game to which considerable importance is attacked is that between the Copeland club and the Makarias to be played at Merrymount park. There always has been a keen spirit of friendly rivalry between these teams and both are out for the victory. Both are confident of winning and whatever the result, there will surely be a good game. The Copelands have not lost a game this year and have defeated the St. Mary's team twice. Dick Barry and Dick Williams, known as the Casey battery, will work for Copeland, and the latter says that he will make the Makaria boys bite the dust. The Makaria lineup will probably be the same as usual.

The Atlantic Professionals will play the Neponset Wanderers at the Ward Six playground. The Neponset team comes with a good reputation, as it has been beaten but twice this year. The Atlantic team has lost only two games this season as well, and are anxious to cope the game tomorrow from the Wanderers. This will probably be the last home game of the season for Atlantic, as the fans in that section of the city have not given the proper financial support to run a team. It is too bad that a club of Atlantic's calibre cannot receive the support of its followers is forced to play away from home, in order to play at all.

On Sunday the team accompanied by 80 rooters will leave the South Station at 10.03 for Providence, going from there to Phenix to try conclusions with the strong team of that town. Lunch will be served at Taft's hotel, Providence, and the players will then proceed to Phenix, a distance of sixteen miles, in automobiles. Atlantic trimmed Phenix several weeks ago in one of the best played games of the season. Since then Phenix has defeated the strong Woonsocket team and Taunton, last year champions of the Old Colony league, and at present leading the league.

Joe Ford and his Quincy team will journey to Norwell and play the strong team of that burg. Quincy has played Norwell once this season and defeated them, being the only team to do the trick this season. Norwell trimmed the Makarias last Saturday and are playing a fast game. Barrows will be in the points for Quincy and this southsider is twirling good ball and the local aggregation ought to bring home the money. Another southpaw will be seen in the lineup in the person of "Lefty" Ford of the Bigelows. Lefty has signed to play the outfield and pitch and ought to make good. He is small, but he is there with the goods.

There are also several other games of lesser importance, Bigelows, Cranch, Bryants, Adams, A. A., and Excelsus Class all having games scheduled.

There will also be considerable going on in yachting and golf tomorrow, so that all in all local athletics and sporting men will find plenty to keep them busy.

MANNING THE STATIONS.

Discipline Aboard Ship at Sea In Times of Emergency.

At no time is the perfect organization aboard ship so well illustrated as in the time of an emergency. The slightest scent of danger in the wind must find every man ready. And every man is ready. Every man has a number. Every man has a station. A bell tap may send your dining room steward off at a run just when he is serving your soup. At the bell tap he is no longer your steward. He is "No. 78" in the ship's emergency organization, and when he gets to his station he finds Nos. 54, 45, 236, 117, 248 and some others there to act with him like a machine. Aboard a big ship there are sometimes as many as sixty stations about the vessel, and at the sound of an alarm bell thirty seconds have not elapsed before every man has responded to his number at his station and is ready to act, to fight fire, to man the lifeboats, or what not.

Up in the wheelhouse is further exemplification of what system will do. Within reach of the officers are a dozen contrivances of machinery that connect with every part of the ship. A touch of one lever closes a bulkhead in this or that compartment of the hold, a touch of another mans all emergency stations, a lever here mans lifeboat so-and-so, and a lever there mans any one or all. Here is a telephone, its wires extending to every part of the ship, and an officer's voice carried to a distance station in the bowels of the ship is so magnified by mechanical means that it can be heard twenty feet from the receiver and fairly bellows its orders.

A sailor or steward never knows at what minute, day or night, he may be called to his station. At the sound of the signal bell he must be at his post. There is a drill of some kind every day aboard ship, but the men never know whether they are running to a real fire or only a drill. Boats are uncovered, falls overhauled, davits swung out. Every boat must have its compass, night signals, fresh water and provisions ready for immediate action. From the chart room the captain can start a squad in the most remote part of the ship simply by pressing a button, and the flashing of tiny electric lights faithfully record how every detail of the drill is being carried out. A chart gives the location of all bulkheads, and a tiny light sparkles when this or that water tight compartment is closed. In case of a collision every bulkhead below the water line is closed by a turn of a lever in the wheelhouse, making the modern ship practically unsinkable.—Van Vliet Adling in Bookkeeper.

Royalists and Rebels Continue Hostilities In Teheran

NATIONALISTS WILL SUCCEED

Only a Question of Time When Shah Must Yield to Their Demands—Foreign Houses Under Fire During Heavy Bombardment—Non-Combatants Skurry to Cellars For Shelter—Cossacks Preparing to Surrender

Teheran, July 16.—Despite the efforts of General Liakhoff, the military governor of Teheran, to open negotiations with the Nationalist leaders, and the agreement of both sides to cease hostilities, street fighting was in progress throughout Thursday between the Persian Cossacks and the Nationalists around Artillery square and between the Royalist bakhtiaris and the newly arrived Nationalists and revolutionary bakhtiaris.

The insurgents, however, continue in the ascendency, and, as reinforcements are continually reaching them, the outcome in their favor appears to be a foregone conclusion. The shah remains obdurate and will probably insist upon holding out until the Nationalist guns are trained on the Sultanatabad palace.

The fighting centered around the British legation. A number of loyal bakhtiaris, gaining an entrance to the city, took up a position on the tops of houses in the vicinity of the legation and near the Nationalist camp, which they bombarded with a heavy rifle fire. The Nationalists responded, and for several hours the British telegraph and other foreign houses were under fire.

The battle Wednesday night between the Cossacks besieged in Artillery square and the Nationalists who attempted to dislodge them was exceedingly fierce. When the Cossacks observed the Nationalist forces approaching they opened a terrific cannonade, the Nationalists replying with their one gun and their rifles. Non-combatants were compelled to seek shelter in cellars, as shells were bursting everywhere.

The Cossacks succeeded in holding their position, and on the withdrawal of the attacking party, opened fire with their artillery on the parliament building. Under cover of this they made an attack on the Nationalist headquarters, but were repulsed by a small force of bakhtiaris, who took up a position with a Maxim gun in front of the British legation.

There is no way of estimating the casualties, but so far as is known no foreigners are among the killed or wounded. There were some narrow escapes, however, one shell bursting in the library of the imperial bank and another in the gardens of the British legation. The telegraph operators, who are sticking to their instruments, have the windows of their house barricaded.

"I WANT TO GO HOME"

Terry McGovern's Sad Plea When Taken to a Sanitarium

New York, July 16.—A shadow of his old self, Terry McGovern, once featherweight champion of the world, was taken to a sanitarium at Amityville, L. I.

"I want to go home; I want to go home," pleaded Terry, when friends tried to get him into an automobile that was to take him away. After much persuasion he agreed to go if his mother would ride in the car with him.

McGovern has been in the observation ward of the Kings county hospital since his arrest on July 8 on a charge of intoxication.

BEAUTIFUL AT SEVENTY

Bridget Doyle Outshines Young Women and Captures a Prize

Pittsburg, July 16.—Mrs. Bridget Doyle, who is 70 years of age, took the fifteenth prize in a beauty contest at the picnic of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum in Kennywood park. There were 500 contestants.

Mrs. Doyle stepped proudly on the platform and faced the judges when her name was called. They stated that she was fairly entitled to the award, although the other contestants ranged from 16 to 25 years.

TWENTY-TWO ARRESTS

State Constabulary Preserving Order at Steel Car Plant

Pittsburg, July 16.—With twenty-two alleged strike leaders under arrest and the Pennsylvania state constabulary overawing 3500 strikers by the free use of maces and revolvers, comparative quiet reigns at the plants of the Pressed Steel Car company at Preston, Pa., near here, where the employes struck last Wednesday for a different working agreement.

The officials of the company state that they cannot understand why the strikers are rioting, as the entire plant of the company is idle and no attempt is being made to work any department.

THE CHALLENGE CUP RACES BEGIN MONDAY

Yacht Crooner Will Defend Cup Against Yachts of Beverly, Boston, Corinthian and Eastern Clubs.

The first of the series of races for the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup will be held Monday in Quincy bay off the club house and races will be held on each succeeding day until one yacht has won three races. There are four clubs challenging for the cup. The Boston, Corinthian, Eastern and Beverly clubs which with the defender means that there will be five starters in the races.

Most of the challengers have already arrived in Quincy waters and this afternoon will sail over the courses and get tuned up for the contest.

As has been previously stated the cup will be defended by the Crooner owned and sailed by Charlie Adams an ex-Commodore of the Quincy club. No one knows the tides about Quincy bay better than does he and he will take advantage of every little current that will tend to send his boat along a little faster. That the races will be keen there is no doubt for it will be a contest of skill.

The preparatory gun for Monday's race will be fired at 11 o'clock and a blue flag will be hoisted from the judges' boat. Ten minutes later a warning gun will be fired and a red flag hoisted. At 11.15 the starting gun will be fired and a white flag hoisted.

The Crooner, the cup defender is now at Lawley's being put in readiness for the race. She will be towed launch Cosy of Thompson B. Crane which will act as her tender during the races.

A meeting of the committee of the Quincy club was held Friday night at which all arrangements for the race were completed.

The yacht Emeline owned by Commodore Robbins will be used as the judges boat.

to Quincy Monday morning by the HERBERT W. ROBBINS, Commodore of Quincy Yacht Club.

In addition to this the launch Bonita owned by Roy A. Thornton will follow the yachts over the course.

The Bonita will have two judges and members of the press on board and will be at every turn of the course.

During the race James King, chef of the Pi Eta club at Harvard will serve a light lunch on board the Emeline.

The judges for the Quincy club are John O. Hall chairman, Rear Commodore F. F. Crane, Ex-Commodores Henry M. Faxon, Fred B. Rice and Eben W. Sheppard, George S. Morse and William H. Hudson.

In addition to these each club challenging will have a representative on the judges' yacht.

The yachts that will participate are as follows:

Ellen representing the Boston club.

Spokane III representing the Beverley club.

Sally X representing the Corinthian club.

Wolf, representing the Eastern club.

Crooner, representing the Quincy club. and defending the cup.

The conditions of the race are very interesting and the requirements that the boats must comply with are followed out to the letter. The races are open to the yachts of any country, representing any organized yacht club in good standing. No yacht shall be constructed so that the point of any cross section shall be lower than any point between it and its centre.

The length of the boat, plus the extreme beam, plus the extreme draught must not exceed 32 feet, with complete outfit on board for racing, but without the crew. There is no time allowance. All yachts must be weighed and must have a displacement of not less than 4,035 pounds without a crew.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to marry at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerhagen.

"Pouf! They will not recognize my employer," said Ribiere, "no more than this North American who travels with him and who is as innocent as a babe. Set dejeuner on the table instantly, when he shall arrive, for two—a perch, petit pois, iced figs, tea. I will send his own caviare and vodka from what I carry."

"Va bene, signor!" answered Mariano and vanished into the hotel.

CHAPTER IV.

STRANGE NEWS.

THE Earl of Hawcastle was nearly at the end of his financial rope. And yet to look at him as he entered upon the terrace from the lemon grove no one would have thought that a care in the world possessed him.

Added to the natural calm demeanor of the Englishman of station was a certain self possession gained by years of standing on the brink of events, and, while this brilliant morning his cares had hung even a little more heavily upon him than was his desire, yet he gave no outward hint of any troubles that beset him.

He was a well preserved man of fifty-six, with close cropped iron gray hair and a straight cut military mustache that hid certain cruel lines in his mouth and softened the severe lineaments. He carried himself with an erectness that bespoke pride in race, if not in deeds of his own. He was distinguished with that curious individuality that causes those in the street to nudge one another and ask in whispers who another may be, and he was unmistakably high bred.

True, his sense of honor that would balk at cheating in a card game or the larceny of a traveling bag was not sufficient to debar him from conniving at the attachment of a young and helpless girl's money with the foreknowledge of a lifelong misery for her as the consequence.

This morning he was clad in an immaculate suit of lightly striped white flannel, with carefully pipeclayed shoes, and the pale rose necktie that he wore was a living monument to the fact that the well groomed Englishman knows no peer on earth, while the jaunty exactness of his snowy panama hat was a revelation in proper headgear.

As he entered the terrace his alert glance swept it from end to end, and he noted that there was no one about. He moved at once to the table that Mariano had set for him, and at the instant he sat down Michele ran down the steps of the hotel with a folded newspaper in his hand which he presented to milord with a low bow. Mariano entered bearing a coffee tray, and the earl greeted him with a cheerful good morning which Mariano acknowledged as one would a favor from a king.

"Milor' is serve," he announced with soft accents and took the hat and light walking stick, bestowing them with reverential care upon a side table. As the earl unfolded Il Mattino he glanced up.

"No English papers?" he said.

"Milor', the mail is late," answered Michele and bowed himself up the stairs.

"Also Mme. de Champigny," growled the earl as he glanced down the unfamiliar pages.

As he spoke the countess, clad in the very latest Parisian creation, swept down the steps and approached the table. She looked well, and she knew it.

Apparently about thirty-two, she would probably have confessed to five years more under pressure, but her dark beauty was well set off by the light colors she affected, and the tilt of her parasol revealed more to the capable eye of an observer than a ream of self description or admission.

She was of that type that causes the elderly dowager of any race to regard her with suspicion and to gather her male entourage beneath the protecting wings. Mme. de Champigny, raising her hand with a little gesture of greeting, paused an instant as she stood at the top of the steps and cried softly:

"Me voici!"

The earl jumped to his feet and bowed, inquiring at the same time:

"My esteemed relative is still asleep?"

The countess swept forward to her chair, which Hawcastle pulled out for her, and murmured:

"I trust your beautiful son has found much better employment -- as our hearts would wish him, eh?"

Hawcastle laughed shortly and mirthlessly.

"He has. He's off on a canter with the little American."

"Brava!"

That they were old friends, these two, was to be seen at a glance. There was no inquiring as to each other's tastes and dislikes. It was evident that long association had ingrained an intimate knowledge of the other into the mind of each, and they met as good comrades without more than perfunctory courtesy. The earl went on as he reseated himself.

"I didn't mean Almeric, however, Helene, but my august sister-in-law." Without further comment he turned to the paper again and read. The amiable countess smiled at him enigmatically and broke a roll with the gesture of an empress.

"The amiable Lady Hermione Trevelyan Creech has dejeuner in her apartments. What do you find to read, mon cher?"

Hawcastle threw the paper down upon the cloth with an exclamation.

"I'm such a duffer at Italian," he said, "but apparently the people along the coast are having a scare over an escaped convict, a Russian."

The hovering Mariano, who was flitting about the table like a wounded sparrow, started slightly and hesitated with a silver cover in his hand, then stepped forward.

"If milor' will pardon me"— The countess also started and put down her fork with a slight rattle.

"A Russian?" she ejaculated.

"Yes," grumbled the earl. "An escaped Russian bandit has been traced to Castellamare"— He paused to insert the choicest bit of melon in his mouth, and Mariano's jaw dropped with the excitement.

"Castellamare—not twelve kilometers from here!" he whispered in awestruck tones, and the earl continued when he had masticated the fruit:

"And a confidential agent—secret service man, I dare say—has requested his arrest from the Italian authorities. But, to quote from our grandiose Il Mattino, 'the brigand tore himself from the hands of the carabinieri,' or something like that. I can't be sure, but it read to me"—

Mariano broke in excitedly. He had picked up the paper and was devouring it with avidity.

"If milor' permit, and madame"—he bowed like an automaton—"I shall translate."

"Quite right, Mariano," said the earl, and the maitre d'hotel went on avidly.

"The brigan' tore himself," he read excitedly, "from the hand of the carabinieri, and without the doubts he conceal himself in some of these grotto near Sorrento, and searchment is being execute'. The agent of the Russian embassy have inform' the bureau that this escape one is a mos' in-fray-mose robber and danger brigan'."

"What name does the paper say he has?" interrupted Mme. de Champigny, with a catch of her breath, and Mariano bowed again jerkily in her direction.

"It has not to say, madame," he replied. "That is all. And will milor' and Mme. la Comtesse excuse me? And may I take the journal? There is one who should see it."

Hawcastle smiled slightly at his excitement and nodded.

"Very well, Mariano," he said, and Mariano, with another jerk that was supposed to include both of the illustrious ones, disappeared with a speediness that was alarming. For an instant there was silence, and then the countess, with a quick upward glance of her dark eyes, said tremblingly:

"I should like much to know his name."

The earl smiled and went on with his breakfast.

"You may be sure it isn't Ivanoff," he said, but the assurance did not seem to carry weight with madame, for she leaned her chin in her hand and looked off over the bay, and there was a troubled look in her eyes.

CHAPTER V.

THE ENGAGEMENT.

"HOW can one know it is not Ivanoff?" she asked slowly, and this time the earl laughed aloud.

"He wouldn't be called an infamous brigand," he said, but the countess waved her hand.

"That, my friend, may be only Italian journalism."

"Pooh!" said Hawcastle. "This means a highwayman—not—not an embezzler, Helene."

The countess arose from the table and moved about restlessly with her eyes on the blue expanse.

"I should be glad to believe it, my good friend, but I—I care for no more to eat. I have perhaps some foolish feeling of unsafety. It is now two nights that I dream of him—of Ivanoff—bad dreams for us both, my friend."

The earl looked up in amazement and then burst into a laugh.

"What rot!" he exclaimed. "It takes more than a dream to bring a man back from Siberia."

The countess looked at him with some sharpness.

"Then I pray there has been no more than dreams," she murmured quietly.

Even as she spoke there came the tinkling sound of the mandolins and guitars, and madame turned to the lemon grove in time to see a young girl in a fawn colored riding habit, with a sort of hat upon her head and a riding crop in her gauntleted hands, enter, followed by three picturesque banditti with the instruments.

As she reached the terrace she paused and drew from her glove some silver which she dropped into the hand of the first villain with a laugh. Then she turned, smiling, as the musicians withdrew and waved her crop at the two who were watching her. The earl arose with a bow, and madame advanced with outstretched hand.

"Ah, the divine Miss Granger-Simpson!" said Newcastle with raillery in his tones, and the girl laughed with a happy, care free face.

"The divinely happy Miss Granger-Simpson," she said, and at the sound of her voice and the look in her eyes the countess ran to her and kissed her rapturously upon each cheek.

CONGRESSMEN IN GREAT GAME

Democrats Trim Republicans at Baseball--26 to 16

FUN ON WASHINGTON DIAMOND

Heflin oses Opportunity to Become a Hero—Batting Order of Democrats Shifted In Every Inning After the Second—Collision of Republican Battery With Fearsome Results—Umpire Escapes Lynching

Washington, July 17.—With "Uncle Joe" Cannon looking on and powerless to call the minority to order, or bring in a special ruling shutting off base hits, the Democrats of the house of representatives walloped the Republicans at Americal League park and in the most famous congressional baseball game on record by the thrilling score of 26 to 16.

The Democratic victory—the first of the extra session—was followed by a cloudburst. The deluge did not come until the seven inning battle had ended with the stout members all puffing and groggy from running bases and chasing balls and the lean members prone upon the grass from exhausted energy. The crowd which witnessed this game, which will live long in the annals of the house, was equally weak—from laughter.

More varieties of baseball were played in that game than ever crowded into seven innings before and strange as it may seem not all of the varieties were bad. The Democrats put up a rattling good game in the field — sometimes. Representative Heflin (Ala.), playing in one of the outer gardens once had a chance to be a hero. The Republicans suddenly came to life in the fifth inning and were rapidly scoring runs when a line fly went winging out into left field straight at Heflin. The portly Alabaman cast one weather eye at the ball and another at his bare hands, and "ducked." The hit ought to have been good for a home run, but Howland (O.) fell exhausted on the second sack and yelled for somebody to come out and finish the run.

Representative Longworth (O.) failed to live up to his advance notices. He "Caseyed out" twice with two men on bases. Once he got a base on balls and then, in the last half of the seventh, showed a flash of rare speed when he beat out a tiny little infield hit.

So complicated was the official score, with its amendments and substitutes, that it looked very much like a house tariff bill after treatment by the senate committee on finance. The Republicans stuck to their original line-up, but the Democrats wore themselves out making ten runs in the second inning and after that substitutes were called upon with ever-increasing frequency and the batting order was shifted every inning.

Once, in chasing a pop fly, the Republican catcher and pitcher collided with fearsome results. Burke (Pa.), who was at the receiving end, is of slight build, and when he crashed into Pitcher Gaines (W. Va.) the little catcher was sent heels over head to the ground. He picked himself up undaunted, and then, while he and the pitcher were doing the "Alphonse and Gaston," three Democrats, with a warped idea of chivalrous courtesy, raced home and added three runs to their already opulent total.

The first victory of the day for the Free Traders was won at the gate. The game was supposed to be for charity, but everybody seemed to have a pass.

Gaines and Burke made an excellent battery for the Republicans. Webb (N. C.) pitched for the Democrats. Oldfield (Ark.) was the catcher and he had a shade on Burke. The Washington public long ago had forgotten what a home run looked like until O'Connell (Mass.), star swatter of the Democrats, lined one out in the seventh. He brought in two other runs ahead of him and scored in the midst of so much excitement that Catcher Burke threw the ball to a Democrat in the dense crowd around home base.

There were some awfully funny mix-ups at the home plate all through the game. Once a thin Democrat began to chase a fat one around the bases after making a long hit to center, caught up with him at third and then the two ran home together. Burke got the ball in plenty of time to make the most phenomenal double play on record by tagging the two runners out with a 'take this, and that." But—he dropped the ball.

The problem of securing a satisfactory umpire was one which gave the players a world of worry. The Democrats recalled that if Cannon handled the indicator they hadn't a chance on earth. Rev. James Reynolds of Red Bank, N. J., was selected. Mike O'Day, ground keeper of the park, was offered as the sacrifice on balls and strikes. Two or three threats to kill him had no serious outcome. And nobody got hit by a pitched ball—they had plenty of time to dodge.

The score by innings:

Republicans	2	0	1	0	10	1	2	—16	20	9

AT HIGHEST SPEED

Cruising Motorboats Begin Run From New York to Marblehead

New York, July 17.—From New York to Marblehead Mass., at high speed is the journey undertaken by the dozen cruising motorboats starting today on the annual event which holds the attention of motorboat enthusiasts throughout the country. The course, from the Crescent Athletic boathouse at Bay Ridge to the house of the Eastern Athletic club at Marblehead, measures 285 miles, and the boats will not reach their haven until some time tomorrow afternoon.

The race is the fifth annual event of the sort, the boats sailing on alternate years from New York to Marblehead and from the latter place to New York. Heretofore the contests have been sailed from New Rochelle, on Long Island sound, to Marblehead, the course being through Long Island sound. Today's race takes the boats for the first time on the outside course, around the southern side of Long Island, in the ocean, thus affording a much more severe test of the seamanship of the owners and navigators and the seaworthiness of the boats.

ALCOHOLIC TREATMENT

Scientists Well Versed In the Subject to Meet In British Metropolis

London, July 17.—In response to the invitation of the British government delegates from all parts of Europe and America will assemble here tomorrow at the twelfth international congress on alcoholism, whose purpose is the discussion of the alcohol problem from a scientific viewpoint.

The American delegates to the congress are Dr. Thomas D. Crothers of Hartford, Conn., the famous authority on the medical treatment of alcohol and drug inebriates, and Miss Cora Frances Stoddard of Boston, secretary of the Scientific Temperance federation and representative of the National Temperance Society of the United States, the oldest active temperance organization in America.

WOMEN ATTACKING THE CONSTABULARY

Fears That Rioting May Be Renewed at M'Kees Rocks

Pittsburg, July 17.—While violence has been abandoned to a degree by the striking employes of the Pressed Steel Car company at McKees Rocks, they remain anything but calm. A tense undercurrent of unrest is apparent and it is feared that trouble may break out anew.

Everywhere the mounted state police are in evidence. Hisses and hoots greet the troopers as they ride in squads to and from the yard of the company's plant.

With their babes in one arm and bricks and slag in their free hands, women have resisted attempts of the authorities to enter their homes in search of strike leaders. A trooper of the constabulary meeting with such resistance drove his horse through the front door of the home of a striker and without dismounting arrested the man he was looking for and practically galloped him to the box cars being used as police stations. The trooper was badly beaten by women sympathizers while performing the arrest.

SCOTLAND YARD'S INQUIRY

May Mean That British Detectives Are on Leon Ling's Trail

Washington, July 17.—A cablegram was received at the state department from Ambassador Reid in London, saying that the British government would like to know whether any arrangement could be made by the United States for the extradition of Leon Ling, the supposed murderer of Elsie Sigel, should he be apprehended there.

The inference is that the Scotland Yard authorities desire to know if any steps in the matter are worth their while. It is understood that the telegram was forwarded to the New York authorities.

Thaw Says His Wife Will Continue to Get $500 a Month

New York, July 17.—"My wife is a negligible quality in my life now, and I have no feeling one way or another about her. I have no animosity against her, and have no idea of cutting off her alimony of $500 a month."

So declared Harry Thaw during a talk with the reporters. He appeared cheerful and confident of winning his liberty when the hearing on his habeas corpus appeal is resumed on July 26.

Bishop Shanley's Sudden Death

Fargo, N. D., July 17.—Bishop John Shanley of the Roman Catholic diocese of North Dakota was found dead in his room in the episcopal residence last night. He died of apoplexy. Shanley was born in Albion, N. Y., in 1852.

Schooner and Crew Missing

North Sydney, N. S., July 17.—Schooner Virginia Belle, which left St. Pierre, Miq., early on the morning of the gale of July 8 with a crew of five men, is missing, and the worst is feared.

For the Ledger.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

"Quit Whatever You Are Doing" is the Latest Health Rule—The Hub's Playgrounds Get Special Praise from Philadelphia—Imported Bugs May Lessen the Moth Menace—Catholic Educators Are Meeting at the Puritan Capital — Gloucester's big Pageant Will Attract Thousands of Hubbites.

In these days of lassitude and inertia, when everyone imagines that he is all run down, it might be well to try the prescription given in a recent satire on the up-to-date doctor, entitled Modern Therapeutics, the refrain of which runs thus:

"Just quit whatever you do do,
And do whatever you don't;
For what you don't do may agree with you,
As whatever you do do don't."

School Days is still Boston's glad song. More than a thousand members of the Catholic Educational association have been enjoying this week the many outings and the unequalled facilities for educational research offered by what is coming to be known as the best convention city in the country. The delegates were cordially welcomed by Archbishop O'Connel, who included in his address a reference to the many points of interest and pleasure resorts in and near Boston. This is the sixth convention of the Educational association and many matters of interest to the rising generation have been under serious discussion.

The time of the strangers is here. The Bostonian who has occasion to be about town to any extent in the hot weather weeks is quite accustomed to being accosted by bewildered folk from far away, and asked the proper route to some point in the city. The Hub's tangled maze of cowpaths upsets the equilibrium of more people than the rush and confusion of New York's busiest thoroughfare. One Bostonian was consulted recently by a total stranger as to the best seaside resort at which to spend a few weeks, and the best hotel at that point. The enquirer ,a lady who was evidently used to traveling, was quite at a loss in the midst of Boston's unique lay-out ,and although a native of Baltimore she expressed herself as finding Boston such an immense place. It is not often the Hub receives this flattering description.

New England people in general and Hubbites in particular are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to a great pageant which is to take place at the historic town of Gloucester on August 4th. This dramatic presentation will depict scenes from "The Canterbury Pilgrims," by Percy MacKaye, and will be performed by the Coburn players, assisted by college students, school children and citizens. The spectacle promises to be a beautiful one, taking place in the open air, overlooking the harbor from a natural amphitheatre seating 15,000 people. The artistic features of the fourteenth century pageant are in charge of Eric Pape, the well known artist and a summer resident of Gloucester, while the music will be composed and arranged by Walter Damrosch. With such talent and such a setting the affair is attracting keenest interest from inhabitants of this corner of the country.

Man made the laws; there may be times when woman is justified in being a law unto herself. Members of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association, who are intensely interested in the progress of affairs in England, express much approval of the decision of the redoubtable Miss Pankhurst to starve in jail rather than pay $25 and promise to keep the peace. Mrs. R. Y. Fitzgerald, secretary of the Boston Association has said something emphatic on the subject. She states, among other things, that "such a thing as going to jail for a month is child's play. This is a revolutionary movement of the highest order and what little demonstrations have been made are trivial in comparison to the cause that incited them." Mrs. Fitzgerald also says that "There is indomitable de termination behind our movement that makes its success certain and not far distant." All this will be likely to make the solons who are looking forward to returning to the shelter of the gilded dome next fall sit up and take notice.

Will moth menace cease? Simultaneously with the assault upon Boston by the swarms of whirling white browntail moths and the slower-flying brown gypsy moths arrives another shipment of parasites which are expected to destroy the pests. These parasites have been obtained by Dr. L. O. Howard, United States entomologist, in Japan, Russia and other European countries, and will be liberated at the proper time from the Melrose laboratories. The parasites, it is claimed will not damage any foliage as they eat only bugs, and the gypsy moths are their favorite food. Unfortunately they are not as fond of the elm tree beetle ,and it will be necessary to import another species of parasite to take care of these. Residents of the Hub are watching hopefully for the results of this experiment while they battle with the white winged horde along highways and byways, and it is hoped that a means has at last been found to overcome the ravaging army, and save the trees and shrubs which form one of the city's chief attractions.

It's hope, skip and jump in the play places even on the hottest day, and the conduct of the kids is worth noticing. The Hub's playgrounds were the centre of interest one day this week when a commission of prominent officials came over from Philadelphia to get points on how to run similar institutions in the City of Brotherly Love. They declared the amusement plots of the American Athens to be second to none in the country, and much superior to those in New York City. The members of the commission spent the entire day, in company with acting Mayor Brand and other city officials, in going over the various grounds in and around Boston. These hot days the playgrounds, in the congested districts particularly, prove to be a blessing to the poor children who have no means of getting into the country. This incident recalls the fact that Boston was the first city in America to provide an equipped playground, and also the first to supply sand gardens for the younger children. Now there are 196 acres of ground devoted to this humane purpose, at an annual cost of $8,000. The watch word of the playgrounds is "fair play" —no child has to retire from the field because of inferior size or strength.

RESISTS EXTRADITION

Alleged Fugitive From Justice Claims That He Is Insane

Boston, July 17.—The unique spectacle of a person applying to the court to be adjudged insane and kept in an asylum was presented in the superior court here when counsel for George P. Richardson of Foxboro applied to Judge Rugg for an order for his client's continued incarceration in the insane hospital at Taunton.

Three weeks ago Richardson was arrested for being a fugitive from justice from the state of Washington, it being alleged that he is wanted there on a charge of larceny. While his case was pending the suggestion was made that he was insane. He was committed temporarily to the Taunton hospital. An officer from Washington is now here with requisition papers, which have been honored by Governor Draper.

Richardson claims that when the alleged larceny was committed he was insane and, consequently, it was impossible for him to have committed a crime. He also claims that he is insane at the present time, and, therefore, is not subject to extradition.

An order of notice is made returnable Monday next.

MILLINERS INTERESTED

Protest Against Destruction of Aigrettes Seized by Loeb

New York, July 17.—The seizure and promised destruction of $1500 worth of aigrettes by Collector of Customs Loeb has resulted in a protest from the Feather Importers' association of New York, which will send the questions involved to the secretary of the treasury. The importers hold that there is no law prohibiting traffic in imported bird plumage.

As the result of this protest Loeb has decided to postpone the burning of the seized aigrettes, pending a decision on the question by the department. The question is an important one to the millinery trade.

ELECTRICAL STORM BRINGS A DELUGE

Much Damage Reported From Lightning and Water

Boston, July 17.—A severe electrical storm from the west struck western Massachusetts late yesterday, bringing relief from the high temperature and humidity, but causing considerable damage in various places.

In Haverhill electric light wires were put out of commission and street cars stalled by the burning out of transformers, while Lynn trolley traffic in the principal thoroughfares was entirely tied up for two hours by the deluge of water which filled the streets. The stores and shoe factories were flooded.

In Wakefield two buildings were destroyed by fires due to lightning and standing crops were prostrated by the downpour.

At Tilton, N. H., lightning struck the storehouse of the Elm Mills Woolen company and destroyed the building and contents, at a loss of $10,000.

STEAMER RAMS BARGE

Would Have Otherwise Come to Grief on Rocks In the Kennebec

Bath, Me., July 17.—With the choice of ramming a dredge anchored in the middle of Lovejoy's Narrows in the Kennebec river or of running his steamer on the rocks, Captain Colby of the steamer City of Bangor, Gardiner to Boston, ran into the dredge. The Bangor crippled her starboard paddle wheel and was forced to anchor for some hours until she had repaired the damage.

There were not many passengers at the time, the larger number that made up the vessel's list boarding the ship at Bath later. No one on board was hurt.

TEN THOUSAND IN LINE

Allegorical Festival and Parade of Nations In Honor of Elks

Los Angeles, July 17.—The midsummer flower and allegorical festival and parade of nations were viewed by thousands of spectators crowded along the five mile line of march traversed by a procession in honor of the Elks' reunion. About 10,000 persons took part in the pageant.

All nations were represented not only in cosutme but in music. A feature of the procession was the old-time stage coach in which Horace Greely made his famous ride with Hank Monk.

Steady Gain In Business

New York, July 17.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says that each succeeding week has now become a record of advancing activity in industry and commerce. The extraordinary expansion in the iron and steel trade continues, and the problem is now becoming that of meeting orders with adequate dispatch.

Dry Weather Kills Weevils

Dallas, July 17.—Professor W. G. Hunter, the government boll-weevil expert, reports that the present status of the weevil is not so bad as at the same time last year. Dry weather is destroying 50 percent of the weevils.

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Keith's Theatre.

There is no better indication of the rapid strides made in vaudeville and the regree to which it is drawing upon the legitimate stage than is shown by the Romany Opera company at Keith's. Here is a company as large as one you would find on the road, giving a full evening's entertainment of the most pretentious operas. In fact it has more soloists and more good voices than one would find in the average road company, and yet it is only one act in the bill at Keith's, a part of an up to date vaudeville performance. This company has made a tremendous hit during the week, presenting an operatta amid beautiful stage settings, and in which is introduced some of the best known and most tuneful selections from grand opera. From the dramatic standpoint Richard Crollus & Co., will furnish another example of high class legitimate comedy reduced to twenty-five minutes which will ordinarily take a whole evening. Mr. Crollus makes his first appearance here as a star and he comes with a sketch that has been attracting a vast amount of attention on the Keith circuit. Bert Howard and Effie Lawrence are real vaudeville entertainers and they have a sketch called "The Stage Manager" in which there is nothing but fun.

The Orpheum.

A most important dramatic annoucement and one will be gladly welcomed by all theatre-goers is that of Manager Lindsay Morison to the effect that his all star stock company at the Orpheum Theatre will next week present an elaborate version of "Joan of Arc." There has been more comment on this famous classic during the last few months than on any other play of modern times, due in a measure to the wonderful production which Miss Maud Adams gave it at the Harvard Stadium. Miss Adams' production was pronounced the dramatic sensation of the decade and as a spectacle it has never been rivaled. Unfortunately ,however, the very vastness of the whole affair made it impossible for the audience to hear the lines or to follow the beautiful story. This difficulty will be obviated in the production next week and at the same time there will be no detailing, as far as spectacular effects are concerned, missing. The character of "Joan" will be in the hands of Miss Edna Bruns, whose work since the beginning of the summer season makes it certain that she wil give it a highly artistic portrayal. All the other favorites in the company will be included in the cast.

Paragon Park.

The best evidence of the strong hold that Paragon Park and the Palm Garden has on that portion of the amusement seeking public in search of the better things in the way of outdoor entertainments is found in the fact that there is a regular evening patronage from the summer residents at Nantasket which may always be depended upon to comfortably fill the Palm Garden and distribute themselves about the park watching the various shows. In fact Paragon Park seems to have solved the question of how to best entertain unexpected or expected visitors from the city down for the evening or few days, as the case may be. The host or hostess, or both, need only trot their guests over to Paragon park and Manager Dodge does the rest. The fireworks celebrating the "4th' 'were such a huge success that Manager Dodge now makes this a regular feature every Saturday night. This part of the long program of free features every evening will be given in time for patrons to get the last boat back to Boston at 9.40. Special attention is called to the fact that these are Chinese and Italian fireworks, quite different and more elaborate than the regulation fireworks displays that the "peepul" get from their own city hall or town hall on the "Glorious Fourth."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure, local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Dr. Jones was first aid to the drowning in more ways than one yesterday.

There's many a slip twixt the Quincy cup and the yacht.

As a weather prophet, St. Swithin seems to be in the class of the government experts this year.

A patron of the bath house thinks there ought to be more than one small mirror in the dressing rooms. The suggestion is offered the park commissioners for reflection.

One reader suggests that contribution boxes for the tuberculosis open air camp be placed in all drug stores of the city. Spare change could not be put to a much better use.

Perhaps Peddocks island needs investigating, not because of the stories connected with the Chinese picnic, but because of its popularity this summer. It does not look attractive enough in itself to call so many boat loads of men to its shores.

Notwithstanding the heat and dry weather the city streets are not receiving very liberal sprinkling. Coddington street should be watered to the cemetery but has been much neglected. Memorial day when it was traveled by hundreds as well as the G. A. R., it was not watered until late afternoon. Residents of streets supposed to be watered also complain of neglect.

Why would it not be a good idea for the police to work for the civic improvement of our city. For instance why allow men to loaf on the chains around First church and on the stone wall around Bethany church, indulging in peanuts and fruit to the detriment of the looks of the city? If people wish to rest quietly in the shade for a while that is one thing but loafing should not be allowed.

Capt Fosdick of Houghs Neck is right. It is time for harmonious unity among the people of that section of the city and not the time for a part of the residents to be obnoxiously crowing over the other part. When the times comes for dedicating the school house building, there will be ample time for the people of Houghs Neck to express their gratitude to the city of Quincy for the fulfilment of a long-cherished hope.

The New York Sun of yesterday, speaking of the automobile signs displayed in this city, says: "Some of the rural police who hold you up wouldn't know a square deal if they met it in broad daylight on a desert plain but it would be a good thing if city governments tried the appeal to fair play more. The average automobilist would do his best to reciprocate." Speaking of these police signs, it wouldn't be a bad idea to drop them a little nearer to the earth. They are up so high now that many automobilists, whose attention is centred on the road, never see the signs at all.

The suggestion to instal a telephone service in the public bath house on Town river during the summer season is one that should merit prompt recognition. The bath house is a long way from the nearest public or house telephone and if the time ever comes when a physician is needed at the bath house, the time saved by a telephone being there might prevent a life from being sacrificed. The cost to the city for two months and a half service could not possibly be very much and the poles recently erected for the electric light wires could be utilized for stringing the wires.

When one has realized the beauty of the Quincy bay shore reservation and enjoyed the natural scenery so abundant in the Furnace park boulevard at West Quincy, there is a feeling of genuine disappointment that there should be a "missing link," allowing those two splendid parkways unconnected. Some day the boulevard from the present West Quincy end on Adams street to the seashore at the present end of the Quincy bay shore boulevard at Rufe's Hummock, will be connected and there will be available for public use one of the grandest drives in any part of the country. It will certainly be one of the best of advertisements for Quincy.

The residents of Montclair and Bellevue park seem to be different from people in other parts of the city in that they are publicly grateful for some street improvements down that way. As was suggested by a Montclair correspondent in last night's Ledger, the completion of Farrington street and Holbrook road will bring into the market real estate in Montclair and Bellevue Park which has been out of reach heretofore. It is one of the handsomest sections of the city and, as it is bound to populate rapidly once it becomes accessible, it would seem to be a wise thing for the city to acquire a site for a school house building there before a real estate boom puts the price away beyond its present value, even though a building may not be erected there for a year or two. The same argument holds good for the Bigelow Park section of the city. It is a good business proposition for the city to own available land for such purposes rather than wait and pay a forced increase in price as has been the case in past years.

There are many decent bicyclists who are likely to be caught in the police net for riding on the sidewalks because of the action of a gang of rowdies who own wheels and who not only ride on the sidewalks but seem to think every pedestrian should get out in the street when they come along. The roads from the Centre to the Fore River are very bad, as a whole, and the temptation to ride on the sidewalk is an inviting one. But, just the same, when men, women and children are knocked down by reckless riders whose vocabulary seems to be composed entirely of curses and profane remarks, even the best-intentioned bicycle rider will admit that something ought to be done. Such a condition of affairs has been in existence on some of the streets leading from the Fore River district and it is to put a stop to such scenes and thereby minimize the danger to pedestrians who have a right to the sidewalks, that the police have taken action.

THE
(Legal Title-Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class o. classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

It is about time the authorities paid a little attention to that island. The heavy drinking at Peddocks is nothing new, it has been increasing the last three years."

RESCUED FROM WATERY GRAVE

Dr. Jones and Brother Prevent Triple Drowning

Dr. Fred E. Jones of Quincy is a bather almost daily at Hayward's grove, and it was fortunate he and his brother Albert M. Jones arrived when they did yesterday noon, for they prevented what might have proved a double or triple drowning.

Two young ladies, Miss Ida Moir, age 20, of Washington street, Braintree and Miss Edna Margeson, age 18, of Hyde Park were among the bathers at that time, and being unfamiliar with the beach got beyond their depth. When their danger was realized, L. O. Crocker, who was on the beach in his bathing suit started to the rescue, as did Lemuel Hayward and others. The drowning girls seized Mr. Crocker, and rendered him hors de combat. He almost despaired of saving them and was in danger himself when Dr. Jones and his brother plunged in having removed only their coats. The rescue was difficult but after a while they were separated, and while the doctor brought Miss Moir ashore, his brother succeeded in landing Miss Margeson. Mr. Crocker managed to get ashore unassisted.

Dr. Jones had his emergency bag with him and all were promptly restored and able to dress and go home.

Miss Moir is a sister of the clerk at the Braintree post office, and Miss Margeson is a guest of R. E. Spinney, at the corner of Washington street and Sherbrook avenue. This morning it was reported that the young ladies did not feel any ill effects from their accident.

MRS. MARY E. BURKE.

Mrs. Mary E. Burke of Milton died at her home yesterday. She was one of the most widely known charitable workers in the Catholic circles of the country, and several years ago received official recognition from Pope Pius X for her charitable works. She took an active interest in all the work done by the Daly Industrial School, Home for Destitute Catholic Children and the Tabernacle society. One of her most notable works was the aid she gave to Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., and she took an especial interest in supplying funds for the young students' advancement.

She was born in 1846 in the North End, Boston, and is the daughter of Michael Ring. She was married in 1872 to Patrick F. Burke, one of the best known business men of South Boston. She is survived by her husband and a brother, Thomas F. Ring, who for years was the overseer of the poor in the city of Boston.

WILL QUINCY HELP?

Editor Quincy Ledger:

As chairman of the Philanthropy committee of the Quincy Women's club, my attention has been called to these facts: A woman between fifty and sixty years old, living in our city, is an incurable invalid from rheumatism. She has dropsy in her feet so that she cannot stand; her head must be supported by a strap; all her food has to be cut up for her, and she cannot lie down. All day and all night, she sits patiently in a chair, and does not complain. Our district nurse goes to her once a week, and gives her a bath, and does all she can to make her comfortable.

Her mother, 96 years old, is deaf, but was able to help take the care up to last Christmas when she became blind, and is no longer able to work. These two helpless invalids have lived for the past five years in the home of the old lady's son. His wife does the house-work, and takes care of the invalids. The man cannot leave home even for a much needed rest, because he must lift his sister, and there is nobody else to do it. They are fine people and are worthy of our sympathy and financial help.

I have tried to get the invalid into a free home for incurables, but have not succeeded. But there is an institution where she can be admitted by paying eight dollars a week, and within six or eight months she could have free care, for a new building is to be erected. Unfortunately, the family can pay but a very small part of the sum required, although their relief from this heavy burden is so urgent.

Therefore, I make this appeal to the generosity of Quincy people, hoping that two hundred dollars can be raised to pay board for six months.

Any sums subscribed may be sent to my address, and they will be promptly acknowledged. Those who do not know me, I refer by her kind permission, to Mrs. George W. Morton, Spear street, Quincy.

Miss H. E. Turner

WELCOME SHOWER.

Rain Friday Night Much Needed and Did a Great Deal of Good.

The long waited for rain came Friday night and there was many a vote of thanks offered by those who had long been praying for it. The sky became overcast about 4 o'clock and it looked as though it would rain at any minute. The sky cleared however and it was not until an hour later that the rain fell. Then it came down in torrents. Later in the evening there was another shower, this time being accompanied by thunder and lightning.

There was no damage by the lightning in Quincy as far as known and the rain did much good to vegetation.

TAFT SPEAKS FOR THE PEOPLE

Says They Were Promised Downward Tariff Revision

ISSUES OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Asserts Authority as Titular Head of His Party and Demands That Its Promises Be Fulfilled—Suggestion of Veto If His Ideas Are Not Carried Out—Indorses Plea For Free Hides, Iron and Coal

Washington, July 17.—All doubt as to where President Taft stands with regard to the downward revision of the tariff was swept away when a statement was given out at the White House setting forth in detail what the president had to say to twenty-three Republican members of congress who called to protest against putting raw materials on the free list.

The president in this statement declares that the Republican party is committed to a downward revision; that he has never had any other idea of the Chicago platform, and that he personally has promised a downward revision to the people.

This statement is interpreted in some quarters here as a direct notification to the conferees on the tariff bill that if the measure they finally agree upon does not constitute a material reduction in specific duties the president will exercise his power of veto.

Dictated in the third person, the statement concludes with this final word as the president's attitude as outlined to his callers:

"He felt strongly the call of the country for a downward revision within the limits of the protective principle and he hoped to be able to respond to that call as he heard it, as well in the interests of the party as of the country."

The statement says that the tariff should be revised for the benefit of the whole country and not on sectional lines and intimates that hides, iron ore and coal should be placed on the free list.

The president's statement created a decided sensation among senators and representatives when they became acquainted with its contents. The president up to this time has not permitted himself to be quoted in connection with the tariff struggle. His frame of mind was indicated in his New Haven speech on June 30, however, in which he warned the Republican party that if it did not keep its promises and live up to what the people expected of it, it would be relegated to the minority.

The president asserts for the first time his authority as the titular head of his party. As such he announces his conviction that the party platform meant a revision downward and that no other interpretation can be placed upon it.

In addition to the suggestion of a veto, which many political observers read into the president's statement, it is taken also to mean that if congress does not agree to what he regards as a proper revision downward there will be a split between the president and the legislative branch of the government as wide as was that which marked the experiences of Presidents Roosevelt and Cleveland.

TO PAY MINIMUM FINE

Sugar Men May Plead Guilty to Indictments Against Them

New York, July 17.—It is reported here that trial of the indictments against the American Sugar Refining company and its officials may be avoided through pleas of guilty being entered by the defendants.

All the defendants arraigned pleaded not guilty recently, but a change in the plea, it is intimated, may be made, in the belief that if accepted by the government a minimum fine of $5000 would be the only penalty demanded of each defendant. The indictments charged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

New York, July 17.—In an aeroplane flight of twenty-three minutes Glenn H. Curtis more than doubled any of his previous records at Mineola, L. I. The distance he covered was between fourteen and sixteen miles, and for the greater part of the flight he maintained a speed of about forty-five miles an hour.

Excepting the fights of Orville Wright at Fort Myer last September, nothing in the United States has ever approached this performance.

WILLIAM NOBLE BROUGH

Life Story of One of the Old Salts at the Sailors' Home

Life contains strange contrasts, and many times the rewards and punishments meted out in this world seem strangely incongruous, so often do virtue and heroism meet only with disappointment and tribulation, while evil doers pursue their varied courses unhindered and unpunished.

There is much in the life story of William Noble Brough, now an inmate of the Sailors' Home at Snug Harbor, Germantown. Mr. Brough was born in Charlestown and there his family still lives. His fate is enough to make the most flippant puase for thought. He has in his career saved eight persons from drowning and 22 years ago was in perfect health a strong man who rejoiced in the strength that God gave him. Today he is an almost helpless cripple, unable to work and dependant on others for his livelihood. Yet he is contented and happy, bearing his misfortune as only a truly brave man can bear it, when he knows he ought to be in the prime of his strength. And indeed Mr. Brough ought to be in the best of health for he is but 45 years old.

Was this affliction cast upon him as a punishment for some grave fault which he committed? Quite the contrary. His health failed him as the result of a demand, which he bravely met, for a deed of great heroism, which nearly cost his life. A lad, whose name the man who saved him cannot now recall was in danger. Off Long Wharf he was making desperate struggles to save himself from drowning.

On the wharf 200 men looked on with that hypnotized state of fear that paralyzes all but the bravest in the sight of sudden peril. Not so William Brough who pushed his way through the crowd on the wharf and took in the situation. Without a moment's hesitation he dropped into the cool water. He threaded his way through the flotsam the tide had brought in He struck his head on a fish box, but that didn't stop him.

He kept on and caught the struggling lad just as he was going down for the last time and dragged him safely to shore .

Within a short time the boy was as lively as ever again, but not so the strong man. His sudden precipitation into the cool water caused a quick flow of blood to the head which combined with the blow from the fish box caused a blood vessel to break and a serious hemorrhage of the brain was the result.

For weeks Brough lay at the point of death all hope of recovery being gone. But his great grit and courage brought him round, only to put him face to face with a career of helplessness, for his right side was paralyzed and his arms were of little use. For 22 years he has patiently borne his suffering and without a murmur has submitted to the life of inactivity into which he has been thrust by fate.

There is no complaint against fate, no murmurings of ingratitude, for this man, who is suffering the severest trial to the spirit that a man of once great strength can have, namely that he is helpless, merely reproaches himself for being an invalid.

There is a tremendous suggestion in the contrast of what this humble hero is suffering compared with the punishment of the young millionaire whose automobile kills a fellow being, or even with the 15 or 20 years given to Wallace H. Ham, the fashionable thief and a score of other criminals.

Yet this man's heart is not ungrateful, for he has one thing to remind him of his heroic deed besides his terrible affliction and that is a beautiful silver medal given him by the Humane Society of Refuge of Massachusetts and which bears the following inscription:

"William Noble Brough, for humane exertions in rescuing a boy from drowning at Long Wharf, August 3, 1887."

On a bar above the medal are inscribed the names of those whom he saved from drowning for in the years prior to 1887 he had rescued no less that seven livts beginning his hero work when he was eleven years old.

One of the names on that bar is that of Bella Ambrose, who married Mr. Brough a few months after he had saved her from a watery grave. He was out in a rowboat with a party of eight on the Mystic river when his boat was approached by a large yacht. Brough noticed that the helmsman was not attending strictly to business and shouted to him, "Look out or she'll jibe on you." His warning came too late, however, and the yacht crashed into the little boat and crushed it like paper. As the rowboat broke its occupants found themselves struggling in the water. Brough grabbed one of the party, Mary Brown by name and exerting every ounce of strength threw her bodily onto the yacht, head foremost. It was the work of but a couple of seconds to grasp Bella Ambrose and she was saved. Thinking all were safe Brough now clambered aboard over the stern post.

But there was more work for this brave life-saver to do, for as he was about to sink exhausted on the deck—that had been hard work he had been doing even though it took but a short time—he looked over the rail and saw Lottie Steele struggling in the water and worse still, perceived that the yacht was just about to pass over her. He dived overboard and with a quick turn went directly under the yacht after her saving her life.

Brough—2

Another of the names on the bar is that of Patrick Killoran, whose life was the first that Brough saved. That was thirty-four years ago when the life-saver was but 11 years old. The Killoran boy was a couple of years older, but did not know how to swim. It was in the winter and the water about the wharves was frozen over, but not solidly. Young Killoran was walking on the ice off Fiske's wharf and broke through. His cries for help were quickly responded to by the future hero William Brough, who jumped in after him and grasped him firmly just as he was sinking.

"When I arose to the surface again, the ice was over me and I had to break it with my head," says Mr. Brough. "We were in a bad fix even then, but a schooner which lay at the wharf sent a boat to us, and the men broke the ice and took us aboard.

"My next rescue was that of Tom Burnett, brother of Sergeant Burnett, who fell off Snelling's wharf at the foot of Commercial street. I went over after him and got him on the wharf all right, but he was so far gone that they had to work over him for hours before they brought him around.

"The Sunday before I rescued the boy for which I was given the medal I was sitting on the raft down on the shore, waiting to take my people out for a sail, when I noticed a couple of young men in a boat a little bit off shore who seemed to be green hands. The wind was puffy and it looked bad, So I called out to them and told them that the sail was liable to jibe on them if they did not watch it.

"They thought they knew it all and gave me the laugh, but their laughter changed pretty quickly when she did go over on them. They were about 500 yards off shore and one of them was drifting out there after the boat had capsized. Sunday clothes and all I jumped in and went after him. The minute I reached him he grabbed me around the neck and for a few minutes it looked as if we would both go down together. But I managed to get one arm free and hit him a crack on the jaw that knocked him silly. I told him that he had to be quiet and I guess I used a few swear words before I got him into the boat that Bill Murphy rowed out to us."

Two other rescues are to be credited to Mr. Brough, but these were performed in foreign waters during his ten years of life as a seaman in cruises which took him to all parts of the world. While at the wheel of the London ship Oneida, 3,000 tons, bound from London to Hongkong he saw one of the men at work reefing the topsail, fall overboard. Brough grabbed a life buoy and sprang to his aid while the captain took th wheel. It was a nasty day and they were forced to wear ship three times before they could reach the struggling pair ni the water, while the mighty waves made it impossible to launch a boat with any hope of success. They were in the water an hour and a half, a period that seemed ages to them. It is hard for the landsman to realize the heart-sinking which Brough and the man he was risking his life to save, felt, when twice they saw the great ship flounder and go by them before the gale and the life line which meant so much to them fall short, just out of their reach.

All this happened off the Cape of Good Hope, and it may be that the knowledge of that fact gave some hope to the imperiled ones, but at any rate they held on until the ship swept down on them for the third time and at last they were taken safely aboard.

When Brough was on the U. S. S. Alert, he and one of the apprentices were friendly rivals in regard to their swimming abilities, and all the way from 'Frisco to Honolulu they were planning that at the first opportunity they would settle the question. So when the Alert arrived at Honolulu, the two rivals stripped and took to the water. The course was direct to the shore a distance of a mile and a half, and return, and the winner was to be the champion of the hsip's company provided the sharks did not get him. On the return portion of the swim .Wynne, the apprentice gave out and Brough had to support him the last 1,000 yards. Wynne was all in and had to be dragged on board the ship.

When the Alert was lying in Peel Island Harbor, off the coast of Japan, a number of the crew went across the harbor to get some "sake," the native drink, and a little Englishman named Driscoll, who had shipped at Yokohama, fll overboard. Brough immediately went after him. Sharks were plentiful there ,and hardly had the American grasped the Englishman than he felt a sharp tug at his boot. It was a shark but not a very knowing one, for after he had pulled the boot off the man's foot he swam away and thus the lives of both men were saved.

When Brough was a youngster, he and his brothers were known as the three water dogs of the North End, for they were all strong swimmers. The five were William N., Charles H., formerly a sailor but now a musician; Reuben H., a color press operator; James A., who is now dead, and Samuel E., now a foreman in one of Boston's largest leather establishments. These lads made Bartlett's wharf their headquarters and crowds used to gather there to see the feats indulged in by the boys. Their favorite swim was from the wharf over to the navy yard and back .

William Brough first went to sea in 1875. He and his brother Charles went to the U. S. training ship Minnesota, but later William changed to the merchant service. His first voyage was on the two masted schooner William Slater of Thomaston, Me., Brough later shipped on the Thomas Keeler of Dorchester, N. B., and on this vessel he went from Baltimore to Antwerp, then back to New Orleans and then across the ocean again to Bremerhaven. From there he took passage on the German ship Tamerlaine bound for North Shields. She struck nasty weather in the trip across the North Sea. Her topsail was blown away and shortly after she struck on the rocks on the Norwegian coast, at a spot six miles west of Christiansand harbor. The Tamerlaine broke in two just before daylight. One of Brough's shipmates on the Keeler was literally cut in two by being dashed by a wave against the anchor stock. All the after part of the vessel was swept away, but the bow stuck on the sharp rocks and some of the men were washed ashore. Not many were saved, only four of the fourteen souls on board living to tell the tale. These were Brough, his shipmate, Scotty, the captain and a Norwegian. Brough's clothes were stripped from him by the angrey seas and he bears to this day scars inflicted by the sharp rocks as he was swept by them on the waves.

He next shipped on the Albatross, a tramp steamer which took him to Antwerp, where he shipped on the Louis Smith, also of Dorchester, N. B., which took him to New York and then to London. Here he signed papers with the Oneida and went on a seven months' voyage to Hongkong, stopping only at Port Elizabeth, Delagoa Bay.

Brough took sick of the scurvy on this trip and went into the hospital at Hongkong and on coming out, shipped aboard the Portland barkentine, Annie S. Hall, voyaging up and down the Chinese coast. Again he was wrecked the Hall being cast up on shore and being completely lost.

Next came the Boston bark Stillman B. Allen, a coolie ship bound for Portland, Oregon, with 500 coolies. Then Brough left the sea for a while and went salmon fishing on the Columbia river. Next he journeyed south to the San Joaquin valley in California, where he went to work on a threshing machine.

His next vessel was the U. S. S. Alert, on which he was a petty officer for two or three years. In 1881 he was back in 'Frisco again and shipped aboard the Traveller, bound for Liverpool, Hull and London. There he went aboard the Glenlarough, an Australian packet, where for fourteen months he was voyaging to Auckland and back. When he was in London again he took passage to Antwerp and thence came to New York.

Then he returned home after an absence of ten years only to find his father and one of his brothers dead . He was home for just two years off and on, when he performed in 1887 the deed of heroism that cost him his strength and nearly his life.

In the summer of 1906 he applied for admission to the sailors' home at Snug Harbor, Germantown, and was admitted in the fall. There he will probably spend the rest of his days, helpless and dependent on others for everything; not through any fault of his own, however ,and this is what consoles him and enables him to bear the fate with, one might say almost say, pleasure. Mr. Brough is able with the aid of crutches to get out and around, and often comes across the river to Quincy Point to visit some of his friends. He cannot row himself across, however, but has to get one of his old sailor comrades at the home to row him over. Quite often he goes to Charlestown to visit those of his family who are now alive, but other than that he goes nowhere.

Are You Wretched in Bad Weather?

Keeping the Kidneys Well Has Kept Many Quincy People Well.

Many Quincy people find that bad weather brings on a dull pain in the back, or rheumatic aching, neuralgia, nervousness, irritability and weakness. If, when you get wet or take cold, it "settles on the kidneys," and there is a shivery, chilly sensation in the back, it shows kidney weakness, which is often the beginning of disease. Doan's Kidney Pills should be used persistently until the chilly feeling is gone, and the flow of urine is natural Doan's Kidney Pills has saved Quincy people much suffering.

W. Charlesworth, living at 33 Cranch street, Quincy, Mass., says: "About five years ago I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had pains in my back which were at times more severe than at others and colds or damp weather aggravated my suffering. I knew my kidneys were at fault and used everything I could think of in an effort to obtain relief, but to no avail. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I finally decided to give this remedy a trial and procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before I had used the contents of two boxes, the backache was a thing of the past and I felt better in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

The Other Girl.

By R. A. BEALL.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

To all their friends there seemed to be something essentially incongruous in the idea of their marriage. Friends, of course, as is well known, have the right to decide those things.

Grace Ormiston was a New England girl of an old Boston family, who knew her Emerson by heart. It was even reported that she knew what Robert Browning meant when he wrote:

Setebos and Setebos and Setebos.

Jim Garrison had been born and reared on a big Kentucky plantation, and he had obtained his education in that school which not only believes but vows that a gentleman's education is complete when he has been taught "to ride, to shoot and to speak the truth."

Yet their marriage had turned out a happy one, for with all Jim's ignorance of books he was a gentleman, every inch of the stalwart length of him. He did feel a bit oppressed, though, at times when his clever and learned wife let him "slide out of the conversation," as he expressed it, and showed by her manner that she knew it was over his head and that she excused him in sympathetic kindness.

The truth was that Jim would have been quite a bit the better for it if he had possessed more of a share of that of which most men have too much—conceit.

Poor Jim didn't have a bit, and he used to rub his handsome head ruefully and with very genuine sorrow at the harassing thought that he was not good enough for his brilliant beauty of a wife and that she must feel some degree of shame for him when she was surrounded by the wise and learned people who called on them continually.

When they had been married a little more than a year a telegram came for Jim while he was absent in Kentucky looking over some of his land. Mrs. Garrison hesitated before she opened the yellow envelope, for she was not a woman who believed in letting her curiosity get the better of her, although she had her full share of that delightful instinct of her breeding.

However, she finally decided that she should open the telegram to see if it was important enough to forward to Jim. Surely every one will forgive that. Women ought to be curious. It's part of their charm. Think of what the world would be without woman's delicious curiosity!

The message was short. But few as the words were they were sufficient to cause something very much like her little world tumbling disastrously down around the pretty ears of Mrs. Garrison. The telegram was dated from a village on Long Island and said:

The Girl is dying. Come at once.

It was signed Jack Farrington. Grace recognized this name as that of one of her husband's friends of whom she had often heard him speak, but whom she had never met.

Grace was not a naturally jealous woman—that is, nothing more than to say that she was not any more jealous than is any good, true, warm souled woman. She tried to remain unsuspicious; but, try as she would, she could find but one interpretation for the message.

Her faith in Jim was too absolute to believe that "the girl" referred to could be her rival since their marriage. She never gave place in her mind for one moment to any idea that her Jim was capable of the shameful, disgusting treachery such a surmise would presuppose.

But she could not help but see that this girl had some old claim on Jim and the thought of such a claim on the man whom she loved so passionately was sufficient to drive her nearly frantic.

She perceived that the sender of the telegram had taken it for granted that Jim would not hesitate to "come at once." And then she recollected with a keen sense that gave her new pain now that Jim always had spoken shyly and hesitatingly about Farrington and had evaded all her attempts to induce him to invite this friend of his early days to their home.

Her feeling was one of total desolation. She moaned at the thought there could be anywhere in the world a woman with such a claim upon her Jim that he must go to her deathbed. Mrs. Garrison realized now and all at once how deeply and helplessly she loved her handsome husband and how empty all her world of knowledge and art would seem to her if that love were destroyed.

At last, however, she began to think of the unknown girl who lay dying. With a mighty effort she put aside her own grief and telegraphed to her husband:

Mr. Jim Garrison, Phenix Hotel, Lexington, Ky.
Come home immediately. A matter of life and death. GRACE.

She could not bear to telegraph to him that "the girl" was dying. To refer to her in such a way was repugnant to every instinct, and she was in total ignorance of the girl's name.

Before noon she received the expected reply. It read:

Leave at noon. Arrive tomorrow noon.

Grace Garrison, having forced herself to sacrifice her own emotions and her own wounded love and anguished pride, was not the woman to shrink from making the sacrifice complete and deep, however her feet might bleed on the weary way.

She telegraphed to Farrington that Jim would reach home at noon of the next day and would come down to Long Island immediately and meantime determined to expedite his trip in every manner. Whoever this woman was to Jim, Grace resolved that Jim must reach her bedside before death closed her eyes if she could make it possible.

The railroad time tables showed her that connections could not be made until very late in the evening, and she decided that he must be hurried down in her automobile.

It was a swift machine that had been bought especially for her use by her mother. Jim had steadfastly refused to learn to drive it. But Grace decided that it would not do to have the chauffeur drive Jim on such an errand, for fear of gossip among the servants. She came to the brave decision that she would drive the machine herself.

It was a very worried and excited man who ran to her at the gate of the railroad station. "Tell me what it means, Grace!" cried he.

Grace Garrison had faced the sacrifice, but she was a woman. Her face grew stern and cold. She replied that a crowded station was hardly the place for such confidences and waited silently till he was in the automobile. Then, when they were whizzing on their way to Long Island, she looked fixedly at Jim and without a word handed to him the telegram from Farrington.

Jim read it silently. His face denoted some distress, but it denoted more bewilderment.

"I'm awfully sorry The Girl is dying," he said. "It sort of breaks me up. But if she had to die I wish that I had been left in peace till I had finished business in Kentucky. I was just closing a very profitable little transaction."

Grace looked at him in shocked amazement. Jim stared at her and opened his mouth to say something, but thought better of it. Grace turned her face away to hide her tears, which she could not repress, try as she would. She did not trust herself to speak except once or twice to ask the direction from Jim. The last time she fancied that she heard him chuckle, but dismissed the idea as a morbid fancy.

Farrington met them with a cordial handshake and a strange cheerfulness, which was explained when he said hurriedly to Jim that The Girl was much better. Then he asked coldly if they would not like to see her.

Jim replied in the affirmative without a moment's hesitation, but Grace held back. Then Jim chuckled. It was an unmistakable out and out chuckle.

Bewildered, wondering, Grace followed the two men as Farrington led the way to the stables.

A rather feeble looking mare whinnied when she saw Jim and made a weak effort to get upon her feet.

On the way back Jim said with a happy smile: "You'll have to read up on one subject, anyway, darling. Anybody who knows anything at all about racing knows The Girl. She's the winner of the Shenandoah sweepstakes, the Cumberland futurity and the Gold cup, and she belongs to the racing firm of yours truly, Garrison & Farrington. I'm glad she is better; but, sweetheart, even if she had died I would have considered her well paid for by the knowledge I've won through your misunderstanding about that telegram. Am I very stupid, darling, if I think that you love me, even though I don't know much of literature and art?"

And Grace Garrison gave him a reply that convinced him that he was not stupid.

Preparing Robin Beefsteak.

On a certain occasion I saw a sturdy specimen of the robin tribe on the lawn searching for provisions for his family of clamorous gormands. At length, by tugging and perseverance, he succeeded in extracting a lusty angleworm from the tough sward and was making the effort to fly to his nest with the prey. But Mr. Worm rebelled. More than that, he writhed and squirmed with the greatest energy, and the bird that had come to market so bravely was in danger of finding his provisions so unruly that he could not reach home with them. But he was not to be defeated so easily. Stepping to the board walk near by, he deliberately began to pound Mr. Worm down upon the hard surface with an emphasis that bade fair to finish all protests and writhing. And so it did. A dozen pecks, and not only was the little fellow's beefsteak ready for transportation, but it was ready pounded for the broiler—or in this case consumption without the aid of broiling.—Young People.

He Did It.

A teacher had just finished explaining the use of the ditto marks when she noticed one of her young searchers for knowledge searching for it in a story book. So she made him stay after school and told him to write the sentence "Always pay attention" 100 times.

In a very short time he gave a glad shout, "I've did it!"

"What kind of language is that?" she remarked severely. "And you surely haven't had time to do it."

"Well, I'm done it, then. Anyhow, here it is." He held up his paper. The sentence was written once at the top, and the remaining surface was covered with dots.

"But you haven't done it!" she exclaimed.

He gazed at her scornfully.

"Course I have. Them's ditto marks. Made 'em ninety-nine times. They're good things."

What else was there to do but to let him go at once? And she did.

MOHAMED ALI IS DETHRONED

Nationalists Proclaim Crown Prince Shah of Persia

IS BUT TWELVE YEARS OF AGE

The New Government Will Be Carried on Under Regency—Monarch's Flight to Russian Legation Tantamount to Voluntary Abdication—New Constitution Considered Assured, but Monarchy Will Remain

Teheran, July 17.—Mohamed Ali, Shah of Persia, was dethroned, and the crown prince, Sultan Ahmed Mirza, was proclaimed shah by the national assembly, composed of the chief mujtehids and the leaders of the Nationalist forces, in the presence of an immense crowd in Parliament square.

Mohamed Ali has taken refuge in the Russian summer legation at Zerzende. The new shah is yet in his minority, and Azad Ul Mulk, head of the Kajar family, has been appointed regent.

Sipahdar, one of the most active leaders of the movement, has taken office as minister of war and governor of Teheran. General Liakhoff, through whose negotiations with the Nationalists the surrender was effected, was escorted by mounted Bakhtiari riflemen to the parliament building and was greeted with applause by the people.

After an all night attack by the Bakhtiaris in Teheran, the shah, with the queen and one of the princes, left the palace at Sultanatabad under an escort of 200 soldiers and drove hurriedly to the Russian legation. Arrangements already had been made for his reception and he was greeted by the staff of the legation.

Sipahdar, who is wounded, was taken to the British legation. The provisional government displays the utmost confidence and declares that the monarchy will remain, but that the new shah will be bound to support and acknowledge the constitution.

With the exception of desultory firing, Teheran is quiet. The townspeople are taking quite calmly the sudden change in rulers, while the Nationalists are resting after four days of incessant fighting.

The shah's action in seeking the protection of a foreign legation is looked upon as tantamount to voluntary abdication. No decision has been reached as to the disposition of the dethroned monarch, but it is probable that he will be banished.

The new shah is 12 years of age. He was declared heir-apparent at the time his father ascended the throne.

Of Interest to Great Britain

London, July 17.—The British government will watch with interest the efforts of the Nationalists to establish a strong government at Teheran, and may be depended upon to do everything in its power to bring about the long hoped for change.

It has been evident for months that so long as the shah and his reactionary advisers retained a vestige of power the Persian problem could not be solved. Now that they are out of the way, it is believed here that a council of able men, carrying on the government under a regency, can restore the prestige of the country and maintain order, which is so important to the interests of Great Britain.

CRANE'S PRINCIPAL AIM

Wants Americans to Secure Firm Foothold In Chinese Market

New York, July 17.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, the newly selected minister to China, who is stopping in this city, in a formal statement regarding his acceptance of the post, says he regards it as of exceptional importance because of the present commercial opportunity in the Far East.

"One of the principal aims of my incumbency," says Crane, "will be the aiding of American enterprise to secure and maintain an adequate foothold in a country which promises to be the richest market of the world."

An Honor For Von Buelow

Berlin, July 17.—Director General Ballin of the Hamburg-American steamship line sent a telegram to Prince Von Buelow, until recently imperial chancellor, saying the company would like to name its next large trans-Atlantic liner Prince Von Buelow. The prince accepted the honor.

Readville Park Changes Hands

Boston, July 17.—By the final payment of $60,000 with accrued interest, the famous Readville Trotting Park passed from the hands of the New England Trottoing Horse Breeders' association to Orlando Jones and Andrew Welch. The grand circuit meeting opens at the Readville track Aug. 31.

Excursion Car Jumps Rails

New Glasgow, N. S., July 17.—One person was perhaps fatally injured and several others were hurt, while hundreds had miraculous escapes when the rear car of an excursion train jumped the rails and, toppling over on its side, rammed into an embankment here.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS.

In Camp at Pembroke.

Sixteen boys of the local Y. M. C. A. left this afternoon for a two weeks' camping trip with Mr. Clee and Chester Gurney as leaders. They will camp with about the same number of boys from the Abington Association on a lake in Pembroke ,Plymouth county .

Great enthuslasm was evident over the prospects. This is the first camp the Quincy association has ever conducted and it gives evidence of being a great success. The boys will be given a great time, good food, will be well cared for and will get much benefit from the outing. The total cost for each boy is $7.00 for the two weeks exclusive of travel expenses which are less than a dollar round trip .

LAWN PARTY.

Friday a very enjoyable afternoon was enjoyed by the children of West Quincy at a lawn party under the direction of Miss M. Galvin and Miss Elizabeth Lyons on Miss Galvin's lawn on West street.

Many races were enjoyed. The girls' first potato race was won by Bertha Schneider and the second by Pauline O'Brien. The boys' first by James Reynolds and the second by James Cuffe. The fifty-yard dash for the girls was won by Bertha Schneider and the boys' by Rudolph Schneider.

The different tables were in charge of many young ladies. Eugenie LeClair and Mary E. Finn had charge of the ice cream, Ita Sullivan and Ruth Sullivan, the lemonade and cake, Anna Lyons and Ellen Shyne, the candy, Bertha Schneider, the peanut and Ella McDonald, the grab-bag. The tables and lawn were very prettily decorated.

It was a very happy afternoon for the children. The party was in aid of the West street table of the lawn party to be held by St. Mary's church.

—Rhode Island while famous as the Greatna Green for runaway couples surely cannot feel proud of its reputation. And now comes the announcement that over 300 couples are seeking divorce in that state.

MORE WORKERS, LESS WORK.

The London Water Board Has Too Many Employees and a Big Deficit Besides.

At a recent meeting of the metropolitan water board of London, reported in the London Morning Post, it was stated that the anticipated deficit for the current financial year would be nearly $400,000. One of the members, Mr. Musgrave, gave some figures which are very interesting in this connection. He stated that five years ago, when the water was being supplied by several private companies, their employees numbered only 581. Now, in spite of the consolidation under the municipal authorities, their employees number 792. In other words, it takes 37 per cent more municipal employees to do the same work that was done by the private employees, for there has been almost no increase in the amount of water supplied. In fact, the larger number of employees under the board are actually accomplishing less, because the board pays the Bank of England more than $60,000 a year to handle some financial matters which under private management were taken care of by the companies' employees.

A Return to Contract Labor.

The Leeds corporation at its meeting on Dec. 2, 1908, decided to abolish the works department which was set up in 1906 and wherever practicable to revert to the course of letting by contract the work of the corporation. The mover of the resolution said that his experience was that work done by direct labor was not carefully thought out in every detail before it was commenced and that it had led in every case to much unnecessary expenditure. It was an interference with private trading and was a Socialist measure and to abolish it would be in the best interests of the ratepayers and citizens generally, the traders and the better class of workers.—Yorkshire Post.

He Dazed Lew Wallace.

Shortly after the first success of "Ben-Hur" Lew Wallace had occasion to go over to London and one day picked up a pirated copy of the novel at a railroad newsstand. To his amazement he found the subtitle left off, a preface interpolated and one of the chapters rewritten. Of course he boiled with rage, and as soon as possible he called on the publisher. That gentleman coolly admitted his crime and told Wallace he thought the amended form better adapted to the British taste, doncherknow. His gall was so stupendous that the novelist was awed and went away without spilling his gore.

It Was Good Advice.

A wildly turbulent peasant was once a witness in a trial before Chief Baron O'Grady. The counsel, after pestering him for some time, put a question to him which reflected on the witness' character.

"If ye ax me that again I'll give ye a kick in the gob!" was the answer.

The counsel appealed to the court, stating that an answer was necessary to his client's case, ending up with the query, "What would your lordship advise me to do?"

"If you are resolved to repeat the question," replied the court, "I'd advise you to move a little from the witness."

The Poultice Is a Barbaric Relic.

The poultice is a barbarous relic of the days of witch burning. The typical home poultice is made of flaxseed. It is a soggy, unsavory, germ infested instrument of torture. Clapped upon the suffering baby's chest, it interferes with the poor child's breathing, infects his skin with the germs that cause pimples and boils and makes him unbearably uncomfortable and unhappy. The heat in the poultice is its only valuable feature. The dampness does damage, and the flaxseed is as inert as so much sawdust or breakfast food. Why not use hot water bags or, better still, hot cloths?—Delineator.

WOLF WINS FIRST CUP RACE

Eastern Y. C. Gets First Leg in Challenge Cup Races

A large number of local and visiting yachtsmen were present at the Quincy Yacht club house this morning to witness the first of the series of races for the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup. More than usual interest is centered in these races for several of this years sonder class boats are participating. The races are being sailed boat for boat and the winner of the cup must take three races.

Quite a few yachtsmen were at the club house Sunday to welcome any of the challengers that might arrive but the Spokane III, which will represent the Beverly club was the only one to arrive. The Crooner who is defending the cup was towed down from South Boston this morning and all of the other challengers arrived during the morning.

The challengers are the Ellen representing the Boston club; Spokane III representing the Beverly club; Sally X representing the Corinthian club; Wolf representing the Eastern club and Crooner representing the Quincy club.

The wind early this morning was fresh from the northwest which insured a good race. Shortly before 11 o'clock the yachts begun to manoeuvre about the Emeline, which was used as the judges' boat.

Near by was the power boat Bonita with two judges and representatives of the press on board who were to follow the racers over the course. All eyes and glasses were pointed toward the judges' boat to see the start. Suddenly a puff of smoke was seen and a second later the report of the gun was heard. It was the signal for the start.

At this time the wind was light at the start but freshened before the race was finished. The Ellen was the first to cross the line followed closely by the Spokane and Crooner. The Sally was 3 1-2 minutes behind the first bunch and Wolf four minutes. The course selected gave the boats a run before the wind to Bunkin island. On the turn at this buoy the Ellen was still leading the time at the turn being:

Ellen	11-32-04
Crooner	11-32-32
Spokane	11-32-39
Sally	11-33-20
Wolf	11-33-32

The boats held their same relative positions on the beat home and on rounding the stake boat the first time round the Ellen was still leading with the Crooner 14 seconds behind and the Sally in the rear of the fleet. The time at this turn was:

Ellen	12-06-45
Crooner	12-06-57
Spokane	12-07-28
Wolf	12-07-59
Sally	12-08-56

Just at this time the wind freshened a little and there was a slight squall. This did not hinder the yachts however and they again headed for Bunkin island buoy for the last time around. When the boats rounded the buoy it was found that the Crooner had dropped to the bottom of the list and that the Ellen was still leading, the Spokane had crawled into second place and the Sally third. The time at this turn was:

Ellen	12-29-01
Spokane	12-30-07
Sally	12-30-10
Wolf	12-30-04
Crooner	12-30-30

During all of the race up to this time the Ellen had led and it looked as though the first leg would go to the Boston club. The wind had now freshened considerable and the race had reached the interesting period. On the beat home the Wolf showed that she was a heavy wind boat for she began to creep u pon the leaders and passing one by one soon had the lead which she held until the finish thus winning the first leg in the series for the Eastern club.

Wolf	12-57-38
Ellen	12-58-35
Sally	12-58-53
Spokane	12-58-55
Crooner	12-59-07

CLUB RAIDED.

Police Gather In Eight of the Putnam Club at Houghs Neck.

A cottage on Winthrop street, Houghs Neck, occupied by a crowd of Cambridge young men who called themselves "the Putnam Vaudeville club," was cleaned out early Sunday morning by Officers Phillips, Doughe, Harthorn and Mann.

It was in the vicinity of 1 o'clock Sunday morning when Officer Phillips called at the cottage and told the party that they must make less noise.

This warning apparently did no good, for an hour later the air resounded with the shouts that came from the cottage.

Then it was that the officers jumped on the place and there was a general scatter. Some of the crowd jumped through the windows and got away, but the police gathered in eight of the party. Some of the party were found on the piazzas with nothing but their undergarments on.

The interior of the house was as near a wreck as it was possible for the gang to make it. Chairs, tables and crockery was smashed into kindling wood and even the iron beds being torn apart and broken.

In the house were several half pints of whiskey and a large number of empty ale and whiskey bottles. The men arrested gave their names as Joseph Donahue, Hugh O'Neil, Joseph E. White, John Hanley, James Sullivan, Conrad Saner, Charles E. Moore and Thomas Keating. All were arraigned in court this morning for disturbing the peace.

After the hearing the court imposed a fine of $15 on each of the defendants.

HENRY N. MARBLE.

Rev. William J. Heath of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church, conducted prayers at the home of the late Henry N. Marble on Squantum street on Sunday at one o'clock.

With the passing away of Mr. Marble, Atlantic has lost one of its grand old men. Rev. Mr. Heath, in speaking of the deceased, said—"He has closed a long life of Christian usefulness and there is laid up for him a crown of glory." He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, loved and respected by all.

On Tuesday of last week Mr. Marble worked all day in his garden. On Wednesday he was taken ill but it was not thought to be serious until Thursday. He passed away at noon Friday. The formal funeral services were held in his old home in Harmony, Maine, where the body was taken Sunday afternoon.

"There is no death
What seems so is transition
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portals we call Death."

THE NEPONSET BRIDGE FIRE

Firemen Have Hard Job Sunday to Save the Old Structure

The bridge between Quincy and Neponset came near being distroyed by fire Sunday noon and but for the prompt and efficient work of Chief Williams and his corps of fire fighters there would have been but little left to tell the story. The fire was a hard one to fight as it all seemed to be underneath the bridge so that it was necessary to fight it from boats.

Fortunately it was high water or a still harder battle would have been necessary. Just how the fire started is somewhat of a mystery. Chief Williams is of the opinion that a lighted cigar thrown on the dry splintered planking started the fire which worked down through the planking. A high wind fanned the spark into a blaze which spread in both directions.

Chief Williams says the fire might have been smouldering for hours before it was fanned into a blaze.

The fire started on the Quincy end of the bridge just south of the draw and must have been burning sometime before discovered.

An alarm from Box 62 at 12.55 summoned the Quincy department and an alarm on the Boston side about the same time from Box 984 brought several pieces of apparatus to the Boston end.

The fire was fought however by the Quincy firemen. The relief steamer from the central station was stationed near Atlantic street and a long line of hose taken to the bridge.

A large hole was chopped in the bridge and a roof ladder lowered to the waters edge. Down this ladder chemical streams were taken from Combination 2 and Hook and Ladder 2.

The line of hose from the steamer was taken over the west side of the bridge and the stream directed from a boat in which three firemen were stationed Engineer Nyhan directing the men from a ladder near the waters edge.

In the mean time firemen with axes were chopping away at the bridge planking tearing it up that the seat of the fire might be reached.

Clouds of smoke coming up through the cracks of the planking showed the firemen that there was still considerable fire down below.

All traffic over the bridge was stopped and several loaded cars on the Neponset side were stalled. The draw of the bridge was opened during the early part of the fire thus keeping back a large crowd that would have rushed over and hampered the firemen.

Half an hour after the alarm it was seen that the firemen were getting the best of the fire and the draw was closed so that the crowds bound for the beaches could get by to the cars on the Quincy side.

At 2 o'clock the fire was practically out and as the fire had not reached the bridge beneath the car tracks cars were permitted to pass over it.

The main bridge however was pretty well torn up and this was roped off to team travel. By using the section on which the car tracks were however it was possible for teams to pass.

IRIS GETS ANOTHER.

Leads the Cape Cat Class in Saturday's Q. Y. C. Race.

A fresh northwest wind greeted the yachts of classes A and D at the race under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club Saturday afternoon making a pretty start. The wind however flattened out somewhat before the race was finished. There was but one starter in class A the Thordis of Commodore Dawes of the Wollaston club and she had a walkover.

In class D the cape cat class there were eight starters and it was a very pretty race. The Iris led the fleet over the course beating the Emeline of Commodore Robbins by two minutes elapsed time and by a minute on corrected time.

The judges were John O. Hall George S. Morse, William H. Huy and William J. Hudson. The summary.

LEISURE GETS A LEG.

Second Race for Podbury Cup Offered By Wollaston Y. C.

The second race for the Podbury cup offered for boats of the Wollaston Yacht club was sailed Sunday morning off the club house in a strong but squally southwest wind. The course was one of seven miles, the start and finish were flying ones and no time was taken.

The Leisure of William F. Reynolds finished first and gets a leg in the cup. The other boats and the order of their finish was as follows: Tyrant, R. Jefferson; Dolphin, Frank Foss; Sally, Robert Corthell; Kitten, Ellis & Halleck; Vandyl, Paul Andarine; Peacock, Frank Gardner; Aspinquid, R. E. Crocker.

The first leg in the cup was won by the Aspinquid.

THE SATURDAY BALL GAMES

Quincy Takes One From Randolph. Other Local Games.

THE LEAGUE STANDING.

Dewey and Quincy won Saturday, while Taunton was losing and hence there is another triple tie for first place. Each of these three teams have won six and lost four games. Stoughton by winning her game jumps ahead of Rockland into fourth place. Rockland is fifth, while Randolph went further into the mire of last place by losing to Quincy. The standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
QUINCY	6	4	.600
Taunton	6	4	.600
Dewey	6	4	.600
Stoughton	5	5	.500
Rockland	4	6	.400
Randolph	3	7	.300

A pretty double play by Lonergan and Strobel in the ninth inning put a stop to a batting rally and gave Quincy a 4 to 3 victory over Randolph Saturday at the Water street grounds. There was one out at the time and two men on bases. An error and two pretty singles had allowed the visitors to score one run and things looked black for the home team. Clancy was the batter and he hit a low liner to left field. Lonergan came in caught the ball prettily, and sent it to second before Brennan could back. The game was over and Quincy had won, but it looked dangerous until the last man was out.

The game as a whole was interesting to watch, although there were several errors and considerable loose playing. Al Strobel, the crack short stop, had an off day, making two errors, his first since joining the team. Hoye at third also had a bad day, being credited with two misplays, one a low throw to first and one a low throw to second. Burke played well in the outfield covering a lot of ground. Sheehan, a new man also showed up well at the bat and in the field. Lonergan played his usual steady game.

Adams was in the box for the local team, and pitched steady ball. He had fine control, not passing a single man. He was hit freely at times, but good fielding pulled him through. Thompson, the visiting box-artist,

We love that cup but, O you Crooner.

It seemed like carrying coals to Newcastle for the firemen to be carrying water yesterday to the Neponset river bridge.

Young men who cannot play the game fair had better quit playing altogether. The sooner the lesson is learned the better it will be all around.

Adams is a name that fits well in Quincy, whether in the line of statemanship or sport. Quincy's new pitcher of Saturday bore that name and today "Charlie" Adams is defending the Quincy challenge cup.

Perhaps if clubs of young men keep coming to Houghs Neck long enough they will wake up to the fact that they are welcome just so long as they are willing to conduct themselves as gentlemen. The moment they begin to assume an aspect of rowdyism just so soon will they be treated in a manner becoming with that type of human being.

Of all the challenging yachts for the Quincy cup, the Spokane was the only one to get in here last night. Wonder if the Spokane commissioners, Messrs Hearn and Patch, were on hand to extend the greetings of the city? We hope the mayor will make an enquiry along this line.

The way to revise is to revise—downwards. That's President Taft's creed on the tariff. What kind of an explanation will Senator Lodge give his Massachusetts constituents in the fall? His ideas on the subject are adverse to those of President Taft but the people believe their President to be right. That being so, Senator Lodge would seem to be in wrong.

Quincy got its first real thunder storm of the summer last night and it wasn't much of a one at that. Considering the extremely vicious thunder storms which seem to strike places all around us, Quincy seems to be fortunate in this respect. There is no doubt the Blue Hills help to break thunder storms from the westward and, once being split, the storm passes down the rivers on both sides of us, in Neponset and Weymouth, leaving Qiuncy immune. Last night's storm seemed to move in a circle and while the storm was rather long-drawn out, it was not severe. Last summer there was almost an entire absence of thunder storms in Quincy. This year the first one comes July 18, which a pretty good record.

The records of Saturday's games in the Old Colony league shows clearly that the teams of that league are capable of putting up an extra good article of base ball. The Taunton-Stoughton game required 18 innings and the game played in this city was fast enough to suit all who saw it. The croakers who howled that a base ball team would die in Quincy for lack of support have lived to see their prophesies become dismal failures. It is safe to say if the grounds were nearer the Centre a much larger crowd would be present on the days when games are played and the attendance so far has been larger in Quincy than in any of the other towns and cities represented in the league. It is too bad the local grounds are not entirely closed and that another set of bleechers was not erected back of first base. There is plenty of room for them there and we think the patronage would warrant their erection. It is also to be regretted that some sort of covering is not provided for these seats for on hot days the sun beats down directly on the field and makes the place uncomfortably hot. However, all these things will undoubtedly come in time.

Fire In Bourne Woods Continues to Make Headway

Bourne, Mass., July 19.—Getting entirely beyond the control of the fire wardens, the forest fire which raged Saturday in the Bourne woods swept to the shore of Great Herring pond Sunday, burning two dwellings in Bournedale and threatening many others. The summer residence of Edward Hatch of Boston and a camp occupied by Hebrew children from Boston were destroyed.

Nearly a thousand persons are battling with the flames. Women and children, as well as men, have engaged in the struggle to have their homes, assisting in passing buckets and pouring water from the pond on blankets to protect the roofs and sides of endangered cottages.

The fire started near the Plymouth line, and has burned over about 800 acres in the town of Bourne. It is estimated that thus far the damage amounts to $40,000.

Crane Acceptable to China

Pekin, July 19.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, whose selection as minister to China by President Taft was announced recently, is persona grata to the Chinese government.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

ESCAPED LUNATIC'S DEED

Shoots and Kills Farmer by Whom He Was Formerly Employed

Abington, Mass., July 19.—Returning to the farm on which he had one time worked, Lawrence Nelson, Jr., aged 28, an escaped lunatic, met his former employer, Desire A. Venderpool, watering flowers in his dooryard, and fired four shots at him, three of which took effect in vital spots, causing almost instant death.

Nelson then walked off with the smoking revolver in his hand, accosted two young men who were riding in a carriage and asked to be driven to the Brockton police station, saying that he had shot a man and wished to give himself up. The boys complied, and Nelson was locked up in Brockton.

When asked by the Brockton police why he committed the crime Nelson, according to the police, said: "I won't stand for any man throwing acid over me while I am working."

Nelson worked as a farm hand at the Vanderpool farm for three days last March, leaving because he said he had a better job. He had escaped from an insane asylum at Concord, N. H. His mother lives in Brockton.

GOTHAM'S SUBWAY SYSTEM

Opening of New Tunnels Cuts Time to New Jersey

New York, July 19.—Lower Broadway, Wall street and the downtown business district, which last night were from fifteen to twenty minutes distant from Jersey City on the way to the thickly settled suburban fields of New Jersey, and the west beyond, were brought nine minutes nearer this morning by the opening of a second set of Hudson tunnels.

On Aug. 2 a spur connecting with the Erie and Lackawanna terminals in Hoboken will be opened. Two years later it is hoped to have an extension finished which will connect the present tubes with the Grand Central station at Forty-Second street.

The entire system has been built by private capital supplied to William G. McAdoo and will have cost, when complete, about $70,000,000.

NERVOUS, BUT DIGNIFIED

Young Shah Takes His Place In Palace Vacated by Father

Teheran, July 19.—The new shah, Sultan Ahmed Mirza, accompanied by his tutor and a British and Russian escort, drove Sunday from the Russian summer legation to the Sultanabad palace. As the shah entered the palace the escort quitted him at the gate and returned to the legation thus signifying that he is no longer under Anglo-Russian protection.

A brief ceremony was held at the palace, at which the regent and the other members of the national council formally acclaimed the new sovereign. The shah appeared nervous, but dignified. It is believed that he will be sent abroad to study under the supervision of a new tutor. Perfect order prevails here.

LEGISLATORS ARE PUPPETS

Opinion of New'y Organized "Public Welfare League"

WANT ELIOT FOR GOVERNOR

Persons Interested In Reform Government For Boston Preparing to Present Monster Petition to Former President of Harvard Asking Him to Head Non-Partisan State Ticket—May Take Part In Minor Fights

Boston, July 19.—The Post says: There is at present in this city a strong movement to make ex-President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard the next governor of Massachusetts. The movement is said to be non-partisan and is taking the form of a monster petition which will be presented to Eliot asking him to run.

It is understood that the persons behind it are those who are interested in reform government for Boston; the organization itself, according to those who are obtaining signatures for the petition, being called the "Public Welfare league."

It is said that already there are several thousand names signed to the petition and that the list is rapidly growing.

The petition claims that the movement is non-partisan, in proof of which it names James B. Carroll of Springfield, John R. Thayer of Worcester and Edwin U. Curtis and William A. Gaston of this city as some of the men whose names are being considered for lieutenant governor.

For the other four places on the ticket, it is planned to name two Republicans and two Democrats. The league will also take part in some of the minor fights in close senatorial and representative districts. It has this to say of the legislature:

"In the state legislature the glut of mediocrity is appalling. The dearth of intellect, decision and judgment among our lawmakers is welcomed by the public service corporations, known as the interests.

"What they desire are puppets who will simply vote as instructed, no matter how void those members are of political talent, how incapable of saying a word without murdering grammar, how unable to give a reason today for their vote of yesterday, most of whom couldn't tell the difference between an act and an order, between a resolve and a resolution."

The men behind the movement, according to those who are taking the petition around, say that Eliot is fond of executive authority and will listen to a demand that he become a candidate for governor if the demand is loud enough and comes from the right direction.

GREAT NAVAL PAGEANT

Largest Fleet of Warships Ever Gathered on the Thames River

London, July 19.—London's naval pageant, in which 150 warships took part, is pronounced an enormous success. It has been asserted that the reason such a large fleet never before was gathered in the Thames was the fear of the possibility of its being bottled in by an enemy. No such idea now seems to enter the heads of the average Londoner, hundreds of thousands of whom turned out Sunday to view the magnificent spectacle. The inrush of visitors to the south end was so great that it caused a temporary famine.

Throughout the day the greatest rush was to see the original Dreadnought, but general interest centered mainly on the half dozen submarines moored by the Embankment.

KILLED IN A QUARREL

Contention of Mother and Friends of Lieutenant Sutton

Annapolis, Md., July 19.—At the beginning of the second inquiry at the naval academy today into the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton of Portland, Ore., an officer of the marine corps, in October, 1907, the facts that can be gleaned in advance tend only to throw a deeper mystery about the case.

The contention of Sutton's mother and friends is that the officer met death in a quarrel at the hands of one of his brother officers instead of having shot himself, as he was adjudged to have done by a former board of inquiry.

Old Porch Gave Way

New York, July 19.—Forty persons of a crowd of 250 or more who had sought refuge from a sudden shower on the porch of an old mansion in Claremont park, the Bronx, were injured when the over-taxed supports gave way beneath their weight and plunged them all into the cellar, fifteen feet below. Five of the injured are seriously hurt and it is feared that two of them may die.

Lightning Kills Baseball Spectators

Lead, S. D., July 19.—While watching a baseball game Sunday Weston Fry and Thomas Harvison were killed and eight others were seriously hurt by lightning during a thunder storm. A panic was narrowly averted in the crowded grand stand.

STEEL STRIKE SPREADS

One Man Probably Fatally Shot In Clash With Troopers

Butler, Pa., July 19.—Taking the striking employes of the Standard Steel Car company completely by surprise, a detachment of state constabulary arrived here from Punxsutawney late Sunday afternoon to guard the company's property at Lyndora.

The strikers, angered by the appearance of the troops, gathered around the plant yard and in a clash with the mounted troopers one striker was probably fatally shot, two members of the crowd were wounded and over ten injured. Fifteen alleged strike leaders were arrested by the troopers.

The entrance of 500 employes of the Standard Wheel company, a concern manufacturing pressed steel wheels, into the ranks of the striking men of the Standard Steel Car empany, makes the situation at Butler ominous. The wheel company's employes refused to report for work Sunday.

The men on strike at both plants are unorganized. The principal contention of the striking men is that both the car and wheel companies are working at capacity, but refuse to pay wages in proportion to the amount of work turned out.

DISASTER ON CYCLE TRACK

Benzine Explodes and Causes Death of at Least Four Persons

Berlin, July 19.—Four persons were killed, more than twenty severely injured and a dozen others hurt by the explosion of a motor cycle and a fire which followed it, during a cycle race here last evening.

An endurance race was on and after a few laps the tire of one of the pacemakers' motor cycle burst and the rider lost control. The benzine exploded and the machine leaped into the air and hurled itself against the barrier, which broke down.

So terrific was the speed of the motor cycle that it continued on its course after the explosion, crashing into the public stand, setting on fire several women's summer dresses. Two women were instantly killed and their bodies were burned to cinders. The wooden stand caught fire and a panic ensued, in which a great number were badly trampled. Eighteen men and four women were seriously injured, two of the men having since died. Several others are in a hopeless condition.

TAFT EXPECTED TO SIGN TARIFF BILL

Conferees Will Speedily Consider His Recommendations

Washington, July 19.—Most people here expect that President Taft will sign the tariff bill. He himself caused a flurry throughout congress last Friday night by the issue of what amounted to an informal message to congress in which he reiterated his conviction that the national platform of the Republican party meant, and the sentiment of the people as a whole demanded, a bona fide downward revision of the tariff. It has served to crystallize a somewhat fluctuating sentiment in the committee of conference, and has probably expedited the committee's action.

In all probability the five subjects which have received President Taft's personal attention—iron ore, coal, oil, hides and lumber—will be taken up by the conferees during the latter part of the present week.

SIXTEEN PERISH IN WATER

Ten Were Passengers on Excursion Sloop Which Capsized In Squall

New York, July 19.—Sixteen persons, five of them women, met death by drowning in the waters either surrounding or in the vicinity of New York Sunday.

Ten of the victims perished after the capsizing of the excursion sloop Roxana, carrying twenty-two passengers, which was struck by a sudden squall in lower New York bay. Of the survivors, one woman, Mrs. C. Knudson, is in such a serious condition that she will probably die. Her two daughters were drowned.

The other drownings, with but one exception, were swimming disasters. Charles Hendricksen, 42 years old, met death off Coney Island by the upsetting of a rowboat.

Boston, July 19.—Rev. Lyman R. Swett, pastor of the Blaney Memorial Baptist church of Dorchester, read his resignation from the pulpit Sunday, announcing that he retired from the ministry to go into business. Swett has patents on a new form of envelopes which he will manufacture.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff.

"Oh, I hope you mean"—she began when Hawcastle interrupted her with some excitement.

"You mean you have made my son divinely happy?"

The girl extricated herself laughingly from the embrace of the countess and turned to the earl.

"Is not every one divinely happy at Sorrento," she cried, waving her crop, "even your son?" and with another laugh ran quickly up the steps and into the hotel, leaving the other two looking at each other with astonishment.

As they looked a piano from the music room that opened upon the terrace broke forth with Chaminade's "Elevation," and Ethel's voice took up the words clearly. The countess turned to her companion.

"She flies to her piano, mon cher. Ah, that is good for our little enterprise, eh? Listen!"

Hawcastle sat down with a grunt of satisfaction.

"It's time! If Almeric had been anything but a clumsy oaf he'd have made her settle it weeks ago."

The woman turned her dark eyes upon him with a flash.

"You are invidious, mon ami. My affair is not settled. Am I a clumsy oaf too?"

The earl laughed quietly.

"No, Helene. Your little American is so in love with you that if you asked him suddenly, 'Horace, is this day or night?' he would answer, 'It's Helene.' But he's too shy to speak. You're a woman; you can't press matters. But Almeric's a man; he can. He can urge an immediate marriage, which means an immediate settlement and a direct one."

Mme. de Champigny picked up a silver fork from the table and examined it carefully.

"It will not be small—that settlement? You have decided what sum?"

Hawcastle looked up sharply and nodded with decision.

"I have—a hundred and fifty thousand pounds!"

From the countess came a gasp of astonishment.

"My friend! Will she?" And she turned and stared at the room where the piano was still playing. Hawcastle laughed grimly.

"Not for Almeric, but to be the Countess of Hawcastle. My ancient sister-in-law hasn't been her chaperon for a year for nothing. And, by Jove, she hasn't done it for nothing, either!"

And this time he laughed quite heartily as with a grim appreciation of the jest.

"But she's deserved all I shall allow her," he resumed. "You see, it was she who found these people. Indeed, we might say that both you and I owe her something. Even a less captious respectability than Lady Creech's might have looked askance at the long 'friendship' that has existed between us. Yet she has always countenanced us, my dear," though she must have guessed a great many things. And she will help us to urge an immediate marriage. You know as well as I do that unless it is immediate there'll be the devil to pay. Don't miss that essential. Something must be done at once. We're at the breaking point, if you like the words—a most damnable insolvency."

As he finished speaking the immaculate and vacuous Almeric himself strolled into the terrace and, putting up his glass as he came forward, said softly:

"Hello, governor! Howdy, countess!"

With an affectation of boredom he sprawled into a chair and tapped at his boots with his crop.

"Out riding a bit ago, you know, with Miss Granger-Simpson. Rippin' girl, isn't she?"

His father leaned across the table with tension in every line of him.

"Go on!" he said anxiously, and Almeric looked up at him with a silly smile.

"Didn't stop with her, though."

"Why not?" demanded the earl an-

"She accepted me."

grily.

"A sort of man in the village got me to look at a bull terrier pup," Almeric went on, with a yawn. "Wonderful little beast for points. Jolly luck, isn't it? He has got a head on him"—

Hawcastle interrupted savagely.

"We'll concede his tremendous advantage over you in that respect," he said and threw the cigar he had just lighted into the coffee cup.

"Is that all you have to tell us?" implored the countess, with a dramatic gesture, leaning forward. Almeric looked up with surprise.

"Oh, no!" he said. "She accepted me."

The earl dropped into a chair with a sigh of relief, and the countess clasped her hands ecstatically.

"Enfin! Brava! And will she let it be soon?"

Again Almeric stifled a yawn.

"I dare say there'll be no row about that," he replied. "You see, I've made her awf'ly happy."

"On my soul, I believe you're right," said Hawcastle, "and thank God you are!"

Rising, he walked up and down the terrace and then turned quickly.

"Here's her brother," he said softly. "Attention now!"

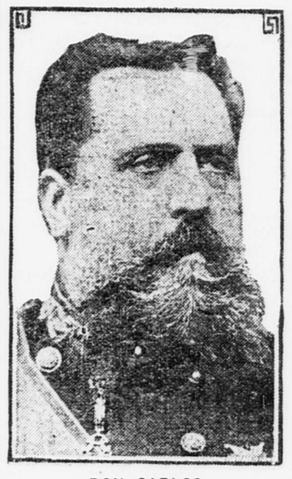
Don Carlos Claimed to Be the Rightful Ruler of Spain

PASSES AWAY IN LOMBARDY

Father Abdicated In His Favor In 1868 and Arms Were Taken Up by His Adherents and Pretender Entered Spain In 1873, the "Four Years' War" Being the Result—Joined Russian Army After Defeat

Rome, July 19.—Don Carlos, the pretender to the Spanish throne, died at Varese, in Lombardy, at the age of 61. He had been ill for a long time, suffering from apoplexy.



DON CARLOS.

Don Carlos, Duke of Madrid, claimed under the special law of succession established by Philip V to be the legitimate king of Spain by the title of Charles VII. His father, Don Juan, was the brother of Don Carlos, Charles VI, known as the Count de Montemolin, in support of whose claims the Carlist risings of 1848, 1855 and 1860 were organized.

In October, 1868, Don Juan abdicated in favor of his son, whose standard was raised in the north of Spain in 1872 by some of his partisans. Don Carlos himself, after addressing a proclamation to the inhabitants of Catalonia, Aragon and Valentia, calling upon them to take up arms in his cause, made his entry into Spain July 15, 1873, announcing that he came for the purpose of saving the country.

Then followed the "four years' war" which ended when Tolosa, the last stronghold of the Carlists, fell, and its defenders sought refuge on French territory. In the meantime the republic came to an end and the eldest son of ex-Queen Isabelle returned to Spain as Alfonso XII.

Don Carlos passed through France to London after his defeat and traveled in the United States and Mexico. In 1877 he joined the Russian army in Turkey and fought at Plevna, being decorated by the emperor for charging the enemy at the head of his own escort.

Within recent years there has been a recurrence of the Carlist agitation in Catalonia and other districts which was attributed to the influence of Don Jaime, the only son of Don Carlos, but these movements have proved to be of little importance.

Don Jaime Won't Give Up

Paris, July 19.—Don Jaime, who is now in Paris, in an interview, gave the impression that he would follow the policies of his father, Don Carlos. He said he would make the Carlist movement more modern, more aggressive.

A QUALIFYING "IF"

Indicates That Adana Murderers Will Go Unpunished

Constantinople, July 19.—The report of the court martial on the Adana massacres is a strong denunciation of the incapacity and apathy of the vali and other local authorities. The report concludes as follows:

Fifteen persons already have been hanged, 800 deserve death, 15,000 deserve hard labor for life and 80,000 deserve minor sentences. If it is decided to proceed with the punishment, we will cordon the town and deal expeditiously with the matter."

In view, however, of the general reconciliation between the opposing elements, the report recommends that general amnesty be made the occasion of a national fete.

Deer Invade Portland Streets

Portland, Me., July 19.—Game wardens are looking for the parties responsible for the killing of a deer which run about the streets of Portland until he was cornered and run to death in a yard. Another deer was caught alive in a back yard and is in a local park enclosure.

Quintuple Drowning Accident

Cincinnati, July 19.—A gasolene launch carrying a pleasure party from a day's outing up the river capsized off Coal Haven, Ky., on the Ohio river, five of the occupants drowning. Four others were rescued by rivermen.

GENTLEMEN—I wish to tell you of a fact which I regard as very remarkable. All my life I have been troubled with a quantity of dandruff on my head and in my hair. About a year ago I got a bottle of Sage and Sulphur and used it just once, expecting of course to continue the treatment, but neglected it for several days, and before I got around to use it again I found I was completely cured, my scalp remaining clean and smooth with not a trace of dandruff ever since. THE SATURDAY BALL GAME pitched good ball in all but one inning, when Quincy got three runs and practically won the game.

It all happened in the seventh and Al Strobel was the hero of the occasion, his two-bagger to left centre doing the trick. With one out Murray beat out an infield hit, and went to second when White booted Adams' grounder all over the lot, allowing the rangy twirler to reach first in safety. Burke struck out and there were two down. Lonergan was safe when Clancy fumbled his hot shot, and the bases were full.

It was up to Strobel. Thompson was working hard and had Allie in for two strikes and three balls. The next ball came over to Strobel's liking. Crack went the bat against the ball, away it sailed, while Murray and Adams scampered home. Strobel landed safe on second.

This put Quincy ahead 3 to 2, and just to make it good measure Lonergan scored one more on Courtney's scratch hit. Hoye was hit filling the bases, and Sheehan was at bat. Sheehan made a great try to do something, but his long fly was nailed by Maley and the side was out.

Quincy's first run came in the second session. Hoye got a life on Clancy's error, with one out, and was sacrificed to second. Redonnet, the new first baseman, showed his class, by cracking out a double over the centre-fielder's head scoring Hoye. Murray struck out.

Randolph didn't score until the fifth, when she got two tallies. Maley opened with a hit, and after Brennan had flied out to centre, Shaw beat out an infield hit. Then Thompson singled filling the bases. Clancy lifted a high fly back of first, which Redonnet made a sensational catch of. However Maley was able to score on the catch, as Redonnet threw wild to the plate to catch him. Strobel's error on Sullivan's grounder allowed Shaw to tally. White skied to Sheehan for the third out. Their third run came in the ninth, on Strobel's error and hits by Brennan and Shaw. The score:

DISPUTE ENDS GAME.

The Makaria-Copeland game at Merrymount park on Saturday ended rather suddenly in the fifth inning, when the Makaria team left the field and refused to play. The Makaria players say that a Copeland player who was struck by a batted ball went from first to third, and refused to go back when ordered to do so by the umpire, who according to all recognized rules of the game, called the man out. This with other disagreeable incidents which were forced into the game was enough to call it off as far as Makaria was concerned .The Copeland club players say that the Makaria team refused to abide by the decision of the umpire. The score at the time of the dispute, stood 3 to 2 in favor of Copeland.

It is too bad that satisfactory umpires cannot be secured for games in which there is so much rivalry. It would be better for the teams to chip in and pay a good experienced arbitrator to run the game, and let both sides abide by his decisions. All the Boston newspapers have experienced men who might come out here and umpire these games. Such men would be impartial and the game would go off all right. There never was a game between two local teams that was not full of kicking over the umpiring. This disgusts those that attend the games and has a tendency to hurt the game. It does seem that something could be done to do away with this difficulty.

Mr. G. L. Cole of Wollaston, former manager of the Merrymounts, of the dispute says: "As a disinterested party I believe the captain of the Makaria team was fully justified in taking his team off the field. It was a steady kick from about the first ball pitched and grew worse each inning. The Makarias have a splendid record as clean players and to keep this record they could not do otherwise than leave the field as there seemed no chance of finishing the game."

ATLANTIC "PROS" LOSE.

The Atlantic Professionals of this city were defeated Sunday on Pawtuxet Valley field by the Phenix R. I., team in a 10 inning game, 1-0. Driscoll and Boyle pitched fine ball, each pitcher being hit for three safe ones. A large crowd accompanied the team on the 10.03 train from Boston to Providence where lunch was served at Tafts hotel. After the game the players returned to Providence where they had supper. Several of the players staid in Providence over night, while the remainder came to Boston on the last train. Hughie Duffy, manager of the Providence team of the Eastern league was at the game looking over Jimmy Fay, the Atlantic short stop. He failed to express any opinion of the player, however. The two teams will get together later in the season for the rubber game. The score:

OTHER GAMES.

The record game of the Old Colony league was played Saturday at Taunton, between the Champs and the Stoughton team. The contest went eighteen innings, the Stoughton team finally winning out by the score of 5 to 3. Errors figured prominently in the result. Both Graham and O'Brien, the opposing pitchers, twirled through the entire 18 innings and were strong at the finish. O'Brien is certainly some pitcher all right, this being his second extra inning game in two weeks. Last week he pitched 15 innings against Randolph, winning his own game with a pretty single in the final round. Delback, Taunton's crack first baseman, accepted 26 chances without an error.

Dewey defeated Rockland in an interesting game, the score being 3 to 1. Rudderham was in the box for Dewey and pitched fine ball. This keeps the Dewey team up with the leaders.

Atlantic beat the Neponset Wanderers on the Ward Six playground Saturday 5 to 2. The Neponset boys did not score up to the 7th inning when dumb playing by Wallace let in two runs. Only two hits were made off Driscoll's delivery, while Durant, the visiting box artist, was touched up for ten.

The Bigelows played West Roxbury Saturday at the lawn party of St. Theresa's church, which was in charge of Rev. Julian E. Johnstone, formerly of St. John's church this city. The Bigelows were defeated 5 to 4 in a 10-innings game. Jep Saunders pitched for the local team and showed some of his old time form, striking out 22 men.

HULL 7 ENGINE 4.

The base ball teams of the Hull and Engineering Drafting rooms of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company played an interesting and exciting game at the Fore River grounds on Saturday afternoon.

For the first four innings the game was very close, but in the first of the eighth with a man on second, Thompson ,the speedy shortstop of the Engine team, connected with one of Weston's slants for a single and the fourth run was scored. Then in the same inning with two men on bases Buckley doubled and two runs more came in, though Buckley was caught going to third by the genial Mr. MacBride. Before the fusilade was over the Engineers had annexed five nice juicy runs to their score. The Hull people found Artis somewhat of a puzzle and were only able to score twice, very narrowly escaping a shutout.

For the Hull Division Mr. Percy played a marvellous game at first, while MacBride's stops and throws would have made Lajoie blush with envy.

A feature of the game was the umpiring of Mr. Cantwell of the Government office. He was always willing and ready to hear suggestions from both sides.

For the Engineers the pitching of Artis, the batting of Buckley, Lyon and Thompson ,and the catching of Torrey were the features.

According to Mr. Carruthers of the Hull Division and Mr. Lidback of the Engineers, the score is as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Engine	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	5	1	9	15	4
Hull	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	8	7

Batteries--Artis and Torrey, Weston and Floyd. Two-base hits--Buckly, Lyon and Thompson.

VICTORY FOR PIPERS.

The Fore River Pipe shop team defeated the White Sox Saturday at the Fore River Athletic field, the score being 7 to 5. Chet Foster was in the box for the Pipers and pitching fine ball. He allowed only six hits and struck out 19 men. The score.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R.	H.	E
Fore River	0	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	4	—7	10	3
White Sox	0	0	0	1	1	2	0	1	0	—5	6	3

Batteries: Foster and Richardson, McCue and O'Rourke.

QUINCY IND. BEATEN.

The Quincy Independents went to Norwell Saturday and were beaten in an interesting game by the score of 3 to 1. It was a pitchers' battle all through between Osborne and Barrows, the former having a little better of the argument. Four hits were chalked up against each twirler, but Osborne kept them scattered better. Quincy is the only team that has defeated the Norwell team this year, taking them into camp two weeks ago to the tune of 3 to 1. A rubber game will be played later in the season. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Norwell	0	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	—	3	4	2
Quincy	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	4	4

Batteries, Osborne and Howard; Barrows and Rogers.

YOUTHFUL BURGLARS.

Offices of Two Granite Firms Entered By Boys.

The offices of Deacon Bros. and Williams Bros. granite manufacturers on Centre street were entered by youthful burglars early Saturday morning but little of value was taken however.

At the office of Deacon Bros. the boys got a knife for their trouble. How much more threy would have taken is not known for they were seen and frightened away.

At the office of Williams Bros. they did not secure much of value, but they made a wreck of the inside of the office.

The desk was pried open and the papers torn up and thrown about the room. They got about twenty cents in money and a few stamps.

ELLEN WINS TODAY'S RACE

Second Leg In Challenge Cup Gone to Boston Y. Club

The conditions this morning gave promise of the day being an ideal one for the second race of the series for the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup. The weather was clear and on shore there was a light northerly breeze that whipped round to almost dead east by the time the race was scheduled to start. Outside however, there was considerable more of a breeze but it was not what is called a heavy racing day. Should the wind hold light the Ellen may be looked upon to make a good showing.

Today's race was scheduled to start at 12 o'clock noon and the course selected was a triangular one. This gave the boats a run, a reach and a beat.

While there were many interesting spectators at Monday's race there was a much larger crowd present today. There was a general complaint on the part of the spectators however, because there were no distinguishing marks on the yachts as it was next to impossible from the club house to tell which was which. But two of the boats bear any distinguishing mark and it was a matter of guess work largely on the part of the spectators to know which boat was leading.

Promptly on the hour of noon the warning gun was fired from the Emeline, the judges' boat, and five minutes later the preparatory gun sounded At 12.10 there was a dull boom. This was the starting signal.

In Monday's race the Ellen and Wolf got confused in reading the signals which was the cause of the handicap they got. Not so today, however, for they were right on deck manoeuvering for position at the start. start.

The wind had freshened somewhat at the start so that the yachts were sent away in a wholesail breeze over the course of ten miles. The race had not progressed far however before the wind flatened out. This was just what the Ellen wanted for her strong hold is in a light breeze. She soon forced herself ahead of the fleet and when the boats crossed the line the first time round she was leading. She continued to hold her lead on the second turn and the onlookers at the club house picked her out as the winner of today's race. On the last tack from Harry's rocks to the starting line the Ellen was still leading and unless the wind should pick up wonderfully it was a foregone conclusion that the second leg in the cup would be captured by the Boston Yacht club.

The Spokane was the first boat to cross the line at the start and was closely followed by the Ellen, Sally and Wolf the latter two crossing neck and neck. The Crooner was the last to cross.

When the boats crossed the line the first time round the Ellen was leading the Wolf by 19 seconds while the Spokane was third, the Crooner fourth and the Sally last. The time at the crossing was:

Ellen	1-18-23
Wolf	1-18-42
Spokane	1-19-50
Crooner	1-20-01
Sally	1-20-14

By this time the wind had flattened out into almost a dead calm and the Ellen had no difficulty in keeping her lead at first although it was seen that the Crooner was pushing her hard. The Quincy boat was not able to overcome the lead however and the Ellen crossed the line at the finish with a lead of 2 minutes and 8 seconds over the Crooner with the Wolf 1 minute nd 7 seconds behind the Crooner. The elapsed time at the finish was as follows:

Ellen	2-34-10
Crooner	2-36-18
Wolf	2-37-25
Sally	2-37-50
Spokane	2-40-07

FOWLER—GOODRICH.

A pretty noon wedding took place at St. Chrysostom's church Monday when Miss Edith Goodrich, daughter of Mrs. Selina Goodrich of Jamaica Plain became the bride of Albert Linde Fowler of Wollaston.

Mr. Fowler is on the staff of the Boston Transcript and is one of Wollaston's popular young men. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fowler of Phillips street.

The ceremony which was a quiet one and attended by only the immediate families was performed by Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, pastor of the church . The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Arthur Robinson of Boston. The wedding march was played by Mme. Beale Morey of Bethany church, Quincy and Mrs. Bertha Coupal contributed a vocal solo.

After a luncheon at the Fowler residence, the couple left amid a shower of confetti and good wishes to spend their honeymoon in Maine. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will make their home in Atlantic where they will be joined by Mrs. Fowler's mother, Mrs. Goodrich.

THAT MAKARIA-COPELAND GAME.

Editor Daily Ledger:

For the benefit of the people of Quincy who are interested in baseball we feel that we should give our side of the story in regard to the game played Saturday which ended in a dispute as published by your paper in Monday's edition. If as stated in your paper, we feel that there were no "disagreeable incidents" which forced the Makaria team to call the game off. The man who was hit by a batted ball did not refuse to be called out when ordered by the umpire but obeyed his instructions in spite of the fact that the ball did not hit him. We want to state that the umpire knew absolutely nothing about the game.

In reply to G. F. Cole of Wollaston former Manager of the Merrymounts. We also have a splendid record as clean players but we fail to see the necessity of playing ball under circumstances that prevailed last Saturday. The seat of the argument was caused by the decision of the umpire when he declared a fair ball which was foul by thirty feet and which could be seen by all those who desired to see it, allowing Makaria to score its two and only runs of the game. As to clean baseball, do the fans declare it so when the catcher deliberately holds the bat of the opposing batter?

The Copeland Club were never known to be quitters in any game under any conditions and never were known to leave a ball field before the game was ended as was done by the Makaria team and are also willing to play the Makaria team at any time and on any field.

THE OPENING RACE FOR CUP

Five of the Fastest Sonder Boats Competing

The first of the series of sonder class races for the Quincy challenge cup was sailed Monday off the Quincy yacht club at Houghs Neck. The Wolf representing the Eastern yacht club, gets the honor of winning the first race of the series this year. Last year the cup was won by Charles F. Adams 2d, sailing the Manchester II for the Quincy yacht club. Early this year the local club received challenges from four Massachusetts clubs, all of which were represented in Monday's race. The boats in the race this week are Ellen, Boston Y. C., sailed by C. P. Curtis; Sally X, Corinthian Y. C., sailed by Lawrence W. Percival; Wolf, Eastern Y. C., sailed by Caleb Loring; Spokane III, Beverly Y. C., sailed by Louis M. Stackpole; and the defender, the Crooner, sailed by Charles F. Adams, 2d.

The defender was picked as the most likely winner, but all the challengers finished ahead of her. The race was one of the best ever sailed in local waters, the result being undecided up to the very end.

The northwest wind that was blowing, caused the judges to pick Course 9, which gave the boats a run before the wind and a beat back. The start was in West Gut and the first turning mark in Hingham channel off Bumkin island, the course being twice around. The wind was light at the start, but in a few minutes a squall came and gave the boats plenty of air a while. Then it died out again, only to come back shortly in the form of another squall. It then leared again and remained light until the last beat home, when it freshened into a whitcap breeze and held to the finish. Through all the squalls, however, the direction of the wind remained the same.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the preparatory gun was fired and at 11.05 the warning gun sounded. Five minutes later the start was made and the boats were off, all but the Wolf and the Sally X, which were late in getting to the mark. The latter was 3 1-2 minutes late and the Wolf a half a minute later.

The Ellen was the first over the line, followed closely by the Spokane III and the Crooner, the latter having the best position. The Ellen and the Crooner kept close to the Peddocks shore, while the Spokane sailed farther out. She began to buck the tide on this move, however, and soon went over and joined the other two. In the meantime the Sally and the Wolf were having a hard time to come about in the light air and strong tide, but finally came across the line, the Sally in the lead. The first squall struck these two before the others, and they began to bear down on the three leaders. It was a pretty sight to see the five going before that heavy gale with mainsails out on one side and the big balloon jibs out on the other.

The Ellen turned the mark first and led all the way round until within a shore distance of the finish. Here the heavy weather showed to advantage for the Wolf, which came strong and passed over the line a winner by a few seconds. The Ellen was second, the Sally third, the Spokane fourth, while the Crooner was the last to cross to the line.

The sailing of the Sally was the cause of much surprise, for after the first turn at Bunkin she went off by herself, taking a long port hitch away over by the Hull Y. C. She did the same thing the second time round and it looked as if she was out of it all together. But she came strong on the long tack back and finished a good third. The Crooner took a long hitch to starboard coming up to get the outgoing tide from Fore River. She got the tide but did not reckon that Great Hill would shut off the wind. Hence when she came about she did not get the full benefit of the strong north west wind, with the result that she finished last. The heavy weather, as in last year's races, handicapped the Ellen. As long as the wind held light, she held the lead easily, but the strong wind proved just the thing for the Wolf.

Although the Crooner which is defending the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup did not win the opening race the members of the Quincy Yacht club are nowise discouraged.

Of course they would have been glad if the Crooner could have landed three straight races.

Monday's race in many ways was a peculiar one. It was participated in by five of the crack sonder class boats four of which were pitted against one. It was a case of a combination of the four trying to beat the one. Charlie Adams however is more than a match for the four and may show them a thing or two before the week is out.

The weather Monday was flukey and the Wolf got the benefit of the squall which helped her along into the winning position.

All witnesses of the race say that it was one of the prettiest races ever sailed in Quincy waters and it was due to a combination of circumstances that the Quincy boat lost.

Both the Wolf and Crooner are heavy weather boats, the Wolf more so perhaps than the Crooner, but with a strong steady breeze today the Crooner should win out.

It is interesting to note what the other papers say of the race.

The Post says: "While it was a good, square win for the Wolf, the race in itself was rather fluky owing to the many changes in the strength of the breeze. First it would be light, then a squall would break and then it would be light once more. In the course of the race two squalls shed their wind and rain upon the racers, and at the finish the breeze piped up quite hard from the northwest."

The Journal says: "The Eastern Yacht Club scored first for the Quincy cup, and the Crooner, the yacht expected to take the cup home, finished last in the first race of the regatta . The Wolf, representing the Eastern Yacht Club, made good all the predictions of her ability to weather strong breezes.

She sailed and won as hot a race as has been held in Massachusetts waters for a long time. She crossed the line 57 seconds ahead of the Ellen, the second boat, but this was on actual time. As the boats came to the line it was a great race. Never before has such racing by the Sonderklasse boats been witnessed.

All the boats exhibited similar qualities, and the event developed into a battle of skippers. The run to the finish, during which the Wolf went into the lead in the last half mile, was the prettiest yachting spectacle of the season.

The yachts encountered all-kinds of breezes on their way out. They started in a light wind, which was soon blowing almost a gale. It was a thorough test of the yachts and the result was therefore all the more a disappointment to the friends of the favorite.

The Crooner, representing the Quincy Yacht Club, suffered the humiliation of bringing up the rear at the finish, on its own waters. The closing stages of the race found conditions supposedly favorable for the Quincy yacht, but here again expert opinion seems to have been at fault."

The Globe says: "All the challengers finished abead of the defender, but so close was the race between the five boats that it was not until the last five minutes of the contest that the winner could be determined.

While the northwest breeze held true from the start to the finish, its strength was variable. At the start the air was light; then a thunder squall gave a heavy breeze for perhaps 15 minutes; then the breeze lightened again; another squall gave sharp puffs for a few minutes; then the breeze dropped again, to finally spring up to a white-capping breeze for the finish. Accompanying each squall was a good heavy rainfall which drenched all the crews as well as the judges.

As in all races sailed in these waters, the tide, which runs with considerable force in the bay, played its part today. But fortunately it neither helped nor handicapped any of the racers, except at the very start."

Scat, you Wolf!

Charles F. Adams 2d was 5th yesterday but we all hope he'll be 1st at the end.

The feelings of the Quincy yachtsmen may be summed up in three words: disappointed but hopeful.

And to think that such a lovely looking boat would sport such an ugly name!

The watermelons coming to the market this year are bigger and better than ever before. Not even Mr. Aldrich can make the consumer utterly dispair.

The Government of China does not desire to lose any chances. Christian missionaries, as well as Confucian priests, have been ordered to pray for rain.

South Carolina tea wants a protective tariff. Do the people of that State ever drink any?

Those touching and beautiful little poems on the joys of summer, written by the poets last winter, are making their appearance now in the magizines.

Spain has just inaugurated a system of parcels post and postal savings-banks. The more progressive nations are all falling into line.

When the corporation tax goes into effect Mr. Payne expects the Annanias Club to be the largest organization in America.

The best evidence that there is nothing wrong with business is that it improves while Congress lingers over the tariff. If thus handicapped by talk it advances, think what strides it will make with the adverse condition removed.

Yesterday was a day of many moods; from sunshine to showers, from showers to squally winds and from winds to sunshine and calm again. It was a fine day for trying out a yacht and no boat could complain for the lack of her own particular weather.

The yacht race for the Quincy cup yesterday was a disappointment to many who gathered at the club house to view the contest. The race was started in West Gut, near Peddock's island, and was a long way from the club house. Then, again, only two yachts carried numbers by which they could be distinguished. It would be a matter of great convenience to those who cannot go out in boats to view the races, if the yachts would wear a number on their mainsails and the identifications be posted in the yacht club house.

Monday's Ledger reported a Wollaston expressman as changing the location of his stable from Wollaston to Montclair because of dwelling houses being erected in close proximity to the stable. They do things differently in Ward One, stables are allowed in the very door yards of surrounding houses, owners of which are helpless and have to put up with the nuisance or get out themselves. These stables are livery, express and private and with the rapid growth of Ward One should be relegated to places where they are not a menace to the health and comfort of residents.

A massive stone was taken from a Quincy quarry yesterday and will form the shaft of a monument which the state of Massachusetts will erect to the memory of the union soldiers who fought in the department of the Gulf. The stone for the shaft, as lifted out of the Hitchcock quarry, weighed 25 tons and was lifted a height of 150 feet. The monument is to be cut by the firm of J. N. White & Sons, and Quincy will be prominent all around at the dedication of the monument which will take place in November in Baton Rouge, the capital of Louisiana. On how many southern battlefields are Quincy granite monuments standing like sentries above the graves of the Union dead?

THE FIRST CUP RACE.

The first race for the Quincy challenge cup was sailed off Houghs Neck yesterday afternoon and was won by the yacht Wolf, representing the Eastern yacht club of Marblehead and owned by Caleb Loring. The Wolf was designed by W. Starling Burgess and beat four other boats, all worthy rivals. The hopes of all Quincy yachtsmen were centred on the Crooner, a Boardman boat owned and sailed by Ex-Mayor Charles Francis Adams 2d. That the Crooner did not win was a disappointment to many in this city but it is some satisfaction to know that the Wolf won in one of the best, cleanest and fairest races ever seen in local waters. Yachting is one of the finest and cleanest of sports and has been conducted honestly and squarely by the Quincy yacht club. There is no yachting club along the whole coast that is more jealous of its honor as a racing organization than the Quincy yacht club; hence, it is safe to say that every member of that club congratulated the owner of the Wolf yesterday on winning such a splendid race under conditions that were nicely suited to all the boats.

That the race was a close one; far closer at the finish than at the start, may be realized by the final summary which shows that only one minute and 29 seconds elapsed from the time the first boat crossed the line a winner till the last boat passed the judges' mark. Up to within a few hundred feet of the judges' boat it looked like anybody's race and the Crooner seemed to have a good show until she ran so close in towards the Houghs Neck shore looking for a favorable current that the towering headland of Great Hill shut off her needed wind to a more or less extent. However, it is no time now for excuses. The race was sailed fairly and the Wolf won a well-earned victory. Congratulations to her owner and the club she represents—but look out for the Crooner; our hopes are with her.

WHY THIS DESTRUCTION.

It is hard to understand the motive which impels boys to go into a man's business office, such as was recorded in last night's Ledger, and destroy papers and other things of no value to anybody but the owner. Only a few weeks ago a derrick was smashed and monuments ruined by boys. Every week, despite the arraignement before the court of the suspected boys, the work of destruction goes on with a vengence. What is the reason for this continued campaign against other people's property that is being waged by the boys of our city? After the discovery of every crime the police summon boys into court and their wrong doing is taken judicial notice of. It would seem that there ought to be a letup in this kind of work but no cessation from this particularly reprehensible kind of crime is apparent as yet.

Is the fault in the judicial treatment of the offenders? Is the probation system lacking something necessary to teach the proper lesson or does the trouble go back further to the homes of the boys? Those interested in the probation system state and restate that the parents of these boys are, for the most part, to blame. A general disinclination on the part of parents to believe their boys guilty of anything but gentlemanly conduct is said to be the first proposition that the officers of the law meet with. And, secondly, when such boys are known to their parents as being guilty, they are defended by the parents and in this way are encouraged along the wrong track. This may be all true but it does seem as if the courts have the remedy somewhere once boys are proven guilty of such work as above mentioned. It certainly seems hard that innocent people have to suffer destruction to their property while those in authority blame the parents and the parents seem willing to accept the accusation.

INCOME TAX.

The overwhelming vote, by which the Income Tax amendment to the Constitution of the United States, passed the House of Representatives, a vote of 317 against 14, shows how strong a hold the principle of this tax has upon the people. The millionaire Senators, and others of like character, claim that people who have no incomes are very anxious to have a tax placed on those who have incomes.

It is a well known fact that those who have large property interests are a greater expense to the Government and get more favors therefrom than those who have small property interests, and it is only just and right that large and moderate sized incomes, should pay an income tax as a proper and just means of bearing their share of the burden of supporting the Government.

The proposition to amend the Constitution of the United States enabling Congress to tax incomes was proposed by President Taft himself, and he is giving his personal attention to the matter, which means that this matter having passed the House and Senate by the requisite two-thirds vote, will be ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union, when it becomes a part of our Constitution, as provided. This is one of the greatest victories that the people have ever won and the credit for the same is largely and almost wholly due to the wisdom, patriotism and honesty of President Taft.

The present tariff bill embodies a provision taxing the net incomes of corporations 2 per cent. that are earning $5000 and over, but as a general income tax has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, it is now necessary to amend that immortal document in order that Congress may levy such a tax.

President Taft also took an active part in shaping the actions of the Conference Committee in reconstructing the tariff bill that has passed the House and which later passed the Senate in different shape, and the President is entitled to a large share of the credit in securing a revision downward of the tariff which was understood to be the inevitable result of his election.

President Taft has convinced the people of this country that when he makes a promise in the campaign, that he proposes to carry that promise out when he is entrusted with the power to do so. The beneficial results that will follow the passage of the new tariff are already in evidence and signs of a reviving prosperity and healthy business conditions are in evidence everywhere.

The manufacturers are now working on full time, the railroads are using all of their cars, giving orders for the building of many new ones, improving and extending their lines and the great steel trust has more orders than it can fill, so the wheels of prosperity are beginning to "get busy" as they were before the panic of 1907.

SETTLED DOWN LIKE A BIRD

Latham Airship Drops In Middle of English Channel

AVIATOR IS NOT EVEN WET

Found Calmly Perched In Saddle Enjoying a Smoke When Torpedo Boat Destroyer Rushed to the Rescue—Failure of Motor When Journey From France to England Had Been Half Completed

Calais, July 20.—Herbert Latham, the French aviator, watched by two nations, made a daring attempt to cross the English Channel in a monoplane, but the airship fell 500 feet into the sea.

When the French torpedo boat destroyer Harpon rushed to the rescue, the officers were amazed to find Latham seated in the saddle above water, and calmly smoking a cigaret. The air space of the wings had kept the machine afloat, so that the aviator was not even wet.

Latham immediately announced that he will try again as soon as the monoplane is repaired.

The failure of the motor is attributed to a bad carbureter on the monoplane which, when 500 feet in the air, began to descend. When the machine was 200 feet above the water Latham shut off the power and the machine glided down gently, alighting on the waves with hardly a splash.

Latham got away under perfect conditions from the top of a chalk cliff at Sangatee, and had gone half the distance, sixteen miles, when the motor slowed, causing the descent.

The machine used by Latham suggests a bird. It has two rigid wings a foot thick at the center and tapering into flexibile fins designed to give stability. The space between the two layers of canvas is watertight, and was calculated to insure safety should the machine fall into the water as it did.

The watchers on both shores had an anxious hour after the machine was lost to view in a thin veil of fog on the French side. The authorities at Dover reported that the machine had not been sighted and the apprehension was not relieved until the semaphore at Calais reported that the Harpon was returning with Latham, uninjured, aboard.

On landing the aeronaut was given a frantic reception and compelled to kiss dozens of girls who threw their arms around his neck.

FIFTY-FIVE MINUTES IN AIR

Orville Wright Makes Two Successful Flights at Fort Myer

Washington, July 20.—Orville Wright made two very successful flights in the Wright aeroplane at Fort Myer, Va., last evening.

The first flight lasted 25 minutes, during which time the aviator circled the parade grounds, a distance of about five-sixths of a mile, 25½ times. The second was for half an hour's duration and 29½ circuits were made.

During the time the flyer was in the air it covered approximately 37 miles. Wilbur Wright declared that it had attained a speed of about 41 miles an hour and a height of 150 feet. He said the machine worked very smoothly, but was not yet in perfect condition. The time of the trials will gradually be lengthened.

TRIES SUICIDE AT 92

Aged Native of Italy Determined to Die In Free America

Philadelphia, July 20.—Despondent because his relatives had declared it as their intention to send him back to Italy, and asserting that when he dies he wants to die in free America, Nickola Narcla, 92 years old, of this city, attempted suicide by stabbing himself four times in the heart with a pair of tailor's shears.

He was hurried to a hospital, where it was said that the heart muscle was punctured. It is not considered likely that he will survive.

Hobson Clears O'Brien

Washingtn, July 20.—Justice was done Ambassador O'Brien in the house by Mr. Hobson (Ala.), who, in a speech last February, charged that the ambassador had endorsed the applications of certain Japanese of San Francisco to sell liquor without a license. Hobson says that he made the charge upon misinformation.

Joy Rider Gets a Year

New York, July 20.—Edward Thompson, a joy-riding chauffeur, who pleaded guilty to taking out his employer's motor car without the owner's consent, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for running down a woman and breaking her arm while out with the car.

Steering Gear Out of Order

Manchester, Mass., July 20.—Through the failure of the steering gear to work, sending the automobile into a tree, Allen Pall and Craig Culberston had remarkable escapes from death here. The car turned completely around, capsized and was wrecked.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff.

CHAPTER VI.

EASY PREY.

USUALLY when a man through inclination or environment decides that the manners of his people will not serve for him and that the customs of the land of his adoption are more applicable to his purpose he outdoes even the natives in his conformation to the existing modes.

Horace Granger-Simpson—the Granger was but a recent innovation due to the belief that Simpson by itself was altogether too hopelessly plebeian to attract even a modicum of attention—had consorted with the gilded youth of several capitals, and his education had progressed to such an extent that the youth of Kokomo would have stoned him instantly upon his arrival at the town depot.

He ambled with a rocking gait, drawn from the guardsmen he had so carefully watched, down the steps of the hotel on to the terrace, and his attire would have attracted notice from a Hindoo idol. He wore spotlessly white flannels, white shoes pipeclayed to a dazzling degree, a thoroughly British straw hat, chamois gloves and a pale blue scarf held together with a massive pearl.

For an instant Mme. la Comtesse looked at him and then, with a little cry of greeting, rushed toward the steps and took both his startled hands.

"Ah, my dear Horace Granger-Seempson!" she said excitedly. "Has your sister told you?"

Horace swallowed once or twice savagely and then made a heroic effort to keep down the radiance that was choking him, made two effectual jabs at his eyes with the handkerchief he took from his sleeve and responded joyfully, though brokenly:

"She has, indeed. I assure you I am quite overcome, my dear friends. Really, I assure you."

With a silvery laugh Mme. de Champigny stepped backward from him, making a little courtesy as she did so. The earl came forward with outstretched hands and grasped one of Horace's between both his own.

"My dear young friend," he said. "Not at all—not at all."

As the remark seemed a trifle ambiguous, Horace looked at him inquiringly, but, reading reassurance in his face, replied instantly:

"I assure you I am. I assure you I am. It's quite overpowering, isn't it?"

With a look of commiseration the countess regarded him and said softly: "Ah, poor M. Horace!"

From his sprawled attitude in the chair the honorable Almeric drawled a protest.

"I say! Don't take it that way, you know. She's very happy."

Horace recovered himself instantly and crossed the terrace quickly to grasp the hand of the bridegroom to be. The fact that it was as limp as a mackerel did not worry him an instant.

"She's worthy of it—she's worthy of it! I know she is! And when will it be, St. Aubyn?" he said.

"Enchanting!" cried the countess enthusiastically. "So clear is his grasp of the case, eh?"

Hawcastle flashed her a glance and turned to Horace.

"Oh, the date?" he said doubtfully. "I dare say within a year—two years"—

There was another little cry of protest from the countess, and the earl glared at her menacingly. Horace started, too, and seemed to be about to enter a positive objection, but he contented himself with saying:

"Oh, but I say, you know, isn't that putting it jolly far off? The thing's settled, isn't it? Why not say a month instead of a year?"

"Ha-hum!" said the earl. "Oh, if you like! I don't know that there is any real objection."

"I do, indeed," returned Horace. "See here! Why not let them marry here in Italy?"

Hawcastle could scarcely conceal his satisfaction, while Mme. de Champigny executed a bit of a pas seul behind Horace's back.

"Ah, the dashing methods of you Americans!" returned the earl smilingly. "You carry things on so! Next you'll be saying, 'Why not here at Sorrento?'"

"Well, and why not, indeed?" asked Horace instantly.

"And then," went on Hawcastle, smiling, "and then it will be, 'Why not within a fortnight?'"

"Right-o!" cried Horace. "And why not within a fortnight?"

Almeric sat up and stared at his noble father and brother-in-law to be, but the earl smiled once more that cheerful smile and waved a deprecating hand.

"Ah, you wonderful people! You are whirlwinds, yet I see no reason why it should not be in a fortnight."

"Oh, here! I say, you know!" interjected Almeric, heaving himself erect in the chair and waving a protesting hand. The earl turned on him instantly.

"As I say, dear boy, why not?" he inquired suavely, and Almeric wilted immediately.

"Just as you say, governor," he answered meekly.

"Enchanting! Brava!" cried the countess, and Hawcastle again turned to the palpitating Horace.

"My son is all impatience," he murmured, fixing the young man with his eye.

"Quite so, quite so!" answered Almeric dazedly, and his father went on: "Shall we dispose of the necessary little details at once—the various minor arrangements, the—er—er—settlement?" and interrupted himself with a friendly laugh and patted Horace upon the back. "Of course as men of the world—our world—you understand there are formalities in the nature of a settlement."

Horace, who was in the seventh heaven of delight at the approaching alliance between one of the ancient houses of Kokomo, Ind., and the honorable line of Hawcastle, broke in eagerly:

"Quite so, of course! I know! Certainly! Perfectly!"

"Then we'll have no difficulty about that, my boy. I'll wire my solicitor tonight and he'll be here within two days," said the earl carelessly. "If you wish to consult your own solicitor you can cable him, of course."

Suddenly Horace seemed taken with a fit of embarrassment.

"The fact is, Lord Hawcastle," he said, "I've a notion that our solicitor—Ethel's man of business, that is—from Kokomo, Ind., where our governor lived—in fact, a sort of guardian of hers—may be here at any time. I've heard from friends that he is coming in this direction."

The word had caught Hawcastle's attention, and he leaped at it.

"A sort of guardian? What sort, eh?" he inquired, seemingly taken aback.

"I really can't say," replied Horace apologetically. "Never saw him that I know of. You see, we've been on this side so many years, and there's been no occasion for this fellow to look us up, but he's never opposed anything Ethel wrote for. He seems to be an easy going old chap."

ONE WEAK SPOT

Most Quincy People have a Weak Part And Too Often It's The Back.

Everyone has a weak spot.
Too often it's a bad back.
Twinges follow every sudden twist.
Dull aching keeps up, day and night.
Tells you the kidneys need help—
For backache is really kidney-ache.
A kidney cure is what you need.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys,
Cure back ache and all urinary ills.
Quincy people recommend the remedy.

Mrs. F. Olsen, living at 197 Whitwell street, Quincy, Mass., says: "For some time my back was weak and gave me a great deal of trouble. I could not sit up in a chair no more than a few minutes at a time without having severe pains in my loins. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells and at times was very nervous. I was becoming discouraged when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, began their use, and received immediate relief. I did not expect to be speedily cured as my condition was so serious, but I can say that the results could not have been more satisfactory. In a few weeks' time my health was restored and I felt better generally. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

For the Ledger.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Editors Quincy Daily Ledger:

Your editorial in Wednesday's issue in regard to the Mayor's veto of the proposed amendment to the Woodward Fund Ordinance ought not to go unanswered. It completely ignores the vital provisions of the amendment.

The present ordinance has been in force ever since Quincy became a city. In 1900, while Mr. Bryant was President of the City Council, a committee of representative citizens was appointed to investigate the management of the fund. They found that loans had been made in violation of all sound business judgment and recommended that the law governing similar investments by Savings Banks should apply to all investments by the Board. They further found that a change in the Board was necessary in order to remove it from politics.

Last year on my motion a special committee of three were appointed to investigate the management of the Fund. The committee consisted of Mr. Alexander Falconer, now one of the principal assessors, Mr. Robert J. Teasdale, and myself. The immediate occasion of my motion was the refusal of the City Clerk, who is also clerk of the Board, to allow me, as a member of the City Council, to see the books of the Fund. The conditions we found were described fully in our report to the Council. Many of the loans and investments had been made in violation of ordinary business judgment. One loan of $3000 had been made on an unsecured personal note, which, by the way, is still outstanding although it is on a demand note. Regular meetings of the Board were not held, and some loans were made without the knowledge of some of the members. In our report we made the following observation:—

"That political considerations have entered into the making of some of the loans is only too apparent from even a cursory examination of the names of the borrowers."

In consequence of our findings we were unanimously of the opinion that a change should be made and we reported an order amending the ordinance. This was ordered to a second reading at the last meeting of the year and was then referred to this year's Council, objection having been raised by the City Solicitor.

Briefly this order provided:

1. For an active, continuing Board consisting of three citizens appointed at first for one, two and three years respectively, and after that each for a term of three years, the appointment to be made by the Mayor subject to the approval of the City Council. The City Clerk and City Treasurer were also to be members ex-officio, the former to keep the records, and the latter to act as treasurer of the Fund.

2. That Savings Bank regulations in regard to investments should apply, as recommended by the Committee of 1900.

3. That loans should be made only on written application signed by the applicant and approved in writing by a majority of the members of the Board.

4. That a special committee of three be appointed by the President of the City Council annually to examine into the management of the Fund as recommended by Dr. Woodward in his will.

At the beginning of this year the matter was referred to the Ordinance Committee of which I am not a member, and my only connection with it was to appear one evening by request before the Committee to tell what I knew regarding the Fund. The City Solicitor as law officer of the City was present, and at his suggestion and on advice, the Mayor was substituted on the proposed new Board in place of the City Clerk, and the Mayor and City Treasurer were made active members of the Board, although under the Special Committee's proposed amendment the City Clerk and City Treasurer were given no voice in the management of the Fund. The Committee, after considering the matter for nearly six months, drafted an order with the assistance of the City Solicitor and this was passed by the City Council and sent to the Mayor for his approval. With the exception of the proposed change in the Board the provisions of the order were practically the same as reported by the special committee of last year. Section 6 provided that all investments shall conform with the laws of the Commonwealth governing similar investments by Savings Banks, the application to be in writing approved by a majority of the members of the Board, and certified as to title by the City Solicitor. Section 7 provided for a committee of three to be appointed annually by the President of the City Council with full authority to examine the Funds and to inspect the books and papers of the Board, and to confer with the Board. Section 8 established a form for application for loans similar to that used by Savings Banks.

This order was vetoed by the Mayor last Monday, the veto being accompanied by a message apparently written by the City Solicitor. The members of the Committee with whom I have spoken inform me that he approved the proposed amendment in form and substance and that they did not report the order until they understood that they had secured his approval. The principal objections of the Mayor do not apply to the order reported by last year's special committee of which I was a member and which order I assisted in drafting but result from the changes made by the Ordinance Committee this year with the assistance of the City Solicitor. It is certainly unfortunate that the City Solicitor did not discover these objections before the order left the Committee Room.

The Mayor in his message urges closer relations between the Fund and the City Council than contemplated by the proposed amendment, but it is hardly possible to conceive of a closer relation than that created by having the Board composed of citizens appointed by the Mayor subject to the approval of the Council, and having the management of the Fund and the loan applications subject at all times to inspection by the City Council.

In your editorial you speak of a possible deadlock in the appointment of citizens as members of the Board. All appointments by the Governor of Massachusetts are so made and even the members of the President's Cabinet, at Washington, are appointed subject to approval by the Senate and yet we do not hear of any deadlocks, but we do know that better appointments are made than could otherwise be obtained.

Your editorial resurrects the bogey of forfeiture of the Fund to Dartmouth College. If the public generally knew how the Fund is being managed they would realize that there is far more danger of the forfeiture to Dartmouth college because of mismanagement of the fund than could possibly result from the proposed changes of the ordinance. The will expressly provides for forfeiture of the fund in case of mismanagement and all efforts to change the ordinance have been made with a view to prevent that very contingency. Whether these proposed changes indicate any intention to play "a game of politics," as intimated in your editorial, is a question which should be decided with these facts in mind. That they do show a fixed purpose to put the Fund on a sound financial basis free from politics is too evident to argue and that such a change must be made in the near future in order to preserve the Fund intact is undoubted.

There is a general feeling that politics are still as apparent in the management of the Fund now as they have been in the past and as they will continue to be until the ordinance is revised. Some explanation ought to be made why certain excessive loans have not been reduced, and why the unsecured loan of $3000 on a demand note has not been paid although the special committee was assured that it would be paid before the first of last February.

FOR COMMANDER KEY.

In connection with the presentation on Old Home Week at Salem of the gifts of the citizens contributed by a dime subscription for the scout cruiser Salem, and which consist of a silver service and a bronze reproduction of the city seal for the ship and a talking machine for the men, a unique gift will be presented to Commander Key, the first commander of the Salem. The Salem was built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., of Quincy.

When the dime contribution was being made, Walter C. Addison of Danvers brought in a ten-cent piece on which he had painted a faithful representation of the cruiser. Hearing of it Daniel O'Brien contributed for a frame a piece of wood which he had secured in a sand fort at Mantanzas during the Spanish war. A. Reid, another Spanish war veteran and a cabinet maker, turned this wood into a frame so arranged that both sides of the dime are visible under glass, and this little keepsake is to be presented to Captain Key when the formal presentation of the gifts to the cruiser is made on July 27.

PERFORMED NO SERVICES

But Heney Recieved $23,000 From Uncle Sam In 1908

FRANK ADMISSION BY TAWNEY

It Stirs Up a Heated Discussion In House Appropriations Committee, During Which Sarcastic Remarks Are Indulged In—Employment of Special Counsel Declared to Have Grown Into an Expensive Fad

Washington, July 20.—That Francis J. Heney, special counsel of the department of justice and also assistant prosecutor in the so-called graft cases in San Francisco, received from the government last year $23,000 for which he performed no service, was the frank admission of Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee in the house.

"How much did Heney receive during the year 1908?" demanded Mr. Murphy (Rep., Mo.) "and what service did he perform?"

"He received $23,000 and performed no services for the government whatever during that year," replied Tawney.

Subsequently Tawney said: "As a matter of fact Heney has not performed any active service for the last three years. He was appointed Nov. 7, 1903, his active service continuing for about three years, and for this he received in all $69,000."

Mr. Tawney stated, however, that Heney's salary had nothing to do with the $27,000 deficiency for the department of justice for which provision is made in the urgent deficiency bill. Part of the deficiency, he said, was due to the employment of special counsel to prosecute the tobacco trust.

Mr. Bennet (N. Y.) added that the prosecution of the turpentine trust was also responsible for part of it.

Mr. Clark (Mo.) denounced the appointment of incompetent United States district attorneys, necessitating, as he said, the employment of special counsel. The practice had grown into a fad, he said, and a very expensive fad.

Mr. Mann (Ills.) said Heney needed no defense. "The only people opposed to him," he remarked, "were those who sympathize with some of those who have been accused, if not convicted, of graft."

Mr. Burke (Pa.) called the Illinoisian to order, saying that Mann's admission that Heney needed no defense disposed of the necessity of consuming the house's time.

"I am glad," said Mann, "that only one member, and he from the great and pure state of Pennsylvania, is opposed to Heney."

Smarting under Mann's sarcastic reference to Pennsylvania as "a great and pure" state, Burke charged that he had been placed in the position of denouncing a competent and earnest public officer. The suggestion of Mann he characterized as gratuitous.

"But I want to say," he remarked with some warmth, "that when the great and pure state of Pennsylvania wishes to have its politics or its moral tone improved it will not go to the gentleman from Illinois, the state of Illinois or the city of Chicago, from which the gentleman hails."

An amendment by Mr. Cullop (Ind.) prohibiting the payment of any part of the deficiency appropriation toward the employment of special counsel to assist in extraditing Delavan Smith of the Indianapolis News or Joseph Pulitzer of the New York World, in connection with the government's libel suits growing out of the Panama canal purchase, was voted down.

RIFLE SHOOTING RECORD SMASHED

Midshipman Scores 335 Out of Possible 350

Wakefield, Mass., July 20.—A new world's record for rifle shooting was made at the Wakefield range, it is claimed, by Passed Midshipman Andrew D. Denny, U. S. N., of the naval team, who scored 334 out of a possible 350. This exceeds by two points the new record claimed by Captain Emmett Eddy of the Eighth Ohio National Guard last Thursday.

Denny's marks were as follows: 200 yards, rapid fire, 43; 200 yards, slow fire, 48; 600 yards, slow fire, 49; 800 yards, slow fire, 48; 1000 yards, slow fire, 48; skirmish (possible 100), 99; total, 335.

DID NOT STEAL LACE

But Ella Gingles' Story of Being Abused Is Declared Untrue

Chicago, July 20.—Ella Gingles was cleared of the charge of stealing lace from Miss Agnes Barrette, her former employer, but the story she told on the witness stand to the effect that an attempt was made to force here into white slavery was denounced as untrue by the jury that freed her.

Based on a simple charge of larceny of $50 worth of hand made lace, the trial went far beyond the counts of the indictment. The subject of white slavery was drawn into the trial from the start and with it an Arabian Nights tale of outrages by Miss Barrette and others was told in detail on the witness stand by the young defendant.

TINY BIT OF HUMANITY

So Small That Its Arm Slips Through Mother's Ring

Oakland, Cal., July 20.—In an incubator here is an infant girl weighing one and a half pounds and so small that its mother's wedding ring may be easily slipped up the babe's arm to its shoulder.

The infant is well formed, and its chances of living are increasing each day. The mother is but 17 years old.

COALING UP WARSHIPS

Naval Volunteers Get Experience to Which They Are Unaccustomed

Provincetown, Mass., July 20.—The unromantic side of naval life was displayed to the naval militia from the states of Rhode Island and Connecticut when they were distributed among the various ships of the Atlantic fleet, which spent most of Monday taking on coal.

The swinging bags of coal, coming seemingly from all directions, the sailors, dressed in all sorts of nondescript costumes, with pantaloon legs tied tightly about the ankles, the dust and grime that settled everywhere, the bustle and confusion and the litter of the decks, was not what the majority of the volunteers had pictured of naval life, but by the time the coal was all stowed away below and everything was washed down the new men became more reconciled to their lot.

None of the ships went outside Monday, but today the new men are in the midst of the regular routine of the summer maneuvers.

TAKING TIME BY FORELOCK

Democrats Elect Officers to Guide Next Congressional Elections

Washington, July 20.—Taking advantage of the present situation developed by the tariff, the Democratic congressional committee, one year in advance of the usual time for such action, met last night, elected officers and mapped out the course it will follow in its fight to capture the house in the next congressional elections. Representative James F. Lloyd (Mo.) was re-elected chairman by the unanimous vote of the thirty-seven members of the committee.

Chairman Lloyd asserted that information he has received from all parts of the country indicated that the Democrats are more hopeful of electing a Democratic house than they have been for years. He said that the committee had agreed "to get busy" immediately, and that with the appointment of the principal working committees the Democratic end of the next campaign would be fairly under way.

ELLEN GETS ANOTHER LEG

Boston Yacht Club Now Has Two Wins To Its Credit

A dispatch to the Ledger from Houghs Neck this noon says that a strong easterly breeze is prevailing and the indications are that today's race will be an exciting one.

Yachtsmen familiar with the different boats competing say that the breeze today is just what the Crooner has been waiting for and she is therefore looked upon to secure a leg for the defending club.

It was announced by Commodore Robbins this morning that the club house would be open to visitors every day of the race so that those who desire to see it may have a good vantage point.

All of the boats were out early this morning for a practice spin and they are in prime condition. Today's race will be over a course that gives the boats a run before the wind and a beat to the starting point. They will go over the course twice and if the present breeze continues the race should be finished in an hour and a half.

The race today started at 12.40 and at that hour all the challengers and the defender were on hand ready for the contest.

By the time the race started the wind had worked to the northerly a little and while it was a steady wind it was not particularly heavy. The warning gun sounded at 12.30 and the starting gun at 12.40. The yachts got away well bunched although the Ellen was the first to cross. The balance of the fleet was close to her heels. On the outward beat the Ellen appeared to be leading the fleet slightly.

Since the first race numbers have been attached to the sails so that it is much easier to distinguish the different boats from the club house and to follow them with glasses.

The Ellen held her lead on the beat to the outer mark with the Sally second and Crooner third. The time at this turn was:

Ellen	1-16-00
Sally	1-17-00
Crooner	1-17-25
Wolf	1-18-51
Spokane	1-20-49

On the run home the Crooner passed the Sally and took second position but was some minutes ebhind the Ellen at turning the buoy the first time round. The time at this turn was:

Ellen	1-46-23
Crooner	1-49-35
Sally	1-50-08
Wolf	1-51-03
Spokane	1-53-48

It will be seen by this that the Wolf, the winner of Monday race had dropped into fourth place. By this time the wind had flattened out considerable and the Ellen was set down as the winner. On the beat to the outer mark the Wolf passed the Sally and took third position. The time at this turn was:

Ellen	2-21-29
Crooner	2-24-07
Wolf	2-24-54
Sally	2-26-08
Spokane	2-29-02

The boats were now on the last leg and the race had settled down between the Ellen and Crooner with odds in favor of the Ellen.

The Crooner tacked over towards Great Hill but unfortunately was blanketed by the Sally and she lost some valuable time. All of this time the Spokane had held undisputed sway over the tail end of the procession and it was seen that she would finish way behind the others.

The press boat therefore did not wait for her to finish but came in to forward the news. The elapsed time at the finish was as follows:

Ellen	2-41-53
Wolf	2-46-22
Crooner	2-46-38
Sally	2-47-28

This gives the Ellen two legs in the race and unless the Crooner, Sally and Spokane win in Thursday's race they will be out of it.

CHUMS PRESENT.

Lawn Party in Honor of Harold B. Bryant at Wollaston.

College friends and other guests were present at a lawn party on Tuesday evening tendered Harold B. Bryant, Harvard '09 by his sister Mrs. Arthur F. Capen in honor of his graduation . The party was given on the broad lawns of the Bryant residence on Beach street and the soft light of Japanese lanterns together with many cosy corners made the scene one of unusual attractiveness. Numerous games were enjoyed while dancing on the lawn, to the music of a graphaphone found popular favor.

One of the novel features of the evening which occasioned much merriment was a Humpty-dumpty egg contest. This consisted of eggs of different colors hidden at various places over the lawn, the object being for the contestants to gather the eggs of the correct color into a bowl before his neighbor. Mr. E. B. Bird proved the winner in this for the men while Miss Frances Jones was the most successful of the young ladies. Miss Blanche Morrison was the recipient of the booby prize. At the close of the contest appropriate mementos were awarded the three by Mr. Arthur F. Capen. Refreshments were served throughout the evening, Mrs. Charles F. Bryant and Mrs. Ernest N. Bullock presiding.

Among those attending were students of Harvard, Technology, Boston University and Holyoke. Those present included: Rev. and Mrs. Ernest N. Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coussen, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips B. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butman, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crocker, Mrs. Mary Healey, Mr. Maynard Healey, Miss Helen Jones, Miss Francis Jones, Mr. Lucien H. Thayer, Mr. Ambler Welch. President Hobbs Appoints Special Committee to Investigate Them.

At the last meeting of the City Council an order was adopted for the appointment of a special committee of five to investigate all parties holding licenses to collect junk and to report as to their condition and to recommend such action for the future government of these places as they may deem best. The resolve which was introduced by Councilman Bryant was adopted but it was not until this morning that President Hobbs announced the committee. The chairman of the special committee is Councilman Bryant and associated with him are Councilmen Russell and Bishop of Ward Three. Flynn of Ward Two and Gardner of Ward Five.

BOSTON CLUB WINS A RACE

Tuesday's Cup Race Developes Into Drifting Match

That this year's Quincy challenge cup race is not to be a three day affair like last year's, was demonstrated Tuesday, when the Ellen of the Boston yacht club, sailed by C. P. Curtis, Jr., won the second leg of the cup, finishing two minutes ahead of the defender which was second. The WolfWolf, winner of the first day's race was third, a minute behind the Crooner. The Sally finished 25 seconds behind the Wolf, while the Spokane was a poor fifth, being about three minutes to the bad.

At the start of the race there was a fine steady breeze blowing from the east and things looked favorable for the Wolf and the Crooner, the heavy weather boats of the fleet. But on the third leg of the first time around, the wind died down and the Wolf, which had been leading was passed by the Ellen. The Ellen started on the second time around with a lead of 19 seconds over the Wolf. She kept increasing this lead all the time in the light air, and was never headed after that.

The course was a triangular one, the start being off the club house. The first leg was a beat to the buoy in Hingham channel off Bumkin island, the second leg a run to Mark D off Peddocks, and the third a reach back to the starting buoy, a distance of about 10 1-2 miles.

There was some fine jockeying for favorable starts and the gun sent the boats over in a bunch, it being almost impossible to pick the first boat over the line. It looked like the Spokane first, Ellen second and the other three tie for third. The Crooner was away leeward and was headed for Hull gut to get the strong tides that come in through there to Hingham channel, where the first turning buoy is located. The Spokane tacked onto the Crooner and followed her all the way. The Wolf and the Ellen were taking a more direct course inside Sheep island, while the Sally took one of her favorite long hitches off towards Grape island and Crow Point. It was thought that the Crooner and Spokane would go outside Sheep island, but instead they came about and soon joined the Ellen and the Wolf. The Sally in the meantime was following the Grape island shore and passed on to Slate, and when she came about to head for the turning mark, she found herself bucking a strong head tide, the same one that was helping the other boats farther over. Off Bumkin island the Ellen and the Crooner got mixed up in a little luffing match, the Ellen forcing the defender about. During this time the Wolf went ahead and sailed up the channel several lengths in the lead. The Spokane was behind the Wolf and the two went round the mark in quick succession. The Crooner followed, with the Sally next and the Ellen last. At the next turn the Wolf still lead, with Ellen in second place, having come up from last place on this leg. Each of the other boats had dropped down one position. On the reach home the Ellen passed the Wolf and held the lead the rest of the race.

The Crooner did some fine work on the last leg of the second time around. She was in fourth place turning the buoy at Hingham channel the second time around, and after starting up towards Peddocks the others started to gain. But Charlie Adams did some skilfull sailing and got all there was out of the light air. He passed the Sally right at the turning mark and then started after the Wolf. Adams led the Wolf into a luffing match off the Sheep island shore and it was a pretty match for about ten minutes. Both boats came about together, each skipper seeming to know what the other was going to do. The Crooner got a little the best of the match and slowly crawled out of the lee of the Wolf and began to get after the Ellen. The wind was beginning to freshen a bit and Quincy supporters were wishing that the boats had farther to go. The Wolf was left behind, but there was no chance to get the Ellen, for the lead was too big. The Crooner did some excellent work however, picking up nearly two minutes on the reach down from Peddocks. She was given a great hand when she crossed the line and Skipper Charlie Adams had to doff his hat several times to the various boats of the large fleet that followed the races.

The Ellen also received a royal welcome when she went over the line. The skipper of the Ellen sailed a fine race, choosing her own courses and winning on her merits. The wind just suited her and her crew used excellant judgment, taking advantage of every bit of the light air. The times at the finish were:—

Ellen	2-34-10
Crooner	2-36-18
Wolf	2-37-25
Sally	2-37-50
Spokane	2-40-07

HIT BY TRAIN AT WATER ST.

Daniel Ross Has Narrow Escape From Being Killed

Daniel Ross, a blacksmith employed by J. F. Kemp and residing on Jackson street had a very narrow escape Tuesday night from being killed by the cars at the Water street crossing.

The accident happened a few minutes before 6 oclock the train that struck him being the 5.19 from Boston.

It appears that the gates were down to allow an inward freight to pass. Ross went under the gates and stood near the west side of the outward track waiting for the freight to pass. His attention evidently was on the freight train and he did not see the approaching outward train which was slowing up to make a stop. Fortunately he was not standing on the outward track or he would surely have been killed.

As it was the cylinder head of the engine struck him throwing him some distance. He was picked up and taken to the depot where he was attended by Dr. McCauslin.

After first aid treatment Ross was taken to his home on Jackson street where a more thorough examination was made.

It was found that his right arm had been factured and that he received a number of contusions about the head and body. It is not thought that his injuries are of an internal nature.

Mr. Leslie was 62 years of age and leaves a widow and five children. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

Ah, there, Ellen!

Wolf, Ellen,——?

And yesterday it was Charles Francis Adams 2d, second.

The Wolf had her fangs taken out and the Crooner did a big share of the dentistry, even though she didn't win the race.

Miss Ellen of Boston was the favored daughter yesterday and no prettier boat ever was selected to lead such a pretty race.

The accident at the Water-street grade crossing yesterday brings to mind the fact that grade crossing hearings on this very street were held once upon a time.

THE SECOND RACE.

The second race for the Quincy cup was sailed yesterday and was won by the yacht Ellen, owned by C. P. Curtis, Jr., of Boston. The Ellen represented the Boston yacht club in this series of races and the victory which she won yesterday was the result of one of the best handled, cleanest and sportsmanlike races ever seen in local waters. The day was almost ideal but Quincy people had hoped the breeze which prevailed at the start might hold. However, yachtsmen have to take things as they come and it is no exaggeration to say that the boat which sailed the best race yesterday, won. This isn't saying anything derogatory to the Quincy boat, of which so much was expected for it is generally understood that she needs a strong, steady breeze in which to do her best work.

The Crooner, in working up from the fourth position at Hingham channel buoy to second position at the home mark showed some fine sailing qualities which, if they had come earlier in the race, might have landed a victory for the defending boat. However, everything about the race was clean, honest and square and we of Quincy salute the Ellen which sailed a splendid race and won a well-earned victory.

WORKING TO THE SAME END.

In a very lengthy article yesterday Councilman Abele, commenting on the Ledger's editorial on the Woodward fund ordinance veto says the editorial completely ignores the vital provisions of the amendment. Probably the councilman meant the article ignored the vital provisions according to his recognition of their vitality but it seems to us that the first and real essential is to do just what Councilman Abele apparently wants to do—remove the Woodward fund as far from political influences as it is possible to do so. On that point he and the Ledger are agreed. The Councilman thinks three citizens ought to be appointed by the mayor in place of the city clerk, city auditor and one citizen appointed by the council, as is done at present. Whether the appointment of three citizens by the mayor could be done with less chance of making the Woodward fund a nesting place for politicians than the board is at present constituted, is simply problematical. Two men might argue on the point all day and then not come to an agreement. But there can be conceived a mayor, elected by evil influences, who would have the right of appointing men to the Woodward board of managers and the condition would be worse than has ever yet happened. There is no guarantee that any mayor would pick the kind of men that are needed for such a position. The only reason that the present condition has any merit over such a proposed board is that a city treasurer, city clerk and city auditor are men who generally have certain qualifications, a little out of the ordinary, to commend them for such a position. The mayor, of course, is selected by the people and is, by virtue of his office, a member of the board.

If it is desired that there should be closer relations between the fund and the city council let the ordinance be changed so as to include the president of the council as well as the city auditor who is already the creature of the city council. Then the Woodward fund would have two representatives on the board. Such an arrangement would seem to be more satisfactory than three outside citizens who might not have the interest of the city council at heart at all but who would probably look to the mayor that appointed them if a difference of opinion arose between the administration and the council. The fact that the appointments of the governor and president are made after the fashion contemplated by the proposed ordinance does not change the force of the Ledger's argument at all. There is no comparison between the appointments of governors and presidents and those of the mayor of Quincy.

Whatever differences seem to exist between the councilman and city solicitor or the mayor, as would seem to be apparent from Mr. Abele's letter, we know nothing about at all. Any such difference of opinion would not affect the status of the Woodward fund ordinance in the least.

The so-called "bogey of forfeiture of the fund to Dartmouth college," which Councilman Abele calls our caution that a contingency might arise whereby the fund would go to Dartmouth college, is no bogey at all. The warning is written down in black and white in Dr. Woodward's will and the oftener this so-called "bogey" is held up before the eyes of those having the fund in charge, the safer the fund ought to be for it. Councilman Abele says: "If the public generally knew how the fund is being managed, they would realize that there is far more danger of the forfeiture to Dartmouth college because of mismanagement of the fund than could possibly result from the proposed changes of the ordinance."

In his letter Councilman Abele says he has been on an investigating committee which looked into this fund last year. He has, therefore, a better knowledge of the workings of that fund than the public at large or the Ledger could hope to. If, after examining this condition of affairs, the Councilman knows, as he said publicly in his letter, that there is far more danger of forfeiting the Woodward fund to Dartmouth college because of mismanagement, than could result from the proposed ordinance, then it would seem that his duty as a councilman and a citizen is plain.

BY TROLLEY TO MARBLEHEAD.

One of the most enjoyable trolley outings from Boston is that offered by the Boston & Northern street railway to quaint old Marblehead, noted not only for its ancient architecture and history, but as a yachting centre, picturesque shores, hospitable people and grand shore dinners.

It was the pleasure of the Massachusetts Press Association to take this trip on Monday under favorable conditions. Two special cars were necessary, but there was no crowding. Leaving the shadow of the State House and Bunker Hill monument, one notes the large shipping interests of Boston, then the rapid progress of building up Chelsea, the large industries of Lynn, the picturesque shore of Swampscott and Marblehead, with their beautiful residences, and finally the town of Marblehead with its narrow twisting streets.

One usually has his appetite sharpened by this trolley trip of 17 miles, but the Adams House anticipates all this, and the supply is always bountiful. It is also unexcelled: Clam chowder, steamed clams, fried perch, fried lobster, fried clams, potato chips, ices, etc., etc. With the dining room over the water and good service, what more could be desired.

On this date the Marblehead Historical Society entertained at the historical Lee Mansion, which has just passed into their possession, and also furnished escorts to other historical points:—the old fort, the old burial ground, the old Town house of 1727, the old churches, Abbott hall with its relics, and to the antique shops and rooms of the arts and crafts. All visitors to Marblehead should assist the Historical society in its effort to restore the old Lee Mansion and other points of interest. One reason why the people of the town are so happy this year is because the tax rate has been reduced $5.

On Monday the time was altogether too short to see everything. But everyone who goes to Marblehead wants to go again, and there is no better way than by trolley.

The Massachusetts Press Association hope to go every summer.

Two Autos Wrecked

Manchester, Mass., July 21.—Two automobiles, one owned and driven by J. S. Wright of Brooklyn, who was accompanied by three women, and the other owned by the city of Cambridge and occupied by unknown parties who disappeared after the accident, collided at high speed here. None of the occupants was injured, but both cars were badly wrecked.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DARING FEATS OF AVIATION

Orville Wright Establishes a New Record For America

GOES OVER 260 FEET IN AIR

Small Double Circles of "Figure Eight" Successfully Maneuvered—Distance of Seventy Miles Covered in Eighty Minutes—Crowd Thrilled by Performance of Artificial Bird, Which Was Under Perfect Control

Washington, July 21.—A new record for aviation in America was established by Orville Wright in the Wright aeroplane at Fort Myer by a spectacular flight of 80¾ minutes' duration. The longest previous flight in the United States was of 74 minutes, made by Wright at Fort Myer last fall.

During the entire flight the machine was under perfect control, but several times appeared to the spectators to be on the point of diving to earth. Several thousand people were given an exhibition which included the most daring feats of aviation yet accomplished, and at its conclusion a mighty cheer went up.

The machine traveled a distance of about seventy miles, and at one time during the flight the height attained, between 260 and 280 feet, exceeded the highest point ever reached by a heavier-than-air machine on this continent. The most wonderful part of the flight was the execution of three complete "figure eights," which required careful maneuvering in directing the machine.

Not the slightest mishap occurred during the flight, but there were moments when the crowd watched almost breathlessly, fearing the aviator was losing control of his artificial bird. A thrill passed through the spectators as the white flyer, apparently beginning to dive to the earth, would regain its equilibrium and speed onward around the oval above the parade grounds.

After rounding the course half a hundred times, the aviator directed the machine's course around the small double circles of a "figure eight." It was the first time this season and the second time during his career he has executed this maneuver. To the amazement of the crowd the machine described a second eight and then a third one.

When he had completed these clever maneuvers the aviator started to make a showing in regard to height. Slowly the aeroplane rose to a higher altitude on each lap until it had soared to a distance of between 260 and 280 feet from the ground. At this altitude the machine flew half a dozen rounds and then gradually descended toward the earth. Wright made a successful and easy landing after completing eighty-three rounds of the field.

Both Wilbur and Orville Wright declared that the machine is working much better, but that they want to have several more trials before the official test.

Wilbur Wright, replying to a comment that the flight would have covered the width of the English channel which Herbert Latham unsuccessfully attempted to cross Monday, said it would have been possible for his brother to have crossed from France to England and to have returned to France again without landing. He also remarked that it would have been easy to have continued the fight as far as Baltimore.

The weather conditions were splendid. Only a very light breeze was blowing and this had little effect on the aeroplane.

ZEPPELIN SHIP SHOWED UP

But Ville de Nancy Did Not Meet Her on Franco-German Border

Metz, Ger., July 21.—The meeting on the frontier of the German and French dirigible balloons, Zeppelin I and Ville de Nancy, as previously arranged, did not occur, although the Zeppelin airship, with General Puttkamef aboard, cruised for more than an hour above the border line in the vicinity of Noveant, awaiting the arrival of the French competitor.

Thousands of spectators gathered on each side of the border and cheered enthusiastically when the Zeppelin I appeared and carried out a series of intricate maneuvers. There was profound disappointment when it was learned that the prefect of Nancy had advised against the departure of the Ville de Nancy, because he thought a meeting of the two airships might cause demonstrations.

The Glace Bay Strike

Glace Bay, C. B., July 21.—Two weeks ago the strike at the mines of the Dominion Coal company was inaugurated and today finds both sides as confident as ever. The company declares that conditions are much brighter, while the men assert that the trend of events is entirely favorable to them.

Mexican Trains on Time

Mexico City, July 21.—All trains are running on time over the merged lines of Mexico. Thus far the strike of the train dispatchers has had absolutely no effect on the operative conditions.

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class o. classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to seattle $750,000 on Almeric.

"Hum!" said Hawcastle doubtfully. "Would he consent to your sister's marriage—or the matter of a settlement?"

Horace laughed cheerfully.

"I have no doubt of it. If he has the slightest sense of duty toward my sister he'll be the first to welcome the alliance, won't he?"

"Then when he and my solicitor come they can have an evening together over a lot of musty papers, and the thing will be done. Again, my boy, I welcome you to our family. God bless you!"

He wrung Horace's hand again and turned away as if to hide his emotion, but really to wink at the countess.

"I'm overpowered, you know—really overpowered, you know," stammered Horace, fanning himself desperately with his hat.

"Come, Almeric," said the earl, and as the youthful heir to his house arose languidly he sidled close to the countess and whispered in her ear:

"Let him know it's a hundred and fifty thousand."

Then he and Almeric went up the steps into the hotel, leaving Horace and the countess gazing at each other delightedly.

She crossed over to him impulsively and, taking both his hands again, said:

"My friend, I am happy for you."

"Think of it!" said Horace joyously. "In a fortnight at the most dear old Ethel will be the Hon. Mrs. St. Aubyn, future Countess of Hawcastle!"

"Yes," replied the countess, withdrawing her hands and picking up her parasol, "and there is but the little arrangement of the settlement between your advocate and Lord Hawcastle's. But you Americans—you laugh at such things. You are big, so big, like your country!"

Horace followed her across the terrace to the wall.

"Ah, believe me, dear countess," he said, "the great world—your world, countess—has thoroughly alienated me."

The countess turned her shapely head and looked at him admiringly and with a touch of irony at the surprise she was about to give him.

"Ah, you retain one quality. You are careless, you are free," and she laid her right hand upon his arm, and Horace thrilled at the intimate touch.

"Well," he laughed, "perhaps in those things I am American, but in others I fancy I should be thought something else, shouldn't I?"

She laughed openly at him now, but earnestly withal, and said:

"You are a debonair man of the world, and yet you are still American in that you are abominably rich. The settlement—such matter as that, over which a Frenchman, an Italian, might hesitate—you laugh. Such matter as £150,000—you set it aside, you laugh. You say, 'Oh, yes; take it!'"

For a moment she feared that Horace would fall over the low parapet, so white did his face become and then so flushed, but the boy was game all through. The generations of simple Indiana stock came to his rescue, and he steeled himself with an effort and replied quietly:

"A hundred and fifty thousand pounds! Why, that's seven hundred and fifty thous—I say, countess, she couldn't use the money to better advantage!"

There was real admiration in the Frenchwoman's glance this time, for she had lost none of the little byplay, and she admired the courage of the youngster. So she said:

"My friend, how wise you are!"

As she spoke she turned in time to see Ethel come down the steps of the hotel with a book beneath her arm and ran to her, clasping her in her arms and kissing her.

CHAPTER VII.

SNUBBED!

"LARGESSE, sweet Countess of Hawcastle!" the woman cried. "Largesse! And au revoir! Adieu! I leave you with your dear brother!"

She ran quickly up the steps with a flirt of her parasol, and Horace took his sister's hand with tears in his eyes.

"Dear old sis! Dear old pal!" he said, and she turned a radiant look upon him.

"Isn't it glorious, Hoddy?" she said with exalted tone. "Look!" and held up the book she carried. "It's Burke's 'Peerage.' And Froissart's 'Chronicles'—I've been reading it all over again The St. Aubyns were at Crecy and Agincourt, and St. Aubyn will be my name."

"I had him, you know, I rather think, didn't I?"

"They want it to be your name soon, 'tis," he answered her

For a moment she turned away and then looked at him straight in the eyes.

"You're fond of Almeric, aren't you Hoddy? You admire him, don't you, dear?"

"Certainly. Why, think of all he represents, sis!"

"Ah, yes, Hoddy! Crusader's blood flows in his veins. It is the nobility that must be within him that I have plighted my troth to. I am ready to marry him when they wish!"

Horace sighed.

CRIMINAL WASTE OF NATIONAL VITALITY.

Wholesale Sacrifice of Lives and Money Unnecessary and Can be prevented if Proper Measures are Taken

That the people of this country are annually throwing away a sum of money that represents fifty per cent. more than it costs to operate the Government—in cold figures, a billion and a half—is statistically shown in Professor Irving Fisher's new work issued by the Government Printing Office, and entitled "A Report on National Vitality."

Professor Fisher is a member of the faculty of Yale University, and a member of the National Conservation Commission appointed by Theodore Roosevelt. He is also a member of the Committee of One Hundred on National Health. During the last ten years Professor Fisher has been engaged in collecting the material that forms this important work, and which is now for the first time made public.

In the connection of national waste in lives Professor Fisher shows that there are three million persons needlessly and continuously ill in the United States, and that this condition might well be prevented by strict attention to even the simplest hygienic measures. He shows, also, that tuberculosis alone is responsible for 500,000 persons continually ill, and that it is entirely possible that this scourge be wiped out within one generation. Typhoid alone costs the country $350,000,000, and this is a disease that can wholly be wiped out by attention to neglected details. In support of this statement, and showing what can be done in an individual instance, the author cites the case of the city of Lawrence, Mass., which, by the introduction of a new water supply, reduced this typhoid mortality by over eighty per cent.

It is shown by carefully gathered data that malaria costs the country $100,000,000, and that this is wholly preventable, as instanced by the action of several cities that undertook, with successful issue, the elimination of the malaria mosquito.

Professor Fisher also shows that our present wasteful policy is easily remediable, and cites Professor T. S. Lambart, who, in his "Sources of Longevity," stated "That it costs no more to 'raise' a man capable of living for eighty years than it does to 'grow' one who has not the capacity of living to be forty years old."

Professor Fisher says:

"The gain or lengthening and strengthing of the life which it measures can be secured through medical investigation and practice, restriction of the labor of women and children, the education of both public and private hygiene, and through improving the efficiency of our municipal, State and national health service."

CONSUMPTION CAMPAIGN.

Confirming the recent statement of Dr. William Osler, that the anti-tuberculosis campaign is no longer a battle for the doctors only, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis issues a statement in which it is shown that over 45 per cent, of those enlisted in the White Plague War are laymen.

The National Association's membership, consisting of nearly 2,500 and representing every State in the Union, is composed of 54.6 per cent. doctors and 45.4 per cent. laymen. In the local and State associations, however, throughout the country, the percentage of laymen averages considerably over 50 per cent. The National Association declares that this fact is peculiarly significant, as indicating the great popularity of the anti-tuberculosis movement.

Twenty-five years ago, when the campaign against tuberculosis was started in this country by Dr. Edward L. Trudeau, even the doctors laughed at the movement. Gradually the medical profession realized the possibilities of an organized fight against tuberculosis, and in 1904, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was formed by the American Medical Association. At that time the percentage of laymen in the Association was only 12.9 and very few persons were interested in the campaign against this disease.

Today, according to recent figures published by the National Association, churches, schools, labor unions, women's clubs, fraternal organizations, and State legislatures, interesting fully 8,000,000 people, are all allied in the campaign against tuberculosis and in addition to these, laymen of all classes of society and in every branch of social and industrial life, are uniting against this one common foe.

Every day sees hundreds of new recruits in teh war, and every day brings new methods for the fighting of the plague. The National Association predicts that if the present degree of interest is maintained, within five years everybody in the United States will have been informed on the way to prevent and cure tuberculosis, and concerning the infectious nature of the disease.

Two things in particular are needed, and for these the National Association is working in every way. They are, a more complete registration of tuberculosis cases, and the further isolation of dangerous advanced cases of consumption.

BUTLER STRIKE SETTLED

Compromise Brought About Through the Efforts of Polish Priest

Butler, Pa., July 21.—The strike which for four days tied up the Standard Steel Car company's works has been settled and the 3500 employes of the plant resumed work this morning. The settlement, which is a compromise, was brought about through the efforts of Rev. Father Beczewski of the Polish Catholic church here.

The company officials agreed to take back all of the workmen and consented to a reduction of the percent of delinquent rents taken from the pay envelopes of the men each week. Father Beczewski, acting for the strikers, then agreed to abandon the demand for an increase in wages. An agreement was drawn up, which was ratified by the strikers last evening.

Settlement of the strike came after events which indicated that the walkout would continue for several days.

KENTUCKY NEGRO LYNCHED

Even the Plea of Sheriff Whom He Shot Is Unheeded by the Mob

Paducah, Ky., July 21.—Without firing a shot, a mob took Albert Lawson, a negro, who on Sunday shot Sheriff Compton, who on Sunday shot and hanged him to a mulberry tree a few yards from the prison. About thirty minutes later the dead body was cut down.

An attempt was made yesterday to lynch Lawson. He was taken to the courthouse yard, where a rope was placed around his neck, but as the negro pleaded, county officers appeared and begged the throng to allow the law to take its course. Later Sheriff Compton issued a poster over his own signature, requesting the people to let the law take its course.

But last night a large mob, with the rope used in the afternoon, went to the prison, battered down the doors and lynched Lawson.

BUDGET IS CUT THIRTY MILLIONS

Blue Pencil Used Liberally by President's Cabinet

Washington, July 21.—President Taft has called a special cabinet meeting for today to consider the departmental estimates. In pursuance of the policy of economy announced in the inaugural address, the cabinet members showed Mr. Taft what they had done. Mr. Meyer, secretary of the navy, succeeded in reducing the expenditures proposed for the fiscal year 1010-1911 fully $10,000,000 below the total of the appropriations made las year.

Secretary Dickinson of the war department has done nearly as well. Secretary Ballinger of the interior department has lopped off a larger slice of estimates singularly liberal before.

The total of the government estimates will be more than $30,000,000 less than the total appropriations made for the current fiscal year.

BOSTON JOURNAL FLOWER DAY.

Next Monday The Boston Journal with the co-operation of the clergy of greater Boston, the suburban newspapers, the florists and the good people at large, is to hold a "Flower Day" for the benefit of the poor children of Boston.

Never before has such a mammoth affair of its kind been attempted and the call for co-operation in the project has been answered a thousandfold more enthusiastically than was ever dreamed of.

With Boston as a common center flowers will be received on Monday morning between the hours of 7 and noon at designated places already established in every city within a radius of twenty miles.

Receiving places will also be in readiness at the terminals of both the Elevated railway and the steam railroads.

Thousands upon thousands of blossoms are needed for the work and it goes without saying that the children who seldom see the gay warm color of the garden and the green of the fields will thrill and marvel at the beauty and fragrance that will pour into the stuffy and unclean streets of the Boston slums on Monday.

Floral contributions can be left Monday morning between seven o'clock and noon at F and P opposite track one at the South station, Boston.

—New York Observer quotes Quincy pastor in recent editorial, as follows:—"These are days when a good many preachers are taking a hand in the effort to lead people to well-being of mind, body and soul—and that has always been really the business of good preachers. Speaking recently on "The Highway to Religious Health, Happiness and Heaven," the Rev. Alfred R. Atwood of Quincy, Mass., said that the followers of Jesus "have been not quantitative, but qualitative. The crowds of Christendom continue in the way of self-indulgence; the few follow Jesus in the narrow way. These have been the religious lights of the world, which owes its high standard of conduct and character to the minority. They are the real makers of manhood, the redeemers and ransomers of realms." We find the true secret of happiness in the redemption provided in His great unique way by Jesus, the suffering Son of God, and through the lesser human ransoming of life through self-sacrifice, and, if need be, "peril, fire and flood."

—Mme. Sembrich, whose farewell American concert tour promises to be quite the most important event of the coming concert season, advises all aspirants to the operatic stage to study the old way of singing. She has little patience with methods. "Whether you intend to sing Strauss, Wagner, Puccini or any of the modern composers," says the prima donna, "it makes no difference; the right way is the old way. Scales and trills, then the old cantilina—the real test of all good singing. These mastered, and the voice will resist the wear and tear of the most exacting music, which may do infinite harm to the powers of the novice, but cannot effect the practiced singer who recognizes her limitations."

FRENCH CABINET DOWN AND OUT

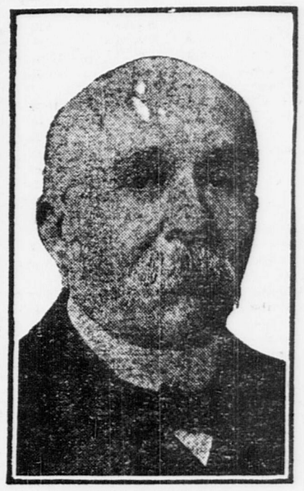
Clemenceau Tumbles Into an Awkward Political Blunder

MAKES ATTACK ON DELCASSE

Bitter Words Pass Between Old Enemies When Premier Drags Into Naval Debate a Delicate Chapter of France's Foreign Policy—End of Stormy Session of Deputies Finds Government In the Minority

Paris, July 21.—The Clemenceau cabinet fell suddenly last night under dramatic circumstances at the conclusion of a violent debate over the naval scandals, extending over several days. President Falleries has accepted the cabinet's resignation.

M. Delcasse, chairman of the investigation commission, led the attack upon the naval administration, especially during the incumbency of M. Pelletan and M. Thomson, former ministers of marine.



GEORGES CLEMENCEAU

But M. Picard, who succeeded Thomson, had promised in the name of the government to complete a series of reforms, both in the administration of the department and the methods of construction, and the chamber was ready to vote confidence in the government when an incident occurred which changed a majority into a minority.

Premier Clemenceau, who always has been an adversary of Delcasse, smarting under the criticism and doubtless over-confident of a majority which, on July 15, upon the general policies of the government was 182, taunted the ex-minister of freign affairs, who was thrown overboard by the Rouvier ministry at the dictation of Germany during the crisis of 1905, with having led France to humiliation at Alegciras.

The spectre of that chapter of France's foreign history, in which Delcasse was sacrificed, was a fatal error. Instantly there was an uproar of dissent from both sides of the chamber. Delcasse flung back the taunt in Clemenceau's face with bitter words, declaring, amid cheers, that France had gone to Algeciras in the interest of peace.

Hot words were bandied back and forth. It was a veritable duel between two enemies. Delcasse intimated that Clemenceau had inspired articles in the foreign press during the crisis, but the latter emphatically denied the imputation. The premier seemed for the first time in his parliamentary career to lose his head. Finally Delcasse, as he was entering upon an explanation of the situation of 1905, said:

"I shall say nothing further on that subject. I have nothing to fear. Nothing in the past, nothing in our common memories of twenty-five years, embarrasses me. If I look back I see I have something besides ruins."

Then, turning directly to Clemenceau, he said: "You were president of the naval investigating commission of 1904. Your unsparing attacks upon every government during twenty-five years seemed sufficient guarantee that you would find the root of the evil. What are the results, I ask?"

Clemenceau, now evidently in a rage, tried to parry the thrust by returning to the charge.

"Your policy as foreign minister," he shouted, "led us to the greatest humiliation France has experienced in twenty years."

Another storm of hostile cries arose. But the premier tried to assume his old cynical air. "Oh, no false indignation, I pray you," he exclaimed. "You brought us to the verge of a war without military preparation."

Again the tumult was redoubled. "Yes," he shouted above the roar, "the whole world knew that the ministers of war and the navy, when the question was put to them, replied that France was not ready. I have not humiliated France; Delcasse has done that."

The scene when the premier took his seat was indescribable. Amid the wildest excitement the vote was taken and it was announced that the government had been beaten, 212 to 176.

LOOKS LIKE THE CROONER

Defender Led Fleet on the First Leg of Today's Race

Unless the wind freshens wonderfully before the challenge cup race of today is finished, the challenge cup is almost sure to pass into the keeping of the Boston Yacht club. Should the wind freshen as hoped for, it is among the possibilities that the Wolf, the winner of the first day's race may win again, for it is heavy weather that she wants. This would give the Wolf and Ellen two races each and by the process of elimination all yachts but these two would be out of it, as far as this year is concerned, and the final race Friday would be between the Ellen and the Wolf.

The wind early this morning was fresh from the southwest and the indications were that the heavy weather prayed for would be handed out. As the morning wore on, however, the wind died down considerable and along about 11 o'clock it had shifted to the southeast. Then it shifted back to the southwest. This would seem to indicate that the wind would be uncertain all day.

Today's race is being sailed over the triangular course of ten miles. This means that the boats will have a reach, a run and a beat. The course is a little over five miles and the boats sail over it twice.

The wind this noon in City Square was almost due east and there was a fairly good breeze blowing. A dispatch to the Ledger from the Yacht club house at the hour of the starting of the race states that off the club house the breeze is an easterly one and strong at that which means that the chances of the Crooner winning today's race are exceptionally good. The sky is a little overcast and the crews of the boats may come in for a ducking before the race is over.

Today's race was started at 1.10 and it will be fully 4 o'clock before it is finished. The fleet got away promptly on time. The defending yacht Crooner got the best of the start and crossed the line fully two lengths ahead of the nearest challenger. As the fleet headed toward Bunkin island it was seen htat the Crooner was still holding her lead and the stock of the defending boat advanced rapidly. Those familiar with the several boats says that if the wind only holds as strong as it was at the start the race is almost sure to go to the Crooner.

WAR DECLARED.

Chains and Stone Walls Around Churches to be Cleared of Loafers.

The order has gone forth to keep the chains about the First church and the stone wall about the Bethany church free from the loafers who have been sunning themselves at these places ever since the weather became warm enough for them to crawl out of their winter quarters.

At times, of late, these places have been black with members of the chain gang, so called, who have become a decided nuisance. Not only do they litter the sidewalks in front of them with rubbish but they pass many side remarks about people who pass, especially if the passers happen to be ladies. They have therefore become a nuisance and Chief Burrell has given orders that they shall be moved on, and the places that knew them shall know them no more.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNCILLOR.

DOROTHY Q. LODGE OF ODD LADIES.

The second anniversary of the institution of Dorothy Q. lodge of Odd Ladies, No. 55, of Wollaston was celebrated Monday evening at Odd Fellows' hall. About seventy-five were present. Many of the members were at the institution when the lodge was started and a goodly number from other lodges came to help celebrate. A bountiful collation consisting of salads, sliced ham, rolls, ice cream and cake was provided. Each guest was presented with a neat souvenir of the occasion.

A ladies' orchestra of four pieces furnished music, this being their first public appearance and under the leadership of Miss Davenport rendered acceptable service. A very pleasing entertainment followed the banquet. Among the numbers were vocal selections by Miss Eva Rice with piano accompaniment by Miss Teressa Bouchard very finely rendered; readings by Sister Knowles, who received deserved encores; vocal solo by Mr. Mosett who sang several selections most acceptably; violin duet by two young ladies of the orchestra Misses Beal and Crockett with Miss Davenport accompanist, added much to the success of the entertainment. Remarks were made by members of the government officers explaining the work of the order and the good it is accomplishing in the community and urging the ladies to join the organization and assist in carrying out its mission. The evening's entertainment was brought to a close with illustrated songs by Mr. Cahill and his daughter Ruth with the assistance of Mr. Mosett. All attending spent a most enjoyable evening.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

Nothing Being Heard from the Commission as to Their Abolishment.

The nearly fatal accident at the Water street railroad crossing Tuesday night has caused people to ask what has become of the commission that was to determine how this and the Saville street crossings were to be abolished. The public hearings on the matter were completed some months ago. Since that time the public has heard nothing more about it.

It is understood however that the City Solicitor and railroad with counsel for parties vitally interested are still appearing before the Commission in argument. The commission is doubtless at work with its engineer getting a plan ready but just when the report will be made is a matter of doubt.

Both of the crossings are extremely dangerous and the doing away with them can not come too soon. Scarcely a day passes when one or more people are seen running across Saville or Water streets in front of approaching trains. Should the foot catch between the rail and planking it would be next to impossible to save them from being killed.

The majority of the citizens who appeared at the public hearings appeared to be in favor of depressing the tracks at Saville street while the railroad, on account of the expense, want the tracks raised. At Water street the general impression seems to be if the present street is retained that there will be an overhead bridge.

MRS. MARY COSTELLO.

The body of Mrs. Mary Costello, who died Sunday in Omaha, arrived in Quincy Wednesday night and was taken to the home of Mrs. John A. McDonnell of Elm street. Mrs. McDonnell is a neice of Mrs. Costello. The funeral took place this morning, a requiem high mass being celebrated in St. John's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Coan. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass Miss Mary McConaty singing the Pie Jesu. John Mahon presided at the organ. Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Mrs. Costello was 86 years old and was formerly a resident of this city. She was the widow of Michael Costello and mother of the late Daniel Costello, with whom she made her home in the West until he died. She is also an aunt to Inspector Fred Goodhue of the local police force.

WEST QUINCY DEPOT FIRE

Prompt Work on Part of Employes Prevents Bad Fire

The depot at West Quincy came very near being destroyed by fire Wednesday evening, and although no bell alarm of fire was sounded, but for the prompt and efficient work of the ticket agent and Daniel McNeil, the freight agent, the building would doubtless have been gutted.

It was in the vicinity of 6 o'clock when a brisk fire was discovered in the ladies' waiting room, the fire having started in the basement and worked up through the floor. It must have been burning some time before discovered and evidently started among some rags used by plumbers, who had been at work that day in the basement.

As soon as the agent discovered the fire he shouted to the freight agent and grabbed one of the fire extinguishers, with which the depot is supplied, and got to work. He was soon joined by Mr. McNeil and after a stiff fight they succeeded in getting the fire under control without summoning the fire department.

If the agent instead of attacking the fire had run for the fire alarm box and sounded an alarm, much valuable time would have been lost and the fire loss would have been much heavier.

QUINCY MEN WINNERS.

Two Wollaston young men carried away some of the plums at the St. Catherine handicap meet in Somerville on Wednesday, each taking a first prize of a cup.

The 100 yard dash was won by Lucien H. Thayer of Willow street, with a handicap of 6 yards, in 10 seconds flat.

Franz R. Marceau of Wollaston avenue won the mile run, with a 50 yard handicap, to the time of 4 minutes and 32 seconds.

Young Marceau has the clean record of winning every race in which he has been entered and came prominently into the limelight at the field day given by the city of Quincy on July 5th where he carried away two firsts, in the mile and half mile respectively.

Both young men are entered in the big St. Augustine meet to be held at the Locust street grounds Saturday. Thayer is entered in the 100 and also the 440 novice while Marceau will run the mile and half mile.

QUINCY MAN ROBBED.

Hans Hanson Held up in Boston and Relieved of $3 in Cash.

A morning paper reports that Hans Hanson of Quincy was held up on Harrison avenue, Boston, Wednesday night by three men and besides being brutally beaten was robbed of $3 in money.

ATTRACTIVE LAWN PARTY

Annual of St. Chrysostoms Church a Grand Success

Upon the rectory grounds of St. Chrysostoms church Hancock street several hundred people gathered Wednesday from 3 until 10.30 P. M. for the fourth annual lawn party under the direction and management of the rector Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg,—the proceeds to be used for reducing the church mortgage. With perfect weather the affair proved highly successful and netted a nice profit. Attractions of every sort dotted the grounds. A feature that attracted many was the "auto tour" to East Milton. A concert of instrumental and vocal music with stereopticon views was given in the parish rooms during the evening by Mr. Cahill and Miss Cahill. The different tables were very attractive with the attendents all gowned in white. During the afternoon a phonograph concert in charge of George H. Bean was given and the Finnish National band of twenty-five men furnished exceptionally good music in the evening. The "snip game" had a large space lavishly decorated and a fortune telling tent was in operation.

The various features were in charge of.

Post Cards—Miss Louisa Allison Ross and Miss Ruth Parker.

Oh, you Ellen!

Joe Wood of the Red Sox seems to be the right kind of a stick.

Every real Quincyite can be distinguished this week by his nautical talk.

Isn't it about time for "Charlie" Adams to send for "Billy" Gavin and that grasshopper?

Now that the Ellen has won two legs, she ought to be able to walk off with the next race.

Did the cup racing committee also make the weather? These are pretty fine samples that are being given us for inspection.

Orders have been given, it is said, for the police to clear the First church chains of loafers. The chains will undoubtedly be lonesome.

The real estate markets of Boston are beginning to boom Squantum on account of the city water and new street to the place. The real estate barometer is a good one to watch.

Some juvenile offenders had some pretty plain talk handed out to them this week by Judge Avery. His Honor intimated he would give these youngsters the alternative of making restitution or saying good bye to their families. The warning ought to have its effect.

The city council committee that is to investigate the conditions of the property of junk dealers is a well-equipped body with Councilman Bryant as chairman and Councilman Flynn as interpreter.

With the Argentine Republic on the verge of war, it would look as if President Bowles of the Fore River company would reach that country at the prychological moment. By the way, keep up your weather eye towards South America for some big ship contracts.

Somebody in authority ought to get after some of the drivers of the watering carts. There are some streets that have not been sprinkled for over a week, according to all accounts. It is as essential to water new streets as it is to build them well. Sumner street, which was built only last year, has not been watered for a week or more and it is beginning to show the effects.

Yachtsmen have been very complimentary to the Ledger since the races began this week. The Ledger has had a column story on the street within a few minutes after the finish gun was fired, every evening this week and those who have not had a chance to see the races could readily tell from the Ledger's story, the progress of the race from start to finsh. The Ledger isn't given to bragging but when it comes to a "show-down," it is generally there "with the goods."

Councilman Flynn did a piece of first aid to the injured work a few evenings ago that was almost as well done as physicians could have done it. A man with a sprained ankle that had swollen to an immense size was brought into City square on an electric car. It was after midnight and the man wanted to continue on his way to his home in Neponset. Councilman Flynn, with the aid of some handkerchiefs and cold water, taken from the fountain, did an effective piece of bandage work. The councilman, when a base ball player, had been through the same game himself and knew just about what to do.

The United States is bringing to a close its labors in preparing for submission to the Hague the New Foundland fisheries dispute which has tried the souls of American and British diplomatists for almost a century, practically ever since the ratification of the Treaty of 1818. In submitting its claims to arbitration the United States is setting to the world an example which other nations may well profit by and which Bolivia, in her indignation at the award of certain disputed territory to Peru would do well to consider. There is no doubt in the minds of American statesmen as to the rights of this country, no question as to the injustice of the claims of New Foundland, and no small degree of misgiving as to the outcome of the arbitration.

It is far from surprising that the determined stand which President Taft has taken in favor of tariff revision downward should have commanded the respect and approval of the entire country. The President says he hears the call of the country for lower duties and merchants and statesmen, manufacturers and retailers, producers and consumers in all parts of the country have hastenerd to assure him by telegraph and by mail that he hears aright, that the men in Congress who have been insisting on maintaining the Dingley rates are misinterpreting the wishes of their constituents, that the success of the party in the next election depends on the faithful fulfilment of the party pledge as President Taft interprets it.

ANOTHER RACE GONE.

The Ellen, by another splendid piece of sailing, won the second leg for the Quincy cup yesterday. On the first leg down to the windward mark the Crooner held the Boston boat in royal fashion and it looked as if she would win but in the manouvering for the turning mark off Strawberry Hill the skipper of the Ellen seemed to have a better eye on the mark and made for it while the Crooner and the other boats were tacking in an evident hunt for the mark.

Whatever may have been the reason for the Crooner not turning the first alarm as rapidly as the Ellen, there is no use of offering excuses at this time. The Ellen won her race by fine sailing and excellent handling and she and her skipper are intitled to every felicitation which was showered upon him yesterday. If we can't hold the cup we can admire good racing qualities in another boat and there will be no regrets if clean racing standards are adhered to as they have been so far this week. The Quincy yacht club has stood far above the cup and its value this week and every true yachtsman in and around Quincy will say: "may the best boat win."

—Moriz Rosenthal's technic has always been, in a measure, a handicap, as it has tended to prevent full recognition of the true art behind the marvelously developed skill. As one discerning critic stated long ago, technic has been the tragedy of Rosenthal's career—meaning that because of his amazing virtuousity, his superb musiciaship has been relegated in the popular mind to second place. The pianist himself made a characteristic comment when he observed once upon a time. "What shall I do about it? I can't give my technic away, can I?" Rosenthal comes to America in October.

SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.
County of Monroe }

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

EXCURSIONISTS BADLY SCARED

Boat Rammed by Torpedo Which Swerved From Its Course

INTENDED TO HIT TARGET

Missed It and Glanced Along Side of Dismantled Schooner Before Bringing Up Against Crowd of Young Men and Women—Battleship Maine, as Naval Ambulance, Takes Typhoid Patients From Atlantic Fleet

Provincetown, Mass., July 22.—A torpedo shot from the tube of the submarine Viper hit the dismantled three-masted schooner William F. Green, glanced off and rammed a boat loaded with young women and their escorts who were taking a harbor sail.

The missile struck heavily against the pleasure craft, rolling it to a danger angle and throwing the occupants into a state of panic.

The trouble is said to have been due to some defect in the missile's adjustment, causing it to swerve from its intended course.

The Viper, which is one of the four government submarines now maneuvering here with Admiral Schroeder's fleet, fired the torpedo at a floating target.

The Green, which is used as a floating base for the Electrict Boat companies' fleet of completed but unaccepted submarines in Provincetown harbor, has lain here at the west end of the harbor, for a month or so.

The torpedo missed the target, but struck the Green while traveling rapidly. It plugged that vessel in the side, striking diagonally, and plowed a furrow three inches deep in the stout oaken plank at the ship's water line.

After striking the Green the torpedo swerved outward at a greater angle, and with speed apparently little diminished rushed from the scene and hit the boat loaded with excursionists. It was a narrow escape for the Green, only the glancing nature of the blow saving her from serious injury.

Potatoes Cause Typhoid

Boston, July 22.—Resembling a hospital ship, the U. S. S. Maine made her first appearance in Boston harbor yesterday afternoon, coming from Provincetown with twenty-one sick men aboard, who were transferred to the marine hospital at Chelsea.

Fourteen of the men were victims of typhoid fever. Seven were victims of measles and mumps, and of the typhoid cases none appear serious at this time, with the exception of Seaman Simonon. They were taken aboard the Maine at Provincetown from the other ships of the fleet which is maneuvering there.

Every precaution is being taken by the officers of the fleet to avert an epidemic of typhoid, and the ships from which the men afflicted with this malady were taken were disinfected to prevent further trouble. The U. S. S. Wisconsin has had the greatest trouble with this disease so far.

The cause of the disease is attributed unofficially to bad potatoes. A new supply of the vegetable has been ordered from local dealers at Provincetown.

STEEL SHIPS FOR TARGETS

Two Are Being Pushed to Completion at Boston Navy Yard

Boston, July 22.—Work is being rushed at the local navy yard under special orders from the navy department at Washington upon two steel vessels of a new type which are to be used as targets for the American battleship fleets.

Dissatisfaction with the present style of triangular target has led to a more endurable type to consist of a steel vessel 125 feet long, 13 feet beam and 15 feet draft, with 17 water tight compartments which must all be riddled with shot before the vessel will sink.

Two such vessels must be ready at the Charlestown yard within twenty-one days, one for the use of the Asiatic squadron at Cavite, P. I., and the other to be used by the North Atlantic squadron.

Drawings For Indian Lands

Washington, July 22.—In view of a prevailing misapprehension respecting the opening of the Flathead Indian reservation, the Coeur D'Alene reservation and the Spokane Indian reservation, it is stated that the drawings for the three openings will take place at Coeur D'Alene, beginning Aug. 9.

Curfew Law For Negroes

Mobile, Ala., July 22.—The police commissioners have established a curfew law for negroes. Hereafter all the blacks must be at home or in bed at 10 p. m. Any of them caught wandering at large will be locked up. This action is due to an epidemic of hold-ups perpetrated by negroes.

Strike Situation at a Standstill

Pittsburg, July 22.—The strike of the employes of the Pressed Steel Car company has resolved itself into a waiting game on the part of both the strikers and the company.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to seattle $750,000 on Almeric.

"It will be as soon as the settlement is made and arranged. It will take about all your share of the estate, sis, but it's worth it—a hundred and fifty thousand pounds."

Ethel lifted the book to the level of her eyes.

"What better use could be made of a fortune, Hoddy, than to maintain the state and high condition of so ancient a house?"

He looked at her affectionately and took her hand.

"It does seem impossible that we were born in Indiana, doesn't it, sister?" And the tones of his voice were those of incredulity.

She smiled at him fondly.

"But isn't it good that the pater 'made his pile,' as the Americans say, and let us come over here while we were young to find the nobler things, Hoddy—the nobler things?"

"The nobler things—the nobler things! Why, sis, when old Hawcastle dies I'll be saying offhand, you know, 'My sister, the Countess of Haw castle'"—

For a moment Ethel remained thoughtful and then turned to her brother.

"You don't imagine that father's friend, this old Mr. Pike, will be—will be queer, do you?"

"Well, the governor himself was rather raw, you know. This is probably a harmless old chap, easy to handle."

"I wish I knew. I shouldn't like Almeric's family to think we had queer connections of any sort, and he might turn out to be quite shockingly American. I—I couldn't bear that, Hoddy!"

There was a note of genuine pathos in her voice, and her brother responded instantly:

"Then keep him out of the way. That's simple enough," he said. "None of them, except the solicitor, need see him."

Almost in a burst like an eruption there came an uproar outside the gates beyond the hotel—wild laughter, riotous cheering and the notes of the tarentella played by mandolins and guitar, then more shouts and cheers and cries of "Bravo, Americano!" and "Yanka Dooda!" Horace ran to the gates, but they were closed, and the uproar continued. Ethel stood by one of the tables, amazement written on her features, and turned to her brother as he came back shaking his head.

"What is that?" she asked tremulously. Lady Creech, all in a flutter, entered from the hotel. At a glance one would set her down for an aristocrat. There was no doubt of it. From the topmost tip of her white hair to the toe of her solid shoe she was an aristocrat.

"One of your fellow countrymen, my dear," she said to Ethel. "Your Americans are really too"—

"Not my Americans, Lady Creech!" said Ethel spiritedly.

"Not our, you know. One could hardly say that, now!" reiterated Horace.

Almeric entered, at once laughing and beating his boot with his crop. Almost exhausted with his mirth, he threw himself into a chair and burst out:

"Oh, I say, what a go! Motor car breaks down on the way here. One of the Johnnies, a German chap, discharges the chauffeur, and the other Johnny—one of your Yankee chaps, Ethel—hires two silly little donkeys, like rabbits, you know, to pull the machine. Then, as they can't make it, you know, he puts himself in the straps with them and proceeds, attended by the populace. Ha, ha!"

He laughed long and loudly.

"I went up to this Yankee chap, I mean to say—he was pulling and tugging along, you see—and I said, 'There you are, three of you in a row, aren't you?" meaning him and the two donkeys, you see, Ethel, and all he could answer was that he 'picked the best company in sight.' No meaning to it. I had him, you know, I rather think, didn't I?"

At this moment Lord Hawcastle entered with a bundle of newspapers under his arm and proceeded to settle himself at one of the tables. Almeric approached him.

"English papers, governor? I'll take the pink un. I'm off." And he picked up the tinted sheet as he spoke. Ethel came up to him and touched him on the arm.

"Going for a stroll, Almeric? Would you like me to go with you, dear?"

He looked at her vacantly for an instant and then stammered:

"Well, I rather thought I'd have a quiet bit of reading, you know."

Ethel drew back quickly and said in a very small voice:

"Oh, I beg your pardon."

Then she sat down hurriedly by Lord Hawcastle.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE AMERICAN.

THE clatter without continued unabated, and Ethel and the countess walked back to the terrace rampart to stand looking out over the glorious bay.

Horace, still in the seventh heaven of delighted realization, took the Daily Mail from the table on which the earl had thrown it and seated himself to read beside Lady Creech, who was already deep in the Church Register. The earl had buried himself in the Pall Mall Gazette and was apparently oblivious to such minor details as an Italian peasant row.

But to Horace in his highly strung condition of nerves the uproar was aggravating, and he called to Mariano, who was busily setting the table again:

"Mariano, how long is this noise to continue?"

The maitre d'hotel shrugged his expressive shoulders and replied:

"How can I know, m'sieu? We can do nothing."

Michele, who was assisting his chief, smiled covertly at the young man.

"The populace they will not be depart so long as there shall be the chance once again to observe the North American who pulled the automobile with the donkeys!"

"Merci!" cried Mariano, with vigor "He have confuse me. He have confuse everybody. He will not be content with the dejeuner until he have the ham and the egg, and he will have the egg cooked upon but one of two sides, and how in the name of the heaven can we tell which of these two sides?"

Mariano was about to continue his grumbling complaint when from the doorway of the hotel there came an interruption. The courier who had spoken with him earlier in the morning stood there and voiced but one word.

"Garcon!" he said softly. But it was like the command of a cavalry officer in its effect, for instantly the maitre d'hotel and his aid stood at attention like trained veterans. The earl evidently was not too deeply immersed to catch the sudden silence, for he looked up from his paper and observed:

"Upon my soul! Who's this?"

Mariano did not turn his head nor relax his attitude of stiff attention, but answered obsequiously:

"It is the Herr von Grollerbagen, a German gentleman, milord."

Hawcastle turned with an amused smile to Horace.

"The man who owns the automobile Probably made a fortune in sausage."

From within the hotel there came the tones of a heavy though cultivated voice declaiming quietly:

"Nein, nein, Ribiere! 'S macht nichts!"

Richard Smith, living at 4 Main Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I would be so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, and in a short time after beginning their use was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and have had no trouble of the kind since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this great change in my condition and gladly recommend them.

"THE SECRET UNVEILED"

Harry Thaw's Mother Issues a Pamphlet on Her Son's Trial

White Plains, N. Y., July 22.—The prosecutors of her son are criticized and insanity experts scored in a twenty-page booklet which Mrs. Mary C. Thaw, mother of Harry K. Thaw, issued here.

It bears the title "The Secret Unveiled," and besides giving a resume of the various court proceedings in which Harry Thaw has been involved, alleges the existence of a "cowardly combination" against her son and the taking of unusually oppressive measures in his case. His entire sanity at the present time is strongly asserted.

Mrs. Thaw says she recognizes that she has rendered herself subject to criticism by writing the book. "But exceptional conditions," she says, "demand exceptional treatment, and the fact that District Attorney Jerome has on four occasions left the quite sufficient responsibilities of his own district to pursue this case into a district within which he has no jurisdiction, compels this unusual procedure on my part."

WAS PERSONAL REPROOF

Shelving of Clemenceau Not Directed Against the Government

Paris, July 22.—President Fallieres today will offer the premiership to Leon Bourgeois, former minister of foreign affairs. Parliamentary circles, however, foresee that he will decline the honor, as his health is far from robust.

M. Clemenceau, the late premier, President Dubost of the senate, and President Brisson of the chamber of deputies, have counselled Fallieres that M. Briand, minister of justice and worship, is the most available man after Bourgeois, and it is understood that Briand is the president's second choice.

The parliamentary leaders of the majority have told Fallieres that Clemenceau's defeat was a personal reproof directed against the premier for his attack upon Delcasse and that it would not check the policies of government, which should be continued.

Slump In Grain Market

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY LEDGER.

TWO WINS TO ELLEN'S CREDIT

Light Wind Wednesday Gives Her Another Leg In Cup

The Ellen, the speedy challenger representing the Boston yacht club, and sailed by C. P. Curtis, Jr., secured another leg of the Quincy cup in the race sailed Wednesday off the clubhouse at Houghs Neck. This gives the Ellen two wins, as she finished first the day before, and the Wolf one. Today's race will decide whether the defender will have another chance at the cup. If she loses today then she drops out of the race, as the rules say that after four races have been sailed, only those having won one will be allowed to compete. The same thing will happen to the Sally X and the Spokane III, unless they win today. Therefore it is up to Charlie Adams and his Crooner to go out and win today in order that the Quincy club will have a chance to get after the cup. If the Ellen wins today the series is over and if the Wolf wins, tomorrow's race will settle the series.

As on Monday the race was sailed over a windward and leeward course the start being outside Spear's stand. The boats had to beat the buoy off Strawberry hill for the first leg and a run back to the start for the second, the course being twice around. The distance was a little over 11 miles. At the start there was quite a strong breeze blowing from the east and for a time it looked like a win for the Crooner or the Wolf, the heavy weather boats of the bunch. But on the first run home the wind died out and the Ellen, which took the lead shortly after, began to pull away. She finished several minutes ahead of the Wolf, which just nosed out the Crooner. The Sally was fourth and Spokane a poor last.

All five boats were up to the mark waiting for the gun and when the signal was given they went over the line in a bunch, it being almost impossible to pick the first boat over. It looked like the Spokane first, the Crooner second and the other three tied. The Spokane held her lead only for a minute. The Ellen, Crooner and Sally started off on a long reach to the Hull shore to get the clear wind and the strong tide from Hull gut. The other two took a hitch in the opposite direction the Wolf going on the west shore of Sheep island, while the Spokane went between Sheep and Bumkin. Here she struck the strong tide that runs into Hingham channel from Hull gut and she had a hard time getting along. She never made up what she lost on this hitch.

In the meantime the Crooner, Sally and Ellen kept along on their tack to the Hull shore, the Crooner being to leeward of the other two. They came about just on the edge of the main ship channel and headed for Strawberry hill. There was quite an exciting race for a while, the Crooner seeming to have the best of it. The Crooner, however, kept down too far on the Bumkin island shore and lost a big lot on the move. The Ellen turned in and went away ahead turning the first mark a full minute ahead of the Sally which had also passed the Crooner. The Crooner was 25 seconds behind the Sally. About a minute later came the Wolf and two minutes after her the Spokane came in from her struggle with the Hingham channel tides.

The Ellen led at the turn at the starting mark, while the Crooner which had passed the Sally shortly after the first turn, was in second place, nearly three minutes behind the Ellen. The Wolf was fourth and the Spokane fifth.

These positions remained the same till thh next turn at Strawberry when the Wolf passed the Sally and took third place. The Ellen was leading all the time and the Crooner was second. They held these positions till about 200 yards from the finish, when the Wolf and the Crooner got into a luffing match. The Wolf got to windward of the Quincy boat and finally passed her taking second place. The Crooner had to be contented with third place.

The race today is over a triangular course and starts at 1 o'clock. This will be the fourth race and will eliminate at least two boats from the rest of the races. The summary:—

Wolf, Eastern Y C	2:16:22
Crooner, Quincy Y C	2:16:38

COLONEL JOHN QUINCY.

The eminent citizen after whom Quincy is named well deserved that tribute to his memory. This was shown a year ago in the burden of those exercises which were held in First church in recognition of the worth and services of Colonel John Quincy. It was then made manifest that he was a statesman of rare sagacity and strength of character and that above all men of his generation he had labored for the highest interests of his town. The proceedings of the celebration have now been published in book form. The principal address, written in collaboration by Mr. Charles Francis Adams and the Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson, has been greatly enlarged since its delivery. It is practically a memoir of John Quincy which gives all the discoverable facts of his life skilfully outlined upon the turbulent scenes of his day. The book contains, besides, the addresses of the president of the Quincy Historical Society, Mr. Brooks Adams, and that of Mr. Charles F. Adams. Some eight or ten half-tone illustrations adorn the pages, and altogether the publication presents a handsome appearance. This must be a matter of satisfaction to the members of the Quincy Historical Society as it is the first elaborate issue in printed form of the many interesting and important things brought before the Society. Such a contribution to the history of the city of Quincy and of the Commonwealth is precisely the kind of work which the Society aims to encourage. It was also due to the memory of John Quincy that this recognition of his worth and of his place in the history of his times should have been made.

Although the book represents a good deal of delving in the dusty alcoves of libraries and the more dusty archives of the state, it is not another dry specimen of antiquarian lore. Indeed, it would be much unlike other writings about Quincy, this seene of freedom's foremost aspirations, if it could be so characterized. It is a living chapter out of that story, not yet ended, of liberty and independence in America. Of especial local interest is the account of Col. Quincy's guardianship of the Ponkapoag Indians, and the part he played in the threatened rebellion of the farmers and artizans of this neighborhood over the suppression of a wild-cat banking company. In every page there is much to attract the attention of all the descendants of the old settlers, and of all who love the history of our far famed city. The intimate and helpful relations of Colonel Quincy to the town in those early days when it was part of Braintree is revealed in the fact that he was chosen moderator of town meetings forty-two times or more, and representative to the General Court through twenty-five years. The number of town committees on which he served are too numerous to be counted. Not in all the long history of Braintree and Quincy is there to be found another man who gave himself more devotedly and generously to the welfare of the community. When all is considered he is the one man to be honored by the perpetuation of his name in the title of that North Precinct in which he lived when it was set off from Braintree as an independent town. This memoir completes, in a way, the fine service Mr. Adams has rendered Quincy and Braintree in writing their history in the "Free Episodes," and in preserving in other writings of his what is of most significance in a community "in which there was an unusual concentration, not only of men and women of mark, but also of ideas around which a new world crystallized. "

QUINCY NATURAL GATEWAY.

An interesting book has recently been issued by the Metropolitan Improvement Commission of Massachusetts. This Commission was appointed to investigate and report as to the advisability of any public works in the Metropolitan district which in its opinion will tend to the convenience of the people, the development of local business, the beautifying of the district or the improvement of the same as a place of residence. Also to consider a systematic method of internal communication by highways, the control or direction of traffic and transportation and the location of docks and terminals which the interests of the district demand. Mr. Sylvester Baxter, well known for his writings and interest in civic improvement is secretary of the Commission.

Under the heading of Quincy the report says:

"An examination of the topographical map will show that Quincy occupies a tract of land which forms a natural gateway connecting Boston with the south shore. This gateway is bounded on one side by the sea and on the other side by the abrupt slopes of the Blue Hill range; therefore traffic cannot be diverted from it, and the main roads of Quincy, which control this gateway, should have sufficient width to satisfy the demands which the future is likely to make upon them. There are only two roads—Adams Street, 40 to 50 feet wide, and Hancock Street, 50 to 60 feet wide—which approach the gateway from the north, and they join to form one road at Quincy Square. That these streets should be widened for the good of the district and the city of Quincy there can be no doubt. To assist these streets, the rudimentary, narrow or ill-connected streets which approximately parallel them should also be developed. Willard Street, Franklin Street, Newport Avenue, Newbury Street, Faxon and Rawson roads require widening, connection and extension to perform this service. The extension of the Quincy Shore Drive through Park lane, Valley street, Canal street and Revere road would tend to the same desirable end. Traffic should not be concentrated in Quincy square.

The character of the cross streets of Quincy is of little importance to the district for they can never be of moment as through roads. For the local interests of the city, however, several improvements are needed. Squantum street and the narrower portions of Elm avenue should be widened. The jogs should be removed from Beach street. East Howard street should be widened and extended through Cleverley Court.

Quincy should not allow the hilly portions of the city to be developed with systems of streets like that of Wollaston (see plan opposite page 198), which represent the worst possible scheme of highways which can be devised for hilly ground. Steep hills of the Wollaston type can be laid out with roads of easy gradient, which are economical to maintain and which are of lasting service to the community."

Quincy square is also illustrated in the book and commented on as follows: "In certain communities, including Woburn, Lexington and Quincy the triangular squares were made unusually large in size for reasons of local convenience or taste, and have become noteworthy in the Commonwealth for their admirable appearance."

The book makes interesting reading and the appointment of the Commission seems a wise move on the part of the state.

SAVE THE TREES.

One section of the city in which the ravages of the elm leaf beetle are greatly in evidence is among the foliage of the giant elm trees on Elm avenue. In the crusade against the pest this street has evidently been overlooked and unless some stringent measures are taken these stately trees, which have been the pride of that section ever since they were planted by the old Quincy family many years ago, will be destroyed.

This street is said to be the broadest in Quincy and was formerly the driveway of the famous old Quincy mansion. Shorn of these trees the avenue, which is now one of the shadiest and most attractive thoroughfares in Wollaston, will be changed into an uninviting street to say the least.

Although the residents of this street are retiring and do not ask for some of the favors which are enjoyed by other streets, it seems that if it were only for the benefit of the city at large and for the sake of their historical associations that steps should be taken to save the trees.

WOLF TIES UP SERIES

Three Boats Eliminated as Result of Thursday's Race

The final race in the series for the Quincy cup will be sailed today, and the cup will go either to the Wolf or the Ellen, the Wolf winning the race Thursday, and thereby eliminating the Crooner, the defender, the Spokane III and the Sally X. Thursday's race was the fourth of the series and according to the rules these boats, which had not captured at least one race, would be dropped. Hence the contest has narrowed down to two boats and the whereabouts of the cup next year will depend mostly on the wind today. If the wind is light, it is generally conceded that the Ellen of the Boston yacht club will win. But if the weather is heavy the Wolf of the Eastern club will be the favorite. If the former wins, next year's races will probably be sailed in Hull Bay, and if the cup goes to the Eastern yacht club, the series will undoubtedly be held at Marblehead.

Thursday's race was one of the best of the series, the wind being strong from the east all through. The Wolf and Crooner had a fine brush on the first leg, a beat to the buoy in Hingham channel. When the two came about at Sheep island to head for the turning buoy, they were right together, the Crooner having the windward position. They went along side by side almost to Grape island before they came about. The Crooner was the first to turn and she was immediately followed by the Wolf. It was then a race for the turning buoy, but the Wolf having taken the windward position on the tack, was first around, the Crooner being only a few seconds behind. This was the most exciting brush seen during the whole series, but after this the Wolf was never headed and it was seen that she was due to win.

The Ellen was out of the race before the first turn, for she fouled the Spokane and immediately withdrew of her own accord. It was a case of misjudgment on the part of her skipper. He tried to cross the Spokane's bow, but found he could not and had to come about, and made the Spokane come about also. This he had no right to do, as the Spokane was on her starboard tack and had the right of way. It was clean foul and the Ellen people knew it and they showed the true sporting spirit when they dropped out. This is an example of the kind of racing that has been going on in Quincy bay this week and it is a credit to the Quincy club and to those contesting in the series. It was a graceful piece of work on the part of the Ellen and there was not a yachtsman at the race that did not praise her highly for it.

The Ellen would not probably have won even if she had not dropped out, for the Wolf was leading her at the time and she was not sailing her best in the heavy air. The course was the same as on Tuesday, a triangle, the first leg being a beat to the buoy in Hingham channel, the second a broad balloon reach to Peddock's island, and third a close reach to the starting mark. The course was twice around, a distance of about 10 miles.

As in every race of the week the boats were sent away on time. They crossed the line in a bunch the Crooner being in the lead. The Spokane was over too soon and was forced to come back and make a fresh start. They were all on the starboard tack and all but the Spokane held to this. The Spokane took a short hitch to the port and then came back again. Just off Sheep island the Wolf and the Crooner came about to head for the first turn and then came the exciting race between the two as described above. While all this was going on the Sally had been pointing up in fine style and had gained considerably on the other two, so when she turned the first mark she was in the running with the others. The Spokane even at this point of the race, was hopelessly out of it.

After the first turn the positions remained the same all the rest of the way. This is the first day that there has not been one or two changes in position during the race. On the second time around the Crooner and the Wolf held to the same courses they had taken on the first time. The Sally tried to work the Grape island shore and for a time she looked as if she had gained by it. But when the boats turned the mark it was seen that she had not only not gained, but had been left behind. The Spokane was away in the rear and did not have a ghost of a show.

Today's race starts at 2 o'clock and will be between the Wolf and the Ellen. The race will be over a windward and leeward course, a distance of about 11 miles. The summary of Thursday's race:—

LOOKS LIKE WOLF'S CUP

Unless Wind Flatens Cup Almost Sure To Go To Wolf

It was a strong southeasterly breeze that kicked up quite a heavy sea, that greeted the yachts Ellen and Wolf, when they came to the mark this afternoon for the final race in the series for the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup. By the process of elimination, laid down by the deed of trust any yacht that does not win one of the first four races is put in the down and out class. Thus the defender Crooner and the challengers Sally and Spokane III were not permitted to enter today's contest.

The race this afternoon was an interesting one for both the Ellen and the Wolf had two wins to their credit. The former won both of her races on days when there was but little air and the Wolf was the winner on the days when there was a stiff breeze.

A strong wind had prevailed all the morning kicking up quite a sea which caused the knowing ones to shake their heads and say that it was the Wolf's day. Winds are freaky things however at times, and it is among the possibilities that before the race is over, the wind will die down and let the Ellen in first.

The race this afternoon was over a course that gave the boats a run to the outer mark and a beat home.

At 2 o'clock the hour scheduled for the race to start it was raining hard and the wind had shifted to the southerly and it was decided to postpone the start until 2.30.

The warning gun sounded at 2.30 o'clock and ten minutes later the two rivals were across the line and the final race was under way.

At that time the wind was blowing hard and the bay was filled with white caps. The two boats got away well bunched and on the beat to the outer mark, in Hingham channel the Wolf seemed to be leading and to have the best of the race.

Interest in the race seems to have lagged somewhat for there were but few spectators at the club house.

MISS GERTRUDE MCDEVITT.

Sister of Ward Four Councilman Passed Away This Morning.

Miss Gertrude McDevitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDevitt of 136 Willard street, and sister of Councilman John J. McDevitt of ward 4, died this morning at her home after a long illness. Miss McDevitt was one of the best-known and most popular young women of the West Quincy district. She was a young woman of fine character, a genial and kindly disposition and had made a host of friends among the young people of West Quincy and other sections of the city as well, while among the older folks she was held in the highest esteem . She was a member of St. Ambrose court of Lady Foresters and had always been foremost in the work of promoting the best interests of that organization. She is survived by her parents, her brother, Councilman John J. McDevitt, who represents ward 4 in the city council, and her sister, Miss Florence McDevitt.

FELL FROM CAR.

Miss Ellen Mahoney Alights From Moving Car And Strikes Head.

Miss Ellen Mahoney, a domestic in the O'Malley family of Botolph street, met with a painful, though not serious accident about 10 o'clock Thursday night. Miss Mahoney was alighting from a Quincy bound electric and stepped from the car before it came to a full stop . She was thrown to the ground and struck her head on the pavement, receiving a bad cut on the back of her head. Medical aid was summoned and the woman was carried to her home. She was unconscious for a time, but it is not thought that anything serious will result.

—For eight nights during the Hudson-Fulton celebration, New York promises to be the most brilliantly illuminated city in the world. This will be accomplished with electric lights to the extent of 26,260,000 candle power, besides countless private and advertising glims.

IMPROVEMENTS AT SQUANTUM

Water Mains And New Street Will Boom This Section

Squantum has been well taken care of this year and a large amount of money is to be expended by the city in the way of improvements. The first of these improvements was the extending of the water mains. Heretofore those who were fortunate enough to have running water in their homes got it from the city of Boston.

There were however many residences that did not have water and they had to depend on their neighbors. This has retarded development considerable.

Early this spring the City of Boson sent out notices that no more water would be supplied to residents and a water famine was threatened.

Then the city got busy. Mayor Shea tried to make some arrangement with the Boston authorities for supplying water but was unsuccessful.

Then an attempt was made to purchase the mains owned by the city of Boston and negotiations were entered into.

Boston was very ready to sell but they wanted more for the old mains that had been in the ground twenty years than it would cost to lay new mains.

The result was that it was decided that the city should lay a new main from Atlantic street.

This work has been in progress some weeks and the main is practically laid and a large gang is at work laying smaller pipes through the streets and connecting residences.

The next thing done for Squantum was to appropriate $8,000 to build a section of Squantum street thoroughly.

This work will be immediately undertaken.

There have been many new residences erected at Squantum this year and practically all of them are such that they can be used the whole year if desired. In fact the restrictions on the land sold are such that ramshackle houses, like many of those recently erected at Houghs Neck are prohibited. When all of these improvements are completed, this will become one of the most desirable summer resorts along the coast of Massachusetts.

The view from Squantum is unsurpassed and no matter how hot the day one is sure to find a cool breeze here.

It is now up to the Ellen to keep the Wolf from the door.

The Ellen and Wolf having won two legs apiece can now be said to be on equal footing.

The Milford Daily Pointer has suspended publication. It will be sadly missed by those who love a good joke.

The dandelion has gone to seed, the violet has faded away ,the golden rod will soon be here and Congress is still in session.

Now that the Calasoma beetle, the Magnus Cornus fly, the Blepharipha fly and the Japanese fly, are all after the Browntail moths, would it not be wise to order more fly paper?

With the last of the Quincy cup races scheduled for today and the open race of the Squantum club billed for tomorrow, Quincy has indeed had a gala week of yachting.

Last week the Hitchcock quarry gave up a 30-ton stone and yesterday the Merry Mount quarry produced two weighing 35 tons each. By and by we may get some big enough for the pillars of Hercules.

By the way, for those who believe in signs and numbers, it might be interesting to remember that the number on the Ellen's mainsail was 7 and that the number of the Wolf was 106 which, added together makes 7.

It is well that some suitable memorial to Col. John Quincy has been arranged in book form. Col. John Quincy was the man for whom this city was named and it is only a year or two since his grave was discovered in the old Hancock cemetery. He was a public man whose services were rendered both to the state and to the Indians with ability and fidelity. His was a worthy name to give to the new town that was set off from old Braintree. Let us hope that the city of Quincy will always be worthy of the name it bears.

Despite the fact that it is as yet only midsummer ,there is no end of political eggs hatching in the hot sun. Yesterday Arthur P. Russell of Wollaston announced his candidacy for the governor's council, Dr. Bowker is said to be a candidate for county commissioner from Brookline, Mayor Shea has been interviewed on his third-term candidacy, there have been published stories concerning the proposed nomination of President Hobbs of the city council as a Republican candidate for mayor and the Lord knows what the next breeze may bring forth. What's the use. Why not enjoy the summer without injecting worrying political possibilities. There'll be plenty of time when cool weather comes to size up the political situation. There is this one fact that seems to be apparent in this midsummer campaign. The people at large don't seem to give a rap just now. The politicians are quietly working the wires, only to come out later on and say in the old, familiar way that, having been "urged" to run by the people they reluctantly give up their private business interests to serve the public good. Sounds nice, doesn't it but, really, let's keep cool and enjoy the summer.

THE CUP LOST TO QUINCY.

As a result of the yacht race yesterday in which the Wolf won and thus secured two legs for the cup, the fate of the Quincy cup is decided for this season as far as the Quincy yacht club is concerned. Under the rules of the deed of gift, any boat that has not won any of the first four races, is not eligible to sail in any more races after that. So far this week the Ellen has won two races and the Wolf two and by reason of this the Crooner, the defending boat, will not be permitted to enter in the race of today.

It is fair to say that the members of the Quincy yacht club, and the people of Quincy in general, are disappointed in the showing made by the Crooner. From her previous races at Marblehead there was reason to suppose that the cup was in a fair way to remain here as the Crooner had come here from Marblehead with a splendid list of victories. In the quieter water of Quincy, however, she did not show up to the advantage that was expected of her because of her former victories. In yesterday's race it was said that weather conditions were more nearly suited to the Crooner than on any previous day but yet she lost to the Wolf. The margin was only 23 seconds but the Crooner was a second boat all the way round and the defeat might as well have been 23 minutes as 23 seconds, as far as qualifying for the cup was concerned.

Mr. Adams is entitled to thanks of all good, fair-minded sporting men of this city for his efforts and the expense he underwent to provide a boat to defend the cup. No doubt he did the very best that was in him, as he saw it, to make a winner out of his boat. Mr. Adams is probably as good an amateur skipper as there is in this vicinity and it is safe to say if he could not get speed out of the Crooner, there isn't much chance that any other skipper could. The races, as we said yesterday, have been conducted on a high plane of sportsmanship and have been a credit to the Quincy yacht club and the men who participated in the races. As an instance of the fair play exercised in the races, it may be noted that the Ellen accidently fouled the Spokane during the first leg of yesterday's race and the skipper of the Ellen immediately withdrew from the race and reported to the judges that he had fouled another boat.

There have been some races around Quincy where such a fouling would have to be reported by the injured boat and then there would be a fight against such a protest by the boat at fault. That no such tactics were employed in this series of races shows that the men in it were true sports. The Quincy yachtsmen can lose gracefully when they have to but after the victory has been won and the cup carried away from our shores, every yachtsman will say that the Quincy club stands for clean, honest sport and that, after all, is a record worth attaining.

BOURGEOIS SIDETRACKED

Next Premier of France Will Probably Be Aristide Briand

HE WILL GIVE ANSWER TODAY

Rapid Rise to Foremost Place In French Government of Man Who a Few Years Ago Was Hardly Known Except Among Revolutionary Socialists—Some Opposition From Those Who Dominate Majority

Paris, July 23.—Aristide Briand, brilliant scholar, orator and avowed Socialist, and architect of the final chapters of the separation law, was summoned to the Elysee palace last night and asked to reconstruct the Clemenceau cabinet. Briand promised his answer today, stating that unless he could unite the Republican groups he would go no further.

President Fallieres, upon the advice of the parliamentary leaders whom he was constitutionally obliged to consult, intended to make the first offer of the premiership to Leon Burgeois, former minister of foreign affairs, but the delay in Bourgeois' arrival in Paris and doubt regarding his acceptance of the post induced the president to save time by offering the premiership directly to Briand, who already is consulting with his colleagues with a view to the reconstruction of the cabinet.

LEON BOURGEOIS

This reconstruction, it is expected, will be effected by the shifting of some of the portfolios and the retention of all the ministers except Picquart, Picard and Millies-Lacroix, ministers of war, navy and colonies respectively.

The program of the retiring government will be adopted, but probably will be extended to include the passage at the October session of the bill relating to electoral reform, which provides for voting by departments, with proportionate representation, instead of the present choice of deputies by small districts.

Considerable opposition to Briand developed, especially among the more conservative senators and radicals, who dominate the party of the Republican majority, on the ground that the selection of a Socialist at the head of the government would be equivalent to proclaiming the bankruptcy of the radicals.

Should Briand succeed in forming a cabinet, as his friends believe he will, the tendencies of the new ministry will be distinctly more Socialistic than those of the outgoing cabinet. Briand is opposed to the dissolution of the revolutionary General Federation of Labor, which Clemenceau favored, and M. Barthou, minister of public works, and M. Viviani, minister of labor, have championed Socialistic doctrines. The retention of M. Pinchon, the foreign minister, in any cabinet formed would be a source of general satisfaction.

A Briand cabinet would be exceeding distasteful to the moneyed classes, who at least know that Clemenceau was not afraid to resist those of revolutionary tendencies. The conservatives, however, believe that the Briand cabinet would be short-lived.

Aristide Briand, who will probably be the next premier of France, is 47 years of age. He has risen very rapidly from the ranks of politicians to a foremost place in the government. A few years ago he was hardly known except among the members of his own party, the revolutionary Socialists.

Jerome Will Cross-Examine Thaw

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 23.—It has been practically decided that District Attorney Jerome will be called into the Thaw case when the hearings are resumed at White Plains on Monday next. Jerome will conduct the cross-examination of Thaw when he goes on the stand.

ELIOT PREDICTS A NEW RELIGION

It Will Bar the Deification of Human Beings

Cambridge, Mass., July 23.—Former President Eliot of Harvard university prophesied the advent of a new religion in an address before the Harvard Summer School of Theology. Touching upon some of its features he said:

"In the new religion there will be no deification of remarkable human beings.

"The multiplication to anybody of all the noblest, tenderest and highest qualities which a man has ever seen or imagined in a human being, must be the new religion. Every man makes his own God, in a way.

"The destiny of mankind has been delayed many centuries by the church teaching submission, always, to circumstanes.

"The surgeon who dresses a wound is an apostle of the new religion.

"The best of the new church will be the love of truth.

"Masonic orders are good if they teach mutual regard and social cooperation."

Quick Work Saves Freight Steamer After Bumping Into Iceberg

St. John's, July 23.—With her bows completely smashed in as the result of a collision with an iceberg off Cape Race the freight steamer Regulus arrived here after a narrow escape from foundering.

The Regulus had on a heavy cargo, including a deckload of boilers and machinery. As the ship settled rapidly by the head, officers and crew worked with desperate energy to jettison the deckload as well as 100 tons of coal. This eased the steamer sufficiently for her to make this port. It was the worst iceberg wreck seen here in many years.

Anna Shaw Sees One In Appointment of Women Policemen

Minneapolis, July 23.—That Minneapolis needs 100 women policemen is the opinion of Dr. Anna H. Shaw, president of the National Woman's Suffrage association, who addressed the students in the chapel of the University of Minnesota.

"One hundred women specialists put on the police force of any city would make for improved civil conditions," said Dr. Shaw. "The criminal needs 'mothering.'"

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns.

And instantly there came down the steps the German gentleman aforesaid. He was tall and of a commanding presence. He wore a grayish beard and an automobile cap that half concealed the eyes that burned with the authority of generations beneath. Withal it was a kindly face, and, though there was a stern command in the figure, there was genial humor and even tenderness too. By no authority could he have been considered well dressed. His clothes seemed rather to have been thrown on negligently.

The little party at the table regarded him with hostility, and Lady Creech turned up her aristocratic nose.

"What a dreadful person!" she said and turned again to her paper.

The German walked sedately across the terrace to the table where the two servitors still stood at attention and lifted his hand in a curt half military salute in acknowledgment of their bow.

"See to my American friend," he said.

"What a terrible person!" remarked Lady Creech again, and Hawcastle bent toward her.

"Undoubtedly, but he speaks English. So be careful."

"So many objectionable people do," commented the crusty dame.

Herr von Grollerhagen turned smilingly to Mariano.

"My American friend desires his national dish."

Mariano bowed.

"Yes, Herr von Grollerhagen," replied Mariano deferentially. "He will have the eggs on but one of two sides and the ham fried, so he go to cook it himself."

Von Grollerhagen smiled, when from without the gates came a shout of amusement and wild laughter. Mariano instantly bowed and ran toward the hotel.

"Ha!" he said eagerly. "He return from the kitchen with that national dish."

Michele emerged from the hotel walking backward and carrying a covered dish, while Ethel turned with a little shudder of disgust to the countess.

"How horrible!" she said, and the Frenchwoman patted her shoulder reassuringly.

Immediately following the servitor came Pike, the same self possessed Pike, clad in a linen duster and a straw hat that was decorated with a bright ribbon. If there was anything distinctive about him it was his scarf, which was of that type known as Windsor and much affected by artists in the east and every one in the west. He carried a towel with him and dropped it in one hand as he glanced about.

"Law!" he observed, startled, but amused. "I didn't know there were folks here. Reckon you'll have to excuse me. Here, son!" he called, tossing the towel into Michele's hands and walking over to the table. Hawcastle, Lady Creech and Horace stared unbelievingly. Ethel hid her face, with another little shudder, as Pike, without removing his dust coat, sat down opposite the German.

"You are a true patriot," laughed Von Grollerhagen. "You allow no profane hand to cook your national dish. I trust you will be as successful with that wicked motor of mine."

Pike laughed heartily.

"Lord bless your soul, doc, I've put a self binder together after a pony engine had bucked it halfway through a brick depot," said Pike genially, tucking his napkin inside the collar of his shirt and falling to on the ham and eggs. At the table where sat the Hawcastle party there were expressions of pained agony.

"You have studied mechanics at the university, then?" went on Von Grollerhagen. "Is it not so?"

"University!" returned Pike. "Not much! On the old man's farm."

Hawcastle turned at once to Horace.

"Without any disrespect to you, my dear fellow, what terrific bounders most of your fellow countrymen are!"

Horace mentally writhed under the veiled taunt, but turned quickly with an assent in effect.

"Do you wonder that sis and I have emancipated ourselves?" he asked, and the noble earl, with a softened glance as he thought of the dollars, replied blandly, "Not at all, my dear boy," and turned once more to his paper.

Von Grollerhagen glanced at the three with slight amusement and held out the caviare to Pike.

"Can I persuade you to try one of my national dishes," he asked—"caviare?"

"Caviare?" replied Pike. "I've heard of it, but I thought it was Russian."

"It is also German," answered the other, recovering himself from the start he had given. "Will you not?"

Daniel looked him straight in the eye quizzically.

"I'd never get into the legislature again if any of the boys heard of it," he remarked, "but I guess I'm far enough from home to take a few chances."

Quite slowly and hesitatingly he placed some of the caviare in his mouth and then turned a vacant and pained look upon the German. The latter smiled and observed quickly:

"You do not like it? I am sorry. Here! A taste of the vodka will destroy the caviare."

Mariano quickly filled a glass and passed it to Daniel, who seized it eagerly. This time he sat bolt upright in the chair and exhibited real distress. Then he quickly seized another forkful of the caviare and ate it hurriedly.

"But I thought you did not like the caviare?" said the German.

Daniel breathed quickly for an instant, and the flush died from his face.

"That was to take away the taste of the vodka," he said weakly, and Von Grollerhagen lifted his head and laughed heartily.

"I lift my hat to you, my friend," he said, and Pike looked at him genially.

CHILDREN AND CONSUMPTION.

Over 2,500,000 of the 17,000,000 school children enrolled in the United States have during the school year just closed, been systematically instructed concerning the dangers of consumption and the methods for its cure and prevention, according to a statement issued today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Besides the 2,500,000 children thus regularly instructed in their schools, the National Association estimates that fully 1,000,000 more have received instruction at the various tuberculosis exhibits held in all parts of the country or in separate classes and organizations.

A number of investigations conducted in various parts of the world show that a large percentage of the children in the public schools have tuberculosis before they are eighteen. That a larger number of them do not die, is due to the fact that healthy children are able to resist the attack of the consumption germ. On account of the prevalence of the disease among children, the National Association considers their education to be of prime importance.

In Boston, a special commission which recently investigated the subject found that over 5,000 school children in that city alone had positive cases of tuberculosis. In New York, a recent study showed over 25,000 tuberculosis children in the schools. On the basis of these and other investigations, it is estimated by certain authorities that there are nearly 1,000,000 school children in the United States today, who will probably die of tuberculosis before they have reached the age of eighteen. This would mean that the public schools of the country are paying annually about $7,500,000 for the education of children who will die before they reach the age of eighteen. At least one-half of this sickness, and possibly three-fourths of it, could be prevented, if the municipal and state governments would adopt better and more hygienic methods of controlling and teaching the children, and if the public in general were alive to the need for tuberculosis prevention.

The National Association declares that the best way to wipe out consumption among the children is to educate both them and their parents so that they will know that tuberculosis is a communicable disease, that it can be cured and that it must be prevented.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

WITH KNIFE AND PISTOL

Life of an Armenian Shoe Worker Is Snuffed Out

BODY IS PLACED IN A TRUNK

Lay Many Days In Room In Lynn Boarding House Before Tragedy Was Discovered by Landlady—Police Think Victim Was Deliberately Lured Into a Trap and Are Looking For His Former Associate

Lynn, Mass., July 23.—Another trunk murder mystery was added to the criminal annals of the east by the finding of the body of Minos K. Monjian, an Armenian shoe worker, in a room of a boarding house at 148 Liberty street, this city, by the landlady of the place, Mrs. Bessie Robbins.

There was a bullet wound through the breast and several knife wounds on the chest. The body had been placed in the trunk fully clothed and had evidetly been there since late Saturday night or early Sunday morning, for the man had been seen by a sister in Boston Saturday afternoon.

The motive of the murder is a mystery. The man bank book, his gold watch and chain and some loose change was found in his pockets, and besides, the police say that since the victim's return from a trip to Chicago about two weeks ago he had earned but $15 and they think he had been reduced to a few pennies.

The man whom the police think may be able to throw some light on the matter and whom they are anxious to find is Vahan Malbandian, an associate of Monjian and also a shoe worker, who has been missing since Monday. This man is also known as Frank Jones and the police of the large cities in the country have been asked to be on the lookout for him. The police of Worcester have been asked to make an especially careful search through the Armenian quarter of that city for Malbandian, as they believe he once lived in that city.

The dead man was about 28 years old and was not married. Identification was made by Milton Tooten, a shoe worker of this city, and also by means of the bank book found on his person.

Outside the establishment of the victim's identity and the fact that the police are seeking Nalbandian little progress has been made in the solution of the mystery.

Monjian has been missing from his boarding house at 72 Church street since Saturday. The police have searched all the local Armenian resorts in the hopes of discovering the whereabouts of Malbandian since that time. Former associates of Malbandian say they have not seen him in Lynn for many days, and that he then declared his intention of going to Turkey. At his lodging house at 148 Liberty street, where Monjian's body was found, several other boarders reported that they heard no pistol shot there in the past few days.

Chief of Police Thomas N. Burckes says he is satisfied that Malbandian and Monjian went together to Malbandian's room and that while there a premediated murder was committed. It is the opinion of Burckes that the trunk was purchased for the purpose it was made to serve and that Monjian walked into a trap that had been carefully prepared for him.

The police claim that they know of ea bank in Boston, the name of which they are not willing to give, where Balbandian secured over $200 which was on deposit in his name, within a few days. Since that time the police lost all trace of the missing man.

TO AMERICAN MINISTERS

Will Be Entrusted Interests of Both Argentine and Bolivia

Washington, July 23.—At the request of the two governments, the secretary of state has authorized the American ministers at LaPaz and at Buenos Ayres to take charge, respectively, of the interests of Argentine and Bolivia.

This is believed to be the first time on record when two countries which have broken off diplomatic relations with each other have both entrusted their interests to the representatives of the United States.

Spanish Troops Mutiny

Madrid, July 23.—A riot broke out yesterday at Barcelona among the troops who were about to be embarked for Melilla. An entire battalion revolted and threatened the colonel and other officers with their bayonets. Other troops were hastily summoned and the mutineers were disarmed.

Delegates Must Curb Their Tongues

Denver, July 23.—Hereafter when a delegate on the floor of the convention of the Western Federation of Miners calls another delegate a liar or uses profane language it will cost him $10. A resolution to that effect was adopted.

Miss Shattuck's Public Bequests

Boston, July 23.—Public bequests amounting to nearly $90,000 are provided for in the will of the late Miss Miriam S. Shattuck of this city, which was filed for probate Thursday.

TESTIMONY AT VARIANCE

Witnesses Disagree as to Location of Wound Which Killed Sutton

Annapolis, Md., July 23.—The question of the location of the bullet wound which caused Lieutenant Sutton's death has assumed geat importance, as it would appear that it would have been a much more difficult matter for Sutton to have shot himself, lying prone on the ground with three men on top of him, if the bullet entered the top of his skull, as Surgeon Pickrell, who examined Sutton's body, testified yesterday it did.

Colonel Doyen testified that he examined Sutton's body immediately after the shooting, felt the wound in his head and that it was located on the right side a little behind and on a line with the top of the ear.

Pickrell thought Sutton might have inflicted the wound upon himself, as he described it, but he made an unconvincing and awkward demonstation in court with the revolver and a tree right arm to get the weapon in a position which would have sent the bullet into his head at the point where he testified it entered Sutton's head.

USEFUL WORK FOR STATE

Hains Using His Time to Good Advantage In Sing Sing

New York, July 23.—Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., is not spending the time he was sentenced to Sing Sing for killing William E. Annis in idleness or repining. Eugene Young, his attorney, returned from the prison after a consultation with his client regarding an appeal, which goes to the appellate division this fall. He reports that Hains is hopeful and busy.

Because of his engineering experience Hains was placed in charge of the draughting in the iron and tin department of the prison shops. Recently he invented there an appliance that is said to have increased the efficiency of a street cleaning machine used in New York city.

BEGINNING OF U. S. FORESTRY.

When did the United States begin the practice of forestry? Few persons can answer this question correctly. Most people are of the opinion that the beginning of forestry in this country was of very recent origin, and that the first step in that direction was taken among the mountains of the far West. Neither fact is correct.

While Washington was serving his first term as President of the United States, a recommendation came to him that the Government ought to buy live oak islands on the coast of Georgia to make sure of a supply of ship timber for war vessels. The idea appears to have originated with Joshua Humphreys, whose official title was "Constructor of the United States Navy," although about the only navy then existing was made up of six ships on paper, and not one stick of timber to build them had yet been cut. The vessels were designed to fight the north African pirates.

Five years after the recommendation was made Congress appropriated money to buy live oak land. Grover and Blackbeard islands on the coast of Georgia were bought for $22,500. They contained 1,950 acres.

Louisiana was bought soon after, and in 1817 the Six Islands, of 10,000 acres, and containing 37,000 live oak trees, were withdrawn from sale, and set apart as a reserve. In 1825, Congress appropriated $10,000 to buy additional live oak land on Santa Rosa Sound, western Florida, and subsequently other Florida timberlands aggregating 208,224 acres, were reserved.

Up to that time nothing more had been done than to buy or reserve land for the timber growing naturally upon it; but the work was to be carried further upon the Santa Rosa purchase. The plan included planting, protecting, cultivating, and cutting live oak for the Navy. The timber was then considered indispensable in building war vessels. Much had been said and written of the danger of exhaustion of supply. Settlers destroyed the timber to clear land, and European nations were buying large quantities for their navies. In response to repeated warnings the Government finally took steps to grow timber for its own use.

Young oaks were planted on the Santa Rosa lands. Difficulty was experienced in inducing young trees to grow. The successful transplanting of the oak is not easy, unless done at the proper time and in the right way. The plantations at Santa Rosa were generally unsuccessful; but large quantities of acorns were planted, and a fair proportion of them grew. But the chief efforts were directed to pruning, training, and caring for the wild trees. Thickets about them were cut away to let in air and light.

What the ultimate success of the forestry work would have been can not be told. The civil war brought a complete change in war vessels by substituting iron for wood. Forestry work stopped. The timber reserves were neglected. Squatters occupied the land. After a number of years all the reserves, except some of the Florida land, were opened to settlement.

One of the hottest games of ball of the season will be that on the league grounds on Water street Saturday afternoon between the Adams A. A. and Fore River Apprentices. The game is called for 3.30.

Judging from the crowds that flocked to the lawn party given last night by the young people of the Swedish Lutheran church, it must have been a decided success both financially and socially.

A stone thrown by a party of young men crashed through the plate glass window of James O'Dowd's shoe store on Copeland street Thursday night missing by a few feet Mr. O'Dowd's child which was asleep in the tenement above the store. It is understood that Mr. O'Dowd will be satisfied with an apology from the young man and the repairing of the damage.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Shea of Quincy Point celebrated their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary Thursday evening by entertaining the Jolly 16 club of which they are members. There was dancing during the evening and vocal solos by Herbert Johnson. Refreshments were served. The club presented Mr and Mrs. Shea with two silver spoons.

Scout curiser Salem left the Charlestown Navy Yard Wednesday after undergoing minor repairs, and joined the Atlantic fleet at Rockport. The ship is under orders to proceed to Salem on July 24, where she will remain during the celebration of Old Home Week and where the exercises in connection with the presentation of the City's gifts to its namesake will take place.

Norfolk Lodge No. 178 A. O. U. W., will initiate five candidates Monday evening. Everett Degree Staff of Dorchester will perform the work at Music hall, Atlantic. Several Grand lodge officers will be present and it is hoped there will be a good attendance. Light refreshments and cigars will be served during a social hour.

Henry Leet and Reggie Randall leave tomorrow night to join the naval brigade, which goes to Provincetown Sunday for a weeks drill and cruise. The two Quincy boys are seamen and will go aboard the U. S. S. Wisconsin. While on board they will have to go through all the duties of the regular sailors and they will have their daily drills with the rest. These militia boys are the ones the country would call on first in case of shortage of men and this week is given every summer in order that boys may keep in readiness for any emergency.

The annual lawn party of St. Mary's church will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening. Everything is in readiness and the affair will be the most elaborate in the history of the church. There will be several tables representing the different districts of West Quincy. Those in charge of the tables are Miss Bridget Crowley, Grove street and Bates avenue district; Mrs. Michael Reardon, Crescent and Copeland street district; Mrs. Edward Finn, West street district; Mrs. Robert Teasdale Parkway district; Miss Ella G. Mahoney, Common street district; Mrs. John C. Ballou, Willard street district. A big feature of the party will be a concert by the newly formed St. Mary's glee club, which will sing for the first time tomorrow. They will give an elaborate program.

The iron gates on the Newport avenue side of the railroad at the Wollaston station have been replaced by wooden posts.

THE SATURDAY BALL GAMES

Quincys Play Randolph at Randolph. Local Games

There is nothing very startling in local sporting circles for tomorrow. None of the big baseball teams are playing in this city and so things will be rather dead tomorrow in the athletic line. The big event tomorrow is the lawn party of St. Mary's church, to be held afternoon and evening on the grounds of parochial residence.

The game of most interest to Quincy people is that of the Old Colony league team at Randolph. Last Saturday the local team trimmed Randolph 5 to 3 in a close game. Tomorrow's game is sure to be a good one, for although the Randolphs are at the bottom of the list, they put up a snappy article of ball. The Quincy team will be the same as usual with the exception of the initial corner. This will be covered either by Steele of Roxbury or by George Donaher of this city. Donaher used to be a star ballplayer and a few years ago was considered the best in this town. He has gone back of late and in the opening game of the Old Colony league in this city, Donaher played third base. He did not show up in his best form in the field, but his batting was something like that of old. George can bat all right and with practice ought to make a good first baseman. Either Patterson or Adams will pitch, with Murray behind the bat. Courtney will be at second, Strobel at short and Hoye at third. The outfield will be the regular trio, Lonergan, Duggan and Burke. Randolph's team will be practically the same as last Saturday, with the possible exception of pitcher.

A big crowd of rooters will accompany the team to Randolph and the management has made arrangements for a special car, which will take the crowd right through. The car will leave Quincy square on the same trip with regular Brockton car at 1.50 P. M. Quincy wants this game as there is a possibility of going into the lead with a victory.

Joe Ford's Quincy independents will go to North Woburn to play strong North Woburn team. Quincy is playing fast ball and expects to annex another victory tomorrow. Jimmy Michael, the crack southpaw of the Makaria team will be in the points for the Quincy team. Jimmy is twirling in fine form and ought to land the game.

The Atlantic professionals will play the strong Norwell team at Norwell tomorrow. Norwell has only lost one game this season and are advertising themselves as "Conquerors of Makaria and Quincy." Both these teams have lost to Norwell this year, but Quincy was the team to give Norwell it's only defeat of the season . It ought to be a good game tomorrow between Atlantic and Norwell. For Norwell Osborne and Howard will be the battery, while Johnny Driscoll and Dan Fitzgerald will work for Atlantic.

It is possible that Atlantic will play three more games this season with the fast Phenix, R. I., team, as Manager Boucher of Phenix thinks that Atlantic has been his biggest drawing of the season. In the first game which Atlantic won, there were over 600 people inside the grounds, while last Sunday, when Atlantic lost 1 to 0, there were some 800 people in the enclosure.

The whole team will go on a hay ride tonight as the guests of a party of admirers from the Atlantic district. The boys are playing fast ball just now.

For the first time this season the Makaria team is without a game. The boys will enjoy the lay-off, for they have been playing pretty steady all the season. All the other smaller teams have games scheduled for tomorrow. Besides there will be a big day in the yachting line, for the annual open regatta of the Squantum Yacht club will be held. The regatta is open to all boats in Massachusetts and it will be a big day at Squantum.

—Of the first thirty towns in Massachusetts which reported their tax rate for 1909 sixteen showed a decrease, thirteen an increase, while in one (Orange) the rate stood at exactly the same figure as last year. The appearance of reduced rates in so many towns reported from day to day has given the impression that the trend was markedly downward; but the returns as complied to not leand much support to this view, particularly if the reduction in the State tax be taken into account. This year the Commonwealth demanded of the towns only four and one-half million dollars as against five and one-half million last year. A reduction of two-elevenths accounts in the main for whatever of net reduction now appears on the record.—Boston Transcript.

AS IN DAYS OF OLD

Half Moon From Holland to Be Rigged For Big Celebration

New York, July 23.—Three hundred years after her original's famous voyage, the reproduction of Henry Hudson's vessel, the Half Moon, came into New York harbor resting on the broad deck of the Dutch freighter Boestdyk.

Built in Amsterdam by public subscription the new Half Moon was sent here as Holland's popular contribution to the Hudson-Fulton celebration commemorating the discovery of the Hudson river from the deck of the original Half Moon and Robert Fulton's epoch-making steamship voyage.

The Half Moon is only 74½ feet long over all and has a breadth of barely 17 feet.

The great crane in the Broklyn navy yard is to lift her up and put her down in the water and then she is to be fitted out exactly as she was when Hudson commanded her.

THE SOUTHERN HURRICANE

Loss of Twenty Lives and Millions of Dollars' Worth of Damage

New Orleans, July 23.—That the hurricane which swept the Gulf coast of Texas and Louisiana resulted in more loss of life and far more damage to property than had at first been apparent was indicated when points hitherto cut off from communication got into touch with the outside world. Many isolated places yet remain to be heard from.

That the property loss will run into the millions was made a certainty when whole towns, which were not at first believed to have suffered, were definitely reported to have been wrecked. Over a score of persons are now believed to have lost their lives.

TRUST COMPANY CHARGES LARCENY

Junk Dealer Said to Have Wrongfully Obtained Over $6800

Boston, July 23.—Accused of the larceny of $6860.48 from the American Trust company of this city, Frank Hirshman was arrested. Bail was fixed at $20,000 by the district attorney, which Hirshman has not secured.

Hirshman was a partner of Philip Bloomfield in the metal and junk business under the firm name of Philip Bloomfield & Co. The firm assigned in 1908. The trust company claims Hirshman made an untruthful statement of the affairs of the firm in 1907 and thereby realized large sums on notes as a result of this statement to the trust company.

HARNEY SIGNS NEW SCALE

Lynn Packing Room Employes Win From One Concern

Lynn, Mass., July 23.—At a mass meeting of packing room employes of nearly every shoe factory in Lynn last night steps were taken in the direction of organizing the shop crews. Business Agent Kidder of the union says that while a general strike is not probable within a few days, he is unable to predict the issue of the dispute.

The union thus far has made its fight in only four of the city's factories where it is the most strongly organized and yesterday one of these firms, the P. J. Harney company, yielded to the strikers' requests for a standard wage scale of $10 a week.

The couple were married eight months ago in Natick and a short time ago bought a farm in Stowe. Finding an unused well on the place they drank the water and both were taken down with typhoid fever and were brought to the Marlboro hospital last Sunday.

HARMONIOUS SETTLEMENT

Likely to Soon Be Reached by Tariff Conferees

TAFT IS HEALING FACTIONS

Consults With Aldrich and Payne Concerning Troublesome Rates—Early Agreement on Conference Report Is Anticipated—How Senate and House "Insurgents" Stand on the "Free Raw Materials" Question

Washington, July 23.—President Taft appears to have brought about a tangible situation with regard to the tariff where uncertainty existed before.

Thursday was a day of conferences and concluded with a consultation at the White House last night participated in by the president, Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne, at which the chief executive was assured that a harmonious settlement of the differences existing between the two branches of congress is practicable.

This conclusion was reached from the fact that harmony pervaded the various conferences held at the Capitol Thursday. The senators opposed to the "free raw material" program were consulted by Aldrich and a committee representing the same position on the house side held a conference with Payne. In addition the house conferees met to have the experts of the senate finance committee explain the senate changes in the cotton schedule.

It is evident that the president, by informing the conferees that the disputed points were before them for settlement, brought about a condition that augurs well for an early agreement on a conference report. The chief executive was able to get a better insight into the obstacles to the "free raw material" plan by his conference with the two leaders than was possible in so large a gathering as that which was present at the dinner Wednesday night.

Senator Aldrich met a large number of senators who are opposed to free hides, coal and iron ore, and no encouragement was offered for the placing of any of these articles on the free list. In fact were it possible to get these senators to yield, the situation in the house would have to be dealt with.

The "tariff insurgents" in the house who are opposed to free raw materials adopted resolutions protesting against the plan. They designated a committee to confer with Payne, but the latter did not offer them much encouragement.

Representative Dwight, the Republican whip of the house, conferred with Aldrich and informed him that the anti-free raw material sentiment in the house was a matter which required serious consideration. He said its strength had grown to forty-five members.

The advocates of dutiable hides in both houses declare a compromise is possible, but that they cannot consider the placing of these articles on the free list.

With regard to the free reciprocity provision on coal in the house bill there also was a firm stand. The members interested in coal declared that such a provision would make the situation with regard to coal untenable for the operatives and that a reduction in the senate rate without a clause for reciprocal free trade was more acceptable.

That a nominal duty on iron ore will be agreed to by the conferees is the indication. No determination as to the rate has been suggested.

Owing to the diversified opinions expressed with regard to oil, it is more likely that the conferees' report will place petroleum on the free list without a countervailing duty proposition. The house "insurgents" have indicated their willingness to concede free oil if the other raw materials are made dutiable.

General discussion of the custom court and corporation tax provisions and of the duties on cotton goods, gloves and hosiery took up the time of the conferees at Thursday's session and adjournment was taken to permit a separate meeting of the house conferees. It was decided that the headquarters of the customs court of appeals shall be located in Washington.

The entire time of the house conferees was taken up in the discussion of the cotton schedule.

Struck Under Misapprenhension

Philadelphia, July 23.—The plant of the Standard Roller Bearing company, which was closed yesterday when 1500 men struck because of a supposed grievance, resumed today. On learning that the foreman who was supposed to have been discharged was merely at home on sick leave, the men agreed to return to work.

Alleged Spies on British Warship

Portsmouth, Eng., July 23.—The Evening News says that two alleged foreign spies have been arrested on board the battleship Belerophon, anchored off Southend. The men were acting suspiciously while being shown about the vessel during the pageant.

MISS ELLEN GETS THE CUP

Boston Yacht Club Challenger Takes The Cup Home

After five days of exciting racing, the final race for the Quincy challenge cup was sailed yesterday off the club house at Houghs Neck. There were only two boats in the final match, the Ellen, representing the Boston yacht club, and the Wolf representing the Eastern club. The Ellen was the winner of the race, the wind just suiting her. She simply walked away from her heavy weather opponent and crossed the finish 4 minutes and 33 seconds to the good. The beautiful Quincy cup now passes from the local yacht club to the Boston club, where it will remain for a year at least, or until some other club takes it away. This is the first time that the Boston club has captured the cup. Next year it is a question whether the challenge races will be sailed in Hull bay or in Marblehead . The Boston club has stations in both places and may sail the races in either place. Most of the local yachtsmen seem to think that they will hold the series at Marblehead, because it seems to be more fitted for racing than the waters of this bay.

Yesterday's race depended a great deal on the velocity of the wind. If the wind was light it was generally thought that the Ellen would win and if the weather was heavy the general opinion seemed to be that the Wolf would cross the line first. During the morning and in fact right up to the start of the race there was a gale blowing from the southeast and it looked like a Wolf day. But shortly after the race began, the wind died out and the Ellen was right at home. She went away from the Wolf as soon as the wind eased up and was never headed. It was seen immediately that the Wolf would not have a show in the light wind, for she has shown herself to be a heavy weather boat and has won both days that the wind has blown hard. She was rapidly left behind by the speedy light air boat and never had a chance.

As in the previous races of the week the boats went across the starting line together, it being almost impossible to pick the first one over. If there was any advantage it was in favor of the Ellen, but it was so slight that it did not amount to anything. The Boston boat soon shot into the lead, however, and was soon pulling away from its opponent. The course was a broad balloon reach from Rose Cliff to the bouy off Peddocks island and a boat back to the starting line and repeat. The Wolf kept right on the heels of the Ellen on the first leg down to Peddocks and at turning mark there was only 23 seconds difference between the two boats, the Ellen being in the lead After the first turning mark the wind lightened, and both boats went off on a tack towards the Hull yacht club to get the strong tides that come in there from Hull gut. The Ellen was now going away from the Wolf and things began to look bright for the Boston. The Wolf was not able to stay with the Ellen in the light air, and was fast losing ground. Both boats came up back of Sheep island and then headed for the finish line. At the turn at the starting mark the Ellen had increased her lead from 23 seconds to 4 minutes and 42 seconds. On the run the second time down to Peddock's the Wolf picked up a little, but not enough to amount to anything. The difference in the boats at this point was 4 minutes and 27 seconds, showing a gain of 15 seconds for the Wolf. On the last leg back the finish line the wind had shifted to the south and there was a close reach back. The Ellen kept up her speed and gained five seconds on the run up from Peddocks. She received a hearty greeting from the judges boat and from the other crafts that were in the vicinity of the finish, as she crossed the line. The summary:—

	El Time
Ellen, Boston Y. C.	1h 53m 30s
Wolf, Eastern Y. C.	1h 58m 03s

RESUME OF RACES.

Yesterday's race for the Quincy cup ended one of the biggest weeks of yachting that Quincy has seen for a long time. Every day this week the busiest place along the Quincy shore was the Quincy yacht club. The clubhouse was open all the week to whoever wished to witness the races from the piazzas, and many took advantage of the open house each day. The bay too was ful of craft of all kinds, from the little rowboat and powerboat to the big steam launches and sailboats. It was indeed a gala week for local yachtsmen.

GANITE STREET CLOSED.

Heavy Team Travel to be Prohibited During Rebuilding.

Owing to the rebuilding of Granite street Commissioner Bainbridge has decided to close the street, between City Square and School street, to all heavy teaming on and after Monday. Work has been progressing on the street this week and it has been found that the heavily loaded stone teams cut into the street very much and that they hinder in a great measure the proper carrying on of the work. Light grocery delivery wagons will probably be permitted to use the street for the purpose of reaching customers.

SIDEWALK RIDERS FINED.

Inspector McKay and Goodhue who started in several days ago to make war on the bicycle riders, who use the sidewalks in preference to the streets, changed their field of action this week from the Fore River district to Hancock street near the Tubular Rivet works. As a result of their days work three men were hailed into court this morning. The men were Herbert H. Delory, Olaf Peterson and John Bumbo. The latter failed to appear and was defaulted Delory and Peterson were fined $3 each.

BOSTON LETTER

Prosperity Here and Manufacturing Booms Greatly

THE FIGHT FOR COL. GASTON

Boston Lost $1,400,000 on a Ten-Year Light Contract—The General Political Situation In the State

There has seldom been a time in the history of Massachusetts industries when business was so brisk as at the present moment. From all over the the state come reports of industries in which it is necessary to work two shifts in order to fill the orders which are coming in. Many enterprises have been greatly augmented in the last few months by additions to the present equipment and the construction of new plants, made necesarry by the demands of the customers for goods. In the city of Lawrence, for instance, the Wood Worsted mill is being greatly enlarged and the various other corporations like the Arlington Mills, the Pacific Mills and others are building new factories. The same is true of New Bedford and various other large manufacturing cities of the state.

All the railroads are ordering new rolling stock and preparing for a great increase in business.

There has been entered at the custom houses in Massachusetts more raw material for the use of our manufacturers than ever before within the limits of a single year. The bureau of commerce and labor at Washington has just reported that the importations of raw materials to be used in manufacturing for the year ending June 30 are greater than in any previous year in the history of the country by a large amount. The raw material largely used in Massachusetts consists of silk, cotton, wool, hemp, tobacco, India rubber, hides, skins and leather; copper, tin and lumber.

Another indication of prosperity is seen in the enormous building operations now going on in Boston and noticed in most of the other cities of the commonwealth. More large office buildings are now going up in this city than for a great many years past, and this, notwithstanding the fact that office buildings, while offering a safe investment, have yielded small returns, not, in many instances, as large as would be received from deposits in the savings bank; although there is always a slow but steady increase in the value of land upon which such buildings are erected. In the past, building operations have always been regarded as a correct barometer of business conditions; when times are bad there is very little building and much when they are good.

Gaston Seems Loath to Run

The effort of the conservative Democrats to induce Colonel William A. Gaston of Boston to stand as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination has not met with any great success, if one is to judge by surface indications. Mr. Gaston, in replying to a question, declared that he is not a candidate for the nomination, and that he regards James H. Vahey of Watertown as entitled to the distinction, if there is any in it. Notwithstanding this attitude of the colonel, his friends are still hopeful that the sober sense of the Democratic party will prevent the nomination of Mr. Vahey and result in the choice of Colonel Gaston.

Last year, when Mr. Vahey announced his candidacy for the nomination, a number of names were presented by the conservative wing of the party in order to test party sentiment throughout the state. Last year was of course an exceptional year. The presidential contest was being waged and there was great dissatisfaction among Democrats in Massachusetts with William J. Bryan as the Democratic candidate. A great many Democrats, both conservative and radical, felt strongly that it was not only foolish but almost a crime against the party to nominate for president a man who had been twice defeated and, so far as anyone could see, was amply justified in expecting to suffer the same fate once more. For that reason Democrats generally took very little interest in party matters and made no effort to control the nominations. As a matter of fact, probably one-tenth of the Democratic party in Massachusetts last year made the nominations for the entire party, and the other nine-tenths did not care a rap whether Vahey were nominated or some other Democrat secured it.

This year it is somewhat different, but it is not unlikely that the final result may be the same.

As a matter of fact, Democrats themselves admit that Governor Draper has been so successful in his administration that no one but a party giant would hope to defeat him. Democrats have hoped that there would be so much dissatisfaction with the Republican party in connection with the enactment of a tariff act that this would help them in the state election this fall in Massachusetts. While no tariff was ever passed which was pleasing to every individual, yet there is nothing to indicate that the present bill, when completed, will not be a fairly satisfactory measure to the people of this state. Democrats themselves have largely given over the hope that they would be greatly benefited by any dissatisfaction arising from this legislation.

Democrats Expect Labor Vote

They have hope and still expect that they will be benefited to some extent, at least, by Governor Draper's veto of the so-called eight-hour bill, applying only to employes of the cities and towns in the state. It is very well known in this connection that Governor Draper was perfectly willing to sign such a bill had it been properly drawn. He objected to some of the provisions in one section of that measure and stated to the labor men that if this were corrected he would sign it. One of these strongly urged that the changes be made to meet the governor's views. Two others refused to consent to such amendments and the bill was therefore vetoed. The rank and file of labor men who have a knowledge of these circumstances are thoroughly convinced that their representatives, in thus declining to meet the governor's objections, made a fatal mistake and thereby lost a measure which the labor men greatly desired.

It is quite a distinction for Massachusetts that President Taft should have selected one of its delightful summer resorts as his vacation home. No state in the union is more beautifully situated in regard to summer leisure than is the Old Bay State. The north shore between Salem and Gloucester shelters more distinguished people during the heated months than any like section in the entire country. This shore is so delightful that it has shorn the summer of all its terrors for those who seek its seclusion, while Cape Cod and its islands are little if any behind the north shore in attractiveness as a summer home for distinguished people.

Mr. Taft has always had a very warm feeling for Massachusetts, as it was for so many years the home of his mother and the state from which the family originated. The charms of the Berkshires have long delighted the wealthy from all over the country, and, taking the state by and large, there is no other commonwealth in the galaxy of states which excels it either in summer or at any other time of the year.

Where the Money Went

According to the report of the old finance commission of the city of Boston, the Hub has lost considerably in excess of a million dollars by reason of her light contracts, entered into by previous administrations. The finance commission did not at first make this report public, but it has now come to light and furnishes interesting reading to the taxpayers of the city. In exact figures the sum said to have been lost by reason of one-sided contracts is $1,400,000, covering a period of ten years. The other party to the contract was the Edison Electric Light company, and the stock of the Edison is selling at nearly $250 per share, the par value being $100.

The finance commission should take active steps to secure a contract which should protect the city. The new commission which has now taken office ought in some active way attend to this matter. If it can save the city a million dollars on the next ten years' contract, it will have earned its salary a great many times over.

MAKING GOVERNMENT GOOD.

Why is it that a man working for a private employer can accomplish more than eleven times as much in a day as a man doing precisely similar work for the city? And why should work done for the city cost fifteen times as much as the same quantity of the same kind of work done for a private employer?

Why should the city pay a clock repairer $11.63 per hour for tinkering at its clocks? Why not save money by throwing away a clock as soon as it got out of order and buying a new one?

Why is it that the city is obliged to pay sixty cents each for common wardrobe hooks and five cents each for two screws to put up each hook making the total cost of each hook seventy cents, when the plain citizen can go into any hardware store in the land and buy the same kind of hook with the screws thrown in for six cents? And why does it cost the city an additional $1.51 to put up each hook, making the grand total cost $2.21 per hook?

Why does a given quantity of rubber hose that costs other purchasers $196 cost the city $500?

Why do gas mantles retailed everywhere at twenty cents each cost the city forty cents when purchased in quantities?

Why do brackets retailed at forty-five cents cost the city three dollars?

Why did ground with an assessed valuation of $4,300 cost the city $247,053 when bought for park purposes?

Why does it cost the city $8.25 a load to haul dirt when a private citizen can get it hauled the same distance under identical conditions for $1.47 a load?

These are sample conundrums from rather a long list propounded at the first budget exhibit of the Bureau of Municipal Research, which was held recently. In reality they were aimed at a specific city, the metropolis of a well known English-speaking nation of North America but as fate would have it the conditions outlined in the conundrums depicted with startling fidelity the situation in about every community in the land big enough to be a icted with a municipal government. Finding the shoe fitted cities everywhere proceeded to wear it.—From "Making Government Good," in the August Technical World Magazine.

LOVE OUTRANKS PRINCE'S TITLE

Secret of Wedding of Young Alfonso and Beatrice Revealed

NUPTIALS ADVISED BY KING

Spanish Ruler Was Later Forced to Strip Cousin of His Title and Prospective Military Honors For Marrying a Protestant—Prince Asked Pope For Dispensation, Which Was Neither Granted Nor Refused

Paris, July 24.—The details surrounding the romantic marriage of Prince Alfonso of Bourbon-Orleans to Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg, which cost him his position as a prince of the royal house of Spain and his career in the Spanish army, have just come to light.

This story was obtained from the prince's own lips by friends in Munich, where the couple are spending the honeymoon, and when it is known in Europe it is likely to create a greater sensation than did the wedding and the prince's disgrace.

Prince Alfonso and Princess Beatrice first met on the occasion of King Alfonso's marriage to Princess Ena of Battenberg, in 1906. The prince then was only 20 years old. He fell desperately in love with the princess and proposed marriage; but Beatrice refused him in most decided fashion, even declining him permission to correspond with her.

Shortly after this the prince entered the military school at Toledo and subsequently, in 1907, the couple met again at San Sebastian. Both the queen and the queen mother espoused his cause and sought to induce Beatrice to relent. The princess, however, declared that she never would change her religion, but finally, when she said she had no objection to rearing her children as Catholics, the queen mother replied:

"Then there is not the slightest difficulty about the union. I always said that if I had a second son he should have married a Protestant."

Later, at LaGranja, King Alfonso formally asked the hand of Princess Beatrice for his cousin, and when Beatrice on that occasion raised the question of religion, the king said: "I give you my word of honor there will not be the slightest difficulty."

The prince then again proposed and was accepted, and the couple, who had not yet apprised Beatrice's mother, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, with difficulty prevented King Alfonso from officially announcing the engagement.

When he returned to Madrid, King Alfonso asked Premier Maura what he thought of the marriage and the premier replied that the marriage of an infante of Spain to a Protestant could not take place on account of the difficulties it would cause the government.

King Alfonso was absolutely furious. Later he told the prince that even if the constitution prevented him from giving official consent to the marriage without the approval of his ministers, he, as Alfonso of Bourbon, would do everything in his power for the couple.

Prince Alfonso, upon the advice of the king, went to see Pope Pius and asked for a dispensation for a mixed marriage. The Spanish government, meantime, warned the Vatican of the proposed union and the dispensation neither was granted nor actually refused.

When the prince graduated from the military school at Toledo, July 12, he immediately volunteered to go to the front, as the war in Morocco had broken out. Alfonso granted the prince a three days' leave of absence before going to Melilla and urged him secretly to marry Princess Beatrice, declaring that he would wire the Bishop of Bamberg to grant a dispensation.

Prince Alfonso arrived in Coburg July 15 and the civil marriage took place that morning. In the afternoon the priest at Coburg received a telegraphic dispensation from the bishop of Bamberg and the Catholic ceremony was immediately performed. It was not intended that the news of the marriage should be made public, but it was printed in Spain and the royal decree of the degradation of Prince Alfonso followed.

The prince, in concluding his story to his friends, said: "Maura, the head of the clerical party in Spain and because he holds a mapority in parliament, forced the king to kick his own cousin out of the country and the army and to strip him of title and honors for the crime of marrying a Protestant who is a niece of King Edward and a first cousin of the emperors of Germany and Russia.

ADONAI!

A professor of rhetoric in the English Department of an American college—an aged, white-haired, mere breath of a little man—who had a saying that any piece of literature, to win for itself a place among the things that are eternal, must carry with its reading a mood of gentle pathos. To illustrate his point, in a voice that cracked like crushing parchment, but with a daintiness of utterance that told of the relish with which he tasted the lines, this tiny, chair-full of wisdom, seated before an old-fashioned table at the bottom of a great amphitheatre, would read Milton's "Lycidas" or Shelley's "Adonais." And then would be worked a modern miracle. Some four or five hundred churlish, cub undergraduates would gradually lapse into quietness, then intermittent attention and finally breathless interest, before the sound of the exquisite lines, almost coaxingly read by the old professor.

But one day the little old fellow was sort of blown away. Even Death had not the heart, much less the need, of using a scythe on him. And that was the last ever seen of the bodily feeble but mentally vigorous little apostle of liberal learning, who, on the stroke of nine every morning, would smilingly toddle down the centre aisle of an amphitheatre filled with howling Dervishes till he came, but respectable human beings at the sound of his beloved "Adonais."

"Not only to the Greeks but to all of us is it given sometime to cry Adonai!" he would say, "and it is a profitable literary recreation, gentlemen, to compare the varied ways men of letters have uttered the lament."

The saying is now recalled by the latest cry of "Adonai" that has come to enrich English literature, not in the form but possessed of the very soul of poetry.

It is this passage that follows, from the pen of J. B. Barrie, upon the death of George Meredith. Here is a cry of Adonai! that would have brought great joy to the little professor of rhetoric—and a finer tribute could no man offer to any literary treasure.

NEITHER DORKING NOR ABBEY.

"All the morning there had been a little gathering of people outside the gate. The funeral coach came, and a very small thing was placed in it and covered with flowers. One plant of the wallflower in the garden would have covered it. The coach took the road to Dorking, followed by a few others, and in a moment or two all seemed silent and deserted, the cottage, the garden and Box Hill.

The cottage was not deserted, as they knew who now trooped into the round in front of it, their eyes on the closed door. They were the mighty company, his children, Lucy and Clara and Rhoda and Diana and Rose and old Mel and Roy Richmond and Adrian and Sir Willoughby, and a hundred others, and they stood in line against the box-wood, waiting for him to come out. Each of his women carried a flower, and the hands of all his men were ready for the salute.

In the room on the right, in an armchair which had been his home for years—to many the throne of letters in this country—sat an old man, like one forgotten in an empty house. When the last sound of the coaches had passed away he moved in his chair. He wore grey clothes and a red tie, and his face was rarely beautiful, but the hair was white and the limbs were feeble, and the wonderful eyes dimmed, and he was hard of hearing. He moved in his chair, for something was happening to him, and it was this, old age was falling from him. This is what is meant by death to such as he, and the company waiting knew. His eyes became again those of the eagle, and his hair was brown, and the lustiness of youth was in his frame, but still he wore the red tie. He rose, and not a moment did he remain within the house, for "golden lie the meadows, golden run the streams," and "the fields and the waters shout to him golden shouts." He flung open the door, as they knew he would do who were awaiting him, and he stood there looking at them, a general reviewing his troops. They wore the pretty clothing in which he had loved to drape them; they were not sad like the mourners who had gone, but happy as the forget-me-nots and pansies at their feet and the lilac overhead, for they knew that this was his coronation day. Only one was airily in mourning, as knowing better than the others what fitted the occasion, the Countess De Saldar. He recognized her sense of the fitness of things with a bow. The men saluted, the women gave their flowers to Dahlia to give to him, so that she should have his last words, and he took their offerings, and passed on. They did not go with him, they went their ways to carry his glory through the world.

Without knowing why, for his work was done, he turned to the left, passing his famous cherry-blossom, and climbed between apple-trees to a little house of two rooms, whence most of that noble company had sprung. He went there only because he had gone so often, and this time the door was locked; he did not know why or care. He came swinging down the path, singing lustily, and calling to his dogs, his dogs of the present and the past; and they yelped with joy, for they knew they were once again to breast the hill with him.

He strode up the hill whirling his staff, for which he had no longer any other use. His hearing was again so acute that from far away on the Dorking road he could hear the rumbling of a coach. There came to him somehow a knowledge (it was the last he ever knew of little things) that people had been at variance as to whether a casket of dust should be laid away in one hole or in another, and he flung back his head with the old, glorious action, and laughed a laugh "broad as a thousand beeves at pasture."

Box Hill was no longer deserted. When a great man dies— and this was one of the greatest since Shakespeare—the immortals await him at the top of the nearest hill. He looked up and saw his peers. They were all young, like himself. He waved his staff in greeting. One, a more stripling, "slight unspeakably," detached himself from the others, crying gloriously as he recognized his master, 'Here's the fellow I have been telling you about!' and ran down the hill to be the first to take his hand. In the meanwhile an empty coach was rolling on to Dorking."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

APPRECIATED.

The extra session
Makes a hit
That sounds suspiciously
Like "Nit."
In trying to Adjust the tax
They make a lot
Of easy tracks
That lead away,
If signs don't fail,
To where the trusts
Have made a trail.

The conscience of
The congressmen
Works overtime,
But now and then
They slip a cog
And by and by
Slip through a measure
On the sly,
And e'er the task
In hand they quit
Some friend don't get
The worst of it.

Addresses meaning
Votes to catch
With actions do not Always match.
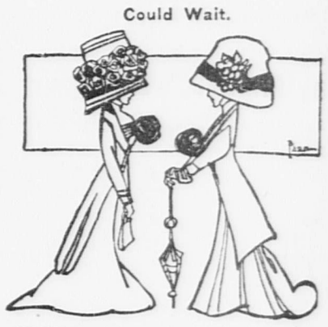
Constituents
Are far away
And interest
May not display,
Or if they should
Attempt to scoff
An explanation
Calls them off.

They know, indeed,
They cannot catch
Applause from all
The shooting match,
And so they try
Themselves to please
And hope to capture
Bread and cheese
And saw a cord
Or two of wood
Against the day
They'll quit for good.

Could Wait.



"I think John was just going to propose to me last night when he lost his voice."

"Why didn't you turn up, the light to look for it?"

"We didn't want to find it as bad as all that."

"Uncle Bill, what did you live on while in the arctic?"

"Mostly canned goods, bear meat and the like."

"But what did you do for a change?"

"We had light refreshments."

"And what were your light refreshments?"

"Candles."

"How does his wife treat him since he came home?"

"She is killing him with kindness."

"How does he stand the treatment?"

"Yes; a bottle of medicine and a cottage by the sea."

DIFFICULTIES ARE OVERCOME

Briand Succeeds In Forming a New French Cabinet

COMMITTED TO REPUBLICANISM

Office Held by Simyan, Whose Resignation Was Recently Demanded by Socialists, Will Be Suppressed—Income Tax Measure to Be Modified—Will Work For an Alliance Between Labor and Capital

Paris, July 24.—After a day of conferences, Aristide Briand succeeded in forming a new French ministry and officially announced the success of his endeavors to President Fallieres late last night. The new cabinet is as follows:

ARISTIDE BRIAND.

Premier and minister of the interior and of public worship, M. Briand; minister of justice, M. Barthou; foreign affairs, M. Pichon; finances, M. Cochery; education, M. Doumergue; public works, post and telegraphs, M. Millerand; commerce, M. Dupuy; agriculture, M. Ruau; colonies, M. Trouillot; labor, M. Vivandi.

The portfolios of war and navy have been offered, respectively, to General Brun and Admiral Boue de la Payrere, and both are expected to accept.

The post of under-secretary of posts and telegraphs, which was held by M. Simyan, whose resignation was demanded during the recent strike of postmen and telegraphers by the Socialists, will be suppressed. An under-secretaryship of finance will be created and the office given to Rene Renoult.

M. Caillaux, minister of finance in the old cabinet, laid certain conditions relating to his again accepting the portfolio which M. Briand could not grant, and besides, the opposition in the senate to Caillaux' recent income tax bill made it advisable to substitute Cochery, who was minister of finance in the Melino cabinet of 1896-98.

It is announced that Cochery's selection does not mean the abandonment of the income tax measure, but its modification on lines more acceptable to the senate.

M. Briand had considerable difficulty in appeasing the appetites aroused by the fall of the cabinet and only satisfied the Radicals, who charged him with being a Socialist, by the statement: "I intend to complete the work of the Clemenceau cabinet and carry out the wishes of the president and form a Republican cabinet committed to Republican policies."

A ministerial declaration which was formulated and unanimously accepted by the members of the new cabinet contains an important statement, indicating that the cabinet is committed to an attempt to end the war between labor and capital which has disturbed France for so many years.

This declaration, after quoting the famous remark of M. Waldeck-Rousseau, "Capital must work and labor possess," insists upon the necessity of an alliance between labor and capital and the avoidance of every cause of conflict; that the members of the cabinet, regardless of their political affiliations, resolve, with the aid of parliament, to ameliorate the moral and material well-being of the workers as far as in their power lies, but that the accomplishment of this end will depend upon support of the workers themselves; that the latter must give security to capital or otherwise undertakings will be abandoned and the economic development of the country arrested.

Rowdy disturbances on the trains will never be stopped effectively so long as offenders are allowed to get off with light fines and then given a further chance to pay their fines on the instalment plan.

Councilman McDevitt has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in and out of the official life of the city on the death of his sister which occurred yesterday. It was known to but few how devoted and untiring was Councilman McDevitt in his ministrations towards his sister during her long illness, often sacrificing most of the nights to sit up with her and hurrying home after council meetings to be of some comfort to her. His grief will be shared by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

People who run motor boats should keep their eyes and ears open. The judges' boat at the race yesterday nearly collided with a small boat which had a hood over it. The occupants either couldn't or wouldn't hear the whistle of the judges' boat and the combined shouting of the passengers could not make that motor boat swerve from crossing the course. At one time there came near being a collision but the occupants of that small motor boat never gave any indication that they were alive or dead and all the time the boat was running at top speed.

MONEY IN JUNK.

Up and down the dirty black alleys drives the junk man, singing his mournful, nasal cry, loading his rickety wagon with broken scraps and pieces of old iron—an object of pity or of ridicule to most of the uniformed public.

Let him be admired or envied rather, for, if not he, himself, at least his employer is probably making more money than nine out of ten professional men. Better than that his work is of the utmost importance in the world and in the aggregate reaches proportions almost beyond the belief of the casual man in the street.

Few things are more depressing and unsightly than a pile of junk as high as a two-story building. One may see them in every city and, so far as the casual observer can determine, none of the stuff is ever moved. The piles increase, apparently, from month to month and grow rustier and rustier but the men in the business keep on buying.

How are they able to keep so much money tied up? Where do they get the large amount of capital which seems to be necessary?

They borrow from the banks, like any other business man, on the security of their stock in trade.

"No better security," the president of almost any bank will declare. "It can neither burn nor blow away. It can't be damaged by water or smoke. Where is there a collateral like that? It is absolutely safe. The foundries and the nut and bolt works and the stove factories can't get along without it. It pays the largest profits of any business to which we lend money and these profits fluctuate very little. Junk is always in demand. The men in that business are excellent customers."—From "Just Junk," in the August Technical World Magazine.

SAVINGS INSURANCE LEAGUE.

There has just come from the office of the State Actuary a leaflet entitled "$500.00 to the wife of a wise man." This leaflet contains a brief but impressive statement of the circumstances surrounding the two first deaths to occur under the new savings bank insurance plan. The first case was that of a man employed at the Regal Shoe factory in Whitman who took out a $500.00 savings bank life insurance policy on October 27th, 1908. This man cancelled his policy in April. As a result of a serious illness he died May 22nd at the Brockton Hospital. If his policy had been continued it would have cost him but $2.51 and his family would have received $500.00. The second case is that of John O. Carlson, employed by the C. A. Eaton Company in Brockton. Mr. Carlson also took out a $500.00 savings bank life insurance policy and paid his premium regularly, beginning in January, 1909. Mr. Carlson died on June 11th, and the bank promptly paid his widow $500.00. If Mr. Carlson had been insured in any of the industrial insurance companies the fact of his death occurring within the first six months would have made it impossible to collect the entire amount of the policy, the face of which would have been considerably smaller in the first place, based on the same premium as the savings bank policy. Thus the widow received $308.00 more from the bank than she would have in similar circumstances from an industrial company. In acknowledging the check from the People's Savings Bank of Brockton in which her husband had been insured, Mrs. Carlson wrote as follows:

"Please accept my thanks for your prompt remittance; the papers, 'Proofs of death,' having been filed but a few hours. "I fully appreciate the advantages that Savings Bank Insurance has over other kinds and heartily, recommend it. Little did I realize when my husband took out his policy that I should call on you to pay it so soon, but life at least is uncertain and I feel that no man with a wife and several small children can do his full duty and not provide insurance for them."

These two cases present very conclusive evidence of the value of the savings and insurance system which the Commonwealth has provided at cost and by which the wage earner may at an expense of a few cents a month provide for contingencies of death and old age.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Failure to Receive Armor Plate Delays Work on Battleship.

Failure to receive certain armor plates is causing considerable delay in the progress of the battleship North Dakota now building at the Fore River ship yard. Under the government contract the vessel should have been ready in time to permit an official trial in September.

At the Fore River Friday it was said that the schedules on the delivery dates for the armor were prepared and approved in ample time. The contracts were divided among three makers. Two of the makers had delivered the armor on time but the third had failed to do so. All armor should have been on hand by the first of last January.

TO TRAP MOTHS.

Officials at Kittery Navy Yard Are Using a Machine.

At the Kittery Navy Yard the authorities are exterminating brown tail moth millers by the German method:

The white moths, which are now flying in swarms of thousands, are generally regarded as being harmless. All the harm they are capable of has been set going before they reach this State so that little attention is being paid to them in Portland. But in Germany it is apparent that they are considered a pest that is to be fought at every stage and the Germans have been using for several years a machine with which to catch and destroy the moths. It is this machine that the authorities at the Kittery navy yard are now using.

It is a large suction fan and large cage, screened with fine wire netting, erected on wheels and connected with a powerful motor. The machine is hauled about the yard at night, an electric light, near the machine, turned on and the fan set in motion. Any miller coming within 25 feet of the light is sure to be drawn by the suction into the cage. They are afterwards burned. The machine has been in operation several nights and has caught all the millers in sight.—Eastern Argus, Portland, Me.

AMONG THE MAGAZINES.

The August Everybody's presents another of those remarkable scientific articles by Dr. William Hanna Thomson which in book form have placed him among the popular novelists as a "best seller." This time Dr. Thomas talks of "Indispensable Bacteria," and tells of the bottle of germs that can be ordered by mail, and will do the work of wagon loads of old-fashioned fertilizer. The article teems with startling truths, and is so simply written that to understand it requires no previous scientific experience. William Hard dissects the "High-School Fraternity" and resolves it into an absurdity. Franklin Clarkin gives some fascinating stories of great diamonds, and their vicissitudes, and incidentally destroys some of the legends surrounding Mrs. Waldorf Astor's famous jewel. John L. Mathews in "Handmade Forests" shows how several European countries have turned disasters of deforestation into triumphs of scientific forestry that pay large incomes into national treasuries. And along with a series of fascinating Chinese pictures, Isaac Taylor Headland shows how children of the Orient play, and how wonderfully like their games are to our own. In fiction Lloyd Osbourne heads the list with the unusual and amusing love story of an unconventional American girl in Paris.

The leading place in The Engineering magazine for August is given to the second instalment of Charles Day's series of articles on machine tool practice for maximum production. Mr. Day has already discussed present practice regarding the principal factors that have revolutionized the art of metal working and methods of shop administration. In the present number he deals more specifically with matters bearing upon the design, construction and operation of machine tools. His article is profusely illustrated with examples of the latest and best types of machines for various classes of work. Another illustrated article of very timely interest is A. J. Quigley's description of the engineering features of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, now in progress in Seattle. Harold V. Coes concludes his illustrated series on smoke-prevention problems and the use of automatic stokers with a discussion of the application of mechanical firing in marine and locomotive practice. Ira N. Hollis examines the relative advantages of the reciprocating engine and the steam turbine for marine propulsion, and W. G. Hudson brings to a close his descriptive survey of recent developments in conveying machinery for handling coal and ashes. The new copper-mining industry in Jamaica, B. W. I., is described by Alexander E. Outerbridge, Jr., and John P. Hazen Perry contributes a comparative study of materials and methods of construction for industrial buildings.

Following is a partial list of leading articles in the August number of the Technical World magazine: Making Government Good—C. F. Carter; Tiny Scourge of the World—Henry M. Hyde; Who Gets the Top?—Samuel O. Dunn; Struggling for the Air—Frank Doig; Catching Them Young—F. G. Moorhead; Just Junk!—Charles Dillon; Making the Kick Reload the Gun—H. G. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

There was only one disappointing feature about the week, that is for local men, and that was the failure of Charlie Adams and his Crooner to win at least one race. Before the series started the Crooner had been beating all the sonders at Marblehead and it was said by the experts that she would win the Quincy cup series in a walk. All predictions went to smash, however, when the Crooner failed to get better than last place in the first day's race when the wind was blowing hard, just the kind of a wind suitable for her. The second day she landed in second place and the third she was third. The fourth day she was second again, and had to drop out.

The Ellen of the Boston yacht club and the Wolf of the Eastern, were the boats that seemed to be in the race all the time. One was a heavy weather and the other was a light weather boat. When the air was light the Ellen won and when it was heavy the Wolf won. This proved to be true in every race. In Monday's race the weather was squally and when the wind would die down, the Ellen would shoot ahead. As soon as wind would spring up again the Wolf would come right along. On the last leg the wind was blowing hard and the Wolf pulled up and passed the Ellen right in front of the finish. On Tuesday and Wednesday the air was light and the Ellen won on both days, the Wolf not being in the running at all. On Thursday the wind was blowing again and it looked like a Wolf day. The Crooner was also said to be a heavy weather boat and it was a question which boat would win. The Wolf pulled out again and thus eliminated the Crooner from further competition. It was then between the Wolf and the Ellen for the cup. Each had won two races and yesterday's was the deciding one. The whole thing depended on the wind. If the wind was light the Ellen would surely win and if it was heavy it was easy money for the Wolf. The Sally and Spokane were out of it all the time.

At the beginning of the race yesterday, the wind was blowing a gale and the knowing ones were picking the Wolf. The wind eased up however and the Ellen became the favorite. She showed her sped and proved that she was the fastest ever in a light breeze, by simply running away from the Wolf. She finished over four minutes ahead of her opponent.

The cup now goes from its original home to the Boston yacht club. Here it will remain for a year at least and as long after a year, as the Boston club successfully defends it. This is the first time that the Boston club has won the cup, although it has been challenging for it for several years. In 1898 and again in 1899 the cup was successfully defended by the Quincy club, but in 1900 the Manchester club captured it with the Lookout. There was a lapse here of two years, and in 1902 the cup was again challenged for. The Manchester club again defended it successfully with the Outlook. Another lapse occurs here and not until 1906 was the cup raced for again. That year the Corinthian yacht club won the cup with the Chewink and in 1907 defended it with the Sally VIII. Last year the Quincy club and Charlie Adams challenged for the cup with the Manchester, the Corinthian club defending with the Vim. The Manchester won a wonderful victory, taking three straight races and bringing the cup back to its old home.

This year four clubs challenged for the cup, the Boston with the Ellen, the Eastern with the Wolf, the Corinthian with the Sally X, and the Beverly with the Spokane III. This made five boats in the race, the Manchester club, for the first time in the history of the cup races, not being represented. The races were exciting every day this week and will long be remembered as some of the best races in the history of local yachting.

Where next year's race will take place is a matter of speculation. The Boston club will have the say and whether she will run them at Marblehead or in Hull bay, no one knows. The club has stations at both places and may run them in either place. It would seem most natural to run them at Hull, but still the superior conditions for racing at Marblehead may cause the Boston people to have them at the North shore resort. Wherever they are held it is almost certain that the Quincy club will again be represented.

The committee of judges who had charge of this race was John O. Hall chairman, Rear Commodore F. F. Crane, Ex-Commodore F. B. Rice, ex-Commodore H. M. Faxon, Ex-Commodore E. W. Sheppard and W. H. Hudson. To these men and the several men who assisted them is due the great success of the races. Everything was conducted in a business-like and clean maner. There were no disagreeable incidents connected with the series at all and the whole thing was a credit to the Quincy club and to the yachtsmen who took part in the races. The launch "Bonita" and her skipper RRoy Thornton, also deserve praise for their efficient work towing the judges boat about and following the races with the newspaper men. The series was very successful in every way and let us hope in another year or two the cup will be back with the Quincy club.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns.

"You never worked on a farm, did you, doc?" he asked, and the German admitted that such a pleasure had been denied him.

"I guess that's right," went on Daniel reflectively. "Talk about things to drink! Harvest time and the women folks coming out from the house with a two gallon jug of ice cold buttermilk."

Horace shuddered convulsively, and Von Grollerhagen asked:

"You still enjoy those delights?"

"Not since I moved up to our county seat and began to practice law, ten years ago," Pike answered. "Things don't taste the same in the city."

"Then you do not like your city?"

"Like it! Why, sir, for public buildings and architecture I wouldn't trade our state insane asylum for the worst ruined ruin in Europe—not for hygiene and real comfort."

"And your people?"

"The best on earth. Why, out my way folks are neighbors!"

Horace rattled his paper sharply and glanced angrily at the disturber of his harmony. The German went on.

"But you have no leisure class," he objected, and Daniel smiled.

"We've got a pretty good sized colored population," he replied.

The German lifted his hand protestingly.

"I mean no aristocracy—no great old families such as we have, that go back to the middle ages."

Pike laughed seriously, if one might imagine such a thing, and returned instantly:

"Well, I expect if they go back that far they might just as well sit down and stay there. No, sir; the poor man in my country don't have to pay any taxes to keep up a lot of useless kings and earls and first grooms of the bedchamber and second ladies in waiting and I don't know what all. If anybody wants our money for nothing, he's got to show energy enough to steal it Doc, I wonder a man like you doesn't emigrate."

"Bravo!" cried Von Grollerhagen with keen delight, while Hawcastle turned with an angry gesture to Horace.

"Your countryman does seem to be rather down on us!"

Horace flushed with mortification and returned:

"This fellow is distinctly of the lower orders. We should cut him as completely in the States as here."

CHAPTER IX.

RECOGNIZED.

THE German was frankly enjoying his guest's conversation and quaint mannerisms and went on:

"I wonder you make this long journey, my friend, instead of spending your holiday at home."

Pike looked up in astonishment.

"Holiday! Why, I never even had time to go to Niagara falls. I'm here on business."

Ethel, who was still standing by the countess, looked at her friend with pained entreaty, and Horace, catching Lady Creech's basilisk eye fixed on him, reddened with mortification.

Daniel carefully folded his napkin and sat back.

"I expect it's about time for me to go and find the two young folks I've come to look after," he said.

"You are here for a duty, then?" asked the German quietly.

"I shouldn't be surprised if that was the name for it," answered Pike, rising. "Yes, sir; all the way from Indiana!"

Both Ethel and Horace started in horrified amazement and looked at each other with stricken terror on their faces. If this should—

"I—I can't stand this. I shall go for a stroll," said Horace hysterically and rose from the table, while Hawcastle looked at Pike fixedly.

"By Jove!" he said slowly.

"I expect, doc," went on Pike calmly, "that I won't be able to eat with you this evening. You see—you see I've come a mighty long way to look after her, and she—that is, they—will probably want me to have supper with them."

"Reason! Why, yes. I'm her guardian!"

The horror was closing fast around the other party, and they simply stared.

"Do not trouble for me," observed the German. "Your young people—they have a villa?"

Horace, with fear lending wings to his scattered senses, sprang to his feet and began to walk toward the grove. Pike looked up.

"I'd better ask," he said, and then, observing Horace, went on addressing him: "Hey, there! Can you"— He stared as the young man, paying no attention, proceeded on his way. Pike raised his voice.

"Excuse me, son, ain't you an American?" As Horace paid no more attention he turned to Mariano. "Here, waiter! Tell that gentleman I want to speak to him!"

Mariano sprang after the retreating Horace.

"Pardon, m'sieu, the gentleman, he wish to speak to you."

Horace whirled in an angry flash.

"What gentleman?" he demanded, and Pike regarded him calmly.

"I thought from your looks," he proceeded quietly, "you might be an American."

Horace planted himself squarely before his interrogator.

"Are you speaking to me?" he demanded haughtily.

"I shouldn't be surprised," said Pike genially. "Ain't you an American?"

"I happen to have been born in the States," replied Horace aggressively, and Pike smiled quizzically.

"Well, that was luck," he commented, and as Horace turned again to go he said: "Hold on a minute! I'm looking for some Americans here, and I expect you know 'em—boy and girl named Simpson!"

Horace flushed deeply to the roots of his hair.

"Is there any possibility you mean Granger-Simpson?" he asked, with elaborate sarcasm, but this was lost on Daniel.

"No, sir; just plain Simpson. Granger's their middle name. That's for old Jed Granger, grandfather on their mother's side. I want to see 'em both, but it's the girl I'm really looking for."

"Will you be good enough to state any possible reason why Miss Granger-Simpson should see you?" and Pike started in genuine astonishment.

"Reason!" he reiterated. "Why, yes. I'm her guardian!"

The effect of this simple statement was terrifying. Ethel reeled dizzily and was supported by Mme. de Champigny. The earl rose to his feet, and Horace staggered back.

"What!" he cried.

"Yes, sir," went on Pike—"Daniel Voorhees Pike, attorney at law, Kokomo, Ind."

Horace fell back from him in horrified amazement.

"I shall ask her," he began weakly and shamefacedly, "if she will consent to an interview."

Pike looked at him in amazement in his turn.

"Interview!" he said. "Why, I want to talk to her!"

Hawcastle, with some of his finer feelings aroused, picked up his sister-in-law with his eyes, much as a clever hostess picks up her feminine guests at dinner, and arose, turning to Ethel.

"This shall make no difference to us, my child," he said and, turning sharply, took Lady Creech by the arm and left the terrace. Pike looked at Horace pityingly.

"Don't you understand?" he said. "I'm her guardian!"

For a fleeting instant Horace stared at him and then dropped his chin and walked away.

"I shall never hold up my head again," he said.

The sudden horror of the revelation that Horace had drawn forth bore down upon Ethel's mind with a crushing weight.

To her artificialized understanding the disgrace was more than she could ever hope to bear, and Horace's expressed thought that he should never be able to hold up his head again was but a vivification of her own.

Surely it would have been bad enough, she told herself, if this fearful thing had come upon them privately, but to have it appear in the full light of day and in the very hearing of the family of the man she was about to marry was too cruel.

And with an inward groan she leaned for a moment against the terrace wall where the countess had left her. When the first astonishment had passed and she had time to realize what had occurred, events that had seemed but fleeting impressions rose up before her in all their vivid nakedness. Mme. de Champigny had looked at her with astute contempt, she was sure, and she dimly remembered seeing the look of horrified amazement upon the patrician features of the Earl of Hawcastle.

Then, with an awakened resentment, the fighting blood of the sturdy plebeian Simpson stock, the stock that had upheld its end in the battle against oppression in several wars, came back to her with a rush, and she decided to see this awful man and give him to understand that he must go away at once and never insult her again by his uncouth and vulgar presence. Such business as had to be transacted could be done through an intermediary.

With a bracing of her spirit she stepped forward resolutely and came up close behind Pike as he stood with drooping jaw gazing in perplexity after the retreating Horace. Ethel cast a look of loathing upon the straight back of the guardian of her peace and ground her little boot heel into the stone flagging. She glanced up and saw that the common German was looking at Pike with grave sympathy and even understanding, and instantly she hated him for it. Then she saw him take his cap from the obsequious Mariano and turn away. When he had gone she said in a low voice:

"I am Miss Granger-Simpson."

CHAPTER X.

THE HUMILIATION.

INSTANTLY Pike turned with a lithe twist of his lank body and half lifted his hand as if he expected a blow. Then his arm dropped again, and he stood looking at her in calm and interested fashion. As he stared his expression changed to one of mingled tenderness and pride, and when he spoke there was a world of pathos in his voice.

"Why," he said in a low, astonished tone—"why, I knew your pa from the time I was a little boy till he died, and I looked up to him more'n I ever looked up to anybody in my life, but I never thought he'd have a girl like you. He'd be mighty proud if he could see you now."

She turned from him in a smothered

GIRLS TELL OF BEING SOLD

Living In Practical Slavery, Harshly Treated and Forced to Work Long Hours—Ran Away From Two Chinese Merchants Who Posed as Their Parents and Are Now Under Police Surveillance

New York, July 24.—Two round-cheeked little Chinese maids, their almond eyes very, very wide, their straight bangs brushed flat across their foreheads, their black braids, laced with scarlet silk, hanging precisely down the middle of their backs, stood demurely before Justice Wyatt in children's court and swore to a story which left little sympathy in those who heard them for the two elderly celestian merchants who reported their "children" missing to the police on last Wednesday night.

Both little girls, who can make themselves understood in English, were accompanied by an agent of the children's society, who had found them on the day following their disappearance from Chinatown, at an east side parish house, with Miss Mary E. Banta, their Sunday school teacher, whom they had recently accompanied on a week's outing to the country. To the superintendent of the society, the two made a sworn statement, in part as follows, which was read in court:

"My name is Moy Yun Toy. By Chinese reckoning I am 15, by American 14. My father died when I was very young, and my mother married again and left me alone with my grandmother, who was very, very poor, and I was sold to the wife of Moy See Chai and she brought me over here to America about two years ago and I have been with her ever since.

"I have had to work very hard in the house, making buttons and button loops from early morning until late at night. When I take a rest I get scolded and beaten. Whenever my mistress' boy call me to do certain things, and when I was not able to do it fast enough, the boy would beat me.

"I do not want to say anything that is not true against them; they feed me well. But my mistress once told me: 'If I killed you they could only arrest me.'"

Chin Fing Toy's narrative was similar. She was sold in China for $160 she said, brought to this country and sold again for $500 gold and has been with her present master ever since, some nine months, making buttons and button loops for the stores.

"Some mornings," her statement reads, "I had to get up at 7 o'clock and sometimes work right on until 2 o'clock in the morning. I was not allowed to go out.

"If I don't work all the time I get beaten. I had to do all the washing—sheets and all. The only teaching I ever received was by Miss Banta, who taught me for an hour or so every Monday. I would rather die than go back to Mott street."

Neither she nor her companion will have to. Pending full investigation of their tale they will be held by the Children's society.

Both little girls are about the same age, Chin Fing Toy slightly the elder. Their story has aroused talk of another rigid investigation of Chinatown, which has hardly settled down after the chaos which followed the murder of Elsie Sigel. An officer of the Children's society said the federal government would be asked to look into what appears to be actual slave traffic.

Two well known Chinese merchants who posed as parents of the children are under police surveillance. The youth of the complainants, however, and the many contradictions which the police always find in investigating a Chinese mystery, take the tinge off the seemingly serious aspect of the affair until the whole matter has been sifted.

London, July 24.—The man whom an American visitor saw outside a jeweler's shop here on July 15 and identified as Leon Ling, the Chinaman suspected of the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York on June 9, has been traced by Scotland Yard detectives and found to be a Japanese associated with an Anglo-Japanese financial firm.

The detectives made a thorough search and from the description furnished by the American located the Japanese. The Scotland Yard officials are satisfied that Leon Ling is not in England.

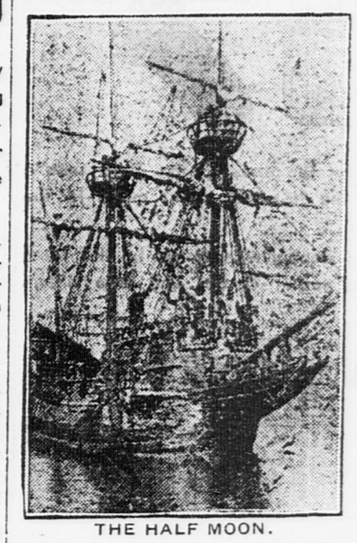
Replica of Hudson's Famous Craft Will Be Rigged Up

New York, July 24.—The reproduction of Hendrik Hudson's famous ship, the Half Moon, lies on the wharf at the Brooklyn navy yard, waiting the coming of the representatives of The Netherlands, who will assemble the parts and place the craft in commission for the Hudson-Fulton celebration in the autumn.



THE HALF MOON.

A giant crane picked up the hull of the little vessel and placed it gently on the dock. The boat is sent over by the government of The Netherlands as a compliment to the American people.

The Half Moon is built of heavy oak timber with the high poop and long-nosed prow now seen only in prints of Dutch and Spanish galleons. She is antique enough in her fittings to confuse the best seaman afloat.

Will Have Public Marriage Ceremony In New York

New York, July 24.—Deep Sky, a full-blooded Sioux chief, ambled up to the marriage license bureau here and obtained the necessary legal documents to marry Adele Rowland, a pretty New York girl, 21 years old. Deep Sky hails from South Dakota.

Deep Sky is exhibiting his horsemanship and giving war whoops at a Wild West show now exhibiting in New York. He and his fair sweetheart will be married on Tuesday next at the polo ground during a benefit for crippled children. The Indian rites will be observed first, and then an alderman will bind the knot in the conventional legal way.

FISH PLATES REMOVED

Only Railroad on Island of Nantucket Has Been Tampered With

Nantucket, Mass., July 24.—Officials of the Nantucket Central railroad have offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest of the person who, they believe, removed a fish plate from the island's only railroad, causing an accident which tied up the system.

The single locomotive owned by the company left the rails near South Beach and turned turtle, sustaining considerable damage. No one was injured. An examination showed that a fish plate had been removed at that point, causing the rails to spread.

An investigation of the line was then made, revealing that fish plates had been removed at four other points.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Miss Boston is Considering the Chicago Fad of Barefoot Tennis—Human Hair is Handed out at a Swell Reception—Boston Girls Have a Western Champion—The Hub's East Wind Does Not Prevent Its Being a Great Health Resort—Leather Men Board the Rubberneck Wagons.

Large heads still distinguish little women throughout the civilized world. A report from the great human fair which has recently been held at Limoges, France, tells of prices ranging from five to twenty-five dollars being paid to the peasants for hair varying from black through the browns, goldens, greys, and silver white, in order that the enormous demand for false hair may be met. This recalls a little incident which occurred at a reception in a Boston suburb a few days ago. This reception being somewhat informal the small daughter of the hostess was allowed to mingle with the guests. Suddenly she walked up to one of the ladies and said: "Oh, I wish I had one of your curls to play with." The lady immediately unhooked a long, graceful curl from her beautifully arranged hair and handed it to the child, very much to the amusement of the observers. "I suppose you will think after that I am entirely artificial," she remarked to one of the gentlemen. "No, indeed. Delightfully natural," was the reply.

Miss Boston is even more interested in shoes than in stockings this summer. The fifth annual convention of the National Leather and Shoe Finders' Association has brought a large number of visitors to the city this week, who have been entertained by historical trips, trolley-trips, shore dinners and automobile excursions in addition to the usual receptions and banquets attendant upon such a convention.

Boston society is wondering who will be the first to adopt the Chicago girl's fad of playing tennis barefoot in the early morning hours. The local popularity of Isadora Duncan, the barefoot dancer, leads one to anticipate that barefoot tennis may be taken up in conservation Boston quite as eagerly. This combination of the dew treatment and the healthful exercise should be very beneficial from the hygienic standpoint.

Now is the time to boom the Hub as a health resort. The delightful information has been given by John Ritchie, Jr., member of the Boston Board of Health, that this city during the past six months has been healthier and the death rate less than during the same period for a great many years. Perhaps eventually the home of the east wind may become as much of a mecca for the ill and the near-ill as are Colorado, the Hot Springs and other popular resorts at present. With the many facilities for the study of disease and with Harvard's new department of hygiene and preventive medicine Boston might well become the ideal metrolopis of healing. The growing popularity of the principle of paying a doctor a regular fee as long as he keeps one well is also a promising sign for the future welfare of Hubbites.

That the Boston girl of the joke books really exists is sad, but undeniably evident now and then even to her fellow citizens. In these days of conventions and vacation sightseeing tours the Bostonian is constantly coming in contract with visitors from California, Oregon and way stations, and is hearing with painful frequency the exclamation, accompanied with a nudge of the elbow, "Oh, look at that woman there—crossing the street. Isn't she a typical Bostonian—just like the pictures you see in the papers!" Of course one puts on an air of being keenly interested in the sights of a strange city, hoping thus to escape detection as a resident, and gazes with eagerness at the aforesaid woman—to find in many cases, sad to relate, that there is truly a striking resemblance. Spectacles cover a multitude of brains, however, and perhaps the typical Bostonian finds sufficient compensation for ruffles and ribbons in this fact. If not she may be comforted by an extract from an article about Boston girls recently published in the Seattle Times, which reads as follows: "As a matter of fact they are among the best turned out of any in America. They hold themselves admirably for one thing, and while, by comparison to New York street models they dress simply, still it is in the best of form. Their tailor gowns are always well built and well put together. A Boston girl's street foot gear is far more apt to be good than that of a New Yorker, for the former wears shoes that accord with her tailor-made, and keeps them well, while a slightly turned turned high heel, not unknown in New York, will destroy all smartness of a costume. But, besides all this, Boston girls have a freshness of style, as well as complexion, that goes a long way toward making them look well."

Half an hour spent one Saturday evening recently in watching some serious folk take their places in line at one of the leading Boston savings banks, as they put away a portion of their earnings against the proverbial rainy day, seemed to the Boston girl to offer a good argument in favor of the postal savings bank system which has been proposed for adoption in this country. Thrifty as the new comers usually are it is often not until they have been here for several years that they acquire the savings bank habit. This particular bank was situated within a stone's throw of the swarming North End into which Italians and Portuguese and Russian Hebrews continue to pour. Most of those who formed the line, however, were unmistakably of an earlier generation of immigrants—Irish, English, Germans and Scandinavians, and a large proportion looked as if they might be of old American stock. Evidently the Italians and other people from southern Europe, failing to find the postal savings facilities to which they have been accustomed prefer to deal with their own private bankers, supervision of whom has given the Bank Commissioners a good deal of concern. Representatives of other races are often subjected to an interruption in their saving habits through their unwillingness to go to the savings bank which in their view might be part of the high finance of a country in which people seem perpetually on the lookout to exploit the poor foreigner. Standing in the doorway of the spectacular Greek temple in which this savings institution is housed one better understands the case of a man mentioned by Vice President George H. Currier of the Postal Savings Bank League, who, when the first baby arrived, wanted to begin a savings account but whose single dollar available for this purpose seemed too small to leave with the supercilious teller at the bank. The man turned away disconsolate and spent the dollar. In his own country he would have gone to a "postal savings bank depository" window in simple unpretentious surroundings and would have there opened the account. Later on the same new comer would have learned that the American savings bank is really an admirably managed institution and, because of the larger interest it pays, he would deposit with it most of his money rather than with Uncle Sam, and if fortunate enough to live in Massachusetts he would then arrange for life insurance and an old age pension. Every kind of thrift helps every kind of thrift, and we need every feasible agency for encouragement of habits of saving.

WATCH AND MONEY GONE

Murdered Man's Body Found In Room of a Cambridge Hotel

Cambridge, Mass., July 24.—Through the finding of the body of Stewart McTavis lying fully clothed on a bed in the Hotel Florence, with a bullet hole in one eye and one side of his face and head a mass of bruises, the police of this city found themselves confronted with a sordid murder upon which they have been unable to throw any light.

Mrs. Elizabeth Richmond, aged 45, the proprietress of the hotel, who was found apparently under the influence of liquor on the kitchen floor adjoining McTavis' room, and eight men and two women who were found in the house are detained as witnesses. McTavis' watch and a large roll of money which he is said to have had with him when he went to the hotel are missing.

McTavis, who was employed at the state insane hospital at East Greenfield, started on a three weeks' vacation Tuesday. He was 25 years old and was unmarried. He bore a good reputation with his employers.

DIES IN RAILROAD STATION

Alleged Embezzler of School Funds Blows Out His Brains

New York, July 24.—Theodore Greenwald, the missing treasurer of the New Lebanon, Conn., school district and formerly manager of the Greenwich, Conn., office of the Bernheimer & Schwartz Brewing company, blew out his brains in the lavatory of the New York Central station in The Bronx. He had been missing for a week.

At the recent election for school district treasurer Greenwald was defeated, but he refused to allow the books to be audited before they were turned over to his successor. When they were seized, he disappeared. Checking up showed that there was a considerable shortage, and a warrant charging him with embezzling $2500 was issued.

No money was found on Greenwald's body. He was 50 years old and unmarried.

TWO FACTORIES READY TO YIELD

Lynn Packing Room Employees Are Gaining Ground

Lynn, Mass., July 24.—According to Business Agent Kidder of the packing room employes, who are on strike on three large shoe factories, the firms of Joseph Gaunt & Co. and V. K. and A. H. Jones will undoubtedly adjust matters so that the packing room employes can go to work next Monday with their demand for a new wage scale gratified.

The prospect of the reopening of the factory James Phelan & Sons, the third one affected by the strike, is uncertain. The 500 hands employed at that factory were thrown out of work when the factory shut down, following the strike of the packing room employes, and no notice as to the probable time of reopening has been given.

RETIRES AT 73

Rheumatism Attacks the Oldest Woman Telegraph Key Sounder

Norwich, N. Y., July 24.—Mrs. Harriet C. Williams of Sherburn, the oldest woman telegrapher in this country, has resigned her position with the Western Union Telegraph company at that village and the office has been dismantled and closed.

For forty-two years Mrs. Williams conducted the office, but because of rheumatism, which has closed both her hands, she was compelled to relinquish the key.

Mrs. Williams had been an operator for more than fifty years, and was one of the first to discard the recording system and receive by sound alone. She is 73 years old.

TRAVELLED FAR INLAND

Heavy Loss of Life and Property by Gale Which Strikes Texas

Houston, Tex., July 24.—Twenty-five people dead, more than fifty seriously injured and a property loss of approximately $1,000,000 is the estimate made of the damage by the Gulf storm which swept the coast of Texas and a portion of Louisiana. Except to isolated points all communication has been restored.

Advices show that damage was done by the storm throughout a section in Texas extending on an average of 100 miles inland.

Favorable Trade Situation

New York, July 24.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says that with the outlook for the principal crops increasingly bright, with a continuance of activity in iron and steel, and with this week an advance in copper and a widening demand for fall supplies of dry goods, the trade situation maintains its favorable position.

Twenty-Six Men Probably Killed

St. Petersburg, July 24.—A six-story house in the course of construction here fell, burying a large number of workmen in the ruins. Three dead bodies were recovered, but twenty-three men are still unaccounted for.

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Keith's Theatre.

For a number of years the event of the summer season has been the engagement of the Fadette Women's Orchestra ,and this summer they return after an absence of two years. Boston has always taken particular pride in this splendid organization, without question the greatest woman's orchestra in the world, and one that is as popular in other cities as it is here at home, even more so. Since their last appearance here, Mrs. Caroline Nichols, the director, and her band of young women, have toured the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and in the far west they proved to be as big a sensation in a musical way as they have been in the east. The orchestra is peculiarly identified with Boston. In fact it is their home city and is always associated with their title, no matter where they happen to be, and at Keith's the place of their first great success, they will be seen and heard at their best. This season they will give a series of popular concerts both afternoon and evening before the regular vaudeville performance. The orchestra will have its full strength of forty members in new costumes and a beautiful stage setting. Aside from the music, the picture presented by these forty attractive young women players is one that will always be remembered with pleasure.

The Orpheum.

Willie Collier's play "Caught In The Rain" proved such a success at the Orpheum theatre two weeks ago, that Manager Lindsay Morison has decided to put on this coming week another of Mr. Collier's inimitable pieces "The Man From Mexico." This piece has enjoyed one of the greatest revivals in the annals of dramatic productions. It was first produced some years by Mr. Collier, he himself in the title role, and it proved one of his biggest hits. It then toured the country for four or five years with Walter Perkins taking Mr. Collier's part everywhere proving both an artisitc as well as financial success. This last season it was again taken from the shelf by Mr. Collier and it proved its own merit as well as Mr. Collier's wisdom by turning out to be one of the big hits of the New York theatrical season. "The Man From Mexico" is a farce comedy with plot enough to hold the interest but not enough to cause any fatigue in following it. It tells the story of a man who deceives his wife into believing that he is going to Mexico for ten days when in reality he has been sentenced to serve ten days on Blackwell's island. The lines are crisp, witty and altogether typical of Mr. Collier and the situations are side-splitting. Mr. Collier's role will be played by Howell Hansel who has already in "Caught In The Rain" proved his ability to do justice to Mr. Collier's parts. Miss Edna Bruns will have the opposite role, and if she repeats her former success of this season, everybody will be satisfied. Other favorites in the cast will be Mary Sanders, Walter Walker, Rose Morison, William Hasson, James Devine, Katherine Clinton, Beverly West and Wyrley Birch .

Paragon Park.

The regular Saturday night fireworks display were the big feature of the program last Saturday evening at Paragon, the park de luxe. Nothing to equal in novelty and elaborateness these Chinese and Italian fireworks has ever been seen here before Manager Dodge inaugurated his series of 4th of July celebrations every Saturday night at Paragon. The crowd that came down specially last Saturday night to see the pyrotechnics was enormous, and the crowd on succeeding Saturday nights will doubtless be even larger. Many take advantage of this extra attraction by arriving early enough to secure a table in the Palm Garden or one on the verandas where they may discuss the menu and wine list at leisure while commanding a fine view of the fireworks on the lagoon and at the same time enjoy the band concerts. While there is an almost continuous supply of free attractions at Paragon Park, a large percentage of the thousands of visitors to the Park daily do not neglect to take in one or more of the feature shows to which an extra admission is charged. Among these are: The big Parisan illusion spectacle, "The Spray of Life," in which three exceedingly pretty girls are seen floating most mysteriously through space, dancing on sunbeams, and tripping lightly on drops of water from golden red, purple, green and pink geysers spouting high in the air; the Human Roulette, the Beauty Show, Monkeyland, Diamond Lew's Wild West moving pictures, the Tub of Fun and Incubators, Japanese rolling balls, the vaudeville theatre, roller coaster, the Mexican scenic railway, Circle Swing, and many others.

—The public dance platform is not only likely to come along but to prove its own justification. Girls do not of intention select bad amusement places to go in the summer; but 90 out of 100 girls want only what they are entitled to—innocent relaxation. The moving picture show is on the wane. The skating rink is practically buried. The dance is destined to be the next feature in popular amusement. The way to treat it is to provide it plentifully, safely and inexpensively. A public dance platform ,to which admission is charged, and which is properly conducted, is urged by the Survey. They have them in France and in Germany, and they work and they pay. Such amusement features in some corners of the great new parks which we are acquiring can do no harm, and they offer innocent diversion of the kind which the multitude seeks.—Boston Record.

—Colorado has an auditor who may well be called the watch dog of the treasury. The University of Michigan honored Colorado's governor with an honorary degree, and the economical auditor held up the governor's salary for the time he was absent from his duties to receive the degree. If all the state's expenditures are as carefully guarded, the Centennial state cannot be a fruitful field for grafters.—Milford Gazette.

—If a summer hotel desires to be popular with men, says the Beverly Times, it must provide an impregnable stronghold where they can be safe from the gossiping and fancy work crowd of the front piazza.

TO ABOLISH THE FLY.

It happens every day, and so one pays very little attention. Maybe it is the butter, or perhaps the slice of bread alongside one's plate. Or else, quite possibly, it is the milk in the pitcher. But, whatever it is that attracts the omnipresent fly, is appearance, as it crawls over the food on the table, is unappetizing.

The health authorities of New York City estimate that about one-half of the deaths from typhoid in the metropolis annually are attributable to the distribution of the germs by flies. But serious as this matter is, it is of vastly less importance than the destruction of human life, particularly that of young children, by the bowel complaints which these insects are chiefly instrumental in spreading. It is reckoned that deaths from these latter maladies in New York would be reduced from 7,000 to about 2,000 a year if proper precautions were taken to prevent the breeding of flies.

The insects will breed in fermenting vegetable or animal material of almost any kind. Garbage suits them first-rate. The maggots and chrysalids have been found in great numbers in rotten straw mattresses among old cotton garments, and even in waste paper that had been exposed to wet.

Now, so far as stables are concerned, which are accountable for ninety-five per cent. of the fly output in cities, the hatching of the insects can be absolutely prevented by the simple device of putting all manure into a covered receptacle, and removing the contents once a week. This receptacle should be a water-tight bin or pit, provided with a cover, so as to prevent the ingress and egress of flies.

The additional methods demanded are the following: Abolish all unsanitary outhouses. Allow no accumulations of filth of any kind. Compel people to put all their garbage in covered cans, and remove the contents at least once a week. Compel owners of abattoirs to keep all refuse in covered receptacles; and remove such waste at least once a week.—Technical World Magazine.

QUINCYS LOSE TO RANDOLPH

Tailenders Win After Losing Five Straight Games

After losing five straight games, the Randolph tailenders came back Saturday and defeated the Quincy Old Colony league team 6 to 3. The game was played on the West grounds, Randolph, and was one of the most loosely played games seen there this season. The Quincy team was away off, both in the field and at the bat, while the Randolph boys gave a fine exhibition in all departments of the game.

Randolph had a new pitcher in the box, a southpaw by the name of Stewart. He had the Indian sign on the Quincy boys and held them to six hits. He also got great support from the Randolph team, which helped him a whole lot at times. Adams was in the box for Quincy and was hit hard. He also passed three men and each time the passes proved disastrous. He was called from the box in the seventh inning and Sid Patterson was sent in. And right here it might be well to say that Patterson ought to get a chance to start a game some day. Twice now he has been sent in to stop the opposing batters and has done so with telling effect. He went in in the third inning of that memorable 14 inning game at Rockland, and although he lost, he pitched fine ball. Saturday against Randolph he went in with three men on bases and one out, and kept the opposing team from scoring. All this year Sid has shown fine form and it seems that he ought to be given a show. This is not a knock on the Quincy management, but voices the opinion of a good many local fans.

But to get back to the game itself. Patterson went and there was no more scoring. There were three men on at the time and one out. Sid fanned the first man that faced him and made the second man hit to Strobel, who threw him out at first.

Quincy had a new man on first for a few innings, but he did not show up very well, and Donaher was substituted. Steele was the new man and he made a good impression at the start by cracking out a single that scored Hoye with Quincy's first run. After that he was weak, both on the bases and in the field, but seems to have the earmarks of a good player. Donaher gave a good exhibition getting a pretty single the first time up. Hoye was away off making two bad errors. Courtney, too, played a weak game at the bat fanning twice and going out on easy chances the other two times at bat.

Although Bjorkland started the game for Randolph with a single through the box, a quick double by Adams and Steele pulled Quincy out of a hole. Goode attempted to sacrifice Bjork to second, and popped to Adams, who threw to first before Bjork could get back. Quincy scored in the second inning. Hoye opened with a hit and was sacrificed to second by Duggan. Steele then banged away and hit the first ball pitched to right centre, Hoye scoring by some fast sprinting. The next two were easy outs. Her next two runs came in the seventh, when Stewart took a slight balloon ascension. With two out Donaher singled to left. Murray and Adams both followed with singles, Donaher scoring. Burke was hit filling the bases. Stewart then forced in a run by passing Lonergan. There were still three men on, but the best Strobel could do was a pop to Shaw.

Randolph's first run came in the fourth. Brennan was walked for a starter and was sacrificed to second by White. Shaw then poled a double to left centre and Brennan crossed the plate. Shaw rested on second, while the next two batters were disposed of. The big party came in the fifth however. The Randolph team got to Adams for a bunch of singles and when the smoke had cleared away, four runs were across the plate. Bryant opened with a single, and Bjorkland, Goode and Sullivan also got hits. Sullivan's hit went to Duggan and Billy threw home to catch Goode at the plate. The throw got by Murray and Goode scored, followed by Sullivan. The next three went out in order.

Randolph added another in the sixth. Stewart started the trouble with a hit, and after Maley had flied out to Duggan, Strobel booted Bryant's grounder and allowed the short stop to reach first and the pitcher third. Bryant immediately started for second and Murray threw down to Courtney. Stewart made a dash for home and

DIED OF HIS INJURIES.

Michael D. Leary of Atlantic Run Over by Electric Car.

Michael D. Leary of 81 Walnut street, Atlantic, was run over by an electric car at Fields Corner, Dorchester, Saturday night, and one of his legs was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated at the Boston city hospital, whither he was taken after the accident.

Mr. Leary died from his injuries and the shock following the surgical operation Sunday afternoon and his body was brought to his home in this city. He was a plasterer by trade and was well known in the Atlantic section, where he had lived for many years. He is survived by his family.

TORPEDO CONTROLLED BY WIRELESS.

Think of calmly standing on the seashore and by means of a small key and no connecting wires being able to annihilate an entire navy. This has been rendered possible by the invention of a submerged torpedo propelled and controlled by wireless electricity transmitted by the wireless method—the work of Carl Abrahamson of San Diego, California.

The invention is so simple that wireless experts are wondering how they overlooked it so long. The propelling force is manipulated on the same principle as the wireless telegraph Electricity is transmitted from aerial wires on shore to aerials supported by cork floats and connected with the propeller wheel of the torpedo, which is submerged. A current powerful enough to send a sixteen-foot torpedo, of the type used by the American navy, through the water at a speed of thirty-two miles an hour can be transmitted, says the inventor.

Control of the device is secured by magnets set on each side of the propeller and connected with the steering gear. These magnets are of different degrees of sensitiveness and are susceptible to varying degrees of power in electric currents. The steering is thus made possible by a variation in the amount of power sent to the torpedo.—From "Wierd Feats of Wireless," in the August Technical World Magazine.

MISSING BOYS FOUND.

Two boys who gave their names as Richard Ash, aged 11, and James F. Ash, aged 8, of Norton street, North Weymouth, were picked up in City Square Sunday by patrolman Murray. To the officer they said they had been away from home for three days. They were sent to police headquarters for safe keeping and their father, Richard Ash, was notified. To Chief Burrell the boys said they had been in Quincy since they left home and that they slept nights back of the Scenic theatre.

WAS STABBED AND SHOT AT

Thrilling Experience of Young Man at Germantown

Stabbed three times in the left arm, in a personal encounter with an unknown man, and shot through the hat by a rifle bullet, fired by a hidden foe are two of the incidents that figure in a remarkable episode of Harold Abbott, a 22 year old young man of Palmer street, Germantown.

Abbott's story is a peculiar one but he tells it in a straight forward manner. Chapter one opens Saturday evening in the vicinity of 10 o'clock. He says that evening he was at home all alone, when upon looking out of the window he saw three men lurking about the house. He shouted for help and the three men disappeared.

Chapter two, and the thrilling chapter, opened Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock. At that time he saw a strange man in the yard and went out and tackled him. They clinched and were having it hot and heavy when the man drew a stiletto and stabbed him three times in the left arm. The fellow then beat it, as he supposed, but afterwards found that the fellow had gone into the barn and hidden himself in the loft.

Abbott then went to a neighbor's and collected a crowd of young men, who armed themselves with rifles, and went in search for the man but did not find him. A little later after the search had been given up, Abbott says that he went into the barn and that as he did so, the fellow sneaked behind him and beat it for the swamp.

He then called the searchers, that then numbered about 35, and they surrounded the swamp, where the fellow disappeared. The crowd beat about the swamp but the fellow got away and the search was given up.

Chapter three opened Sunday night about 10 o'clock. At that hour Abbott says that he took his loaded rifle and went into the yard to see if there was anyone about. As he stood in the yard he heard a shot and the next instant off went his cap with a bullet hole through the visor. The bullet he says went within a half inch of his head. The bullet, he says, came from behind him, yet it went through the visor of his hat. Abbott says that he turned and fired in the direction from which the bullet came. He then went into the house and telephoned the police.

The police came down and searched but found nothing of the unknown men who Abbott says they are still searching for.

The police hardly know what to make of the story and are not inclined to put much faith in it though they admit that Abbott tells it in a manner as if it were true.

Members of the Taunton city government are coming to Quincy this week in search of a good shore dinner and a pleasant outing. Evidently there are some people in Taunton with good, common sense.

The three miles of water mains between Squantum and Atlantic were finished on Saturday after a remarkably quick piece of digging. Quincy and Squantum may now be said to be on drinking terms.

Many of the new blue and white enamel street signs are being rapidly disfigured by boys who make targets of them. Stones, air rifles and slung shots are knocking the enamel to pieces. It is a pity that there is such a spirit of destruction abroad among the youth of the city as appears to be from evident results.

According to the idea advanced by Ex-President Eliot of Harvard college in his address on the religion of the future, every man will "make his own God, in a way." Why not let every man make his own law, too, civil and religious, and also make his own enforcement of those laws. "Something of our make, just as good as the original," seems to be the label on this proposed religion advocated by the former president of Harvard.

The building by the city of the extension of Fenno street, Wollaston, will provide an inlet and outlet to the present end of the Quincy bay shore boulevard, which at present comes to a dead end near the National Sailors' home. Some day in the future the boulevard will be further extended along the coast as far as Black's creek and then up the course of Furnace brook to Adams street, where the present Furnace Brook parkway ends. In the meantime, however, access to and from the present shore boulevard, which is an exceptionally pretty drive, will be had by means of this Fenno street extension and it is to be hoped the city will do its best to make this stretch of road contrast favorably with the boulevard.

AN OUTSIDE OPIONION.

In its series of writing up thoss cities which have peculiar summer attractions, the Boston Globe sent to this city last week a young man who was a total stranger to the place. The reporter was asked to study the city and its various resorts and write an unprejudiced story. He gave to the public a column and a half story on the natural beauties and advantages of Quincy as a summer resort place and touched also on the historical and business prominence of the city. In summing up the result of his investigations the reporter said:

"Taken all in all, Quincy is not only a good city in which to do business, but in which to live and with its wealth of natural attractions for summer visitors, is bound to grow in importance in this respect and to hold its own with any of the cities situated on the Atlantic coast line."

There are some truths here which every Quincy citizen would do well to ponder over. There seems to be in this city a certain element who find fault with everything in the place. To listen to these people you would think Quincy was an undesirable place to live in. Such is not the case. We doubt if there is another city in the state that combines such a rare variety of woodland and beach as does Quincy. A few minutes' walk in one direction from the center and it is possible to lose oneself in the woods, while a few minutes' walk in another direction and you are on the shores of the Atlantic ocean. Quincy is a mighty fine place as thousands of people who live in towns somewhat inland from the sea have found out to their good luck. It is doubtful if there is a more orderly city of 30,000 people or over in the state. Quincy is all right and those who make it their business to give out reports to the contrary ought to take a little trip away for awhile. Perhaps they and the city might enjoy the vacation.

THAW FACING HIS OLD FOE

Jerome Will Try to Prevent Release From Asylum

IS ACTING FOR THE STATE

Slayer of White Must Undergo Severe Ordeal If District Attorney Conducts Cross-Examination—Will Go on Stand and Tell His Life Story In Effort to Prove His Sanity—Does Not Appear to Be Terrified

White Plains, N. Y., July 26.—With the resumption today, after a ten days' adjournment, of the latest court proceedings in the case of the State vs. Harry K. Thaw, the familiar figure of District Attorney Jerome again stepped to the front of the stage and the state takes the aggressive in the effort to show that the slayer of Stanford White is still so insane as to make his release a menace to the community.

WILLIAM T. JEROME.

Called in from New York county to "assist" the local authorities, Jerome's exact status in the case has not been made the subject of any official announcement. But whether or not he is to command the prosecution, there can be little question but that his mind and hand will guide the campaign of the people.

Thaw himself is among the three or four witnesses yet to be heard on his side of the case. His lawyer plans that he shall tell his life story from boyhood up, so as to show that his memory is excellent and his mind normal. The cross-examination, if conducted by Jerome, should be one of the most severe ordeals that the young Pittsburger has ever faced in court.

Mr. Jerome has devoted several days to the preparation of his case. When he arrived in court this morning he had a swiftly gathered but comprehensive mass of evidence intended to show the mental unfitness of Thaw.

Harry Thaw does not appear to be terrified at all over the prospect of a heckling by his old foe, the New York district attorney. "I welcome any test," he says. "Mr. Jerome's questioning will only help in my effort to show the court my complete sanity."

DROPPED INTO WATER

Three Pleasure Seekers Badly Hurt When Veranda Gave Way

Manchester, N. H., July 26.—Three women who were seriously injured by the collapse of a pavilion at Pine Island park, a pleasure resort near here, Saturday night, are all recovering. The victims of the accident are: Miss Sarah Reagan, dislocated left shoulder; Miss Catherine Connor, wrenched knee and nervous shock; Miss Bertha Courtemache, fractured rib.

A veranda on a dancing pavilion gave way under the weight of the crowd, precipitating a score or more people into the water of an artificial lake. Besides the three women several other people received minor injuries.

Car Cut Off Both Feet

Lewiston, Me., July 26.—James Kelley of Somerville, Mass., aged 40, died as the result of being run over by an electric car here. Both feet were cut off and Kelley practically bled to death before the flow of blood could be stopped. It is claimed that the man was lying on the track when the accident occurred.

Railroad Wreck In Indiana

Indianapolis, July 26.—Forty-two persons were injured by the derailing of part of a train at Zionsville while the train was running fifty miles an hour. The locomotive held to the rails, but several of the coaches turned over. Those unhurt took the injured out of the car windows.

Five Babies at One Birth

Newark, N. J., July 26.—Mrs. Thomas Renwick, 35 years old and already the mother of three children, gave birth Sunday to five infants, four living and perfectly formed, though very weak, the fifth malformed and dead. None lived more than fifteen minutes.

SKULL IS CRUSHED

Automobile Driver Killed When His Machine Skids Into Trolley Car

Cheshire, Conn., July 26.—In an automobile accident here Charles C. Buckingham of West Haven, aged 50, was instantly killed, his wife badly bruised and two nieces, Miss Eleanor Broderick and Miss Luella Hytman, bruised and cut.

Buckingham, who was driving the car, attempted to steer out of the way of a puddle of mud, but the machine skidded in front of a trolley car, striking it on one side. The occupants of the car were thrown out, Buckingham landing head first on a large stone, crushing his skull. The injuries of the others are not serious.

Buckingham was secretary-treasurer of the Mathushek Piano company of West Haven and secretary-treasurer of Treat & Shepard of New Haven.

SPANIARDS CANNOT TAKE THE OFFENSIVE

They Are Far Outnumbered by Moors In Riff Region

Madrid, July 25.—Official dispatches concerning a bombardment heard around Melilla state that this measure is being taken to prevent the enemy from massing. A gunboat assisted in the bombardment, after which she chased, but did not catch, two steamers suspected of carrying contraband arms.

The Moors are gathering in great force in the Riff region. It is estimated that they now number 20,000 and are preparing for a concerted attack. General Marina, commander of the Spanish forces, who has only 8000 men, does not dare to take the offensive, but is awaiting the reinforcement of his army to 40,000.

TAX COLLECTOR SHORT

South Hadley Selectmen Demand Resignation of Town Official

South Hadley, Mass., July 26.—A shortage in the tax collections of $4000 as reported by an expert accountant caused the board of selectmen of this town at a special meeting to demand the resignation of tax collector Frank E. Moos. Moos' brother, William Moos, a member of the board, gave assurance that his brother's resignation would be handed in today.

The town is protected by the bonds of a Boston surety company, a representative of which was here and placed an attachment on Moos' property. The town will have an examination made of the tax accounts for 1907, which was the first year Moos acted as collector. Moos is also treasurer of the water department. He is 35 years old and unmarried.

ROADBED UNDERMINED

Six Killed and Fifty Injured When Train Plunges Into River

Kansas City, July 26.—Six lives were lost, three persons were probably fatally injured and about fifty were hurt in the wreck of a Wabash passenger train that plunged into the Missouri river thirty miles east of Kansas City.

Of the eight cars in the train, five coaches and the locomotive are now in the river, with the water covering all of them except one end of a sleeping car.

At the scene of the wreck the river makes a bend and the railroad follows it. For days, flood waters have undermined the roadbed, making it too weak to hold up the heavy trains.

Death In Subway Explosion

Cambridge, Mass., July 26.—John Kelley, aged 30, one of five laborers who were entombed in a hole in the new subway here by an explosion of sewer gas, died of his injuries. The other four men are expected to live.

Flannagan Makes New Record

New Haven, July 26.—In the Clan-Na-Gael games here John Flannagan of New York broke the world's record in the hammer-throw with 184 feet, 4 inches.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A VIGOROUS PROTEST

Labor Organizations Do Not Want Czar to Visit England

London, July 26.—A huge demonstration by the organized labor party was held in Trafalgar square to protest against the visit of the emperor of Russia to England. Various women's political leagues, socialistic and other organizations were represented, while numerous banners, which headed the different processions, were inscribed with uncomplimentary mottoes.

James K. Hardie and other men well known in socialistic movements made speeches, voicing angry protests against the proposed visit. Resolutions to the same effect were adopted.

Bernard Shaw said he had no doubt that King Edward was sufficiently embarrassed and heartily wished that the emperor of Russia was going to visit the emperor of China instead of him. Shaw declared that he was particularly anxious to avoid violent language and would simply say in conclusion: "Damn the czar's tyranny and his impudence for coming to these shores."

Six Hundred Negro Troopers From Philippines Land In New York

New York, July 26.—The United States army transport Kilpatrick, with the Tenth regiment of United States cavalry, tied up at the quartermaster's dock at the foot of Wall street at noon Sunday after a two months' voyage from the Philippines, and the 600 negro troopers were released on shore leave until 9 o'clock last evening.

Wives and children, brothers and sisters, sweethearts and chums were at the dock to welcome many of the cavalrymen home, and as old Trinity's chimes broke the Sunday quiet of down-town, the khaki-clad troopers worked off their sea legs by walking up Broadway.

After a parade in this city today and a banquet tonight, the regiment will leave tomorrow for Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., where they will be stationed until further orders.

COAL LADEN STEAMER GOES TO THE BOTTOM

Could Not Stand Strain of Heavy Southeast Gale

Boston, July 26.—Steamer Howard arrived here with Captain Anderson and the crew of the steamer Kenosha on board.

The Kenosha, from Baltimore for Boston with a consignment of coal, sprang a leak when about six miles off the Fire Island lightship. The boat sank rapidly, forcing the crew of eighteen men to take to the small boats. They were picked up by the Howard and brought here. The Kenosha is probably a total loss.

The Kenosha encountered a southeast gale on Friday, which caused her to labor heavily in the seas, and that evening she began to leak badly from the strain. The pumps were kept going steadily until 9 a. m. Saturday, when it was decided to take to the boats. An hour and a half later the Kenosha went down. She was valued at $30,000 and her cargo of coal at $7000.

Boston Tot Run Over and Killed by an Electric Car

Boston, July 26.—Edward, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mendleson of Jamaica Plan, was run over by an inbound electric car in that district and died six hours later.

"Teddy," a bull terrier, and a playmate of the child, attempted to save his master, but just as he was ready to grab the boy in his teeth, the car bore down on them both. The dog jumped to one side and save his own life, but the little fellow, less nimble than his canine friend, was struck by the fender.

The Salem will be presented with a silver service set, a bronze seal to be nailed to the mast, a cabinet phonograph for the men and a ship's clock.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment.

rage and then faced him again with cold disapproval in her tone.

"Perhaps it will be as well if we avoid personal allusions," she said resentfully. This man should have no opportunity for bringing up those vulgar, half forgotten family reminiscences if she could help it. He smiled a trifle wanly.

"I don't just see how that's possible," he answered, and she waved her hand indignantly.

"Will you please sit down?" she said, and Pike made an awkward bow.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied meekly, with the faintest accent on the last word, and obediently took the chair that Horace had vacated so precipitously. She shuddered at the word he had used and glanced nervously at the hat he was holding in his hands.

"Are—are you really my guardian?" she asked at last, with a trace of heated unbelief in her tones. Pike smiled at her.

"We could have been spared this—this mortification."

"Well," he said, "I've got the papers in my grip. I expect that"—

"Oh, I know it!" she interrupted explosively. "It's only that we didn't fancy—we didn't expect"—

She paused, and he went on:

"I expect you thought I'd be considerably older."

"Not only that."

"And I guess you thought I'd neglected you a good deal." There was a touch of remorse in his tone, and he looked idly at the hat he held. "And it did look like it—never coming to see you—but I couldn't hardly manage the time to get away. You see, being trustee of your share of the estate I don't hardly have a fair show at my law practice. But when I got your letter eleven days ago I says to myself: 'Here, Daniel Voorhees Pike, you old shellback, you've just got to take time. John Simpson trusted you with his property, and he's done more—he's trusted you to look out for her, and now she's come to a kind of jumping off place in her life—she's thinking of getting married—so you just pack your gripsack and hike out over there and stand by her.'"

During the last half of his speech there was a tone of affectionate regard, at which she bridled resentfully.

"I quite fail to understand your point of view," she said frigidly. "Perhaps I had best make it clear to you that I am no longer thinking of getting married."

"Well, Lord 'a' mercy!" ejaculated Pike, leaning back in his chair and smiling at her, but she affected not to notice the lighter tone and went on.

"I mean I have decided upon it. The ceremony is to take place in a fortnight."

"Well, I declare!" he cried.

"We shall dispense with all delays," she went on, and Pike regarded her solemnly for a moment.

"Well, I don't know as I could say anything against that. He must be a mighty nice fellow, and you must think a heap of him." He sighed. "That's the way it should be." He looked at her. "And you're happy?"

"Distinctly!" said Ethel decisively.

Pike looked off over the blue bay, and then his gaze traveled to where Horace had been standing, and with a start he turned to her again, speaking eagerly:

"It ain't that fellow I was talking with, yonder?"

And she voiced an indignant protest.

"That was my brother!"

"Lord 'a' mercy!" ejaculated Daniel and then recovered himself. "But, then, I wouldn't remember him. He couldn't have been more than twelve when you was home last. Of course I'd 'a' known you"—

"How?" demanded Ethel. "You couldn't have seen me since I was a child."

"From your picture, though now I see it ain't so much like you," he answered, and she stepped forward, with astonishment.

"You have a photograph of me?"

"The last time I saw your father alive he gave it to me—to look at."

"And you remembered"—

"Yes, ma'am."

A look of incredulity passed over Ethel's face, and she replied:

"It does not strike me as possible. However, we will dismiss the subject."

"Well, if you'd like to introduce me to your—to your"—

"To my brother?"

"No, ma'am; to your—to the young man."

"To Mr. St. Aubyn?" cried Ethel, recoiling a step. "I think it quite unnecessary."

"I'm afraid I can't see it that way. I'll have to have a couple of talks with him, sort of look him over, so to speak. I won't stay around here spoiling your fun any longer than I can help—only just for that and to get a letter I'm expecting from England."

Ethel bit her lip vexatiously.

"I do not see that you need have come at all. We could have been spared this—this mortification."

"You mean I mortify you? Why, I—I can't see how."

"In a hundred ways," she replied, "every way. That common person who is with you"—

"He isn't common. You only think so because he's with me," returned Daniel sadly, looking down.

"Who is he?" demanded Ethel sharply.

"He told me his name, but I can't remember it. I call him 'doc.'"

"It doesn't matter. What does matter is that you needn't have come. You could have written your consent."

"No, ma'am, not without seeing the young man," answered Pike resolutely.

"And you could have arranged the settlement in the same way," went on Ethel unheedingly.

HALF EXISTING DUTY ON HIDES

Payne Opposes Aldrich's Attempt to Take Vote on It

CLASH OF TARIFF LEADERS

Senator Said to Have Declared That He Is "Tired of Dictatorial Methods" of Congressman—Hide and Leather Situation as Badly Tangled as Ever—Conferees Are Continuing Their Battle With Horns Locked

Washington, July 26.—Bitter words between Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne just before the close of an hour's session of the tariff conferees last night are reported to have followed an attempt on the part of the former to compel a vote on a motion to make hides dutiable at 7½ percent, half of the existing rate. The session was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. today.

From the variety of reports concerning the incident it appears that the senate leader was angered by frequent statements made by the house leader that the country and the president were in sympathy with the action of the house in putting hides on the free list, and that he did not propose to be governed by what a majority of the conferees thought about the question.

A formal motion fixing 7½ percent, as the rate to be fixed on hides was made Saturday. At that time Payne is reported to have said that he could not consent to the taking of a vote. He asserted that the sentiment of the country was in favor of free hides, and referred to the expressions of the president on the subject. The motion was not pressed, but it was pending Sunday.

During the forenoon session Sunday the conferees discussed the parliamentary situation, but last night the motion was renewed. Payne is said to have reiterated his position with increased emphasis. Aldrich is reported to have upbraided Payne for his "obstinancy" and to have said that he was "tired of dictatorial methods" to defeat the will of a majority of the conferees. Payne was unrelenting.

When it was seen that nothing could be accomplished, Payne's signature being necessary for the making of a report, the conference adjourned. The story of the intense feeling exhibited leaked out through confidences given by conferees to other members of congress.

Although the tariff conferees held two sessions Sunday the hide and leather situation is just as badly entangled as it was when the conferees adjourned Saturday. This forenoon is being occupied by advocates of protected hides in making a final appeal to President Taft that he stand just as firmly for material reductions in the duties on boots and shoes and other leather goods as he is standing for free hides.

The conferees are fighting with locked horns. Until the senate members are assured of sufficient votes to adopt a conference report carrying hides on the free list they will not permit this question to be brought to a vote. The house members have exhibited no signs of weakening and many of them have assumed that it will be impossible to reduce leather goods below the house rate. In support of this the house leaders insist that the conferees are not empowered to agree upon duties lower than the lowest rates fixed by either branch of congress.

KILLED IN LIFE NET

Man Meets Almost Instant Death In a Boarding House Fire

Boston, July 26.—John McFarren, aged 50 years, lost his life in connection with a fire here and several others were slightly injured.

The fire started by the explosion of a lamp on the second floor of a three-story wooden structure, occupied as a lodging house. McFarren and John Coughlin, who were asleep on the top floor, were cut off by the flames and both jumped to a net held by firemen in the street. They landed in the net, carrying it to the ground, both striking heavily.

McFarren was almost instantly killed, but Coughlin received only slight injuries. The loss to the building amounted to $2000.

Many Drowning Accidents

At Whitingsville, Mass., a young man and woman, returning from a wedding, met their deaths. They were Jennie Appinwall, 20 years old, and Andrew Faber, aged 21.

Fishing from a canoe ended fatally for Joseph Sentimento, 49 years old, in Shrewsbury, Mass. While pulling in his line the canoe tipped and he was drowned.

Norman Chamberlain, aged 20, was drowned in Westboro, Mass., while learning how to paddle a canoe.

Through the capsizing of their light skiff Peter Erickson and Selma Anderson, each 18 years old, were drowned in Lake Dunmore, Salisbury, Vt.

Edmund Chenard of Fall River, 4 years old, was drowned when he fell from a motor boat in which he was playing alone into South Watuppa pond.

BULLET THROUGH HEART

Greek Lad Kills Woman Who Had Acted Like a Mother For Him

Barre, Vt., July 26.—Mrs. C. G. Mascott, wife of a Greek who runs a candy shop, was shot and killed by George Mitchell, a Greek, aged 16, who was employed by Mascott. Mitchell attempted to kill himself after the shooting, but the bullet went wild, lodging under his scalp, and it is believed that he will recover.

Mrs. Mascott was 35 years old. She was with her two children at her home when Mitchell drew a revolver without warning and fired the fatal shot, the bullet passing through the woman's heart and killing her instantly.

There is no known cause for the act and it is believed insanity alone could have inspired it. Neighbors say that Mrs. Mascott had acted like a mother for young Mitchell since he came to this country.

QUINCYS LOSE TO RANDOLPH

scored easily when "Court" threw a mile over Murray's head to catch him. This ended the scoring for the day.

The Randolph team was weakened by the loss of their star third sacker, Clancy, who is out with a sprained ankle. Brennan, the short stop, is also out of the game with injuries. They played a good game, however, and deserved to win. The score:

VICTORY FOR ATLANTIC.

The Atlantic professionals and the Norwell team had it out Saturday for 16 innings, the Atlantic team finally winning out 7 to 6. It was Norwell's second defeat of the season, the first defeat being registered by the Quincy Independents. Osborne was in the box for Norwell and was hit hard, 11 hits being rounded out of his delivery. Three of these went for triples. Johnny Driscoll pitched for Atlantic and held his opponents to seven hits, besides cracking out a three bagger.

QUINCY RED SOX WIN.

Quincy Red Sox won from Warren A. C. of Everett Saturday, the score being 7 to 5. Gisbon, Gisburn and Clark did the best work for the winners, and White and Collins for the losers. Clark fanned 11 men and pitched excellent ball all through.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAME.

The game next Saturday between Quincy and Taunton, originally scheduled for Taunton, has been transferred to Quincy and will be played at the Water street grounds at 3.30. The Taunton boys won the pennant last year and are hot after the rag this season. They are leading the league now, having won eight and lost four games. Quincy is tied for second and will attempt to pull Taunton from its perch. Fred Smith will probably play first base for Quincy. At second, George Donaher will probably be seen with Lou Courtney at short. Al Strobel has gone away on a vacation for a month. The game will be one of then best of the season and will be a rubber game, each team having won one game from the other this year.

QUINCY IND. WIN.

The Quincy Independents kept up their winning streak Saturday by defeating the strong North Woburn team 2 to 1 on the library field, Woburn. It was one of the best games seen in Woburn this season and was replete with brilliant fielding. Jimmy Michael, the crack southpaw of the Makaria, was back with his old friends, and pitched fine ball. He struck oue the last three batters the ninth inning. Lefty Ford, the diminutive centre fielder of the Quincy team, made a big hit with the Woburn fans. He played a great game, making several fine catches in the field.

TODAY'S COURT.

Christopher Eskins was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Quincy.

IRIS WINS A PRETTY RACE

Open Race of Squantum Club Brings Out Large Fleet

All of the cape cat flyers were out Saturday and participated in the open race held under the auspices of the Squantum Yacht club. There was a puffy southwest breeze and the majority of the boats got away under reefs. The course was a triangular one of seven and one-half miles, which gave the boats a run, a reach and a beat to the starting mark.

The cape cats got into a little mixup at the start and the Josephine was crowded into the judge's boat. In rounding, she struck the Hustler who in turn got into close quarters with the Aimira.

The latter boat had her mast lengthened and when within ten minutes of the finish mark, her mast either unstepped or broke, for she withdrew and was towed back to Quincy.

The Iris sailed a pretty race and was very fast in Saturday's wind. She headed the class during the race and finished with a lead of over four minutes.

The judges were: F. J. Stewart, Howard Gannett, Jr., Frank E. Badger, of the Squantum club and one judge from each of the other clubs participating.

The summary:

CLASS D.

QUINCY MAN APPRECIATED.

A few days ago the editor received a copy of the Daily Ledger of Tacoma, Washington. It was the Commercial club editor and so full of good reading and illustrations of that city we have not had time to fully digest it. We were wondering to whom we were indebted but the following letter received by later mail solved the problem:

Tacoma, Washington, July 20,
Gentlemen:

On July 19 we had the pleasure of meeting in our club rooms Dr. John A. Gordon, one of your townspeople, and in response to a request from him we have mailed some literature regarding this city which we trust may prove of interest to you. Doctor stated that if he was a few years younger he would certainly locate in our city. We regret that such is not the case as we are sure that while Quincy was losing a good citizen, Tacoma would gain one.

Respectfully yours,
Tacoma Commercial Club.
O. F. Cosper, Secretary.

QUINCY BOYS IN MEET.

Franz R. Marceau of Wollaston won second place in the mile run at the St. Augustine meet on Saturday at Locust street, being defeated only by Bill McVicar, the fleet footed runner of the South Boston A. C. Marceau started with a 20-yard handicap and McVicar with 10. Wilson, the English champion, was on scratch.

Early in the race Marceau began to eat up the distance between the other handicap men, taking the lead in the last lap. When near the finish, however, McVicar, who was at his heels, closed up and passed him as the pair neared the finish. The time of the race was 4 minutes, 29-4-5 seconds.

As the meet drew trained runners from all over the country, Marceau's future as a miler may well be followed with interest. This is the first race in which Marceau has been defeated.

Among other entries of Quincy athletes were: L. H. Thayer, 100 yard dash, 440 yard novice; Tom Elcock, 440 yard run, half mile run; Joe Elcock, 100 yard dash, 440 yard run; J. L. McLaughlin, 100 yard dash, running hop, step and jump; T. J. McLaughlin, 440 yard-novice.

BLERIOT WINS $5000 PRIZE

Makes International Flight In Very Small Monoplane

HE CROSSES ENGLISH CHANNEL

Trip Is Made In Less Than Half an Hour While Twenty-Mile Wind Is Blowing—Catches Rivals Napping and Lands In Dover Before People Are Astir—Machine Slightly Injured In Coming to Earth

Dover, Eng., July 26.—This sleepy seaport town experienced the keenest thrill known in a generation when at sunrise Sunday morning a white winged, bird-like machine with loudly humming motor swept out from the haze obscured the sea toward the distant French coast and, circling twice above the chalky cliffs of Dover, alighted on English soil.

A calm Frenchman, Louis Bleriot, a portly and red-moustached man of 37, descended from the saddle, limping on a bandaged foot, which had been burned on a previous overland flight. Immediately two compatriots, who had been waving a big tri-colored flag as a signal for the landing place, fell upon him enthusiastically, embracing him, shouting and pounding him on the back. They, with a few soldiers and others who happened by chance to be on the scene, were the only persons to witness the finish of a most remarkable feat.

Bleriot left Les Baraques, three miles from Calais, about 4:30 a. m., on one of the smallest monoplanes ever used. He crossed the channel in a little less than half an hour. His speed averaged more than 45 miles an hour; sometimes it approximated sixty miles. He kept about 250 feet above the sea level and for ten minutes, while about mid-channel, was out of sight of both coasts and of the French torpedo destroyer which followed him, with his wife and friends aboard.

The wind was blowing about twenty miles an hour and the sea was choppy. The aviator was swathed in a single garment of drilling, impervious to the wind, which covered him from the top of his head to his feet, only his face showing.

By his achievement Bleriot won the prize of $5000 offered by the London Daily Mail for the first flight across the English channel and stole a march on his rivals, Hubert Latham and Count deLambert, both of whom had hoped to make the attempt Sunday.

"I arose at 3 o'clock," he said, "and went to the aeroplane shed. Finding everything in order on the trial spin, I decided to make the flight. The French torpedo boat destroyer which was in attendance was signalled and it put out about four miles. Then I rose in the air and pointed directly to Dover. After ten minutes I was out of sight of land and had left the warship well behind. For a few minutes I could not see either coast, nor any boat. I tried to keep an average height of 250 feet. I might have easily gone higher, but it would have served no purpose. This was about the right height, I thought, to clear the Dover cliffs safely.

"The machine dipped toward the water several times. I put on more petrol once. I estimate that the propellers were going from 1200 to 1400 revolutions a minutes. The first objects I saw were ships off the English coast; then I observed Deal and I discovered that the wind, which was southwest, was carrying me thither. I veered to the southward to Dover castle and then saw friends flourishing a flag in a valley suitable for landing. I made two circles while lessening the speed and then dived down, but I came in contact with the ground sooner than I expected. Both the machine and myself were badly shaken.

"A few persons quickly assembled and I was helped out, as my injured foot was painful. I am exceedingly glad to be here."

Bleriot's friends took him to a hotel by the pier. In the meantime his wife arrived on the destroyer. They were soon sitting at breakfast, the center of a proud gathering of French people. The mayor and other Dover officials welcomed Bleriot in the name of the city and nation as the pioneer of international flight.

It was not long before half the population of Dover, dressing as they went, were rushing toward Northfall meadow. Photographers and cinematographers were crestfallen because they had missed the great event for which they had waited so long.

Parts of the framework of the machine were splintered on landing. Everyone expressed surprise at its small size. It is no more than twenty feet across the wings, and its weight is about 400 pounds, the motor being twenty-five horsepower. In the same machine Bleriot recently made a cross-country trip of twenty-five miles. It is the smallest of three he took to Calais. The machine is fitted with an airtight sausage-shaped rubber bag so that it would float if it descended to the sea.

MISS GERTRUDE McDEVITT.

Sister of Ward Councilman Laid at Rest This Morning.

Miss Gertrude McDevitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McDevitt, was buried this morning from the home of her parents 134 Willard street. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, Mrs. Thomas Fennessey singing the "De Profundis" at the offertory. Miss Rena Bizzozero presided at the organ.

The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased and the family, St. Ambrose court, ladies auxiliary, M. C. O. F., of which Miss McDevitt was a member, attending in a body. Mayor William T. Shea and several members of the City Council were also present. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. There were many floral offerings from relatives and friends.

Some Changes in Make up of Local Team for Saturday

The Quincy Old Colony league team will be without the services of the crack short stop Al Strobel for the next few games. Al has gone away on a month's vacation. Manager Guston is trying to strengthen the team all through for next Saturday's game, but this gap at short will be hard to fill. It is proposed to move Lou Courtney from second to short and put George Donaher in at second. In all probability Fred Smith, the harding hitting local catcher, will be seen on first base for the local team. Fred is a swell fielder ,besides being a grand hitter, and will fill in at first base in fine style. Third base seems to be rather weak, and a new man may be seen there in place of Hoye, the present incumbent. The outfield will remain intact with Lonergan, Duggan and Burke. There is some speculation as to who will be in the box for the team. Adams is sure to go, for both games he has pitched here, he has been hit hard and has been rather wild. The management is after a good man for Saturday, though it seems that Sid Patterson ought to be given the first chance. Two new men are under the eye of Manager Guston, Labelle, the former New England league star, and Buck O'Brien, star twirler of last year's champion Taunton team. Taunton has probably got a string on Buck, however, it will be doubtful if the local team lands him. He would certainly be a strong man for the team.

The work of Umpire Joe Langdon in the game at Randolph Saturday was very creditable. While there was considerable kicking, his work on the whole was as good as has been seen so far in the league. He insisted on keeping the players' bench clear of everyone but the players, manager, scorer and newspaper men. This is a very good idea and ought to be carried out to the letter.

The Taunton team is certainly having its share of extra inning games. For the last three Saturdays the team has had to go extra innings. Last Saturday they won from Stoughton in 11 innings, a week before that was the day of the memorable 18 inning game with the same team, Stoughton winning, while a week previous to that, Randolph was beaten in the fifteenth inning of one of the best games ever seen at Taunton. As a rule extra inning games are the exception, but with Taunton they seem to be the rule rather than the exception. The Taunton team comes to Quincy next Saturday and let us hope for a good game, even if we do not get an extra inning one. Better bring your supper along, however, to be sure.

Louis Courtney, the second sacker of the local team, is in the midst of a big batting slump. "Court" can hit the ball and hit it hard, but the best of batters slump occasionally. Look at Wagner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, in his recent trip to Boston. He went four or five games without getting a hit. Perhaps a change in the batting order would help some. It often does players good to get a little shift in the order. It might help the whole team a little in the batting line.

Jack Hafford, the crack left fielder of the Taunton team, knocked a home run in the ninth inning of the game with Stoughton team Saturday at Stoughton, the ball going over the fence in right center. This is the first time the trick has been done this year and the second time in the history of the park.

Oh, you Pop Mahar. Mahar is certainly stinging the ball hard these days, and every game he gets two or three hits. Saturday against Dewey and Arbie Dam, he got three, including a double a triple and a single. Going some Pop. Dam was hit hard all through the game a total of ten hits being garnered off his delivery, Smith, the local lad who is catching for the Rockland team, got two of the ten.

The Atlantic Professionals defeated the crack Norwell team Saturday at Norwell. This was the second defeat of the season for the Norwell team. A rather strange thing about the first defeat is that it was registered by another Quincy team, Joe Ford's Quincy Independents.

Jimmy Michael and Walter Troupe were in the points for the Quincy Independents Saturday at North Woburn and played great ball. Not a man stole second on Walter, while the Woburn batters were powerless before the shoots off the crack southsider Michael. Lefty Ford, the former Bigelow crack pitcher, played centre field for the team and made a big hit, especially with the small boys. Lefty is only a kid, but he sure is a ball player. He was the idol of the small boys, who at first thought he was only the mascot.

Eddie Ryan, a former member of the Quincy Independents and also of the Boston College baseball team, is at Houghs Neck for a few days. Eddie has been playing left field for the Pawtucket, R. I. team all summer, but had to return on account of the death of his father. He will probably go back to Pawtucket this week.

The support given to the Quincy team has been very pleasing and gratifying to the management of the team. There is not another city on the circuit which is supporting the teams as the local fans are doing. Last Saturday there was a special car to Randolph and there was standing room only. Every town the local team goes to, half the crowd that watches the game, is composed of Quincy people . All the fans say is, "Give us a winning team and we will come to the games." They have been coming and the management is striving to satisfy them by putting a winning combination on the field.

The Copeland baseball team met its old rivals the Royal White Sox of Braintree, Saturday at the St. Francis church lawn party held on French's common. Williams and Pittipit were in the points for the Copelands, while Morales and Coose worked for the Royals. Williams was in fine fettle, fanning 14 men and allowing but 3 hits. Copeland won the game by the score of 6 to 2. The Copelands are desirous of arranging a game for Saturday with some strong semi-professional team.

The strong Cranch A. A. of this city had its winning streak broken Saturday, when they were defeated by the Holbrook A. A. The score was 2 to 0. Megley, the Holbrook pitcher, held the Cranch batters to three hits, two of which were scratches. Both sides played a flawless game in the field.

OLD COLONY STANDING.

By winning her game Saturday, while the other leaders were losing, Taunton now has a clear lead in the Old Colony league. In second place Quincy and Dewey are fighting it out, both having won six and lost five games. Stoughton and Rockland are tied for third, while Randolph still remains in the cellar. If Quincy beats Taunton next Saturday in the game at Water street, the two teams will be tied for first place, while if Dewey also wins, there will be a triple tie. It is a pretty close race for honors and lots of things can happen as a result of next Saturday's contests. The standing at present is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct
Taunton	7	4	636
QUINCY	6	5	545
Dewey	6	5	545
Stoughton	5	6	455
Rockland	5	6	455
Randolph	4	7	364

GRANITE INDUSTRY GOOD.

Concord the centre of granite industry in New Hampshire reports prosperous conditions, better than for years. Activity in building all over the country is providing plenty of business. One reason for the flourishing condition of the granite business is the amicable ending of the differences between the workers and the manufacturers, which resulted in a three-year's agreement.

RELIEF FOR ASPARAGUS GROWERS.

For many years asparagus growers have been put to great trouble and expense in protecting their beds from the ravages of a destructive beetle, which feeds upon the foliage. Dr. H. T. Furnald, entomologist of the Experiment Station in Amherse has discovered a parasite which feeds upon the eggs of this beetle. In its perfect form the parasite is a minute fly. It appears to lay one of its own eggs in each of the eggs of the beetle, and the larva lives upon the contents of the egg of the beetle. The work of the parasite appears to have been extremely effective this season. In localities where it has heretofore been necessary to spray repeatedly with poisons, very few beetles could be found and no spraying whatever has been necessary. It is of course possible that in some seasons the parasite may not effectively hold the asparagus beetle in check, but the insect which has been at work this season must apparently hereafter prove a most effective ally in the fight against it. The Experiment Station has published a circular on this parasite which may be obtained by addressing, Mass. Agr. Exp. Station, Amherst, Mass.

BOAT LANDING AT SQUANTUM

Four Miles of Streets to be Built at Squantum Park

Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins the well known engineers and contractors of Boston have applied to the Harbor and Land Commissioners for permission t obuild and maintain a landing in Dorchester bay and Squantum park. The proposed location of the landing is near Squantum street about half way between Lee's new Inn and the Squantum Inn along side of the street.

The company proposes to build a pile wharf and landing from which loom will be transported by scows to the Charles River basin.

This company has also been awarded the contract to lay out and build about four miles of streets on the Squantum park property now owned by Neslon and Carlson and the loom taken from these streets will be transported to the Charles River basin where the same firm also has a large contract.

The firm already has a large gang of men at work on the new streets and the landing will be built as soon as the desired permission is obtained from the Harbor and Land Commissioners who will give a hearing to parties interested next Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in Quincy.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Joseph Blanchard of Presidents hill has a toy horse and express wagon of good size that are the admiration and at the same time the envy of many a small youngster.

Saturday with a little neighbor, Joseph was enjoying his turnout on the lawn and after playing awhile, brought the outfit to the piazza and went into the house for a few minutes. On his return, the horse and wagon had disappeared, the thief leaving the doll which had been enjoying a ride, on the grass, together with robes, reins, etc. As the horse and wagon weighed several pounds, the child who took it must have had hard work to carry it.

The thief came through the shrubbery about the house and was traced some distance. Lawlessness and crime is increasing among juveniles and more stringent punishment should be dealt out, not to the youth but to the parents. A heavy fine imposed on the parent would soon correct some of the evil in their offspring.

The Charlestown man who jumped from a burning building Sunday morning into a life net found the contrivance a death trap.

It's rather hard work for a man to get away from his crime. The hand of the Quincy police stretched out to Lorraine, Ohio, yesterday and caught a man wanted here.

Judging from the demonstrations made, the people of Salem seem to be bewitched over the scout cruiser named for that city and built in Quincy.

The great and glorious West is advertising for help to harvest the wheat crop. Now is a grand opportunity to follow out Horace Greeley's advice: "Go West, young man."

Venice without gondolas is almost as bad as Venice without water. Tourists of this generation are missing many of the sights that formerly made Europe so attractive. It is fast becoming modernized.

Most of the city locals these days tell of Quincy people going out of the city on vacations. Most of the locals in the daily papers around this city tell of residents in those places coming to Quincy for a like purpose. Quincy has a welcome for all.

Be sure and don't get caught napping tomorrow. Do your shopping for groceries and provisions today and don't be sorry tomorrow when you see all the stores colsed up. It will be Grocers' day and may the men who furnish Quincy's homes with edibles have a happy and successful outing.

Senator Aldrich, in his indignation at Congressman Payne's "dictatorial methods," undoubtedly feels towards the congressman about the same as the country at large feels towards Senator Aldrich and for the same reason, too.

Britain's "tight little isle," isn't quite so tight when Frenchmen can leap into the air and land on the other side of the channel in half an hour. Bleriot certainly has got the record for the long distance jump.

Gen. Draper's idea of taking away from the rich all over a million dollars is not a bad idea. Thats enough for any one to live comfortably on. The government would grow rich but could make returns to the tax payer by building government roads, school houses, etc.

Poor boys! The latest put forth is that pockets in boys' trousers should be sewed up because they bring about stooped shoulders as the boys use them as receptacles for their hands. The first pair of trousers will not now delight the heart of the small kid.

Several citizens have asked if the city fathers are not interested in a beautiful Quincy as well as a commercial Quincy? Besides natural beauty spots there are many made by man which since the making have been neglected until they are almost an eyesore. We refer to the triangular plots of grass at the intersection of streets and to small parkways of trees and bushes where the shrubs are over grown, trees neglected and grass gone to seed. The Park Commission does not consider these places within their jurisdiction and evidently the street department does not.

Three alleged "ghosts" were brought into court yesterday from Braintree. They were caught in a raid made in an old-fashioned chimney, all that survived of an old ruin that marked the site of an ancient dwelling. The base of this old chimney was so large that the "ghosts" were able to sleep there. The "ghosts" were big, able-bodied men instead of spirits as some good, pious Braintree folks had imagined. From the evidence which the police found, however, it was plain that spirits had been in the place but they had been brought there in bottles.

The Taunton base ball team of the Old Colony league, which won the league pennant last season and is leading the league this year, can hardly make it a go in the home city. On acount of the lack of patronage the game between Taunton and Quincy, which was scheduled for next Saturday in Taunton, has been transferred to this city. This fact is cited for the information of those knockers who thought Quincy would be a "frost" on any base ball club that played in enclosed grounds. So far this season, Quincy has been the best-paying city in the league. The club could make more money if the entire grounds were enclosed but that will come later. In view of the record Quincy has made so far, what kind of support do you think this town would give a team that was at the head of the league and with a league championship behind it? Next season Quincy expects to be in that position and then, look out for sport.

That was certainly a wild-west sort of a story that came from Germantown yesterday. We don't like to believe that such things could occur in such a peaceable and well-ordered community as Germantown. It isn't the very best kind of a feeling to know that a man is stabbed three times in his own yard in broad daylight and then shot at when darkness comes on. Fortunately for the peace of mind of the community the police went into the story pretty thoroughly and the officers are not inclined very strongly to the theory of assault.

That the Public Library is to be open every day from ten in the morning until eight or nine o'clock in the evening, beginning with the fall months, is a welcome announcement to patrons for morning opening has been needed for some time and is a privilege enjoyed by towns much smaller than Quincy. Morning opening and branch reading rooms have been discussed, individually, by the Quincy Women's club, and the smaller clubs and all are agreed that inasmuch as the city has a beautiful library, the gift of the Crane family which has been more than generous, it is up to the city not to be nigardly in running it. The library is for the use of all the people of the city and its hours and accommodations should be such that all enjoy its privileges. If the appropriation is not large enough to employ ample assistants then the city officials should see to it that the appropriation is increased the coming year.

A ONESIDED SQUARE DEAL.

A few weeks ago we said the man who asked for a square deal should be willing to give one. This was said concerning the cry of the automobilists for fair play. In some towns these automobilists have to contend with hidden traps and other devices made for the express purpose of catching overspeeders. Quincy did not resort to this method but with a patience that was remarkable the authorities tried to meet the automobilists half way. Big signs were put up at either end of the city asking automobilists to go slowly through Quincy on account of narrow, crowded streets, and promised a square deal in return. The automobile association of Massachusetts evidently appreciated this for that organization sent out cards to all ts members asking them to run slowly and carefully in Quincy as this was one of the few cities that seemed inclined to give automobilists the fair show for which they had been asking. In spite of all this the police now find automobilists dashing through the city at a reckless rate. It became necessary Sunday to summons one into court. It was a novelty to the court officials to see an automobilist arraigned for overspeeding in Quincy. The police should now get busy. They have done everything that could be done to give the much called-for "square deal." Evidently some of the automobilists are looking at only one side of the "square." They should be made to see the other side.

A QUARRYING FEAT.

Boston papers are giving considerable space, with illustrations, to the task which the Merry Mount granite company performed last week in quarrying two 35-ton stones, exact duplicates of each other. Despite our recently imported new industries, the granite trade continues to be the staple business of the city. Years ago when it was proposed to build the Bunker Hill monument, the legislature passed a law limiting the amount of quarrying to be done in Quincy, lest the supply for the monument might fail. Since those days, 85 years ago, numerous quarries have been opened and many of them have been sunk to a depth of 150 feet and over. Government scientists from Washington, who visited Quincy a short time ago, examined these quarries and expressed the opinion that the deeper holes had reached only the roof of the granite supply.

In all these years of quarrying Quincy has given to the world some mammoth stones but at the present time there seems to be a succession of extra large orders. Last week the Quincy Quarries company produced a 30-ton stone from the old Hitchcock quarry and a few days ago the Merry Mount quarry gave up its twin-stone offering, each rock weighing, approximately, 35 tons. Among granite men in general there was some doubt expressed when the company decided to try for two stones of the same dimensions, each aggregating such an unusual weight. Of course it was necessary that the stones be of the same color and size as they were to be matched in making a roof for a mausoleum. That a quarry in this city was able to do this speaks well for Quincy. Extra care had to be taken in blasting out the two stones but when this part of the work was over the stones were exact reproductions of each other. Again great care had to be used in lifting the stones from their deep bed, over 100 feet below the top of the quarry and this delicate and difficult feat was also performed in safety. Two stones, weighing 70 tons, is a pretty good offering for one day's showing in one of our quarries. In connection with this subject it will be interesting to see the quarrying figures that the coming census will bring forth. A census of the quarrying and mining industries of the country has not been taken since 1870.

DUXBURY PAGEANT.

The Pilgrim scenes to be given at Duxbury this week Saturday promise to be highly interesting. The pageant will be given out of doors near the place where some of the incidents actually occurred. The large open-air auditorium will be enclosed by a high hedge of trees and branches. The stage will give the appearance of a large double terrace, the higher one with a curtain of foliage behind which some of the scenes will be arranged while others are being performed on the lower stage.

The opening scene will represent the village of Scrooby, England, where the Pilgrims held their services in the Old Manor House before going to Holland. A glimpse of the rustic life of that time will be given in the form of a May Day festival, in which troops of villagers, young and old, will take part.

The second scene will represent the town of Delfthaven, Holland, from which place the Pilgrims sailed for America in the Speedwell after twelve years in Holland. This will give a glimpse of the life at that period and will be followed by the embarkation.

The third scene will give a glimpse of the home life of the Indians in America with a hunt dance. This will be followed by the landing of the Pilgrims on Plymouth Rock.

Then will come several scenes representing the early life of Myles Standish, John Alden, Edward Winslow and others—including a scene showing the courtship of Priscilla.

The history of the town, which will be brought down as far as 1869, will include an enlistment for the Revolution, an open-air tea party of Colonial days, the launching of the Hope in 1841 and the return of the troops from the Civil War, and the laying of the French cable in July, 1869. These will be interspersed with old-time songs and dances, accompanied by a large orchestra and a brass band.

Saturday morning will be devoted to visiting points of historical interest, for which purpose barges will meet all trains at Duxbury and South Duxbury stations. The grounds where the pageant will be held are within easy walking distance of the South Duxbury Station.

At eleven o'clock there will be speaking in the Unitarian Church, followed by a dinner in Partridge academy, and a performance of old-time dances in the town hall. The pageant itself will begin at 3.45 P. M.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Cochrane Loses Control of Machine and It Runs Wild.

Mrs. William B. Cochrane and Mrs. C. L. Gilleatte both of Beach street figured in an automobile accident on Saturday afternoon, which had the machine been running faster, would have proved serious. The auto, under the guidance of Mrs. Cochrane was rounding from Beach into Kemper street, when she lost control of the machine. The car mounted the sidewalk and was brought to a stop by a tree in its path. The front of the car was badly damaged and the ladies sustained minor injuries. They were taken home in autos but although pretty well shaken up, required no medical attendance.

MAY PUT HIDES ON FREE LIST

Cheap Rates on Manufactures of Leather In Return

WESTERN SENATORS' DEMAND

Reductions All Along the Line In Leather Schedule Will Result In Their Withdrawing Their Protest Against Free Hides In Deference to President Taft—Matter to Go Before House Leaders Today

Washington, July 27.—Hides will be put on the free list if boots and shoes and other manufactures of leather are reduced below the rates fixed by the house bill. Unless the advocates of free hides are able to carry out this bargain, the whole program is to be called off. A decision to this effect was reached by the tariff conferees Monday.

The conferees adjourned last night until 11 a. m. today, but the house members will assemble half an hour earlier in order that they may lay plans for executing their part of the agreement. It is expected they will have a report from the house leaders as to the possibility of passing a rule conferring jurisdiction upon them to agree to lower rates on leather than those named in the house bill.

Senator Aldrich has informed senators from northwestern states that he will not consent to the abolition of the duty on hides unless there is a material cut in the rates on boots and shoes and other leather goods. In no other way, he said, can he get the votes necessary for the adoption of the report in the senate if he carries free hides. Senators from cattle raising states have insisted that the only way consumers can get any benefits from the removal of protection on hides would be by corresponding reductions in the duties on boots and shoes and harness. The Rhode Island senator's views coincide with this statement.

If for any reason, parliamentary or otherwise, anything should occur to upset the plan to give the conferees jurisdiction to adopt rates lower than those named by either the house or senate, the conference committee is holding what is regarded as a trump card in reserve. This provides for the preparation of a conference report putting hides on the free list and reducing the rates on shoes and other leather manufactures.

The report, it is said, would then be presented to President Taft with the statement that the conferees had not been able to muster sufficient votes to assure its adoption and it would devolve upon the president to procure the necessary support for the program. In the event of failure, according to promoters of this suggestion, the conferees would submit a report placing a small duty on hides and the house rates on leather. The president would be asked to get the necessary votes in the house to insure the passage of such a program by that body.

Obnoxious as such a plan would be to most of the conferees, it is said to have been suggested in all seriousness. Few of the conferees believe that it will be incumbent on them to resort to such tactics, however, for all of them realize that the criticisms usually heaped upon members who oppose the administration view make men hesitate to combat the president's will. On that account, it is generally believed that the compromise giving cheap rates on shoes and other manufactures of leather in return for free hides will be adopted.

Senator Warren says that the western senators would not be representing their states if they were to consent to the abolition of the duty on hides in the interest of the manufacturers of shoes and other leather goods unless manufacturers in New England and other eastern states are compelled to concede lower rates on leather products. While the western senators take the position that the removal of the duty on hides will be injurious to the cattle business, some of them say they will withdraw their protests, because of the insistence of President Taft, if reductions are made all along the line in the leather schedule.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasili is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment.

"Settlement: you seem to have settled it pretty well without me," returned Pike, smiling.

"You don't understand," said Ethel impatiently. "An alliance of this sort always entails a certain settlement." She paused. "Please listen. If you were at all a man of the world I should not have to explain that in marrying into a noble house I bring my dot, my dowry"—

"Money, you mean?" asked Pike, puzzled.

"Yes, if you choose to put it that way."

"You mean you want to put aside something of your own to buy a lot and start housekeeping"—

"No," she flared. "I mean a settlement upon Mr. St. Aubyn directly."

"You mean you want to give it to him?"

"If that's the only way to make you understand—yes!" she flashed.

"How much do you want to give him?" asked Pike thoughtfully.

"A hundred and fifty thousand pounds," said Ethel desperately.

Pike whistled.

"Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars!"

"Precisely that!" said Ethel.

"Well, he has made you care for him," said Daniel. "I guess he must be the prince of the world! He must be a great man. I expect you're right about me not meeting him. I probably wouldn't stack up very high alongside a man that's big enough for you to think so much of as you do him. Why, I'd have to squeeze every bit of property your pa left you."

"Is it your property?" she flared at him.

"I've worked pretty hard to take care of it for you," he answered gently, and instantly she regretted the sharp speech.

"Forgive me," she pleaded. "It was unworthy of me—unworthy of the higher and nobler things that life calls me to live up to—that I shall live up to. The money means nothing to me. I'm not thinking of that. It is a necessary form."

Pike looked at her keenly.

"Have you talked with Mr. St. Aubyn about this settlement—this present you want to make to him?" he asked.

"Not with him."

"I thought not," he went on amusedly. "You'll see. He wouldn't take it if I'd let you give it to him. A fine man like that wants to make his own way. Mighty few men like to have fun poked at them about living on their wives' money."

"Oh, I can't make you understand!" cried Ethel despairingly. "A settlement isn't a gift."

"Then how'd you happen to decide that just a hundred and fifty thousand pounds was what you wanted to give him?" he demanded.

"It was Mr. St. Aubyn's father who fixed the amount," replied Ethel desperately.

"His father! What's he got to do with it?"

"He is the Earl of Hawcastle, the head of the ancient house."

"And he asks you for your property—asks you for it in so many words?"

"Yes, as a settlement."

"And your young man knows it?"

"I tell you, Mr. Pike, I have not discussed it with Mr. St. Aubyn."

Pike laughed.

"I reckon not," he said amusedly. "Well, sir, do you know what's the first thing Mr. St. Aubyn will do when he hears his father made such a proposition? He'll take the old man out in the back lot and give him a thrashing he won't forget to the day of his death!"

She was about to answer when from a distance came the roll of drums and then the sound of a bugle. The sounds came from afar off, as if below the cliff.

They both stopped to listen. Then the servants came running, with Mariano at their head. They rushed to the wall and leaned over, all excitement. Mariano turned to call to them over his shoulder:

"The bandit of Russia! The soldiers think he is hidden in a grotto under these cliffs!"

As he spoke Almeric ran down the steps with a shotgun in his hand and made for the steps leading down the face of the cliff. Pike turned to Ethel.

"I saw that fellow on the road here. What's he meant for?"

Ethel turned angrily from the lawyer and called sharply to her fiance:

"Almeric!"

St. Aubyn turned and stopped.

"Hello!" he said.

"I wish to present my guardian to you," and turned to Pike as Almeric approached. "This is Mr. St. Aubyn," she said steadily.

Almeric stared at Pike through his monocle and laughed.

"Why, it's the donkey man, isn't it? How very odd! You'll have to see the governor and our solicitor about that settlement, though. I've some important business here. The police are chasing a bally convict chap under the cliff yonder, so you'll have to excuse me. You know there's nothing like a little convict shooting to break the blooming monotony—what?"

He turned and rushed off down the stairway. Pike turned to look after him in mute astonishment and then turned to Ethel. She refused to meet his glance, and the shot blood rose to her face as she felt his scrutiny.

She tapped nervously with her foot, and the astonishment grew in Daniel's face. He looked from her to where Almeric had disappeared and back to her again. Then he took a step forward as if to speak and stopped. Finally the dawning horror in his face took concrete form, and he spoke.

"That!" he groaned. "Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars for that! Say, how much do they charge for a real man over here anyway?"

But she was unable to meet his eye. Turning quickly, with her cheeks flaming with shame and anger, she rushed into the hotel and left him standing speechless on the spot.

RIOTS IN LARGE MEXICAN CITY

Precipitated by Appearance of Political Orators

STONED BY AN EXCITED MOB

Every Window In Hotel In Which They Stopped Is Broken and Lower Floor Looted—City Has Large Colony of Americans, and Considerable of Their Property Is Destroyed—Serious Political Situation

Mexico City, July 27.—More than 200 arrests were made, a score or more were injured, including two Americans, and two were killed in political riots in Guadalajara.

A mob broke up a meeting which was addressed by orators who spoke in behalf of the re-election of Diaz. The rioters shouted "Down with Diaz! We want Reyes!" During the night they stormed the Hotel Garcia, where the Diaz orators stayed. Every window was smashed and the lower floor was looted.

The police charged the crowd repeatedly but were repulsed. State troops were called out and a number of volleys were fired in the air without effect. The leaders of the mob erected a barricade on one of the side streets, and shots were exchanged between them and the soldiers. Six mounted policemen were wounded. A boy, 4 years old, is said to have been killed.

Considerable American property was destroyed and two Americans were wounded. The Americans asked the American consulate for protection. The names of the American wounded are W. H. Herton and H. Murphy.

Political speakers, who are campaigning in the interest of President Diaz and Vice President Corral, using a special train, were received sullenly when they arrived at Guadalajara on Sunday. On the way to the theatre they were hooted and at the theatre the crowds refused to allow a single orator to speak. When the party emerged from the building they were stoned. The automobiles in which the campaigners rode were also stoned.

The mob grew bolder. All the plate glass windows in the downtown quarter were broken. The Tenth regiment was called out and with the aid of the soldiers and police the speakers reached their special train. They arrived in Mexico City last evening.

The Hotel Garcia is one of the largest hostelries in the republic. It was leased by an American, who has already put in a claim for damages. Herton was a guest at the hotel. Murphy, the other American injured, was cut by a policeman's sabre.

The riot is the most serious that has occurred in Mexico in years and is looked on as significant by those who have closely followed the political situation. The official press says that it was planned and carried out by the Democratic party, known as the Reyista party, from the name of its candidate for vice president, General Reyes, formerly minister of war in Diaz's cabinet and now governor of Neuvo Leon.

Gaudalajara is the second largest city of the republic and is ranked as the most beautiful. There is a large American colony there.

TAX COLLECTOR RESIGNS

Claims Shortage In Accounts Is Due to Imperfect Bookkeeping

Holyoke, Mass., July 27.—Frank E. Moos, tax collector of South Hadley, in whose accounts for the year 1908 a shortage of $3200 was found by experts hired by the town, last night resigned his position. Arthur N. Chapin was elected his successor. The expert will also go over the accounts for 1907.

Moos announced that he would also resign as treasurer of the water department of the town, and the books of the department will be examined.

Moos claims the apparent shortage in the tax collector's accounts is due to errors in bookkeeping and says he will make good whatever may be found to be actually missing.

STRIKERS GAIN GROUND

Packing Room Employes' Demands Granted by Phelan Factory

Lynn, Mass., July 27.—An agreement between the Packing Room Employes' association and James Phelan & Sons resulted in the opening today of that factory, which has been closed since Friday in all departments because of the strike of packing room employes.

The Joseph Gaunt company and the V. K. & A. H. Jones factory, employing about 1600 persons, are still opposed to the strikers' demands.

Gasolene Caught Fire

Gloucester, Mass., July 27.—A loss of about $12,000 resulted from the ignition of gasolene in the automobile garage of Persons & Wonson, following the explosion of an electric light bulb. John Darwin, a chauffeur, was probably fatally burned and the automobile which he was cleaning was entirely destroyed. Three other machines were damaged.

Both these gatherings are interdenominational and the Missionary Conference includes delegates from Canada.

INTERVENTION BY UNCLE SAM

Among the Possibilities of the Near Future In Panama

AMERICANS ROUGHLY TREATED

Even Naval Officers Arrested Without Sufficient Cause, Clubbed and Thrown Into Jail Without Proper Medical Attention—Requests For Satisfaction Unheeded and Washington May Take Drastic Action

Washington, July 27.—Panama's attitude in failing to take proper notice of the maltreatment of American citizens within her borders during the past two years and a half has irritated the United States and the Washington government is now insisting upon the prompt settlement of these cases to the satisfaction of the state department.

Apparently reliable testimony showing unprovoked assaults and rough treatment of American citizens, including naval officers, has been presented to the Panama government with a view to obtaining proper apology, punishment of the offenders, compensation for injury or death and police reform, but all to no purpose. Only the most unsatisfactory replies have been received from Panama.

The attitude of the government of the isthmian republic is inexplicable to the state department officials, who have asked nothing more than that simply justice be meted out, with proper reparation for the families of those who have suffered. Minister Squiers has been instructed to urge insistently to satisfy settlement of these cases.

While the United States government has no idea, as far as can be learned, of intervening in Panama affairs with a view to maintaining order, yet it clearly has the right to do so should Panama fail to maintain public order in the cities of Panama and Colon and in the territories and harbors adjacent thereto. This right is given by article VII of the treaty of 1903. The disposition is to give Panama every opportunity to prove itself equal to the task of protecting life and property within its borders, and intervention would be resorted to only as a last resort.

On four different occasions Americans have suffered at the hands of Panamanians and in none of these cases has this government been able to obtain any satisfaction from Panama. One instance cited was of an assault on W. B. Warner, an employe of the isthmian canal commission, who, it is alleged, was brutally clubbed and otherwise severely handled by the Colon police on Dec. 25, 1906.

Several American officers of the cruiser Columbia, in uniform, were arrested in Colon on June 1, 1906, without sufficient cause, it is alleged. They were roughly handled and clubbed and then thrown into jail, where they were left for several hours without proper medical attention. The attack was unprovoked. No steps have been taken by Panama to comply with a demand that an indemnity be paid to the officers, Panama, seemingly, having disclaimed all blame in the matter.

Boatswains Mate Charles Rand was killed and Joseph Cieslik, a sailor, both of the cruiser Buffalo, was injured as the result of a fight with the Panama police on Sept. 28, 1908. From the evidence in this case there appears to be no doubt, according to the state department, that the two men were brutally treated by the police, who clubbed, handcuffed and dragged Rand through the streets, badly wounded. It is further alleged that while he was in police custody Rand was allowed to lie suffering and bleeding in the jail for more than an hour without medical attention. Similar treatment is said to have been given Cieslik.

Last May Charles M. Abbott and John Williams, both Americans, were killed in a riot, the former by a rock, supposed to have been thrown by a rioter, and the latter by a rifle shot, supposed to have been fired by a member of the Colon police force.

THAW AND JEROME CHUMMY IN COURT

Doctors Testify That They Believe the Prisoner Sane

White Plains, N. Y., July 27.—The efforts of Harry Thaw to obtain his release from the Matteawan asylum for criminal insane are culminating in the testimony of alienists called to prove him sane, and when they are through the prisoner will take the stand himself.

The proceedings are a continuation from July 15, when adjournment was taken to enable both sides to examine the voluminous records of the two homicide trials. In two respects the hearing is a reminder of these trials. District Attorney Jerome of New York has taken entire charge of the state's case.

Mr. Jerome and Thaw sat side by side, so close that their chairs touched. All but one of the witnesses were Thaw's Monday and his equanimity was undisturbed. At times he and Jerome chatted and smiled like old friends reunited.

The other familiar feature of the hearing was Dr. Britton D. Evans, famous for his introduction at the murder trials of the term "brain storm." He testified that Thaw has not now and never has had the particular kind of insanity known as "paranoia," which the state and county authorities contend still afflicts him.

The oldest practicing physician in White Plains and one of the youngest also testified. Both said that Thaw was mentally sound.

NEW RULES.

Profanity and Dogs to be Prohibited at City Bath House.

There are two new signs posted up at the public bath house which are very appropriate. One forbids the use of profane language in or about the bath house at any time, and the other prohibits the bringing of dogs to the beach during bathing hours. These two regulations are very good ones and should be carried out to the letter. Some of the language that is heard in and about the house is not very choice and should not be tolerated. The dogs, too, should be kept off the beach, for there is always danger that some of the canines will get mixed up in a fight with each other. Capt. Starr says he intends to enforce both of the new regulations, for he says that both of the things therein restricted are a detriment to the many people who use the bath house.

FREE TRANSPORTATION APPEAL.

While our congested Eastern cities are overrun with thousands of sturdy laborers without employment and often without bread, a need for these same laborers is felt in other parts. There is a bureau of Information in Washington which can furnish to almost every one of the unemployed the names of several firms where their work is needed. Were they to go to such localities, it would be a benefit both to them and to their employers, but they lack the means to pay the travelling expenses, and generally are suspicious of any offers of employers to advance these expenses on their wages.

If the Bureau of Information could give to unemployed laborers transportation to where their labor is in demand, thousands of them would be saved from want, and they would, on the other hand, benefit the country through their labor.

Immigrants arriving here could also be directed where they have relatives or where their labor is needed, but they cannot afford to pay the cost of transportation to those localities.

Free transportation will greatly contribute to the solution of this problem. The Argentine Republic furnishes immigrants with one week's hospitality and with free railroad transportation to any part of that country. Other South American governments offer similar inducements. What such Republics, with their scanty means, are doing, our country, the wealthiest in the world, can certainly accomplish. The burden which such a provision would entail upon the Federal Treasury would be more than compensated by the benefit which it would bring about.

We request all organizations and individuals that are in favor of a measure for the proper distribution of immigrants, to send resolutions or letters to that effect to their State and Federal Representatives, and to kindly notify the League when they do so. National Liberal Immigration League, 150 Nassau street, New York City.

GROCERS' DAY.

Tomorrow, Wednesday, is Grocers' day and many of the stores in Quincy will be closed all day. The local grocers will unite with the Old Colony Association in an excursion to Narragansett Bay. A special train will take the party to Fall River where the boat will be taken.

OLD COLONY GROCERS' DAY

Many Participating in Excursion to Cottage City

Today is Grocers' Day and business in general is suspended in the grocery and provision stores in the towns in which the Old Colony Grocers and Provision Dealers Association has members, and the unfortunate housewife who neglected to order meat or provisions for today's dinner will find herself minus.

Outside the grocery and provision stores in Quincy the day is not being observed as a holiday for other stores are open for business as usual. It looks rather forsaken abou t City Square however to see the doors of these stores closed, and the curtains drawn, and a stranger in town would at once remark about it. It is however a good thing to take a holiday once in a while and no one will begrudge the grocery clerks, who work early and late, a days outing.

The outing this year is being held at Cottage City and, as far as weather was concerned the early morning gave promise of all that could be desired. The Quincy party left the city on the special train of eleven cars that arrived here at 7.30. There was quite a large crowd in waiting at the Quincy station but many more at Quincy Adams. After leaving Quincy the train made stops at Braintree, South Braintree, South Weymouth, North Abington, Abington and Whitman.

From here the train ran express to New Bedford where the party were transferred to the new and staunch steamer Cottage City for an ideal sail across Buzzard's Bay to Cottage City where it was due at noon. The sail across Buzzard's Bay is all of two hours long and for beauty and variety, the scenery can not be surpassed along the Atlantic coast.

In addition to the special train, above referred to there was also a special train from Hanover and way stations which connected with the main train at North Abington.

At Cottoge City there is plenty to amuse the party, not the least of which is the daily bathing parties which is a sight well worth seeing. About five hours will be allowed the party on the Island as the return boat does not leave until 5 o'clock and the special train is due in Quincy tonight in the vicinity of 10 o'clock.

CRUISER SALEM.

City for Which Cruiser was Named Presents Vessel with Silver Service.

The scout cruiser Salem, built at the Fore River works, was presented with several valuable gifts Tuesday by the city for which she is named. In the morning Commander Key entertained Miss Pinnock, the sponser of the vessel and her father ex-mayor Pinnock, at lunch in the officers cabin. The exercises at the presentation took place at 3 o'clock on the common. The jackies from the Salem were formed in a hollow square about the stand upon which were Mayor Hurley and Commander Key and other guests. The gifts included a handsome and expensive silver service, a talking machine for the crew and a copy of the city seal in bronze table form and about eighteen inches across, for the ship which will be attached to the front of the mainmast about twelve feet above the deck.

The gifts were presented by Mayor Hurley and were accepted by Commander Key.

RECEPTION TO BENEDICT.

Copeland Club Give Fellow Member a Get Away Party.

Napoleon J. Lorandeau was tendered a reception by the Copeland Club Tuesday evening at the club house, which took the form of a "Get Away" party as Mr. Lorandeau becomes a benedict today. There was an entertainment that included musical selections by the club members and a buffet lunch, which was served by J. W. Dennen.

Mr. Lorandeau came in for a lot of good natured knocking during the evening, as well as much good advice from his fellow club members, some of whom have already taken the same path that the guest of the evening is about to follow, while the remainder hope that the lightning will strike their way soon. As a whole the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

TO HAVE PLAYGROUND.

Fine Grounds To Be Provided For Children of Ward One.

Through the interest of the Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club, the children of the Centre are to enjoy a well equipped playground during the month of August. The committee supplies the money for equipment and the local Y. M. C. A., through the energy of Mr. Gay and Mr. Clee cooperate in the work and give the use of the large yard back of the Association building for the playground.

There will be sand piles, swings and other things to amuse children as well as classes. There will also be young ladies to read interesting stories and to teach the children to play as several young women have volunteered their services.

Children between the ages of 5 and 12 years desiring the privileges of the playground should be at the Y. M. C. A. building after eight o'clock on Monday, August 2. The playground will be in use all of August.

Thus through the cooperation of the Quincy Women's club and the Y. M. C. A. the first equipped and practical playground will be started in the city and if it meets with the expected success, other wards in the city will be similarly favored another season. Let the good work continue and the city keep in line with all progressive movements.

SPEAR REUNION.

The annual reunion of the Seth Spear Family Association will be held Aug. 5 at the Quincy Yacht Club house. A business meeting will be held at 11 o'clock and will be followed by a shore dinner at Norteman's. In the afternoon there will be the renewal of friendships among the branches of the tree who have been separated for the past year, a little speech making and a general good time.

THREATENS TO MURDER

Jealous Lover Aims Revolver at Sweetheart's Head

While walking along Washington street, near Canal, Tuesday evening in company with her brother and a friend of his, Miss Frances Gaurino of Canal street was threatened with death at the point of a revolver by one Armelio Colangelo of Brockton. Miss Gaurino claims that Colangelo walked up to her and pointing the revolver at her, threatened to kill. The girls brother and his friend immediately jumped to her aid and the man with the gun beat a hasty retreat, according to the story of the girl.

The affair was at once reported to police headquarters and Patrolman Bishop was detailed to look up the case. At a late hour Tuesday night no trace of Colangelo could be found. This morning a warrant was sworn out for Colangelo's arrest and an attempt will be made to locate the man in Brockton.

Miss Guarino says that Colangelo had been paying attention to her for nearly two years and that for sometime she had encouraged him in his suit. Of late, however, she had refused his company and she says this is the cause of his actions. She says he has threatened her and told her not to keep company with anyone else. She also charges that Colangelo met her Saturday night at the corner of Coddington and Newcomb streets and tried to choke her.

CAR BARN BURNED.

Barn of Old Colony Street Railway and 20 Cars Burned at Avon.

The large car barn of the Old Colony Street Railway Co at Avon was completely destroyed by fire at 11 o'clock Tuesday night together with twenty street cars that were stored in the building. The barn was 200 feet feet long and 75 feet wide and was used for storing cars out of season and those not needed for immediate use. The loss is estimated at $40,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The fire made a very bright illumination and could be seen for miles. Many in Quincy saw the bright sky and thought the whole of Braintree was burning up. Some of the cars used on the Quincy division were among those destroyed.

TAX RATES.

Tuesday was a great day for the city of Salem for aside from the presentation of the silver service to the scout cruiser Salem the Assessors announced the tax rate for the year. Although the rate this year is but ten cents lower than last year and reduction of course would be welcome. This years rate is $18.50 per $1,000. The total valuation is $32,815,200 an increase of $1,100,600 from last year. The number of polls is 11,334 an increase of 1272 over last year.

Newburyport's tax rate this year is $18 per $1,000 against $21.20 last year a reduction of $3.20. The total valuation of the city is$1 2,265,021 against $11,453,701 last year.

NEW CHAPTER IN THAW'S LIFE

Woman Swears That He Beat Young Girls With Dog Whip

LURED THEM TO HIS ROOMS

Lodging House Keeper Gives Testimony of Startling Nature—Cost Thaw Over $25,000 to Keep Victims Silent After His Imprisonment—Alienist Who Previously Testified Against Prisoner Reverses Opinion

White Plains, N. Y., July 28.—Harry K. Thaw sat in the supreme court here and heard a woman's testimony that made his pallid face flush. He saw a pearl-handled dog whip exhibited and he heard the witness swear that she had seen him wield it on young girls.

The prisoner's wife was in court and heard most of the testimony, which was of such a nature that Justice Mills preceded its presentation with the warning that "No woman should stay in the court room unless she is willing to hear everything." Two girls left the room.

The witness was Miss Susan Merrill, aged about 35 years, and she opened a new chapter in the life of Stanford White's slayer. She told of alleged acts of his between 1902 and 1905, when he was a bachelor about New York before the tragedy that resulted in his being placed in the state asylum for the criminal insane, from which he is now trying to escape by proving himself sane.

Her testimony was that during the three years named, she kept in succession two New York lodging houses where Thaw rented rooms under assumed names and to which he brought at various times more than 200 girls. After Thaw's imprisonment, she said, she paid those women at least $25,000 as the price of their silence and to "keep them from bothering Thaw's wife or his mother." One of them, who, she said, passed as Thaw's wife, received $7000.

At this point in the testimony a mysterious package which was brought to court Monday by Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's former counsel, was unwrapped and a pearl-handled whip, about three feet long, was flashed into view. With this before the eyes of court and spectators, the woman related a series of stories about finding Thaw on several occasions lashing the girls upon their bare arms and bodies.

Thaw, she said, had posed as a theatrical agent and had lured the girls to his rooms with promises of engagements. When she remonstrated with him, she testified, his excuse was that the girls "weren't smart enough and couldn't fill their positions and deserved a beating." She testified further that Thaw had frequently behaved in a violent manner in her presence and that she considered his acts irrational.

District Attorney Jerome had full charge of the case for the state and it was he who brought out the damaging testimony against Thaw. Miss Merrill's testimony was stopped when Jerome intimated that it might injure innocent persons.

Under cross-examination by Charles Morschauser, counsel for Thaw, the witness was attacked fiercely. He succeeded in bringing out the fact that she had been recently arrested on a charge of perjury after an unsuccessful suit to recover $100,000 damages from a man. The woman emphatically denied that she kept any of the money that passed from Thaw through her hands.

Aside from Miss Merrill's testimony two alienists took up the remainder of the proceedings and testified in Thaw's behalf. When Dr. Evans, who made a report two years ago declaring Thaw insane, said that he had reversed his opinion, it gave Jerome an opportunity for a telling cross-examination. He brought out the wide divergence of the expert's opinion two years ago and now, but Evans explained that the report made two years ago was for the private guidance of Thaw's attorneys and had contained only such medical evidence as would tend to support the contention that Thaw was insane at that time.

A LITTLE EXCITEMENT.

Couple Under Influence of Liquor Draw Crowd at Houghs Neck.

An arrest at Houghs Neck on Tuesday evening caused quite a little excitement for a few minutes. A man who gave his name as Frank Johnson and who had evidently imbibed quite freely of the red-eye, attempted to board a car for Quincy. He was minus a coat and hat and looked pretty happy. Right behind him were two others who looked as if they were in the same condition as their companion. One was a woman, who said she was Mrs. Johnson, and the other a man, whose name could not be ascertained.

The conductor in charge of the car saw the condition of the man and was in doubt about allowing him to board the car. Just then Officer Phillips arrived on the scene and took the man in tow.

Then the fun began. The car started with its overload of passengers and Johnson's wife started after the officer and her husband. It looked as if there was going to be something doing and one by one the people jumped off the car. In a few minutes a crowd of two or three hundred people had gathered.

Mrs. Johnson mumbled something about "getting her husband out if it cost fifty dollars," and man with her was trying to hold her back. Some kind hearted person told her if she interfered she would be arrested too, and before the aforesaid kindhearted person knew it, the woman had him by the arm.

He soon got away, however, and allowed Mrs. Johnson and her friend to resume their way. They followed the officer to the police station and there took a car for Quincy and thence to Boston, where they said they resided.

Johnson was arraigned in the local court this morning on the charge of drunkenness, and Judge Pratt imposed a fine of $5. Johnson paid the fine and escaped to parts unknown.

It was said that the party had come from Peddocks island in a boat and that Johnson had left his hat and coat aboard the boat.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

Many Permits Issued to Dig Clams for Bait.

There is one industry in Quincy of which little is heard that is growing rapidly if the records of the Board of Health can be believed. That industry is the clam industry.

This is one of those industries which the Board of Trade and Citizens' Association will not have to sit up nights to devise means to help it along.

Under the present law the flats along the Quincy shores where the flat clams are buried in the soft mud are unfortunately in the district which the state Board of Health has declared infected.

That means that the digging of clams within this district for eating purposes is prohibited.

The law, however, allows four quarts of clams to be dug in these flats for bait, but before they can be taken, a permit must be obtained from the local Board of Health.

Until this law went into effect it was not generally known perhaps that there were many in Quincy that followed the fish industry and that they used clams for bait. It would appear, however, that they do.

Up to the present time the local Board of Health has issued 500 permits this season to dig clams in the infected district for bait and new applications are coming in every day. It needs quite a large imaginative mind to believe that all these clams are used for bait to catch fish.

ARRESTED AT BROCKTON.

Inspector Goodhue went to Brockton early this morning and arrested Louis J. Geilear who was wanted in Quincy for larceny from a building. It is alleged that Geilear was one of the men who entered a barn at Houghs Neck the night of July 3, and stole a case of liquors. The second man in the case was arrested but Geilear skipped and it was not until this week that he was located in Brockton. He was arraigned before Judge Pratt and the case was continued until Friday.

Evidently the Spanish people would like to cast off their African moorings.

In another Lynn shoe factory yesterday, the strikers got the upper hand.

The night riders have reached Quincy but they are driving the oil-sprinkling wagon.

The boot and shoe exposition have applied for a receivership, it would look as if the affair was not on very good footing.

Looks like Sunday, eh? Or, rather, as Sunday is supposed to look for it is a deal quieter and less crowded in Quincy today than on any Sunday in summer.

The 10,000-gallon order of ice cream for the battleship fleet at Provincetown looks like a cool proposition.

Judging from the records printed every Monday, Quincy seems to have any number of good base ball teams, both big and little.

R. M. Baker, the Chicago bigamist, got three years at hard labor in jail yesterday. Did a bachelor judge sentence him?

Considering the large number of accidental killinks that are occurring in Boston and vicinity, it would seem that the best kind of a firearm to keep around the house is none at all.

These newspaper reports about battles between the Spaniards and the Moors read like a chapter taken from the history of the world just prior to the discovery of America by Columbus.

There are indications that the Seattle exposition is going to be a success in spite of the fact that it is strictly a temperance affair.

If, as reported yesterday, the Assessors will not be able to give out the tax rate and assessment figures till late in August, let us hope they will be equally considerate with property owners and give them plenty of time to settle up.

A few years ago it was the appendix that was the root of all the ills of mankind but now it has to give way to the big intestine. Dr. Distass of Paris affirms that everybody would get along better without the big intestine and live longer. He declares it the breeding place of the majority of harmful germs in the human body and that when this intestine was removed the majority of germs remaining in the body were beneficial, and every child ought to have its large intestine and appendix removed when two or three years old.

The 10th U. S. cavalry, (colored) got a great reception on its arrival in New York from the Phillipines. The 10th cavalry is the organization that saved the hides of the Rough Riders at Las Guasimas and enabled that wonderful regiment to win the victories of the Spanish war single-handed and alone. If you don't believe the latter part of the story, ask Col. Roosevelt.

The stealing of a child's toy horse and wagon as reported in Tuesday's Ledger was about the limit of mean crimes. For the sake of trying to imagine such a thing as among the impossibilities with grown-up folks, let us hope the person who took the toys was some child that never knew a Santa Claus and could not resist the temptation when his eyes saw the play horse and cart.

As a well considered step to reduce the mortality from tuberculosis among insured lives, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York begins today the distribution of 3,500,000 copies of a volume called "A War Upon Consumption," which treats of "The Nature of the Disease; Its Extent, Growth and Spread; Its Cure and Prevention, including Friendly Advice to Persons Having Diseases of the Lungs." The book is "printed and distributed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York for the Use of Its Industrial Policyholders." Thus, what has come to be known as the social programme in life insurance is inaugurated on a gigantic scale.

The news item in Tuesday's Ledger that two hydrants had been placed on Spear street, may have seemed a matter of only passing interest to most readers but, in reality, it brought to mind a state of affairs that has long been known and feared by fire department officials. Up to the time of the installation of these new hydrants, there wasn't a single hydrant on Spear or Newcomb streets between Coddington and Canal streets and none on Washington street between Coddington and Wibird streets. Considering all the homes and the public library situated within this area which, up to the present time, have practically been without any fire protection, it is a wonder that such a condition of affairs has been allowed to exist so long right in the centre of the city. For years the lone hydrant on the corner of Spear and Coddington streets has been the only protection afforded the old and present Coddington school. The nearest hydrant to this one has been in City square which would require 500 or more feet of hose to reach. The present head of the water department has made a good start and it is to be hoped that hydrants will be placed on Newcomb street if not at the corner of Coddington and Washington streets. In a city where buildings are scattered as they are in Quincy, hydrants and fire alarm boxes cannot be too numerous.

He Got the Teacher.

A man called at a grammar school in a large city to see one of the teachers and, uncertain just which was the room he wanted, noted the bell buttons in the main corridor. He pressed one of them. His surprise was great when soon after the sound of the gong children and teachers fled forth from the various rooms, all in orderly line and with no excitement or crowding. The visitor had pressed the button which called for the fire alarm drill practice.

Useful to Flirts.

A young man called on a patent expert and showed him an idea he wanted protected. It was in the form of an engagement ring.

"But," said the expert, examining the very ordinary looking circlet, "what is there patentable about this?"

"It is adjustable, sir," said the inventor proudly.—London Answers.

Wanted to Know His Name.

"Is this the automobile registration department of the state of Ohio?" The voice over the phone was flutelike and sweet.

"It is," replied the office man.

"Do you have records of the numbers of all the machines in Ohio?"

"Of all that are registered, yes."

"Can you refer to any particular number without a great deal of trouble?"

"It takes only a few moments."

"Can you tell me who owns machine No. umpsteen thousand and umpsteen?" Only she gave the actual number of the machine.

"Just hold the phone a moment." The office man returned in less than a minute. "The machine is owned by Mr. So-and-so of Cleveland," he said, then hastened to inquire: "Is there any trouble about it? An accident perhaps."

"Oh, no," said the sweet voice. "The machine has been in front of Miss ——'s home in East Broad, next door, every Sunday evening for several months, and I was just curious to know who was calling upon her. Ever so much obliged." And the receiver went up.—Ohio State Journal.

TURNED INTO PARACHUTE

Interesting and Successful Experiment With a Balloon

Conway, Mass., July 28.—Parachuting his balloon at the height of over two miles by loosening the appendix cord and allowing the lower part of the balloon to rise into the netting, S. S. Stowell, in his first trip as pilot, made a parachute drop to earth in the balloon Pittsfield.

The passengers were John T. Hanning, a photographer, and Miss Blanche Hulse. Over Ashfield and Bucklan the aeronauts struck a vortex and the airship was swept rapidly upward to a height of over two miles.

At this height, with but one bag of ballast left, Stowell conceived the idea of parachuting his balloon and allowing it to take its own course to earth rather than to use the valve cord and allow more of the gas to escape. The appendix cord was loosened and the Pittsfield resolved itself into a monster toadstool and started slowly earthward.

The balloon settled slowly over Shelburne Falls and Conway until it came to rest without a jolt in a field in Conway.

BULLET IN HIS HEART

Man Shot Down In Court by Husband of Divorced Wife

Little Rock, July 28.—Levelling his revolver over the head of United States Senator Jeff Davis, who sat at the counsel table in the circuit court here, W. Y. Ellis of Pine Bluff shot at Nathaniel P. Willis, proprietor of an institution for the treatment of inebriates at Indianapolis.

A court attache knocked up Ellis' arm just as the weapon was discharged and the bullet was embedded in the wall. Willis ran to make his escape by way of the door, with Ellis close on his heels. Just as Willis ran out Ellis fired a second time. The bullet pierced Willis' heart.

Sheriff Roberts siezed Ellis and took him to jail. Willis had brought suit against his divorced wife, now Mrs. Ellis, for possession of his child, born to his wife before she was divorced several years ago. Ellis appeared for his wife and Senator Davis represented Willis.

City's Gifts to Speedy Scout Cruiser Formally Presented

Salem, Mass., July 28.—The presentation of gifts from the city of Salem to the scout cruiser Salem, the fastest ship in the United States navy, was made by Mayor Hurley on the common. An immense crowd gathered to witness the exercises and cheer the sailors.

The gifts consisted of a silver service, costing $1800, and purchased with dimes contributed by the people; a bronze replica of the city's seal and a talking machine.

Commander Key accepted the gifts as commander of the Salem and the official representative of the secretary of the navy in the name of the navy department.

OUTBREAKS IN SPAIN

Many Acts of Violence as a Protest Against War In Morocco

Madrid, July 28.—The outbreaks in the provinces of Catalonia, which started as a protest against the war in Morocco, have reached a state of open rebellion and revolution. Churches, schools and bridges have been burned and dynamited, railroads wrecked and convents pillaged. Public buildings have been attacked by an armed and determined mob.

The principal centers of the disturbances are Barcelona, Tarragona and Gerona. An official account admits that the troops used their firearms freely. Although there is no official estimate, it is believed that the number of killed or wounded will reach a high figure.

The government announces that it will quell the rebellion with a stern hand.

HOUSE WINS ON FREE HIDES

Conferees Agree That Oil Shall Also Go on Free List

SENATE FORCED TO YIELD

Succeeds, However, In Retaining Its Duties on Lumber and Rate of $3.50 a Ton on Print Paper—Support of Enough Westerners to Carry Out Administration Program Is Assured—All Troublesome Questions Settled

Washington, July 28.—From the best information obtainable it appears that the house has won its battles for free hides and oil and increased rates on gloves and hosiery, in return for a surrender to the senate on lumber, coal, iron ore and print paper.

For nearly a week the question of putting hides on the free list or imposing a nominal duty upon them has been before the conference committee. Not even a nominal duty proved acceptable to Representative Payne, whose position was strengthened by the support of President Taft, and the senate conferees were compelled to yield in spite of the fact that free hides threatened to provoke an insurrection among "stand pat" senators from cattle-raising states. It appears, however, that Payne's victory was a costly one, inasmuch as that the house conferees were defeated on coal, print paper, iron ore and lumber.

The chief victory won by the senate was the retention of its duties on lumber. These represent reductions from Dingley rates, but are not nearly as low as the house rates. Likewise, a victory was won by the senate through the acceptance by the conference committee of a rate of $3.50 a ton on print paper instead of the $2 rate fixed by the house.

The placing of oil upon the free list was a foregone conclusion by reason of the strong opposition in both branches of congress to making this article dutiable.

There seems to be no doubt that the house leaders will be able to put through a rule permitting the conferees to make reductions in the rates on manufactures of leather, in accordance with the program arranged in conference Monday.

If there is any danger of the program failing the trouble is in the senate. Some of the western senators still oppose putting hides upon the free list under any circumstances. It is generally understood, however, that the western senators feel that Mr. Aldrich did all he could to continue protection for the cattle industry, and that enough of them will vote to support the program for free hides and reductions from the house rates on leather and leather goods to insure its adoption by the senate.

Some of the conferees admit that a general agreement was entered into by which all were to deny that these subjects had been settled. It is well known, however, that while the voting has not taken place, agreements have been reached and all that remains to finally dispose of the questions is to incorporate the agreed rates in the conference report.

The conference report will be ready for presentation to the house as soon as the rule in regard to the leather schedule is adopted by that body.

House Takes a Day Off

Washington, July 28.—After a session of forty-nine minutes, the house adjourned until Thursday, at which time it is expected that the resolution authorizing the tariff conferees to reduce the rates on leather and leather goods below those of the Payne bill will be brought in and acted upon.

IN WORLD'S CONFERENCE

Gathering of Y. M. C. A. Delegates From Many Climes

Barmen-Elberfeld, Ger., July 28.—Delegates representing the Young Men's Christian associations of the world began today in this city a world's conference on matters of interest to the workers in the associations. Every country on earth in which the associations have established themselves is represented in the conference.

Among the subjects for discussion of especial interest to North American delegates is the question of association work among European emigrants, in the presentation of which topic the representatives from North America will have a leading part.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasili is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment. X—Pike refuses to consent as her guardian to her settling $750,000 on Almeric, and Ethel is enraged at him.

CHAPTER XI.

A CLASH OF WILLS.

It required some minutes for Daniel Voorhees Pike to get over the amazement that possessed him when Ethel fled from him in such evident confusion.

His usually alert mind seemed incapable of concerted effort in the proper direction, and the dazed look on his face remained there until Mariano came to tell him that his rooms were ready and that Herr von Grollerhagen was awaiting him. Then for the first time he awoke, and, with a sigh of resignation as he realized the battle he had before him, he gave a curt order that the automobile, which had broken down on the road to the hotel, should be placed in the entrance garden, for he proposed to do some tinkering upon it.

"If that don't beat"— he muttered to himself and then allowed the remark to remain unfinished, for he could not imagine one thing that the incident could be supposed to have beaten. It stood alone in a little hollow square by itself and positively refused to surrender to any comparison whatsoever.

"And that—that—nine cent imitatio of a man," he growled at last—"tha vilification upon the—the—genus homo!" he finished, with a flash of pride. Then he went off to his rooms and tried to adjust himself to the matter as he saw it and incidentally to bring some of that astute legal training gleaned from contact with farmers, promoters and other citizens to bear upon the case.

Horace in the meanwhile had walked along the cliff, wrestling with the situation as it appeared to him. There was not the faintest doubt in his mind that the noble earl would break off the match because of the humiliation his equally noble family had been subjected to by the incursion of this vulgar guardian.

Hot and tired, he returned to the hotel with some of his anguish worked off and sought his sister. She, however, was locked up in her own room and would only insist that he go away. So it was from Lady Creech at last that he gleaned some inkling of what had occurred.

It was nearly 6 o'clock when he made up his mind to search out Pike and "have it out with the beggar," as he put it, and he found the obstacle in the entrance garden. As Horace came upon the scene Pike was pounding cheerfully with a hammer upon a bolthead of the motor car.

He was in his shirt sleeves and wore a long workman's smock close buttoned at the neck. From between his teeth came the unfamiliar strains of "The Blue and the Gray." With a revulsion of feeling Horace approached him.

"Mr. Pike!" he said politely.

"One lies down at Appomattox," went on the song, and Horace stamped impatiently upon the turf.

"Mr. Pike! Mr. Pike! I wish a word with you!" Horace went on, quite angrily. Pike looked up mildly and regarded Horace with interest.

"Eh?" he said and moved to the other side of the machine, rubbing his lean chin with the handle of a monkey wrench.

"I wished to say that the surprise of this morning so upset me that I went for a long walk. I have just returned," said Horace.

He waited expectantly, but Mr. Pike went on abstractedly, "One wore clothes of gray," and seemed to be absorbed in his work, so that Horace was forced to go on.

"I have been even more upset by what I have just learned."

"Why, that's too bad," answered Pike, fishing for a nut in the bottom of the tonneau.

"It is too bad—absurdly—monstrously bad! Lady Creech tells me that my sister did you the honor to present you to the family with which we are forming an alliance—at least to a portion of it"—

"Yes, sir," answered Pike, "and promised to present me to the whole possetucky of 'em"—

"I'll not listen to you!" cried Horace in a rage. "And I warn you that we shall act without paying the slightest attention to you!"

Pike straightened up a trifle.

"Your sister kind of hinted in her letter that you think a good deal of this French lady—the widow. I suppose you have made up your mind to take her for richer or poorer, eh? Now, what's she going to give you?"

Horace stopped short in horrified amazement.

"Why, I thought you'd charge her something—just a little. Ain't that the way over here?"

"It seems impossible for you to understand our motives in trying to lift ourselves above the common herd. You are trying to interfere between us and the fine flower of Europe," went on Horace excitedly.

Pike straightened up and looked him in the eye quizzically.

"I never heard none of the folks around Kokomo speak of your pa as a 'fine flower,' but we thought a heap of him, and when he married your ma he was glad to get her, and I never heard that he asked for any settlement. When she took him he was a poor man, but if he'd had $750,000 I'll bet he'd 'a' given it for her."

Horace turned short about and retired from the scene. It was evidently impossible to argue with this plebeian. As he went toward the gates he met Almeric and Lady Creech and informed them eloquently of the ill success of his attempt to reason with the lawyer. Then he went out again to the cliff.

Almeric accompanied him a few steps and then turned off to the village, for he said he simply must take another look at that pup. And Lady Creech announced that she intended to have "forty winks" in her own room. Five minutes later Daniel, looking up from a superb rendition of "Dolly Gray," saw her glaring at him from her window.

Then came the Herr von Grollerhagen from the hotel. He was the same calm, imperturbable individual as ever, and he smoked with the languid abandon of a man born to ease. He approached Daniel with a smile.

"You make progress, my friend?" he asked, and Daniel smiled at him.

"Your machine's like a good many people, doc. It's got sand in its gear box."

At that moment Mariano hastened out and fumbled nervously with the lock on the big gates. Von Grollerhagen turned instantly.

"You are locking us in," he said.

"No, herr," replied the servant; "I lock some one out—that bandit who have not been captured. The carabinieri warn all to lock the gates for an hour. Soon they will capture that wicked one. M'sieu, this convict is a Russian."

With a keen glance, Von Grollerhagen waved the man aside. Daniel smiled.

"They've got two companies of the tin soldiers. Out my way the town marshal would have had him yesterday."

"My friend, you are teaching me to respect your country, not by what you brag, but by what you do."

Orville Wright Flies For Over an Hour In New Aeroplane

HAS LAHM AS PASSENGER

Beats Record Made by His Brother In France by Over Three Minutes—Machine Circles Drill Ground at Fort Myer Seventy-Five Times Without a Skip—President Taft Leads Cheering and Congratulates Aviators

Washington, July 28.—The world's aeroplane record for two men was broken in both time and distance last evening in a beautiful flight of 72 minutes and 40 seconds—upwards of 50 miles—and at a speed averaging 40 miles an hour, by Orville Wright at Fort Myer, with Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm of the army signal corps as passenger.

The former record was made last year by his brother, Wilbur, at Le-Mans, France, with a passenger. That flight was 69 minutes and 31 seconds. Wilbur was an eager spectator of the flight by his brother.

The cheering which heralded the setting of a new mark in the conquest of the air was led by President Taft in person, who had sat, an intensely interested spectator, throughout the flight, and who at its conclusion personally congratulated the brothers upon their success.

There were at least 3500 people present when the flight began. The conditions were ideal; only the gentlest zephyr from the south stirred the leaves of the trees.

Shortly after 6 Orville Wright signalled for the aeroplane to be trundled to the starting grounds, where in a few minutes it was in position on the mono-rail with the counter balancing weights poised. At 6:30 Lieutenant Lahm took his seat in the center of the machine.

Wright then took his seat on the outside at the officer's left. At a signal from Wilbur the word for the start was given, and the aeroplane, shooting swiftly down the incline of the mono-rail, soared gracefully into the air, leaving the ground at 6:36:40.

There was an evident sluggishness in the ascent as compared with those when Wright flies alone, but the machine arose smoothly and gracefully, nevertheless, and when she veered around, careening at an angle which seemed perilous to the onlookers, it was at a height of nearly sixty feet, and never after that was there any possible question of her buoyancy and equipoise.

Round and round she went, seventy-five times about the great drill ground, at a height varying but slightly save where some stray current of air from behind the trees and buildings rocked her up or down or from side to side like a boat in a gentle sea.

As the hour drew to its close, excitement became intense. A thousand watches were out and eagerly scanned. At the conclusion of the seventieth turn a great shout went up; automobile horns were tooted in a deafening chorus, hand clapping and cheers, and waving of hats and handkerchiefs told the men in the flying craft that their task was accomplished.

The crowd expected Orville to come down then but he kept on. He was after his brother's laurels. Lower and lower the aeroplane circled until she was within ten feet of the ground. Out from the edges of a brilliant salmon cloud-curtain the half-moon sailed and looked down upon the scene as the machine dipped lower still, slid along the ground in a cloud of dust, and stopped almost upon the identical spot where last September the fatal fall took place.

This time there was no fall and the beautiful aeroplane was unmarred. Lahm laboriously unwound himself from his cramped position. He confessed that he was stiff. During the flight he had behaved like a man intent upon holding ever muscle taut. Once he gingerly scratched his nose, but that was as far as he permitted himself to move. Orville said that he himself shifted positions several times.

"I was nervous at first," said Orville. "You know this was my first attempt with a passenger since last year. Gradually the machine found herself, however, and I felt as sure as if I had been swung at the end of a string, with no such problem as to direction or elevation or speed to solve. I could have remained up another hour or so, but there was no necessity. I am satisfied with the flight, and with having surpassed my brother's record."

Three Hours In Air

Friedrichshafen, July 28.—Count Zeppelin Tuesday personally steered his airship Zeppelin II. This was his first trip since his recent accident. The airship remained up for three hours. Representatives of the war office were on board.

NINTH ANNUAL REUNION.

Of John Alden Descendants. Special Train to Duxbury.

Wednesday, August 4th, the descendents of John Alden and Priscilla Molines, of Pilgrim fame, will hold the ninth reunion of their arganization, known as the Alden Kindred of America at the old homestead at Duxbury, Mass. This organization consists of from 600 to 700 members, all of whom are invited to attend the reunion, as well as all other descendents together with their wives or husbands, and their children. The re-union will be held in a large tent to be set up within a few rods of the old John Alden House. There has always been an exceptional interest in the re-unions this family have held. About two years ago the Association bought the old homestead, and during the past year the house has been repaired. It is the purpose of the association to build a memorial building within a few years, of brick or stone, in which various relics and heirlooms of the family can be safely stored. It is estimated that such a building as is desired would cost from $10,000 to $15,000. The need of such a building is becoming more and more apparent as different articles of interest come to light. Within the past few months, Mr. A. W. Kingman, of New York City has presented the society with his grandfather Alden's tall parlor clock, an antique desk, and several chairs that are more than 100 years old. Some of the furniture that was in the house in John Alden's time, is believed to be obtainable. There are also books and papers published by or pertaining to noted descendants of John and Priscilla ,that should have a suitable repository.

The reports of the officers of the Association will be given at 10 A. M., to be followed by the election of officers for the ensuing year, and the literary exercises. It is expected that this part of the day's exercises will be completed by 12.30 o'clock, at which time adjournment will be made for dinner, and to give opportunity to visit points of interest in the vicinity of Duxbury.

The dinner will be in the nature of a basket lunch, but a caterer will be present to furnish sandwiches, chowder, tea, coffee, tonics, ice cream and fruit so that no one will need to go hungry.

A special train will leave the South Station Boston, at 8.40 A. M., for the re-union.

SUMMER FIELD MEETING.

The State Board of Agriculture will hold its Summer Field Meeting for this year at Whalom park, near Fitchburg, on Wednesday, ugust 4th, uniting with the Massachusetts State Grange for that purpose. The demonstration work which has been a feature of former meetings will be contened at this meeting and an entirely new program has been provided, none of the subjects having previously been demonstrated before Massachusetts audiences.

The demonstrations will all be held in the morning, the forenoon from 10 A. M. being devoted to this part of the programme. Beginning at that hour E. H. Forristall, farm superintendent at the Massachusetts Agricultural college, will demonstrate how to produce and put up certified and steamer milk. The College has made a specialty of producing certified milk and Mr. Forristall is thoroughly familiar with the subject. He will have with him samples of milk at least three weeks old.

At 10.45 A. M. Prof. F. C. Sears, professor of pomology at the same institution, will give a demonstration of the best methods of selecting apples for exhibition, the proper methods of judging the fruit and of box packing, as practised by Western apple growers. The subject of apple growing is receiving a great deal of attention at this time and this demonstration comes very pat with this interest and that awakened in the coming New England Fruit show.

The third and last demonstration will be by Prof. J. A. Foord, also of the Agricultural college, where he is head of the division of agriculture. He will illustrate the best methods of selecting, breeding and judging corn. This will cover the three subjects of greatest importance to Massachusetts farmers,—milk, apples and corn,—and round out what should be the most interesting demonstration programme ever arranged by the Board of Agriculture.

At 12.30 P. M. the exercises for the morning will close and there will be an hour's intermission for lunch. There will be no regular dinner provided, but there are excellent facilities for the enjoyment of basket lunches at the park, and a good restaurant, which will amply supply all who prefer to patronize it.

The afternoon programme will be in the hands of the State Grange, State Master Carlton D. Richardson having it in charge. There will be speaking in the dancing pavilion, Hon. N. J. Bachelder of New Hampshire, Lecturer of the National Grange, being the principal speaker.

Whalom Park is easily reached by trolley on the Fitchburg and Leominster Street Railway and connecting lines.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

LATHAM FALLS INTO SEA

Aviator Fails In His Second Attempt to Fly Across Channel

Dover, Eng., July 28.—Hubert Latham's second attempt to fly across the English channel ended disastrously. Almost in the moment of victory his monoplane fluttered down into the sea, two miles beyond the Admiralty pier, like a bird with a broken wing.

HUBERT LATHAM.

A flock of large and small craft raced to the scene of the disaster, and a pinnace from the British battleship Russell picked up the unlucky flyer and put him aboard a French torpedo boat destroyer. After a surgeon had attended to his injuries, Latham was brought ashore and he was taken to a hotel. His face was bandaged and bleeding and his nose was broken. The machine, badly wrecked, was hoisted from the boat to the dock.

Latham's flight, in some respects, eclipsed Bleriot's. He made greater speed, being only twenty minutes in the air from the time he left the coast of France. Apparently he steered a straighter course than Bleriot, as he was making directly for Dover when he fell.

LOOMFIXERS WANT WAGES INCREASED

Eight Hundred Operatives Are Out of Work as Result

Somersworth, N. H., July 28.—All the weave rooms of the three cotton mills of the Great Falls manufacturing company are closed as a result of the strike of fifty-two loomfixers. The loomfixers want more pay, asserting that their wage schedule does not equal that in force in other mills in this vicinity.

The weavers decided not to try to attend to the work of the loomfixers and one after another quit work. The management finally closed all the weave rooms, throwing 800 hands out of work.

Among the American delegates to the jubilee are Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins university and the Smithsonian Institution, Professor John W. Burgess of Columbia university, Professor Hans Oertel of Yale, Provost Charles C. Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania, President Schurman of Cornell university and many other American educators of the first rank.

The Sleeper

A Story of Escape From Russian Tyranny.

By THERESA C. HOLT.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Anna Nickalaevna after her day's work—she was a schoolteacher in Berlin—climbed the stairs to her garret. The days were short, and the twilight had died away. An exile from Russia for the crime of educating the peasants, she now used her own education as a means to a living in the German capital.

Anna Nickalaevna was an orphan. Her father and mother had died when she was a child. She had had a brother, but he had been conscripted for the Japanese war. She had heard that he was killed in battle. A younger sister, Sonia, had disappeared after Anna's flight, supposedly for some political offense, and Anna had not heard from her in years. Whether her sister was in a Siberian prison or dead she did not know. One who had been in the prisons of Siberia had told her that her sister was not there. It was therefore to be supposed that she was dead. As one year succeeded another and none of her relatives could send any word of the missing girl Anna at last came to consider her sister dead. She experienced that awful loneliness one feels at being the last of a family.

The exile opened the door of her room and was about to strike a light when she heard some one breathing. She did not give way to fright—first, because she was made of sterner stuff, and, second, the breathing seemed to come from a sleeper. Nevertheless she had always had some expectation of extradition and had kept a revolver in her bureau drawer, resolved to die rather than be dragged back to Russia. Instinctively she pulled the drawer open and grasped the weapon. Then she stood and listened. The breathing was evidently that of one sleeping.

Another would have inferred that some one had come into her room and fallen asleep. But Anna Nickalaevna had been hunted in her own country, had made a long and perilous journey in constant fear of capture from eastern Russia to the border, and ever since she had lived in the expectation of either arrest by Russian agents under a trumped up criminal charge or spirited away by them illegally. As she listened to the breathing she formed plans for action in case the sleeper were an enemy.

But, feeling that the enemy—if such it were—was at a disadvantage and not likely to be easily awakened, she resolved to make some move to find out more about who was in the room. She crept toward the bed, where the sleeper lay. Standing at its foot, she stealthily put out her hand to feel. She drew it away quickly. She felt a man's boot.

Anna thought of every probable or possible occurrence to account for a man sleeping in her room. She did not understand how one could have gained access there. The fraulein who rented rooms would only admit men in case they were of the same family as her women lodgers. As the breathing continued heavily she resolved upon further investigation. Going again to the bed, she put out her hand. One cannot easily move in a straight line in the dark, and this time she struck the other end, for, extending her hand, it rested on a face. She was relieved that there was no beard on it.

All fear of danger was now gone. Going to where she kept her matches, she took the box and, again approaching the bed, stood near the sleeper and struck a light. She started. After all, the sleeper was a woman. One foot with a man's boot on it extended below the skirt—if the tattered garment could be called a skirt—but the sleeper's face was turned away.

The match burned out, and Anna struck another one, bending over to get a different view. A start, a suppressed exclamation, the burning match dropped to the floor, and again all was darkness. Scratching another, she lighted a lamp, and, taking it to the bed, she held it before the face of the sleeper. The first happiness she had known in years was expressed in her own face.

It was Sonia, her lost sister.

But, oh, that tired, hunted look! The cheeks and eyes were sunken, and the body seemed to be only bones and rags. Anna gazed, and despite the gladness in her heart she sighed. But she had been through all this herself and was now strong. Sonia, now that there were no more weary night journeys under the stars, hidings in huts or snowdrifts by day, would be herself again and—the loneliness that was breaking down Anna would be no more.

Leaving her treasure to sleep on, she opened her larder, put the samovar on the stove and stood ready to furnish food when Sonia should awaken. Then she went back to the bed and feasted on the loved one with hungry eyes.

She did not intend to awaken her sister, but she could not help taking the risk of putting her arms about her. Tired and worn as was the fugitive, the fear under which she had so long lived awakened her with a start, but the sight of Anna transfigured it to happiness. Without a word the two were locked in each other's arms. How it all came about could wait.

The story came later, or a brief synopsis of it, over a cozy supper and a cup of hot tea. But it was one of thousands, all alike as to their suffering, but of infinite variety as to details. When it was told Anna said:

"Sonia, dear, I have saved a thousand marks. Let us go to that country where tyranny does not exist—America."

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class o classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

MICHAEL D. LEARY.

Man Killed By Electric Car Laid At Rest This Morning.

The funeral of Michael D. Leary, who died Sunday afternoon at the Boston city hospital from injuries received Saturday night when he was run over by an electric car was held this morning from his late home 81 Walnut street, Atlantic. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in the church of the Sacred Heart, Rev. John P. Cuffe officiating. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass Miss Clara Duggan singing the "Pie Jesu" at the offertory. Miss Louise Costello presided at the organ.

The funeral was very largely attended and there were an abundance of floral offerings from the many relatives and friends of the deceased. The bearers were Patrick Kelliher, Edward Kerrigan, Martin Glynn and James Skinner. Burial was in the family lot in New Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Leary was a man of middle age and was one of the best known residents of the Atlantic district where he had lived for many years. He is survived by his wife.

The accident that ended in Mr. Leary's death, occurred Saturday evening about 10.30. He was crossing the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad at Park street when he was hit by an electric and received multiple injuries. He was rushed to the Boston city hospital in an ambulance, and it was found necessary to amputate his right leg, which had been severely crushed. After a more thorough examination it was found that he was suffering from severe internal injuries. He was a plasterer by trade and was employed by Peter Rowell.

NOTES FROM HOUGHS NECK

Something Doing all the Time at Beach this Year

In a few weeks more, at the most, many of the present population of Houghs Neck will begin to pack their grips and hike themselves to their winter home. Still there are many who will continue to make their home the year round at the beach. One would naturally think that things would be a little quiet at the beach in winter but such is not the case. Those who have tried it say that the winter season is the best for them. That there something doing nearly every night. There are whist parties, dances, bowling and several other things, all of which tend to make the long winter evenings pass quickly.

Last winter the Associates had a club room and when people were not busy figuring out, how much they made out of the summer visitors, they could be found at these rooms arguing over the school lot question. That question is settled now however, and next winter some other subject will have to be taken up.

That reminds us that but little has been said about celebrating the purchase of the Cavanagh lot since Capt. Fosdick, in an interview with the Ledger, expressed himself on the subject. All joking aside the Captain was about right. There will be a celebration in due time and when it comes all differences about location will have been forgotten and all united for a grand good time. There will be eloechmaking by some of the local orators as well as some talent from the city proper a little something to eat and some music by the children who will reap the benefit of the new school building.

Although it seems as though there were more people at the beach this year than ever before the real estate agents report that the season with them has been very dull. That they still have many cottages on their books that are still unoccupied and that it does not look as though they would be occupied this year. Perhaps this may be accounted for by the fact that an unusual large number of buildings, which the owners call cottages, have been erected this year, so that instead of hiring a cottage for the season the man of the house owns his own cottage.

There are lots of people who do not like Houghs Neck for a summer residence but there are many that do. Going down on the car the other night two workingmen were overheard talking about this very same subject as they hung onto the standards while riding on the running board. Said one of the two, "some people may not like the beach to live at, but for me I never knew what it was to enjoy living until I came to Houghs Neck in the summer to live, and hereafter I shall make my home there, summer and winter." Said the second man "yes it is a great place to enjoy life after a hard days work in the city. There was considerable going on last winter in the way of amusement, and there will be more the coming winter." Then they lit their pipes and puffed away in silent enjoyment.

There are few more attractive places this week than at Adams shore and Post island. The evening tides and the new moon make the view from the cottage piazzas a pretty one. All around as far as the eye can reach can be seen the lights along the beaches, those at Winthrop being plainly visible as well as the bright sky caused by the hundreds of electric lights at Wonderland. It is a sight well worthy of a visit to see.

The five cent fare from any point in Quincy to the beach is a great blessing to the poor man with a large family. In the afternoon the tired mother with her band of little ones can, for a very small sum, take the cars to the beach and while the little ones are having the time of their lives playing in the sand along the beach the mother can enjoy the cool sea air from the shore.

The transportation problem to the beach is a hard one to overcome. At certain times of the day, particularly in the early evening, it is quite a tax to accommodate all who want to go to the beach. The people gather in City Square and the minute a car comes around the corner from Coddington street there is a grand rush of men, women and children. There is a pushing a shoving to get a seat and it is a wonder that some one is not injured. On Sundays, when three and four cars are run on each trip, the rush is even greater than on week days. Young ladies with their Sunday clothes on seem to forget that they are dressed up and rush along with the crowd and it is a wonder that some of those pretty gowns are not soiled and torn.

The passage by the City Council of a clam ordinance will have a tendency to prevent the men from Nantasket depopulating the flats off Houghs Neck of clams as they have been doing in the past.

The officers of the yacht club have received many kind words for throwing open its club house to those who desired to watch the cup races last week.

Local members of the Elks will entertain their horned brethern from Quincy at a complimentary dance Friday evening.

Next week the Spear family will be at the beach. There are many twigs to the old tree not all of which now bear the name of Spear, but on that day they will all be Spears. The reunion will be held at the Quincy yacht club house and a shore dinner will be served at Norteman's.

A. H. Taber one of the old summer residents of Houghs Neck has been a little under the weather but is reported as somewhat better.

President Baird of the Associates wants the City Council to form a bowling team to meet a team from the Associates.

TIMELY RESCUE.

Jeam Bell, a 16 Year Old Houghs Neck Girl Rescued From Drowning.

Jeam Bell, the 16 year old daughter of George H. Bell of Shennan street, had a narrow escape from drowning at Houghs Neck Wednesday afternoon. The girl, who is a good swimmer, had been in bathing for some time off the Quincy Yacht club float. With her at the time was Miss Harriet Baird, daughter of A. F. Baird.

Suddenly Miss Bell shouted to her companion that she had been seized with cramps. At this, Miss Baird shouted for help. Louis Moller, who was also in bathing and some forty yards away, heard her cries and hastened to the rescue. When he arrived on the scene the girl had gone down twice and was sinking for the last time when he grabbed her.

He succeeded in getting her ashore where restoratives were used but it was found necessary to roll her on a barrel in order to revive her. She was then taken home. This morning she was reported as being all right and none the worse for her experience.

RED SOX CHALLENGE.

The Quincy Red Sox, under the management o fFred Clarke of Wollaston, claim the championship of 18-19 year old teams of this city are out with a challenge to any teams of this age. The boys are practicing regularly every week and are having good results. All communications in regard to games should be addressed to Milton C. Burton, 274 South Central avenue, Wollaston.

GROCERS DAY EXCURSION

Over 1200 Participate in Outing to Cottage City

The "Grocers" escaped the high temperature of Wednesday, for they embarked at New Bedford before 10 A. M. for a delightful sail in Buzzards bay and the Vineyard sound, and it was 7 P. M. before they landed at New Bedford.

It was the most popular excursion ever run by the Old Colony Grocers and Provision Dealers Association, and the number to participate far exceeded the expectations of the committee. The Quincys, the Braintrees, the Weymouths and the South Shore, Rockland, Abington and Whitman all contributed hundreds so that it was necessary to add several cars, and then they were crowded. It was a long train of 14 cars and nearly 1200 excursionists, about as many women as men that was landed at the wharf at New Bedford. All along the route the special attracted considerable attention, between stations as well as at stations.

The Steamer "Uncatena" was commodious, but carried nearly its capacity. As viewed from the train and boat New Bedford is a populous and rapid growing city. To the east of the harbor was Fairhaven. Passing the lights and the old forts they were soon almost out of sight of land. The course sailed was not the usual one, but nearly due south. The excursionist went quite near the ill-fated steamship "Yankee" which rests on the bottom of the bay, showing only her smoke-stack. An effort is being made to save her.

The Uncatena passed near Penikese island, and sailed between Cuttybrook and Nashawena islands into the Vineyard sound at its westerly entrance, so that for two hours we sailed along the northerly shore of Martha's Vineyard with a good view of Gay Head, Prospect hill in Chilmark, Indian head in West Tisbury, Vineyard Haven, West Chop, Vineyard Haven harbor, Vineyard Heights and finally Oak Bluffs, with Edgartown beyond. On the northerly side of the sound were Nanshon island Nonamossett, Woods Hole and Falmouth.

It was 1 P. M. when a landing was made, and everyone had his appetite with him, and eagerly sought the hotels. It was too large a crowd, however, and the dinners were a disappointment in most cases. Oak Bluffs, or Cottage City as it is best known is a unique summer resort with its attractive little cottages closely huddled together often in circles of 20 to 50 about the camp-meeting pavilion. The newer cottages are more commodious and pretentious. All the streets and walks are concreted, and the walks and drives are delightful. There is a wide-awake business street from the steamboat wharf through the centre of the town. Bathing, yachting, roller skating, dancing, base ball, couquet and tennis are some of the attractions. A closely contested game was played between a Middleboro team and the Oak Bluffs team. The Grocers helped to advertise Oak Bluffs by sending out hundreds of postal cards.

At 5 P. M. the excursionists embarked for home, and the Uncatena took the shorter course between Woods Hole and Long Neck island on the east, and Nonamessett and Uncatena islands on the west. The two hours sail to New Bedford was greatly enoyed. Good music enlivened the scene.

Two trains were necessary to bring the excursionists home, but all reacher their journey's end between 9 and 10 P. M. The committee of the Old Colony association have reason to be proud of the very successful excursion, which was a grand time for all.

TAX RATES.

Two cities annuounced their tax rates Wednesday Somerville and Waltham.

Somerville's rate is $18.60 per $1,000 the highest rate for twenty years. Last years rate was $18.40. The increase is due to falling off of personal valuation and depreciation in real estate valuation in the older parts of the city. There was an increase of $1,000.000 in real estate values but that was not sufficient to offset the depreciation.

In Waltham the rate this year is twenty cents less than last year. This years rate is $17.80 per $1,000 and last years was $18.

LAURANDEAU—JOYCE.

A very pretty wedding took place at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Father Grady, when Miss Celia Joyce was married to Mr. Napoleon J. Laurandeau. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Joyce of Hall place and the groom a well known granite cutter of West Quincy and a prominent member of the Copeland club, by whom he was given a "get away" party Tuesday. Only the immediate relatives and friends were present at the ceremony. The bride was entirely in white and carried a shower bouquet of white pinks and roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Joyce. William Laurandeau, a brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony a supper was served at the bride's home. Both her home and the groom's nearby were artistically decorated with Japanese lanterns and flags, and spectacular fireworks were set off during the evening. Amid a shower of confetti, rice and good wishes, the couple left for Vermont, from there to travel through New Hampshire and Maine, returning in about two weeks to make their home in West Quincy.

OLD MAN ASSAULTED.

South Weymouth Man Victim of Assault. Hired Man Under Arrest.

William D. Conant, who it is alleged made a murderous assault on William H. Hannaford at South Weymouth late Tuesday night, was arraigned in court this morning for assault with a dangerous weapon and was held in $5,000 bonds until Aug. 7, for a hearing. It is alleged that robbery was the motive and that the robber hid in the bushes and that when Hannaford, who is 69 years of age, passed, that the burglar crushed his skull with a base ball bat.

It is believed that the old man had considerable money with him but when found, he had but $1.23 left. Conant, who is charged with the crime, has been employed by the victim and is said to have had a quarrel with him over wages due.

DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING.

Anti-Tuberculosis Officials Convene at Home of President.

The board of directors of the Quincy anti-tuberculosis association held a meeting Wednesday at the home of the president, Dr. J. F. Welch, corner of Hancock and Elm streets. About the only thing of public importance that was done at the meeting was the discussion of the forming of a tuberculosis camp. Dr. N. S. Hunting was appointed chairman of a committee to look into the matter and to report back at the next meeting of the board. Dr. Hunting was given power to choose the other members of the committee. The talk in favor of the tuberculosis camp was very interesting and showed that the members of the board had been studying the question thoroughly. The members showed a great deal of enthusiasm and seemed to think that an outdoor camp for the treatment of the dreaded white plague would be a reality in the near future.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles H. Martin was fined $10 for creating a disturbance on the steam cars and $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Arthur B. Mulligan was fined $5 for assault at Quincy.

William D. Conant was arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon at Weymouth and held in $5,000 until Aug. 7.

ALL COUSINS AT REUNION

Enjoyable Party at Home of A. Bradford Hayden

A very enjoyable reunion was held Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bradford Hayden, 46 Spear street, when the first cousins of the Hayden family came together for their fourth annual reunion. There were about twenty-five present and it was one of the most happy reunions that the family ever had. The Hayden family is one of the oldest in this city and those present at Wednesday's reunion were only a part of the first cousins, the larger number altogether making it necessary to eliminate the younger members of the various families.

The affair lasted all day and all evening, beginning in the morning. During the morning and afternoon, the time was spent talking over old times and getting ready for the evening, when the big fun was to begin. A rather novel dinner was served, everything being cooked and served in Italian style, including the macaroni. During the evening frappe, ice cream and cake were served.

The entertainment end of the reunion could not be surpassed, for in the Hayden family there are several talented musicians. Mr. Herbert Hayden, the well known piano teacher, and his son Irving did the bulk of the entertaining, keeping the piano going steadily all the evening. Both are excellent players and their music was enjoyed by all. Forrest Hayden assisted on the drums. There were solos by some of those present, the whole company joining in on the choruses. There was also dancing on the lawn, which was one of the best features of the reunion.

The first of these reunions was held four years ago and it was so successful that it was decided to keep it up. They have been held every year since then and will be held every year in the future. Among those present was an old lady over eighty years old, Mrs. Benjamin Hayden, an aunt of Mr. Bradford Hayden. She was one of the happiest of the cousins and came all the way from her summer home in Nantasket in an automobile, to attend the reunion.

The others present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Bradford Hayden and daughter Viola, Mrs. Eva Folsom and daughter Josie of Medford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tilden of Weymouth Landing, Mr and Mrs. Charles Hayden of Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hayden and daughter Pearl of Quincy, Mrs. Alvah Colburn and son Kenneth, Miss Jessie Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. William Hayden and son Forrest of Quincy, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hayden and son Irving of Quincy, Mrs. Edward Hayden of Quincy and Mrs. Frank Hayden of Randolph.

What is so rare as a night in July?

Hello, there, Taunton. Welcome to our city!

The American aeroplane seems to be all Wright, too.

From all accounts the War of the Roses wasn't in it with the battle of the signs at Squantum.

All plans for the future invasion of England seem to be up in the air.

It is a noteworthy fact, perhaps, that the grocers had at least one fine day for their annual outing.

Now that the cruiser Salem has been presented with a graphaphone she may be able to dispense with her fog horn.

In the race between the Crane and the stork, the latter won out but the young Crane was even up at the finish.

The Spear family reunion is planned for Aug. 5 in this city. Will "the spear that knows no brother" be there?

The park commissioners have given notice that all dogs must flea the bath house during bathing hours.

"I'm from Missouri," said Senator Stone as he slapped the colored waiter of the dining car. Then he was shown the police station.

That was pretty close figgerin' on the Gridley Bryant school plumbing job. Only $2 between the high and low man. The high and low men, though, had it all to themselves as there were only two bidders.

Let's hope the neighbors won't complain if the youngsters make noise in the new playground in ward 1. A youngster is like a boiler and his lungs and throat are the safety valves.

A number of attractive bargains are offered in real estate in the columns of the Ledger. With a prosperous outlook in store for Quincy, real estate investments are bound to prove profitable before a great while.

The latest revolting incidents brought out in the trial of Harry Thaw would seem to indicate that all fools and their money are not soon parted.

It is more than likely that the miscreant who struck the Weymouth farmer over the head with a base ball bat yesterday will have a foul play called on him.

This is the last month of the year that will stand for an abbreviation. The next one won't come till March. Next week we will have August with us.

Elm trees in various parts of the city are beginning to show the sere and yellow leaf as a result of the ravages of the elm tree beetle. After these insects have fattened on arsenate of lead, creosote and numerous other poisons prepared for their benefit, it might be a good idea to go back to the tanglefoot fly paper.

It seems like a strange reversal of history that the Spanish government, the first to engage in colonization in the new world, is now fighting for its life because part of the people are opposed to the colonization of Morocco, just across the straits of Gibraltar from Spain.

Workmen are getting ready to lay down the first of the permanent sidewalks ordered by the city council. New curbing has been placed in position from Hancock to Franklin streets on School street and a tar or concrete walk is to be constructed. This will fill a much needed want and will give a continuous permanent sidewalk from the Centre to South Quincy.

It is good news to know that some of the new semi-convertible street railway cars are likely to come to Quincy. The semiconvertibles are nice cars for summer travel because there is no chance to call passengers by the overworked title of "end seat hog." It is respectfully suggested, however, that there is some track in this city that will hardly stand up under these heavy cars.

The free hide schedule of the new tariff bill means that New England, and principally Massachusetts, will remain the boot and shoe centre of the country. A shrewd game was being played by western senators and congressmen to transfer this industry closer to the hide producing regions but when President Taft put his Massachusetts boot down hard something had to give. Now for cheaper boots and shoes.

It is gratifying to note the determination with which the President is applying himself to the task of curtailing the public expenditures and the tenacity with which he keeps the subject before the members of his cabinet. It is so easy to incur expenses when "Uncle Sam" foots the bills that little short of bull-dog pertinacity will accomplish anything in the way of economy. The President is determined to secure a reduction in the annual expenditures of $50,000,000. Of course he cannot accomplish a great deal without the cooperation of Congress but his work is arousing public sentiment on the subject and that will find its reflection in the Houses of Congress Mr. Taft has enlisted the support of the leaders of the Senate and the movement started with the leaders of the House, so that there is reason to believe that the present wave of economy will not be spasmodic but permanent. It certainly will be if the President is successful in inciting keen public criticism of extravagant expenditures of the public funds.

Seated in a great arm chair, humorously termed by members of his family "the supreme bench," President Taft outlined his views on the tariff last Sunday afternoon to a little group of newspaper correspondents. Most of the men who gathered on the south portico of the White House to hear the President's views were well known to him. They had accompanied him on many of his travels. Some had more than once been of his party when he went to Panama to inspect the great canal. Some of them had accompanied him throughout the last campaign, studying the political effect of his speeches and reporting to their papers what he said and how it was received. Knowing his callers well, Judge Taft talked with all his accustomed freedom. Knowing well the etiquette of newspaper work in Washington all of the men knew that it would be an unpardonable breech were they to quote the President in print. The "little chat," as the President termed it, lasted for two hours. Such chats are of incalculable value. They make it possible for the views of the Chief Executive to be conveyed to the great clientele represented by these correspondents without the stiffness and formality of an official statement. They enable men familiar with the difficulties and problems which confront the head of the nation to present his views in their own terms and with intelligent application to constantly changing situations. To borrow the favorite term of the correspondents themselves, they serve to "keep them straight" and to dimish the number of unwarranted and sensational reports which find ready circulation in Washington and which the uninformed are prone to accept as gospel truth. Knowing the custom of the President it is possible to distinguish the correspondence of the well informed newspaperman and to accept it with a reliance which otherwise it could not command.

What Fried Liver Is Good For.

A guest at an Atchison home came for three days and was still there at the end of five weeks. "I like all kinds of meat," she remarked one day as she passed her plate for the third helping, "but fried liver." That night there was fried liver for supper, fried liver the next day for breakfast, dinner and supper, and the next day, when the guest was asked to have fried liver, she packed her trunk and went home.—Atchison Globe.

His Bad Break.

"Oh, yes, I saw the man in the moon when I was a little girl," she said coquettishly.

"He must be pretty old by now, don't you think?" he remarked thoughtlessly.—Exchange.

Indefinite Instructions.

The Answer.

"'Widow' and 'window' are very much alike."

"Well, and what's the answer?"

"When I get near either I always look out."

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED

Artillery Employed to Quell Disturbances In Streets of Barcelona—Serious Conflicts In Other Cities of Catalonia, Where Masses Are Hostile to War In Morocco—Spaniards Lose Twenty Officers and 200 Men

Madrid, July 29.—Wednesday marked a black chapter in Spain's history, for there was tragedy both at home and abroad. King Alfonso reached here from San Sebastian in time to learn that part of his army at Melilla had a bloody battle with the Moors which, though the final victory was the Spaniards', cost the lives of a general, twenty other officers and a total of 200 Spaniards killed or wounded. Spanish officers describe the Moorish loss as enormous.

The young king learned, too, that the revolution in protest of the Moroccan war had reached a very serious state in the district of Catalonia. There is much bloodshed, and artillery has been employed in the streets of Barcelona to quell the outbreaks. The city is terror-stricken. The revolutionists are reported to be fighting desperately behind barricades. The troops include mounted artillery and the defences of the rebels have been raked with shot.

The king issued a decree proclaiming martial law and the suspension of constitutional guarantees throughout Spain. Orders have been given to the governors of the provinces to crush the revolution at any cost, without hesitation and without pity.

At Reus, near Tarragena, serious disorders have occurred. At Alcoy there has been much rioting in the streets, the gend'armes using their carbines and killing and wounding many of the manifestants. At Calahorra, a place of about 10,000 inhabitants, the populace invaded the railroad station, destroyed the switches and did other material damage, which resulted in the blocking of the trains transporting the troops. Soldiers opened fire on the rioters and some of the latter were killed. The troops succeeded in re-establishing train communications. Similar incidents occurred at other localities.

Late telephone advices from Barcelona describe the distrubances as terrible. When the military governor rode through the streets to proclaim a state siege, the crowds advanced so menacingly that a squadron of cavalry was forced to charge from the Atarazanas barracks. Women and children took refuge in St. Monica's church.

In the Place de Catalana, street cars were burned and a carriage containing several correspondents was struck by bullets. Infantry guard the house of the civil governor and the financial institutions. No railroad can sell tickets for Barcelona without military authority.

A mob headed by women was dispersed by cavalry, many women and children being shot.

Barcelona's suburbs are the picture of desolation. At Pueblo Nuevo the convent is badly damagged and the Church of San Pablo and the parochial schools are smoking ruins. The rioters have constructed their barricades with the wreckage from railroad bridges, and the men behind the barricades are well supplied with arms and ammunition.

The hostility of the people against the Moroccan campaign is based on resentment that the nation has plunged in a foreign war and that the nation's sons are being sacrificed merely because of opposition to a private mining undertaking. The poorer classes, from which the regiments are chiefly drawn, are especially bitter, complaining that the man who can pay $300 is exempt from military service. It is the poor, therefore, who are forced to go to Africa to meet death.

Advices from the front state that the holy war sentiment is spreading among the interior tribes, who, so soon as their crops are gathered, are expected to flock to the coast and join the Riffians.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 29.—Unable to get to the farther end of the railroad bridge on which she was walking in time to escape an approaching train, Mrs. James Monahan, aged 22, was struck by the train and killed.

PULLIAM SHOOTS HIMSELF

Baseball Magnate Fires Shot Which Goes Through His Head

New York, July 29.—Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National League of Baseball clubs, attempted suicide last night in his rooms on the third floor of the New York Athletic club.

HARRY C. PULLIAM.

Standing in the center of the room Pulliam held a revolver to his right temple. He fired only one shot. It went in at the right temple and came out on the left hand side of his head. The bullet destroyed the right eye and passed through the upper part of the left. It is not believed that Pulliam can recover.

Harry C. Pulliam had only recently resumed the reins of the National league after an absence from duty for many months because of nervous trouble, due to his unceasing labor in the interest of the national game. He took hold of National league affairs only a few weeks ago.

CLIPPER SHIPS' DAY IS GONE FOREVER

New Type of Vessel Is Without Masts or Canvas

New York, July 29.—Old salts looked mournfully on the Norwegian freighter Bismarck, as she steamed up the bay on her maiden voyage from West Hartlepool.

The Bismarck embodies visibly the final and complete triumph of steam over canvas. She is the first trans-Atlantic vessel to sail with no masts whatsoever, being fitted instead with four steel double derricks, which, being hollow, also act as ventilators for her cargo. She is 3053 tons register, 4938 gross, and ships a crew of thirty men.

FEED PIPE OUT OF GEAR

Causes Postponement of Final Trial of Wright Aeroplane

Washington, July 29.—A persistent wind and a suddenly discovered stoppage in the gasolene feed pipe of his motor prevented Orville Wright from making last evening his final cross-country two-man test of the aeroplane.

After waiting in supposed readiness for the start for an hour at Fort Myer the wind died down and then it was discovered that the fuel feed was obstructed. By that time it was dusk, and the flight was declared off for the day, the army officials granting him three days additional time for the test. The time limit under the original contract expired yesterday.

The failure of the trial disappointed an immense crowd, including President Taft and practically all of the most prominent government officials.

SKULL BADLY BATTERED

Baseball Bat Used as Weapon In Assault Upon a Farmer

South Weymouth, Mass., July 9.—William Haniford, 62, a prosperous farmer, was found by William Conant, his hired man, lying in a pool of blood with his skull battered in. Conant was arrested on the charge of intoxication and as a suspect in connection with the affair.

Haniford was rushed to the Grace hospital in Boston, where an operation was performed for a compound fracture of the skull.

The murderous assault on Haniford was committed with a baseball bat which was picked up 150 yards from the home of Haniford, near the spot where the assault was made.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasili is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment. X—Pike refuses to consent as her guardian to her settling $750,000 on Almeric, and Ethel is enraged at him.

"How's that?" asked Pike.

"I see how a son of that great democracy can apply himself to a dirty machine while his eyes are full of visions of one of its beautiful daughters."

"Doc, there's sand in your gear box!" Then he looked up. "Now, you go down to the kitchen and make signs for some of the help to give you a bunch of nice clean rags."

For an instant the German drew himself up haughtily.

"What is it you ask me to do?"

"Get me some more rags," said Daniel quietly, and Von Grollerhagen bowed low.

"I'd go myself, but it wouldn't be safe to leave the machine."

"You fear this famous bandit would steal it?" laughed the German.

"No; there's parties around here might think it was a settlement."

"My friend," Von Grollerhagen said gravely, "I do not understand."

"That's where we are in the same fix, doc," said Pike, with a chuckle, and bent over the machine again, while Von Grollerhagen departed on his mission.

While Pike worked he thought, and the thoughts finally arrived at the point where he saw that all he had to do to save the girl he had come so far to see was to sit tight on his refusal. He had accurately gauged the noble earl and his interesting son and sister-in-law, and he knew that it was a thousand to one that they would not agree to a marriage if there was no money in sight.

"They'll make more'n one bid for old Simpson's money," he assured himself and then looked up quickly, for the leaves on the pergola were rustling in a way that no wind should have caused.

As he looked the figure of a man appeared over the top of the vines and a pale face looked into his with imploring eyes. Pike looked at him calmly and knew at once that this was the man the carabinieri were pursuing.

"Est ce que vous etes un homme de bon coeur? Je ne suis pas coupable!" ("Are you a kind hearted man? I am not guilty!") he began, when Pike cut him off with a shake of the head.

"There ain't any use in the world your talking to me like that," he said mournfully, and the refugee's eyes gleamed with hope.

"You are an American?" he said, making preparations to descend.

"They haven't made anything else out of me," answered Daniel, and the refugee climbed down and leaned weakly against the car.

"If you give me up I shall not be taken alive! I have no weapon, but I shall find a way to cut my throat!"

"Are you the bandit they're looking for?" asked Daniel, with interest.

"They call me that? How close are they?" asked the other, with sudden fright. Pike looked at the gates and heard a clank of sabers off on the road.

"There!" he said and stripped off his blouse. "Did they see you climb that wall?"

"I think not," murmured the man.

"Do you know anything about automobiles?" asked Daniel, holding out the coat.

"Not a thing in the world," replied the other despairingly.

"Then you're a chauffeur, all right," returned the lawyer, forcing the rough garment on the man. "Here; climb in under that machine, and don't you dare unscrew anything. Pretend you are fixing."

He pushed the refugee toward the machine and saw him wriggle beneath it, then heard Mariano's agitated voice calling in the hotel. An instant later the maitre d'hotel rushed out to the entrance gates and threw them wide open, revealing two carabinieri without, who immediately entered. Then ensued a conversation in Italian that was pure Sanskrit to Pike, who looked on with calm interest. The commandant of the file addressed the lawyer in a long speech, to which Pike smiled and waved a cigar.

"Wishing you many happy returns, colonel," he said genially, and Mariano hastened forward.

"It is the robber of Russia. They think he climb the wall, the assassin. The others, they surround all yonder. These two, they search here. They ask you please, signore, have you seen him climb the wall."

"No," replied Daniel shortly, turning away.

"They ask, then, has any one crossed the lawn?" went on the servant.

"No," replied Daniel, and as he spoke one of the men pointed his gun beneath the car at the figure in the long blouse.

"He ask who that is, signore," said Mariano excitedly, also pointing.

"The new chauffeur for the machine from Paris," answered Pike casually, and, with a bow, the two went off, one to the right and the other to the left. As they disappeared Von Grollerhagen came walking across the grass with some white rags in his hands and an amused smile upon his face.

"Is there a new eruption of Vesuvius?" he asked, waving the cloths.

Daniel met him and took the rags.

"No," he said dryly. "It's an eruption of colonels trying to arrest a high school professor. I've got him under your car there, yonder."

"You are an American?"

The start the German gave would have been ludicrous in any other situation.

"My friend," he said, "do you realize the penalty for protecting a criminal from arrest?"

"I told them he was your chauffeur. We'll be proud of the risk, doc." He turned to the refugee under the machine. "This man owns the car," he went on. "You can trust him the same as your own father." And the German shrugged his shoulders in protest. There was a clatter of arms, and Pike looked up.

"Look out!" he said. "The governor's staff is coming back," And as the carabinieri returned he said casually to Von Grollerhagen:

"You'll have to get a new front tire, doc. That one is pretty near gone. Better have Jim here put on the spare one when he gets through."

The German looked at him.

"Do you know what you are asking me to do?"

"To have a new front tire put on," answered the lawyer. The police were looking on with interest, and finally Mariano approached.

THAW MAKES GOOD SHOWING

No Indications of Insanity While on the Witness Stand

HIS DIALOGUE WITH JEROME

Part of It Resembles Chat of Old Friends—Prisoner Says He May Have Been Legally Insane For a Few Minutes When He Killed White, but Has Always Been Sane, Medically—Ordeal Is Unfinished

White Plains, N. Y., July 9.—For six hours Harry K. Thaw occupied the witness stand Wednesday while District Attorney Jerome, the man who tried to send him to prison, and who once previously thwarted an effort to release him from a criminal insane asylum, delved into his life history.

Thaw emerged creditably from the ordeal. Whatever Jerome and his alienists may make of the examination, to the eye and ear of the layman Stanford White's slayer showed no signs of insanity on the stand.

Thaw, the members of his family and his retinue of attorneys and experts are unanimous in the opinion that he has proved his fitness to be at large. His friends believe that if he acquits himself in the future as well as yesterday, Justice Mills will have no choice but to grant his application for release from Matteawan.

But Thaw's ordeal is not over. He will remain on the witness stand today and perhaps a day longer. The state's alienists believe that if he is insane he will be more likely to betray himself toward the end, when he is wearied by Jerome's continued hammering.

Neither Thaw nor Jerome displayed anything but the utmost good nature. Frequently the dialogue resembled the chat of friends at an afternoon tea. Sometimes Thaw thought he had scored a point and smiled with the keenest enjoyment. The smile was always reflected on the face of his mother, who sat in court throughout the day with the other members of the Thaw family.

Jerome strove to establish Thaw's insanity mainly on his alleged hallucinations regarding Stanford White's treatment of young girls. Time and again he asked the witness' own opinion of his mental state. Thaw's replies in substance were:

"I have always been sane, medically. When I killed White I may have been legally insane for a few minutes. I am sane now."

At times the witness scored on the district attorney so palpably that the whole courtroom joined in his smile of triumph. Nothing pleased him more than the chance to correct Jerome on some minor detail of the evidence of past legal proceedings, which he had at his tongue's end.

Thaw's mood was not always jovial. He gave the first signs of worry when the district attorney asked him to explain his hostility to Dr. Hamilton, one of the state's former alienists, and asked a number of questions evidently designed to show that Thaw's prejudice was something violent and abnormal.

Another line of questions that made the witness knit his brows had to do with his relations with Evelyn Nesbit before their marriage. Although it has been alleged that Thaw has broken with his wife he showed a strong desire to shield her name. Thaw showed strong reluctance to letting his wife take the stand and had his attorney invoke the privilege of confidential relations to bar her.

Susan Merrill, who was the chief witness at Tuesday's session, was in court again, but did not take the stand. Thaw swore that her most damaging charges against him were untrue.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY
(Incorporated)

INDUSTRIAL LIFE INSURANCE.

Voluntary concessions aggregating over $20,000,000 additional benefits to Industrial policies already in force, and increasing the amount of benefits to all similar policies issued after July 1st, briefly states the effect of an important and far-reaching announcement just made by The Prudential Insurance Company through President John F. Dryden.

For years it has been the practice of The Prudential to add to the benefits already granted to policyholders, giving more insurance than the contracts called for whenever experience has demonstrated that it could safely be done. The constant aim of the officers of The Prudential is to give the most and the best for the least. Close and careful study is given every feature of the Company's great business. The gains made in different departments each year, the earning power of the Company's assets, decrease in mortality, etc., as compared with what was expected, are all carefully scrutinized. In this way The Prudential is able from time to time to grant increased benefits to policyholders, giving them the advantage obtained through these savings, even though no legal obligation so to do exists under the policy contracts.

According to the announcement just made on all Industrial policies issued after July 1st the benefits will be increased by an amount averaging more than ten per cent., thus giving all new Industrial policy-holders more insurance for less money than ever hitherto granted.

In furtherance of this liberal practice The Prudential has also made these concessions retroactive—that is, applicable to similar policies issued since the beginning of the year 1907 and in force on the 1st of July of this year, thus enabling holders of old policies to share in the increased benefits granted to the new.

The Prudential has already made voluntary concessions to its Industrial policyholders, amounting to more than $11,000,000, and this retroactive feature of its new liberal benefits will add over $20,000,000 more to this remarkable sum, not to speak of the many, many millions more that will ensue to prospective policyholders.

ASSETS, $429,000.

—The march of the veterans at the national encampment at Salt Lake city, is to be a short one. The streets are very wide in Salt Lake, and it is arranged that the procession will start from a point on Main street and march for one mile down one side of the street, cross over and go up on the other side to the point of beginning. This will give all the participants a chance to see each other in passing, and the reviewing stand will be the beginning and end of the parade.—Lynn Item.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

PEDDOCKS ISLAND.

Watch and Ward Society After Hotel Proprietors.

Warrants were issued by Judge Kelley of Hingham Wednesday against William S. Drake and John Irwin, proprietors of the two hotels on Peddock's island upon complaint of J. Frank Chase, secretary of the Watch and Ward society. There are three specific charges against the parties, keeping a disorderly house, a gambling house and maintaining a liquor nuisance.

Ever since the Chinese merchants' outing on the island with its disgusting scenes, the Watch and Ward society has been watching the place and it is alleged that last Sunday liquor was sold over the bars of the hotels and that gambling was carried on openly.

There is no regular line of boats to the island other than that which runs between Houghs Neck and the island.

Peddock's island is in the town of Hull and the warrants will be served by the Hull police.

Under the advertisement for bids the right was reserved to reject any or all bids. He further said that he had used his judgment in the matter and awarded the job to the man whom he thought would do the best job.

TAFT SPEAKS FOR THE PEOPLE

Says They were Promised Downward Tariff Revision

Washington, July 29.—After working for nearly three weeks at one of the longest and most arduous tasks ever experienced in tariff building, the majority members of the conference committee on the Payne-Aldrich bill brought their labors to a sudden close at 6 o'clock last night.

Without a moment's delay, the senate and house leaders started away by automobile with the intention of laying their report before President Taft, who had gone to Fort Myer to see an expected flight of the Wright brothers in their aeroplane.

All day long the conferees had struggled with the question of bringing down the house rates on gloves and the senate rates on lumber to figures they felt would meet with executive approval. In this effort the conferees failed and they appeared to appreciate the fact.

Lumber was made dutiable at rates only a little below those named by the senate bill, and there was a very slight shading from the house rates on gloves of good quality. Although it was not admitted by the conferees the general impression drawn from the hurried trip to Fort Myer was that Aldrich and Payne had been authorized by their colleagues to incorporate in the conference report such figures as could be agreed upon by the president in so far as they came within range of what the leaders believe will be acceptable in the house and senate.

In view of President Taft's utterances, senate and house leaders are predicting that the conference rates on gloves and lumber will not prove satisfactory to him.

Unquestionably the session Wednesday was the busiest of the three weeks the bill has been in conference. Dozens of senators sought audiences and were received by the senate members of the committee and there called also many members of the house, including the committee representing the anti-raw-material insurgents. In the corridors swarmed agents of special interests who seemed to realize that the crucial period of the conference had arrived.

In winding up the work of the majority of the conference committee, preliminary to submitting the result to the Democrats for their stamp of approval or disapproval, the Republican members did not reopen the question of hides and leather, oil, coal or iron ore, which subjects were closed Tuesday.

If the report is laid before the house on Friday, according to the present program, it will be printed and taken up on Saturday. It is not believed that the house will discuss it more than one day. If this estimate of time proves correct, the senate may begin with the report on Monday. It is believed that it can be disposed of next week.

JEFF POSTS A FORFEIT

Says He Will Be Ready to Fight Johnson Within Five Months

New York, July 29.—Actual steps looking to a fight between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world were taken when Jeffries posted $5000 as a forfeit to bind a match with the negro pugilist. Jeffries insists that when articles are signed an additional forfeit of $5000 shall be posted. The whole sum of $20,000 is to go to the winner of the mill.

Jeffries will leave for a short European trip in a few days. He will visit the springs at Carsbad in Bohemia and will do a little preliminary training there. He plans to be ready to fight within five months.

Johnson Will Cover Forfeit

Jackson, Mich., July 29.—"I'll leave Chicago Monday night for New York and cover that forfeit," said Jack Johnson when shown a dispatch to the effect that Jeffries had posted a forfeit in New York of $5000 to fight Johnson and again place the honor of championship among the white race.

WEDS WEALTHY BANKER

Nordica Embarks Today For Third Time Upon Sea of Matrimony

London, July 29.—Mme. Lillian Nordica, the world-renowned prima donna, was today married to George W. Young, a millionaire banker of New York.

Mme. Nordica's first marriage was with Frederick Gower, who was believed to have met death some years ago when trying to cross the English channel in a balloon. It is rumored that Gower still lives contentedly in Bombay, India.

In 1896 Nordica married Zoltan Doehme, a Hungarian tenor, whom she later divorced.

Young has been divorced from his first wife for several years. She was Natalie B. Bray, who fell in love with Young when he was earning a small salary in a New Jersey bank.

At her wedding today Mme. Nordica wore a white gown, trimmed with old duchesse lace. She wore no hat.

RUSSIAN FLEET IN KIEL CANAL

Attending Emperor Nicholas on His Way to England

Kiel, July 29.—The Kiel canal has been closed to traffic since 8 o'clock last evening, in consequence of the emperor of Russia passing through today on his way to England.

The Russian fleet proceeded through the canal first, and the emperor and empress followed on the imperial yacht Standart. The banks are closely guarded by troops.

The Russian sovereigns slept aboard the Standart last night, surrounded by torpedo boat destroyers.

MARGIN'S EASY VICTORY

Mare Which Was Bought at a Bargain Wins $10,000 Stake

Detroit, July 29.—Alonzo MacDonald, the Boston reinsman who captured the Readville handicap last August, won the twentieth renewal of the $10,000 Merchants and Manufacturers' stake for 2:24 class trotters with his roan mare, Margin.

Henry Setzer took the lead in the race and was closely attended by Marie N. and Margin. Marie N. went to the front at the three quarters, but in the stretch Margin beat her handily, then eased at the end. Margin led all the way in the second heat, and when challenged by Marie N. in the stretch she drew away again without trouble. The third heat was easily won.

Margin was bought by MacDonald for $1050 at a Kentucky sale in the fall of 1907. The man for whom he bought her refused to accept the mare and MacDonald kept her.

BLERIOT IS HONORED

Frenchmen Recognize Him as Among the Foremost Aviators

Paris, July 29.—Louis Bleriot, who made a successful flight across the English channel last Sunday morning, was given an enthusiastic reception on his return to Paris from London.

The city was decorated with flags as if for a national holiday. Two cabinet ministers presented the government's congratulations to the aviator at the railroad station, and Bleriot's employers presented him with a souvenir and the flag which signalled to the aeronaut to descend near Dover. The municipal council and the Aero club will tender a banquet to Bleriot.

Of Importance to Fishermen

TO FOUR TRACK THE SYSTEM

Railroad Commences Work Laying Additional Tracks

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company are to begin to put in two more tracks to complete the four track system between Harrison Square and Braintree. There are already four tracks between Harrison Square and Boston. All of the tracks between Savin Hill and Neponset draw bridge are to be elevated, bringing all of the street crossings under the railroad tracks.

The state railroad commissioners decided that the tracks must be elevated and gave the railroad company a certain number of years in which to do the work, and as the time is very nearly up, the work is to begin at once.

The four tracks between Boston and Braintree will do away with the north bound local trains being delayed between these two points when the through express trains are late. At present the local trains are held up at Braintree to let the express trains have a clear track to go ahead, but with the four tracks, both local and express trains will have their own tracks each way.

The Neponset depot is to be moved from its present position near the Neponset bridge to a point somewhere between Neponset and the Popes Hill station. It seems almost possible to do away with the Popes Hill station and make the new Neponset station do service for both districts. However, the railroad people have not made known what their intentions were in regard to this.

The next thing that the Quincy people may look for is electric suburban train service, which has proven so much of a success between Stamford, Connecticut and New York on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. This company are now fitting the road between Stamford and New Haven in readiness to putting on electric service between these two points, thus making a through electric line from New Haven to New York, therefore, the Boston end of the road must surely get its share sooner or later.

The railroad company announced its intentions some years ago to four track its system to Braintree but it will be impossible at the present time to continue the four track system much south of Atlantic until it is determined by the special commission how the grades shall be separated at the Saville and Water street crossings.

In addition to the separations of the grades at these two crossings it will be necessary to widen the bridge at Atlantic, Squantum and Beale streets as well as the Presidents bridge, Dimmock and School street bridges.

It will doubtless be some years before all these changes are completed as it is an immense undertaking.

THE SATURDAY BALL GAMES

League Team Plays on Home Grounds. Other Games

The big feature in tomorrow's baseball, will be the game at the Water street grounds between the Taunton champs and the local "Speed Boys." The game is scheduled for 3.30 and promises to be one of the best of the season. The Taunton team has played extra inning games for the last three Saturdays, so local fans can be prepared for a fast contest. Both teams are primed for the clash, for to Taunton it means a big lead if they win and to Quincy it means that the local team with a win will go back into first place.

The local team will be the same with one or two exceptions. Murray will be behind the bat as usual, and either Sid Patterson or Labelle, the former New England league star, will occupy the slab. Patterson's ability is known, and Labelle will be remembered by baseball followers, as the crack twirler of the Lawrence team a few years ago. He has been in the New York state of late, but has decided to play independent ball for the rest of the season. First base will be covered by Briggs, the former star first sacker of the Salem team. It was hoped that the local team would have the services of the hard hitting Smith, who is catching for Rockland, but there was some hitch and Smith could not be secured. However, Briggs is a classy fielder and a good hitter and ought to cover the bag satisfactorily. George Donaher will hold down the pivot position, while Lou Courtney will be moved over to short. Third base is doubtful, as Hoye may be dropped. The outfield will remain the same as it has been all the season.

The local management is making arrangements for a big crowd at tomorrow's game, and those that do take in the game will certainly see a good, fast contest. It would be a good plan to make a deal with some lunch room to have a lunch sent up about six o'clock.

At Merrymount park the Makaria team will cross bats with the team from Cunningham gym, Milton. Makaria will put a strong team in the field as Cunningham has a strong team. Stan Bates, the crack southpaw twirler of the local high school team of the past season will probably be on the mound for the home team.

The Atlantic Professionals will go to Newport, R. I. tomorrow to play the strong Newport team. This team is one of the strongest independent teams in the country and recently defeated the Brockton New England league team. Atlantic has come to be one of the stellar attractions through Rhode Island and has several games arranged through the state. Next Sunday they play the fast Phenix, R. I., team, and this will surely be a hot game. Atlantic and Phenix have played two games, each team winning one, so this will be the rubber game. Next Wednesday the team will go to Hyannis for a game. The Hyannis team is made up of some of the fastest college players in the country and puts up a strong game.

Quincy Independents will meet the strong Plymouth Cordage team tomorrow at Plymouth. Jimmy Michael will pitch and Walter Troupe will catch for Quincy. This is the former Makaria battery and it is a smooth working pair.

The Bigelows play the Seewal, A. A. at Ward Two playground and a fast game is assured. "Jep" Saunders will twirl for the Bigelows, and he is going in fine style. All the other local teams have games scheduled for tomorrow.

TODAY'S COURT.

Daniel McCadden was fined $25 and Carl J. Johnson $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at the Blue Hill parkway.

John Sheehan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Laveria Zeoli was arraigned for being a railer and brawler at Weymouth. Case continued until next Wednesday.

The continued case of Louis J. Gellear for larceny of a case of liquors from a building at Houghs Neck was heard and he was fined $10.

WERE THEY GHOSTS?

Police Investigate Queer Noises in the Hancock Cemetery.

Noises that seemed to be a mixture of the mundane and the unearthly were heard in the Hancock cemetery close to midnight Wednesday night. People living in the vicinity were awakened from their slumbers by the noises and after listening intently these people thought the spirits were pronounced enough in the flesh to be caught if one could get near to them unawares.

A messenger was despatched to the vicinity of city hall where the police watch the electric cars and the tide of traffic that flows from the depot and soon officers Bishop and Dhoogue arrived at the cemetery gates. If the officers were superstitious they did not show it for they bravely plunged into the dark recesses of the cemetery and explored the place from end to end. Nothing was found of any unearthly-looking objects and a careful search failed to reveal the presence of any drunks who might have been talking in their sleep.

The officers thought the noises might have come from some drunken men who got off one of the late trains and, walking down the path by the side of the track, tarried at the back fence of the cemetery to indulge in the spirits which come in glass-blown caskets. Saturday night an officer chased such a noisy drunk away from the back fence of the cemetery because his voice was so loud he could be heard in City square and to one standing on the street the voice seemed to come from the sepulchral regions of the cemetery.

THE HOT WAVE.

Heat is Very Oppressive and but Little Air is Stirring up to Noon.

Unless all signs fail today will be a record breaker for heat. The morning dawned hot and sultry with scarcely a breath of air and as it wore on the mercury began to climb toward the top, threatening to burst the glass tube which held it. At 11.30 it registered 98 degrees and if the past few days are anything to go by it will be still hotter by 2 o'clock, which seems to be the hottest part of the day. Up to the present time there have been but two days when the mercury was as high at noon as today.

Those days were June 25 and 26, and there was but little more air then than there is today. This noon it was so hot in the granite yards that many of them closed down for the day and there was but little work done in any of the quarries. Everybody that could hiked themselves toward the beaches in the hopes of finding the air there less oppressive.

THE LATE TRAIN NUISANCE.

Saturday evening the nine twenty-seven train from Boston, under Conductor Arthur Roberts, had one of the hardest trips for a good while on account of the large number of drunks aboard. A large number of these got off at stations in our no-license city. This gives people who do not understand the conditions in Quincy, an extremely bad and wrong impression. Something should be done to remedy this nuisance. The proper place to begin would be the South Terminal station. Men who are seen to be in an intoxicated condition should not be allowed to pass the gates and get aboard the trains. If the South Terminal people will do nothing about it, the Quincy police should be authorized to meet the late trains and arrest every one in an intoxicated condition. The necessity for arrests would soon decrease.

There were over one thousand passengers on last Saturday night's train leaving Boston, and since of course a great many of those were people of respectability, it is hardly fair or honest for the railroad company to oblige them to ride with any such a disrespectable class as they were obliged to that Saturday night.

The no-license people of Quincy should rise in arms against the continuance of such a thing and force those in authority to do something about the matter.

VISITORS HAD A GRAND TIME

Taunton Officials do the City and Eat Shore Dinner

Several members of the Taunton city government paid a visit to Quincy Thursday and spent the day within our classic city. The party was in charge of Supt. of public buildings J. R. Scanlon and City Messenger M. Francis Flood. In the party were Mayor Edgar L. Crossman, Supt. of streets Joel Thayer, Supt. of sewers, Richard L. McMahon, Aldermen Leslie Dickerman, Herman E. Nearing, Chester S. Hart, Joseph P. Dufour, George E. Higgins, Charles W. Church, Councilmen Charles Garniss Jr., George A. Lincoln, Fred P. Conarty, Joseph M. Smith, Walter A. Merrill, John W. Hoye, Cornelius J. Kelly, Henry J. McNelly, Robert J. McKechinie, William J. Roberts, John J. Donohoe, Edward H. Farrell, Martin H. Boylan, Nathaniel W. Carter, Ex-Aldermen Levi Weatherby, John Cronin, J. W. Flood, and Fred M. Atwood. City Messenger Tirrell of this city had charge of the party in Quincy, and was assisted in entertaining by Councilman John J. McDevitt, Ex-Representative Edward J. Sandberg and Luther S. Anderson.

The party left Taunton at 8.30 in a special car and arrived in Quincy shortly after 11 o'clock. They were met by City Messenger Tirrell and escorted through city hall. From there they went to the Quincy freight yard where a special train was waiting and started for the quarries in West Quincy. Luther S. Anderson was in charge of this end of the trip and he proved to be a very capable and interesting guide. They visited the Granite railway quarries and sheds and saw the incline railroad, and part of the roadbed where the tracks of the first railroad were laid. They also saw the quarry from which the stone for Bunker Hill monument was taken. They went to the turning mill and saw a big 28 ton column being turned out. All those in the party were very much taken up with the trip to the quarries and said they were more than surprised at the depth of the holes.

Having examined all the interesting things around the quarries the party started back for Quincy and left at once for Houghs Neck, where an excellent shore dinner was waiting for them in Norteman's cafe. On the menu was everything that goes to make up a genuine shore dinner, nothing being left out that would have added to the dinner. After the dinner the whole party sat for their pictures.

The next move was to Quincy Yacht club whence they had been invited through the courtesy of Edward J. Sandberg. Here there was a little entertainment, Councilman Garniss favoring the party with a few songs. Phil Schaefer of Kutz's orchestra presided at the piano. When they got tired of music they started out to have a ball game, the married men of the party having challenged the single men. Mayor Crossman was selected as umpire. As no suitable field could be found for a game, the contest was called off and they decided to settle the score on the bowling alleys. It was easy money for the single men in bowling, the benedicts being about 100 pins to the bad at the end of the game. Mayor Crossman bowled with the married men and was their stronghold. The rest of the party took a walk around the various parts of the beach, visiting the fire station and other points of interest. Several hired boats and went out rowing. All expressed themselves as having had a grand good time.

They left the beach shortly after nine o'clock and passed through Quincy square about 9.30. They then proceeded to Taunton by the way of Brockton and arrived home about midnight.

CHIEF HANSON.

Mayor Shea has appointed Sergt. Mark E. Hanson as acting Chief of Police during the absence of Chief Burrell, who is accompanying Lieut. McKay to Lorraine, O., after a prisoner.

"Take me out to the ball game."

Let's hope the latest four-tracking story isn't a "four-flushing" game.

Official Taunton was here yesterday; base ball Taunton will be here tomorrow . It was a feast yesterday;. tomorrow look out for a slaughter.

It is commended to the superstitious that the present king of Spain, whose throne seems to be in some danger, is the 13th of his name.

A Taunton city official said yesterday he liked Quincy so well last year that he couldn't stay away this time. That's more than a lot of Quincy people would say for their own town.

The principal fact in connection with Rev. Dr. Huntington's funeral, as some newspapers saw it, was the presence of J. Pierpont Morgan. Thus does money add importance sometimes to people who might never be known or heard from were they blessed with a lack of the coin of the realm.

We are afraid it will take Faith, Hope and Charity and several of the spiritual and corporal works of mercy added, to help the Watch and Ward Society purify Peddock's island. However, the double W. society is taking a big step forward. More power to its foot!

With such a man as Dr. N. S. Hunting at the head, there ought to be a valuable and intelligent report from the special antituberculosis committee appointed to consider the feasibility of an open-air camp.

According to Harry Thaw's own statement he has always been medically sane but was legally insane when he killed Stanford White. Boiled down to plain English Mr. Thaw was afraid to stand up squarely on his two feet and risk a trial for killing White so he hid behind a legal technicality. Brave man!

It seems to be an iron hand that is insisting on lower duties on the glove industry. That hand belongs to the same man who got free hides for New England and got them without the use of the big stick or the shorter and ugliar word.

No, bless your soul, the Hancock cemetery isn't haunted; not by the dead anyway. There isn't much doubt, though, that men go into the cemetery accompanied by spirits, the kind that cost $1 a quart or less; generally less.

Speaking of permanent sidewalks, let's hope the city authorities will not forget those uncompleted walks near the new post office building. These walks are used a lot and there will be some sloppy stepping if wet weather should come suddenly.

If there is any value to the theory that the absence of electric lights from a city will send the brown tail moths scurrying away towards the light of the moon, Quincy ought to be well rid of the pest before it is time to turn on the street lights again.

The Lotta Crabtree suit in San Francisco has just been settled after 17 years' litigation. The crop of fruit, however, was well worth the waiting, providing the claimant was able to live to see the end of the case. That Miss Crabtree did live to see her success is a matter of local congratulation for she is one of the prominent residents of Squantum where she is held in high esteem.

Minister Rockhill, the retiring representative to China, says that country is progressing. No doubt this statement will make the Chinese smile. China was progressing in the ages back when most of the present-day races and nations were in embryo. The art of printing and the manufacture of gunpowder, not to speak of other inventions, we owe to this race which is now reported as progressing. The Chinaman is a queer sort of a chap but he can't be beat for keeping his own mind to himself.

When Spain went to war with the United States the entire Spanish population seemed a unit in their hatred for this country and their eagerness to push the war but now that Spain is up against a small country which she ought to whip easily, the people of Spain want the government to quit. It is peculiar the way the human mind runs sometimes. This country had a taste of what Spain is now getting in our own civil war when many regiments had to be sent from the battle fields to quell the riots in New York city. So serious was the affair regarded at one time that it became necessary to send regiments from the battlefield of Gettysburg at a time when it seemed absolutely necessary to keep every soldier at the front.

REPORT SIGNED BY MAJORITY

Tariff Conferees Bow to the Will of President Taft

GIVE IN ON EVERY POINT

Chief Executive Refused Compromise and Insisted Upon Downward Revision—Aldrich-Payne Bill Stands For Free Hides and Lower Duties on Lumber, Boots and Shoes, Gloves and Hosiery—Ready For Democrats

Washington, July 30.—The Payne-Aldrich tariff bill stands completed. An agreement on all disputed points was reached Thursday afternoon and at 4:55 p. m. the conferees' report was signed by the Republican conferees. It will go to the house today and be voted on by that body tomorrow. The senate will begin consideration of the measure on Monday. Probably a week will be required to dispose of the conference report in the senate.

Halted by the mandate of President Taft, the tariff conferees were compelled to turn back and revise their rates on lumber and gloves. In a communication to Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne, the president demanded that the high rates on gloves as fixed by the house and the high rates on lumber as fixed by the senate should not be made a part of the conference report.

After struggling over these questions throughout the entire day, the conferees surrendered to the president's view and signed the report.

When the conferees fixed lumber and glove rates Wednesday by shading very slightly the higher rates on each, they were so certain that the president would consent to the arrangement that notices were sent to the Democratic members of the conference committee to be present at 10 o'clock Thursday to approve or disapprove of the conference report.

The president had other ideas of what the rates should be and he expressed them very forcibly. He said that lumber should not be more than $1.25 per thousand feet for rough, with the differentials fixed by the senate on finished lumber. He declared also that the senate rate on gloves, which are the same as the Dingley rates, and much less than the house rates, would have to be adopted in order to obtain his endorsement.

Not content with issuing an injunction against high rates on these articles, the president specified that hides must go on the free list and the house rates on boots and shoes and other manufactures of leather reduced. Hosiery, too, he thought should be reduced below the house rates, which were advanced over the Dingley duties.

It was not until after the Democratic members had assembled that the White House communication was received at the conference chamber. Senator Aldrich read the president's missive and called his Republican associates to an adjoining room. The contents of the letter were discussed at some length and it was decided that the minority should be informed that the conference report had not been advanced to a stage where it could be submitted to them for their judgment.

The Democrats then went into session, but were in the conference chamber less than an hour. The Republican members continued in session after the Democrats left the chamber. Then followed one of the busiest scenes witnessed about the corridors of the senate office building during the three weeks the bill has been in conference.

There was no opportunity to compromise on gloves. The president said the rates must not be advanced beyond the figures named by the senate bill. Although the house conferees insisted during the greater part of the day that these rates would endanger the passage of the conference report through the house, they nevertheless were adopted.

On lumber some concessions were made, in spite of the fact that the president's instructions were complied with to the letter. In view of the action of the conferees in putting hides on the free list, a concession also was made to the cattle industry yesterday by taking tallow off the free list, where it had been placed by the conferees, and restoring it to the dutiable list. Tallow had been put on the free list by the house, but the action of the conferees makes it dutiable at 1½ cents per pound.

The rates on hosiery are in conformity with the spirit of the president's request.

Sugar Company Evinces a Desire to End Complicated Litigation

Philadelphia, July 30.—Declaring that the largest verdict he ever heard of for a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was $700,000, George H. Earle, receiver for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, asked the common pleas court here to decide the advisability of accepting the offer of $750,000 made by the American Sugar Refining company as a settlement of litigation brought against it by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company.

Earle, as receiver for the Pennsylvania company, sued the American company for $30,000,000 damages, alleging that the latter company prevented the former concern from operating its refinery. The suit was suddenly halted on June 8, when the American company offered to settle the case out of court.

Earle's application was vigorously opposed by counsel for bondholders, who maintained that if the case would go to trial a much larger sum would be recovered. Earle showed, however, that in addition to the $750,000 in cash which had been offered by the American company, securities aggregating $8,500,000 would be turned over. The court took the matter under consideration.

Claimants For Share of Evans' Vast Estate Already In Evidence

St. John, July 30.—The fortune of $12,000,000 which Robert D. Evans, who died in Boston a few weeks ago, amassed after leaving his home near here, a poor boy, will be considerably scattered after the death of Mrs. Evans, to whom the estate was left in trust.

The provision that the great sum is to be divided among the heirs of Mr. and Mrs. Evans at the latter's death has resulted in the cropping up of more than two score claimants, in St. John and vicinity, each of whom claims to be a legal heir of the former president of the United States Rubber company.

Revolutionists In Barcelona Put Up a Desperate Battle

ARE CORNERED BY TROOPS

Literally Mowed Down With Shot and Shell, the Survivors Throwing Down Their Arms—Premier Claims That Insurrection Is Now Under Control—Spain Has Three Thousand Casualties In Battle In Morocco

Madrid, July 30.—It is officially announced that the cavalry engaged at Barcelona succeeded in driving into St. Martin square the principal bands of revolutionists, against whom the artillery opened fire, causing great losses. The survivors surrendered.

The official statement further says that it now remains only to master small groups of revolutionists in the villages in the vicinity of Barcelona.

KING ALFONSO.

Thus, according to official advices, the insurrection has been checked, but at a great sacrifice of life. After fighting desperately and successfully for a long time behind barricades, the principal mobs were gradually driven to St. Martin's square, where they found themselves entrapped. Heavy detachments of artillery and cavalry came up and surrounded them.

The artillery immediately opened fire, mowing down the revolutionists, who sought to escape, but were met at every point with shot and shell. Those of the insurgents who were not killed or seriously wounded threw down their arms and surrendered.

The insurrection continues in the neighboring villages, whither the troops are proceeding. The commanders of the soldiers are under orders to spare none who attempt to resist.

Spain is rent by two fears—the fate of the army in Morocco and the sitation in the Mediterranean provinces in Catalonia. At the outskirts of Melilla the Spanish arms have suffered a serious check. Three thousand soldiers have either been slain or wounded, and the Moorish hordes are fighting at the very walls of the city itself.

Premier Maura's announcement that the situation in Barcelona showed a little improvement, and word from Melilla that the Moors were retreating from Mount Guruga, only slightly appeased the general disquietude. The Moorish forces, however, have been strengthened by the arrival of 5000 additional tribesmen and the official judgment that 75,000 Spanish troops are needed to overcome the tribesmen would indicate that the Melilla army of Spain is in serious straits. A Moorish army is marching on Alhucemas, and a warship has been hurriedly dispatched from Melilla to aid the garrison there.

Insurrectionary outbreaks are reported from many points in Spain. At Granollers two convents have been burned, while at Cassadelaselva the civil guard was disarmed and imprisoned in the barracks. The revolutionists are active at Llanza and Gigueras, where the railroads have been dynamited. Financial institutions are sending their funds across the frontier.

The report that a provisional government has been established at Barcelona and that the civil governor has been assassinated is unconfirmed, but rumors are persistent that Premier Maura will resign and that a military dictatorship will be set up in Madrid.

In Madrid, as well as in other cities throughout the country, there have been loud mutterings for a long time past, and the serious situation in Morocco gave the opportunity for the rising of the revolutionists in Catalonia in protest against the sending of further troops to that country. The recruiting system has served to increase the dissatisfaction of the Spanish people in general.

All Spaniards 20 years of age must report for military duty, but the rich usually manage to be excused. If in subsequent drawings by lot, they are unfortunate, they can buy exemption for $300. Only the poor people, therefore, serve. Most of the reserves are married and have children, and the despair of their wives is pitiful. The

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment. X—Pike refuses to consent as her guardian to her settling $750,000 on Almeric, and Ethel is enraged at him.

"The carabinieri, with all excuses, beg that you will order the chauffeur to step forth from the machine."

Pike made an exclamation.

"No, sir! I worked on that machine myself for three hours. He's got his hands full of nuts and bolts and screws half fastened. We want to get the job finished. Tell them to go on up Main street with their Knights of Pythias parade and come around some day when we're not busy."

Mariano held a hurried consultation with the carabinieri and turned back.

"Because the chauffeur have been engage today the carabinieri ask ten thousand pardons, but inquire how long he have been known to his employer."

"How long! Why, he was raised on doc's father's farm!"

"If that is so"— began Mariano.

"So? Of course it's so. Tell 'em, doc!"

The German looked at Mariano gravely.

"You have heard my friend say it."

"I have your permission, Herr von Grollerhagen, to reveal your incognito to the carabinieri?"

"Is it necessary?"

"Otherwise they will not depart."

"Very well; tell them. But I rely upon them to preserve my incognito from all others."

Mariano smiled.

"Monseigneur, they depart," and turned to the uniformed men. An instant later these swung through the gate and went their way. Pike looked after them in astonishment.

"He must have mesmerized the militia, eh, doc?" and signed to the refugee to come out from the car. He was a pathetic figure as he emerged and held out his hands.

"To you both I give thanks"— But Von Grollerhagen cut in:

"My American friend has placed himself—and myself—in danger of the penal code of Italy for protecting you Perhaps you will be good enough to let us know for what we have incriminated ourselves."

CHAPTER XII.

THE NIHILIST.

WITH a hasty glance about the garden to make sure he was not observed, the refugee approached Von Grollerhagen and Daniel and spread out his hands. As he stepped forward there was a movement of the window curtains in the casement above the doorway to the hotel, and he turned; but, whatever had caused it, the movement had ceased and there was nothing apparent.

"The Italian journals call me a brigand," said the Russian, "and in this they are inspired by the Russian legation at Rome. I am known as Ivanoff Ivanovitch, and I have spent nine years in Siberia, nine years of hell. It is ten years ago since I was condemned in St. Petersburg, and you, who know nothing of the horrors of Russian prisons, cannot understand what I have suffered, my friends. I was a professor of languages, a translator in the bureau of the minister of finance, and I was trusted."

For a moment he paused and pressed his scarred hands to his lined forehead, then sighed and went on:

"I was also a member of the Blue Fifty, a Constitutionalist, and as such was able to do a little for the cause, the cause, the same, my friend"—he turned to Pike—"for which your forbears suffered and fought—the cause of liberty. I could do but little, though I tried. At last I transferred the funds of the government to the Society of the Blue Fifty. It was a small thing. It was for the cause—not one ruble for myself. I swear it!"

Von Grollerhagen started back, with a gesture of repulsion, and Ivanovitch held out his hands.

"Not one ruble for myself!" he repeated. "It was for Russia's sake, not mine!"

He paused and went on wearily:

"But I committed the great Russian crime. I was caught, and through treachery. There was an Englishman who lived in Petersburg. He had contracts with the government. I thought he was my friend—my best friend. I had married in my student days in Paris. Ah, it is the old story!" he cried bitterly. "I knew the Englishman admired my wife, but I trusted her, and I trusted him, and he made my house his home. So many have done that thing. I had 50,000 rubles in my desk—the funds I had transferred—to be delivered to my society. One day the police came to search, and they found only me—not my wife, not my English friend, not the 50,000 rubles. I went to Siberia. Now I search for those two."

He leaned against the automobile and pressed his hands over his face, while Pike and Von Grollerhagen glanced at each other sorrowfully. Finally the latter asked:

"It was they who sent the police?" And Ivanovitch replied vigorously:

"After they had taken the money and were beyond the frontier themselves. That is all I have against them."

For a moment the hunted look left his eyes, and into them came the ravenous gleam of the hunting, starving wolf. His fingers clasped and unclasped themselves spasmodically, and there was a set look about his jaws that spoke ill for the guilty pair should they ever meet this man with the manacles off his hands.

The lawyer shuddered slightly as he gazed at him, and he laughed a short, hard laugh.

"Looks to me as if that would be about enough to have against them," he said. Von Grollerhagen stood combing his wiry beard with strong fingers and evidently studying the case. At last he spoke.

"Then by your own confession you are an embezzler and a revolutionist," he said, and at Ivanovitch's start of abject misery and contrition Pike stepped forward and laid his hand on the German's arm.

"Not one ruble for myself. I swear it!"

"The man's down," he said gently. "You wouldn't go back on him now?" He waited an instant and then chuckled grimly in a thin, humorous way "Besides, you've made yourself one of his confederates, doc," he finished.

As he spoke Von Grollerhagen glanced at him quickly, and his eyes took on a tinge of surprise.

"Upon my soul, but I have, my friend!" Then he laughed outright. "Ah, from the first sight of you in the hotel at Napoli I saw that you were a great man."

Daniel looked at him and grinned in his face.

"What you doing, doc—running for congress?" he asked, and the German joined him in the humor of the situation and then turned gravely to the Russian.

"I fear the carabinieri did not depart without suspicion."

"Suspicion!" echoed Ivanovitch bitterly. "They will watch every exit from the hotel and grounds. What can I do until dark?" Pike interrupted him quickly and motioned to the hotel

"Why, doc, he's got the whole lower floor of this wing. You're his chauffeur"—

"I was about to suggest it," interrupted Von Grollerhagen, in his turn, with some grimness of manner. "I have a room that can well be spared for Professor Ivanovitch."

"How can I ever thank you? God bless you both!" said the Russian, going toward them with outstretched hands.

"Huh! Don't waste time talking about it," said Pike. "I shouldn't be surprised if you were hungry."

He took the refugee by the arm and steered him in the direction of the hotel, and as the three entered the wide door the curtains above the entrance were agitated violently and the head of Lady Creech popped out of the casement with the suddenness of a Punch. From the keen look on her face one might have imagined that had it not been for her deafness she might have heard every word of the conversation that had gone on below her. As it was, after gazing anxiously in the direction of the road she withdrew her head sharply and within a minute came out of the door of the hotel just in time to encounter Horace and Mme. de Champigny coming in from the grove. She approached them at once.

He kissed her hand rapturously.

"Have you seen my brother?" she demanded excitedly. "Where is Lord Hawcastle?"

Horace looked at her with surprise.

"On the other side of the garden, Lady Creech," he answered, "down there on the terrace," and watched, with some amusement, the speedy efforts of the grim old lady as she hurried off. The amusement, however,

INQUISITION IS FINISHED

Jerome's Questioning of Thaw Lasts Ten Full Hours

White Plains, N. Y., July 30.—District Attorney Jerome of New York, prosecutor at both Thaw murder trials, finished his inquisition of Harry K. Thaw in the supreme court last evening. This ends perhaps the most surprising chapter of the long court procedure in which the young Pittsburger has figured, certainly the most surprising in this latest phase of the case—Thaw's fight to prove himself sane and obtain his release from the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane.

All told, Wednesday and Thursday, Thaw faced Jerome's lightning thrusts for ten hours, yet he held his own at all times and today he will be in the hands of friends. His attorney, Charles Morschauser, will call him. This examination may be as long as Jerome's.

Nothwithstanding the mental strain he was under, Thaw labored far into last night with his attorney, going over the multitude of records used by Jerome in his rapid fire of cross questions. The district attorney consented to this, but left one of his depuhe said, belonged to the records of his office.

On the whole, however, Thaw and his attorney are well satisfied with the day's work. On Wednesday Jerome devoted himself to the prisoner's life history. Yesterday he based his questions chiefly upon various documents, letters and memoranda, which he produced in surprising numbers. The one he found most useful was a tablet containing twenty-six sheets of foolscap paper on which were pasted a strange variety of newspaper clippings and scraps of manuscript. Thaw identified it as something he had prepared and sent to Delphin M. Delmas, his chief counsel during the first trial, for use in preparing his closing speech to the jury. Some of its contents was strange enough to cause suspicions of the author's sanity, but these bits Thaw invariably explained by saying they were letters written to him and his family by persons whose kind intentions probably were better than their mental balance.

"Lots of it was rubbish," he added, "but some of the letters contained ideas I thought Delmas might use."

Thaw's part of the compilation showed him as a man of many tastes and interests. In it he quoted passages of Scripture regarding sins against the young, and referred to the dragon tales in Percy's Reliques for striking simifes regarding Stanford White. He culled from his voluminous correspondence the most striking expressions that might be put to the same use.

Delmas' opinion of his client's suggestions was indicated by the fact that he turned the carefully prepared sheets over to the committee of alienists before which the prisoner appeared during his first trial. Jerome got them from this source.

While Thaw was, of course, the center figure at the hearing Thursday, there were two witnesses, Susan Merrill, the former New York lodging house keeper, and Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's former attorney. Mrs. Merrill went further into details regarding Thaw's alleged abuse of Thaw's alleged abuse of young women young woman at her house. She admitted having had dealing also with Stanford White.

Hartridge testified to the truth of parts of her story. He said that the money he turned over to the woman, which she said was used to prevent the girls Thaw whipped from making trouble, did not come from Thaw himself. He said that he had received $103,000 from Mrs. William Thaw,

LOADED WITH CORALS

Capture of Youth Supposed to Belong to Band of Smugglers

New York, July 30.—When Ciro Sorentino, 18 years old, was searched at police headquarters, detectives found about his middle a wide canvas belt, tucked with pockets like a cartridge belt and stuffed with valuable carved and rough corals until his waist line looked like the rim of a south sea atoll.

The police say Sorentino is one of a gang of smugglers who have been costing the government some $200,000 yearly in evading customs dues. Other arrests are expected shortly.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it falls to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

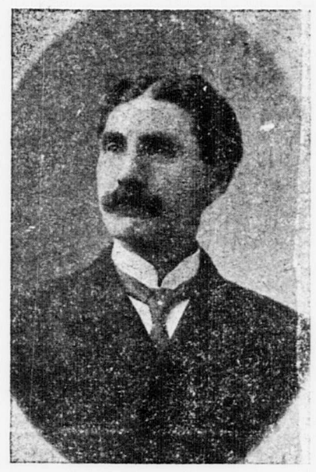
QUINCY LOSES SUPT. PARLIN

Unanimously Elected Supt. of the Cambridge Schools

Frank Edson Parlin, superintendent of the Quincy schools since September, 1900, was unanimously elected Friday evening, as superintendent of the Cambridge schools. There was a list of more than one hundred candidates for the position. The election of Mr. Parlin to the Cambridge schools means a change from the supervision of 6000 children to 16,000 with more than fifty school buildings.



FRANK EDSON PARLIN.

The election of Mr. Parlin as superintendent of the Cambridge schools will be a surprise to many, as it was not generally known that he was being considered for the position, and it is something to his credit that the election came without any solicitation on his part. Mr. Parlin was considered for this same position in 1905, but declined as the office at that time meant little more than keeping the office chair warm, which was not what he wanted.

While it is not definitely known that he will accept, it is more than probable that he will. Mr. Parlin was called to Cambridge for consultation on the matter some weeks ago, and at that time he is said to have informed the committee upon what terms he would consider an offer for the position.

In losing Mr. Parlin as superintendent, the city loses an educator whose reputation is among the best in the country, and it is to be regretted that he cannot be retained in Quincy.

Mr. Parlin was born in Leeds, Me., and his elementary education was obtained in the public schools. He fitted for college at the Maine Central Institute; spent one year in the normal course and graduated from Bates college in 1886, receiving the degree of A. M. in June, 1889.

He attended various summer courses, working in the summer school at Clark University in 1898, and was a student in the Harvard graduating school for a short time in the fall of 1899.

His career as a teacher dates from the time he was seventeen years of age. He taught four terms in country ungraded schools and for one year was principal of a grammar school and for two years principal of the Greeley Institute at Cumberland, Me. Before graduating from college he was for four years principal of Brigham Academy, Bakersfield, Vt., and three years principal of the Williams Academy and Stockbridge high school.

His experience as a supervisor began at Stockbridge, where he was for two and one half years superintendent. Since then he has been superintendent at Needham for three and one-half years, and seven years at Natick. He came to Quincy in September, 1900, and has been here ever since. In June, 1901, he was made superintendent of the Woodward Institute for Girls.

During Mr. Parlin's career as an educator he has been principally interested in child study, manual training, medical inspection of the public schools and the development of playgrounds. He has presented papers before various conventions of school superintendents and teachers' associations, and has lectured in a large number of cities and towns in New England. He is an ex-president of the Middlesex County and the Norfolk County Teachers' associations.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER 1.—Daniel Voorhees Pike, a rising young Kokomo (Ind.) lawyer, hears that his ward, Ethel Granger-Simpson, is to be married abroad to the son of an English earl. Her father was his nearest friend, and he has long loved the girl. He goes abroad to arrange with her the business matters connected with her marriage. II—Ethel Granger-Simpson and her brother, Horace, have become anglomaniacs and are spending much of their late father's fortune in travel and entertaining. They become intimate with Lady Creech, the Earl of Hawcastle, his son, Almeric St. Aubyn, and Countess de Champigny, an adventuress and associate of the earl's. They are at a hotel at Sorrento, Italy. Ethel promises to marry the son because she craves a title. III—The Russian Grand Duke Vasill is shortly to arrive at the same hotel incognito as Herr von Grollerbagen. IV—The Earl of Hawcastle is in need of money and wants his son to get a huge settlement of money at his marriage to Ethel. An escaped Russian bandit is located at Sorrento. V—For some reason the comtesse fears the alleged bandit is one Ivanoff. Almeric tells his father Ethel has accepted him. VI—Horace agrees to persuade his sister Ethel to settle $750,000 on Almeric. VII—Ethel tells Horace of her delight at the prospect of her coming marriage into the ancient family of the St. Aubyns. VIII—Von Grollerhagen arrives with Daniel Voorhees Pike on foot, their auto having broken down. IX—Harold, Ethel and the Hawcastle party are disgusted with what they term the "American manners" of Pike. She tells Pike of her identity, as he had failed to recognize her in her European clothes and European deportment. X—Pike refuses to consent as her guardian to her settling $750,000 on Almeric, and Ethel is enraged at him. XI—The Russian refugee meets Pike, and the latter shows him a place to hide from the Italian police. Von Grollerhagen aids Pike to do this.

rapidly gave place to a more interesting pastime, for, summoning all his callow courage, he set himself vigorously to hint at a possible union between himself and the noble countess.

It was evident from the first word that the lady was prepared for him and that, while she intended to offer him every bit of encouragement in her power, she would not be satisfied with anything short of a definite proposal and more likely before witnesses if possible.

He made his initial move with some gayety. She returned his banter with a mock seriousness and in answer to his challenge on her somber mood replied:

"But I cannot believe you are always serious, my friend."

"Try me," he demanded eagerly. "Set me some task to prove how serious I am." She smiled at him.

"Gladly," she said. "Complete this odious settlement. Overcome the resistance of this bad man who so troubles your sweet sister."

Horace took her hand and murmured:

"You promise me that when it is settled I may speak to you"—

"Yes. You may speak to me—when you please." And at the words he kissed her hand rapturously.

In the meantime the suddenly rejuvenated Lady Creech had found her brother-in-law and had imparted to him words of the utmost importance. She had temporarily forgotten her deafness, or else the agitation that possessed her had removed it, for she was bordering upon "a state of mind."

She walked him back to the hotel when she found him and talked continuously all the way, and as she talked his excitement grew to match her own. As they approached the garden Lady Creech said to him:

"I couldn't hear distinctly, for they mumbled their words, but upon my soul, Hawcastle, even if I couldn't hear well, I saw enough."

CHAPTER XIII.

THE LETTER.

As Lady Creech and Hawcastle entered the garden, where Horace was still holding the hand of the fair countess, they encountered Almeric, who was strolling in aimlessly from the direction of the village. Hawcastle beckoned to him.

"Anything unusual down there?" he asked, pointing to the village.

"Rawther! Carabinieri still hunting that bandit chap," said his hopeful son languidly.

"Don't mumble your words!" snapped the old lady, and Horace and madame turned sharply and confusedly. Almeric made a gesture of impatience and, putting his head close to his respected aunt's ear, shouted:

"Hunting a bally bandit!" at which the old woman screamed sharply.

Hawcastle took him by the shoulder.

"What do they say about him?" he demanded.

"That he is still in the neighborhood," replied his heir, with a languid sigh.

"What did I tell you?" asked Lady Creech triumphantly. And the ear made a gesture of impatience.

"Almeric, find your betrothed and bring her here," he said. And the young man trotted off slowly. Horace came slowly forward.

"What's the row, sir?" he asked, and the earl smiled.

"My dear young man," he said, "I congratulate you that you and your sister need no longer submit to an odious dictation."

He was about to say more, but at that moment Daniel came down the steps and walked across the grass to the motor. As he passed the group he smiled genially and observed:

"Looks to me as if it was going to clear up cold."

"Good afternoon, Mr. Pike," answered the earl and motioned the others to leave.

Pike merely nodded his head, and Hawcastle came up to him.

"It is a pity that there should have been any misunderstanding in the matter of your ward's betrothal," he said, and Pike smiled grimly.

"Oh, I wouldn't call it a misunderstanding," he said, and the earl went on.

"It would ill become a father to press upon the subject of his son's merits"—he began, but Pike cut him short.

"I won't talk with you about him," he said. "I don't want to hurt your feelings."

Hawcastle glared at him and was about to reply when Mariano entered with a letter on a tray, which he handed to the lawyer, who regarded it curiously. There was a growing menace in the earl's attitude, and as his anger grew his suavity grew with it.

"There is another matter to which I want to call your attention," he went on, and Pike answered him at once.

"I'll talk about anything else with you," he replied and looked up to see Ethel coming down the steps. She came forward to the earl and said:

"You wished me to come here?"

"I wish to tell you that I see light breaking through the clouds. Have another talk with our friend here, and, believe me, all will be well."

With a bow he left the garden, and Ethel stood staring after him. Pike looked up quickly from the letter he was reading and crossed over to her.

"I'm glad you've come," he said. "I've got something here I want to read to you. When I got your letter at home I wrote to Jim Cooley, our vice consul in London, to look up those Hawcastle folks and write me here how they stand."

"You did that!" she cried in anger. "You had the audacity to pry into the affairs of the Earl of Hawcastle!"

"Why, I'd 'a' done that if it'd been the governor of Indiana himself," he replied, with surprise. "Besides, Jim Cooley's 'home folks.' His office used to be right next door to mine in Kokomo. I haven't opened the letter yet, but I haven't much doubt but Jim 'll have some statements in it that'll show you I'm right about these people."

"How do you know that?" she demanded heatedly.

"Because I've had experience enough of life"—

"In Kokomo?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes, ma'am," he answered. "There's just as many kinds of people in Kokomo as there is in Pekin, and I didn't serve a term in the legislature without learning to pick underhand men at sight. Now, that earl, let alone his having a bad eye—his ways are too much on the stripe of T. Cuthbert Bentley's to suit me. T. Cuthbert was a Chicago gentleman, with a fur lined overcoat, that opened up a bank in our town, and when he caught the Canadian express three months later all he left in Kokomo was the sign on the front door. That was painted on. But, there, here's the letter. Read it for yourself."

He handed it to her and watched her while she broke the seal and then began to read:

Dear Dan—The earldom of Hawcastle is one of the oldest in the kingdom, and the St. Aubyns have distinguished themselves in the forefront of English battles from Agincourt and Crecy to Sebastopol. The present holder of the title came into it by accident. He was a younger son's younger son and had spent some years in Russia in business under another name. Nothing here in his English record is seriously against him, though everything he has is mortgaged to the handle.

She finished with a look of triumph.

"What a terrible indictment!" she said scornfully. "So that was what you counted on to convince me of my mistake? I shall tell Lord Hawcastle that you will be willing to take up the matter of the settlement the moment his solicitor arrives."

Pike shook his head sadly.

"No, I wouldn't do that, because I won't take up any settlements with him or any one else."

"Have you after this any objection to my alliance with Mr. St. Aubyn?" she inquired, her anger at white heat.

"It isn't an alliance with Mr. St. Aubyn you're after," he replied calmly. "You're after something there ain't anything to. If I'd let you buy what you want you'd find it as empty as the judgment day the morning after. You think because I'm a jay country lawyer I don't understand. Why, we've got the same thing at home. There was little Annie Hoffmeyer. Her pa was a carpenter and doing well, but Annie could not get into the Kokomo Ladies' Literary society, and her name didn't show up in the society column four or five times every Saturday morning, so she gets her pa to give her the money to marry Artie Seymour, the minister's son, and a regular minister's son he was! Almost broke Annie's heart and her pa's, too, but he let her have her way and went in debt and bought them a house on Main street. That was two years ago."

Pike paused momentarily.

"Annie's working at the deepo candy stand now," he resumed, "and Artie's working at the hotel bar—in front—drinking up what's left of old man Hoffmeyer's—settlement!"

She flung away from him in a temper and then wheeled on him in a flash.

"And you say you understand—you, who couple the name of a tippling yokel with that of a St. Aubyn, whose ancestors have fought on every field of battle from Crecy and Agincourt to the Crimea!"

"But you won't see much of his ancestors!" complained Pike.

"He bears their name," she answered.

"That's it, and it's the name you want. Nobody could look at you and not know it wasn't him! It's the name! And I'd let you buy it if it would make you happy—if you didn't have to take the people with it. Don't you see they're counting on it? The earl—he's counting on living on you." The Indianian became excited. "Why, a Terre Haute pickpocket could see that! And this old Lady Creech—she's counting on it, and this Frenchwoman that's with them—isn't she trying to land your brother? The whole kit and boodle of them are on the track of John Simpson's money!"

"What a terrible indictment!" she said.

"I gave Almeric my promise. It was forever, and I shall keep it," she answered slowly, as if she had been impressed with his earnestness. He looked at her quietly.

"I'm not going to let you," he replied.

"Then I'll throw your interference to the winds. I shall marry without your consent."

"Do you think they'd let you?" Pike asked quickly. For a moment she stood still, and then came the sound of the guitars from over the wall. Pike went on after a time.

"Sounds kind of foreign and lonesome," he said. "I'd rather hear something that sounded more like home—'Sweet Genevieve,' for instance. You know it, don't you?"

"I used to," she answered, hanging her head. "It's old fashioned and common, isn't it?"

"That's why I like it, I guess," he answered. "I couldn't get you to sing it for me before I go home, could I?"

She looked at him thoughtfully for a moment.

"I'm afraid not," she answered and went quickly into the hotel, leaving him looking after her curiously.

The Curved Ball.

It was not until 1878 that the question of pitching a curved ball was settled once for all. George Wright's Boston nine was playing the final series of that year in Cincinnati. The curve ball controversy raged in the city of the Red Stockings. Wright was asked to prove that a ball could be curved. He agreed to test the matter after the final game.

The Cincinnati team put up two ten foot fences about twenty yards apart, with a post between them, all on a line. Tommy Bond, a right handed pitcher, stood at the left of one fence. After two trials he threw a ball which went to the right of the post and finished to the left of the second fence. He repeated this six or seven times.

"The wind did it," said the doubters.

"Then we'll try it the other way around," said Wright. He stationed Mitchell of Cincinnati, a left handed pitcher, to the right of the first fence. Mitchell threw a curve ball to the left of the post, which finished to the right of the second fence. News of this, telegraphed to every part of the country, settled the question forever.—Collier's Weekly.

His Shipwife.

The suburbanite was entertaining a friend who followed the sea. Showing him his room after his arrival, the host noticed that there was but one pillow on the bed.

"By the way, captain," he asked, "do you use more than one pillow?"

"Well, I use one for my head," replied the captain, "and one for a shipwife."

"Shipwife! What in the world is that?"

"It's evident that you're a landsman. Every sailorman knows what a shipwife is. It's an extra pillow placed under the legs or arms to ease the position. It isn't so necessary on land, where you have a wide, comfortable bed, but it's almost a necessity at sea, where you are cramped up in a narrow berth, with no room to stretch. Any one who has been at sea for a long period knows what a shipwife is. We get so used to using one that we're not fully at home on land unless we have one. Better let me have another pillow for a shipwife, John."—New York Press.

Henry Clay's Fame.

Erskine M. Phelps of Chicago was introduced at Nice to Lord Blank of England. As he was smoking, he said to Lord Blank, "Will you have a cigar?"

"Thank you, but I smoke only one brand, the Henry Clay."

"All right; I'll order some," said Mr. Phelps.

The box was brought. It was embellished with the familiar picture of "Harry of the West." As he took his cigar Lord Blank said, "When old Clay was alive he made a good cigar, but his sons don't keep up his reputation."

"Henry Clay! Why, he didn't make cigars. He was a statesman and ranked as high with us as Gladstone and John Bright do in your country."

"I beg your pardon," said the noble lord. "I've smoked these cigars all my life, and I tell you old Clay made a —— sight better cigar than his boys do!"—Argonaut.

How Victor Hugo Proposed.

Adele, bolder and more curious than Victor (for she was a girl), wanted to find out what was the meaning of his silent admiration. She said: "I am sure you have secrets. Have you not one secret greater than all?" Victor acknowledged that he had secrets and that one of them was greater than all the rest. "Just like me!" cried Adele. "Well, come, now; tell me your greatest secret, and I will tell you mine." "My great secret," Victor replied, "is that I love you." "And my great secret is that I love you," said Adele, like an echo.—"Love Letters of Victor Hugo."

Women In Trousers.

In the pretty Alpine village of Champery, in the canton of Valois, Switzerland, the peasant women wear trousers and waistcoats in place of skirts and boleros, and the only distinguishing badge of their sex is a scarf knotted around their hair, the bright red ends of which float coquettishly over their shoulders. The women of Champery work in the open air, performing the same kinds of labor as the men, and long ago their ancestors found that they could work more easily in trousers than in skirts.

The Disturbance Covers Area of More Than a Thousand Square Miles—Capital of Republic Is Shaken and Number of Houses Collapse—Actual Number of Persons Killed Is Not Yet Known—Peons Superstitious

Mexico City, July 31.—Chilpancingo was destroyed, Acapulco partly razed, and possibly many lives lost in an earthquake which shook Central Mexico from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from Querato on the north to Oaxaca on the south, an area of more than 1000 square miles.

The shock was a serial affair and was the most severe felt in the region for the last quarter of a century. In Mexico City it was quite pronounced, but worked but little destruction in the capital city.

Reports telling of the loss of life are meagre, but the official figures thus far given show at least thirteen killed nd more than a score mortally injured.

This movement was of a twisting character and lasted with marked severity for ninety minutes. The tall buildings of the capital swayed, and in some instances cracked the pavement open in places and in the poorer quarters a number of houses collapsed.

Word comes from G. Poyros, an American commercial traveler at Chilpancingo, that that city was destroyed and that the inhabitants are living in the open, suffering from the elements. The loss of life there is problematical. The shocks continue at Chilpancingo, with subterranean rumblings and electrical storms.

Acapulco was partly razed, but the extent of the damage is not definitely known, as communcation with that part of the republic is not well established.

The first shock of the series was severe, causing the bells of the many cathedrals of Mexico City to toll, breaking crockery and in some instances levelling walls.

The inhabitants of the capital had hardly recovered from the fright occasioned by the quake when a second and more severe shock caused an outpouring of nearly all of the residents to the streets and open plazas.

The large American colony is safe. Some were hit by falling plaster, but no serious injuries were reported.

The peons are terribly frightened. For days these humble folk have been predicting a disaster because the snow on the peak of the volcano Popocatapetl, visible from this city, has been melting. An old Azetic legend declares that when the snows on this volcano disappear, so too will the city at its base.

That Mexico City escaped with comparatively light damage is said to be due to the fact that the city rests on an old lake bed, the made ground acting as a spongy, jelly-like mass, which neutralized the severity of the shocks.

DECLINES TO INTERFERE

Court's Ruling In Sutton Inquiry Upheld by Navy Department

Washington, July 31.—The navy department declines to interfere with the recent ruling of the Sutton court of inquiry whereby Mrs. Sutton was declared to be regarded as "a complainant or accuser" in connection with the re-investigation of the tragic death of her son, Lieutenant James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., and the ruling also whereby the persons present at the time of Sutton's death were made "defendants in the case."

In a letter addressed to counsel for Mrs. Sutton, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop stated that the department, in view of the facts, must decline to accede to his request to vacate the ruling of the court.

MINERS' DEMANDS GRANTED

Averts What Threatened to Be National Strike In Great Britain

London, July 31.—As the result of the mediation of the board of trade the threatened coal strike in the Scotch collieries has been averted. Most of the demands of the miners have been granted, including a minimum wage of $1.50 a day.

Had the question not been settled a national strike in England and Wales, involving several hundred thousand men, would probably have resulted.

Two Fatal Accidents

Providence, July 31.—Two deaths resulting from accidents occurred here. Mary Silva, 6 years old, frightened by a cow, ran into an automobile and was killed. David Canfield, a street railway conductor, died of injuries received by falling off a car.

Many Heat Prostrations

Boston, July 31.—The hot wave was more oppressive than ever Friday. In Boston and vicinity there were twenty prostrations. Many establishments throughout New England were shut down because of the heat.

Relation of High Prices to the Gold Supply

CHARTER PLANS OF INTEREST

Boston Democracy May Take O'Neil, Keliher or Fitzgerald—All Are In the Field at Present

The decided increase in the prices of various commodities in the United States has caused no little comment among consumers for several years. Among statisticians and students of political economy the matter has been given careful study in an effort to locate the cause. With many people there has been a strong suspicion that it was due in part at least to the control of the market by trusts, to the large increase in the wages paid to labor, and to the diminution in the area of free lands open to settlement, and thereby a curtailment of production, and to various other causes.

Among scientific investigators, however, there has all along been a conviction that this increase in prices has been very largely due to the enormous growth in the supply of gold and money. During the last ten or fifteen years there have been new new gold fields discovered, not only in Alaska and the British Northwest, but in many other sections of the world.

Even within the last five years the world's stock of gold has increased 50 percent, and within the last twenty-five years it has more than doubled. The process of piling up gold from the bowels of the earth has evidently disturbed all standards of value. Anyone who can remember no longer than fifteen years ago will be able by taking a backward glance to recall the moderate prices which then prevailed in comparison with the prices of 1909.

An Era of Low Prices

Between 1893 and 1897 was an era of low prices. This was no doubt due in part to the industrial, business and financial depression which prevailed during that period. Prices had begun to increase as far back as 1892, but there was a recession covering the period during the life of the Wilson tariff bill, enacted during the administration of Grover Cleveland and a Democratic senate and house. Along many lines prices then were not more than one-half or two-thirds what they are today. With the repeal of the Wilson bill and the return of normal conditions the prices of commodities began again to take an upward trend and have continued to the present time in a ratio more or less commensurate with the increase in the world's stock of gold.

In some quarters this increase in the prices of commodities has been imputed to the Dingley tariff. It should, however, be borne in mind that this price increase is by no means confined to the United States, but extends to every civilized country in the world. Therefore the tariff cannot properly be charged with it. The same phenomenon was observed after the enormous discoveries of gold in California and Australia in 1849 and has followed every abnormal and world-wide production of gold for many years if not during all time.

With the superficial observer, however, it is much easier to explain an increase of prices by charging it to the workings of the tariff measure or the manipulation of trusts.

The Increase In Gold

Only ten years ago the amount of gold money reported in the United States was $925,000,000, while at the present time $1,613,000,000 is in circulation or in bullion form here. This is an increase of about 75 percent, and the increase of the world's supply of gold is practically the same. The circulating medium, therefore, has increased much faster than our material wealth and this condition is manifested in the present high prices of commodities of all sorts.

Many scientific investigators in the past have advocated a different money standard to the one now in use. It has long been recognized that great fluctuations have occurred in the volume of money from decade to decade and this has led to the proposition that a medium of exchange be established based upon a certain number of the more stable commodities, such as steel, wheat, corn, etc; that is to say, that a dollar shall have the power to purchase at all times a certain quantity of the staple products of the world. Such a standard of values could not then be manipulated or be liable to the fluctuations which which now so frequently occur under a metallic standard.

Boston Municipal Campaign

Interest in the municipal campaign in Boston is being aroused unusually early owing to the new charter and the question of which plan shall be adopted by the citizens. Today plan No. 1, so-called, providing for the convention method of nominating candidates, is most in favor. Plan No. 2 is the one favored by the reformers, as opposed to the politicians. This would mean the nomination of candidates by direct popular vote, and as some think turn the party machinery over to an irresponsible and unthinking mob.

The reformers hope to carry their plan through, and they have the support of some of the newspapers, but the chances are very much against such a plan. The party machines are all in favor of the convention plan, naturally because the caucus and convention constitute the tools of a party machine. And yet it is perhaps not a wholly selfish attitude. The direct nomination plan has yet to be fully tested and justified by time. In one western state it has resulted in the election by a Republican legislature of a Democratic senator. If that is one of its first fruits what may the system not produce later on? It is a good plan to go slow in fundamentally changing methods of government. Such changes if they come at all should come very gradually, and as a result of proved worth.

O'Neil and Keliher Canidates

The friends of Ex-Congressman Joseph H. O'Neil say that he is in the mayoralty fight if the party wishes him to run. It also seems that Congressman John A. Keliher is willing to lead the Democracy to victory in case he shall be invited to do so. Both these men would run well. In fact they would either of them represent fairly well the ideals of the Boston Democracy—not the ideals of the Fitzgerald Democracy, however. They are good Democrats, and would either of them take the party following. O'Neil was displaced from congress by John F. Fitzgerald, and would doubtless be willing to pay old scores by defeating Fitzy for mayor of Boston. Keliher has never been beaten as a nominee. He is a shrewd politician, has a genial and taking makeup, as the boys would say is a good mixer, and makes friends easily. O'Neil is rather more grim and sedate, with a dignity since he went into the banking business which was foreign to him as a congressman.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Quincy People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

John R. Duffy, living at 14 Copeland St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I am so favorably impressed with Doan's Kidney Pills that it gives me pleasure to recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney complaint. I am fully convinced that this remedy will do all that it is claimed for. If anyone would like to obtain further details regarding my case, I will be glad to answer any question. Doan's Kidney Pills can be porcured at the Cox Drug Store."

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Orpheum Theatre.

By special arrangement with Israel Zangwill Mr. Lindsay Morison will present at the Orpheum theatre next week Eleanor Robson's greatest success "Merely Mary Ann." while Miss Robson's wonderful work as a London slavey had a great deal to do with the success of this play yet the play itself has such inherent merit that it might also be said to have contributed largely to Miss Robson's success. At any rate it is conceded to be the best thing that Mr. Zangwill has ever written. It tells a story of a London slavey who falls in love with a handsome musician who is stopping at the lodging house where she works. The course of love runs by no means smoothly, but all ends happily when it turns out that the slavey is an heiress. Mr. Morison is determined to give his patrons the very best that money and an excellent company can accomplish. The scenic effects will be correct in every detail and fully equal to those of the original production.

Keith's Theatre.

The public is certainly getting its money's worth at Keith's theatre these days, for not only is the vaudeville the strongest that could possibly be secured, but in addition, the Fadettes, augmented to forty, are giving a popular concert preliminary to the regular show. Next week there is an attraction that is bound to cause a lot of comment. It is called "A Night in a Monkey Music Hall." It was brought to this country especially for the Keith circuit, and for the last few months has been the biggest kind of a sensation on the Hammerstein Roof Garden in New York. One of the largest monkey companies ever brought together, and all of them trained to give an entire performance, without any humans on the stage, they have a stage on a stage, something after the manner of "A Night in an English Music Hall," with a monkey orchestra, and a leader who is as great in personality as Souza and makes all kinds of fun. There are monkey card boys who appear between the acts and a number of star features in the vaudeville section including a monkey heavy weight lifter, a trapeze performer, a juggler, a clown and a number of others, all of which are amusing.

Vale Julius; Ave Augustus!

Yesterday was a "hot dog" day.

The Quincy bay shore boulevard, on these moonlit evenings and night tides, is a thing of beauty and a joy for the summer, at least.

If one has any doubt about the trolley cars being the poor man's automobile let him stand in City square any of these hot nights and see the thousands of people who are getting enjoyment out of the evening trips of the cars. City square is the big clearing house for passengers, and it is safe to say there are more people in the square every night, changing cars, as there used to be at a circus 10 or 15 years ago.

It wouldn't be a bad idea if the brick sidewalk on Hancock street, from Granite street to Hancock court was relaid. In front of many of the stores the bricks have settled so that the sidewalk is all hills and hummocks and holes between. It is said that this settling of the bricks is caused, in a great measure, by storekeepers using a hose to clean off the sidewalk. In doing this the sand is forced out from under the bricks in places and there is a consequent settling. At any rate, there are places in this permanent sidewalk where it is easy for a passerby to turn an ankle. It is said the new permanent sidewalks to be constructed this year will be of tar or concrete. This will do away with the complaint found with the brick sidewalks.

A LOSS TO QUINCY.

The appointment of Frank E. Parlin of this city to the superintendency of the schools of Cambridge will be learned with mingled feelings of happiness and regret. It is always a pleasure to see men receive a promotion when that promotion comes on account of his own ability and for this reason the people of Quincy are pleased to be able to felicitate Mr. Parlin on his appointment to the head of the schools of so prominent an educational centre as Cambridge. But, while felicitating him it is only natural that the people of Quincy should be sorry to see Mr. Parlin go. He has been in Quincy for nine years, and followed in the footsteps of a man whose place it was hard to fill. Mr. Herbert W. Lull, the predecessor of Mr. Parlin, was both a scholar and a gentleman, and had a fine record here for educational and executive ability. That his worth in these lines was recognized beyond the limits of Quincy was evidenced by his appointment to the superintendency of the schools of Newport, R. I.

After him came Mr. Parlin, and he took up the work where Mr. Lull laid it down and since that time has carried it on to an unusual degree of success. As an organizer Mr. Parlin has had few equals in Quincy. As a student of educational methods he has always been abreast of the times and has put into operation many ideas of his own which served to give him and the schools of Quincy an enviable position in the list of Massachusetts cities noted for their educational excellence. In the social life of the city Mr. Parlin has been as prominent as his duties would permit and his presence in any gathering was always welcomed. He has advanced some forward suggestions concerning the age at which children should be sent to school, the length of sessions for little ones and other ideas which brought him into prominence outside the school life of this city. In the going away of Mr. Parlin, Quincy loses and Camhridge gains a faithful, earnest, able and progressive superintendent of schools and the Ledger extends to him its best wishes for future and higher successes.

ROWDYISM ON TRAINS.

After all is said and done about the public disturbances on trains, there will be no change for the better until the courts deal more severely with the offenders than has been done in the past. If rowdies can board the trains and insult decent men and women by their actions and dirty language, if these fellows can smash windows and insult passengers who are minding their own business and who, oftentimes, refrain from retaliating because of being accompanied by ladies, if these fellows can run the railroad trains to suit themselves and then get off with a $10 fine and two to six months' time to pay up, they will not consider the serious side of the case at all.

The courts can and ought to put a quick stop to these scenes. It is only fair to the conductors and crews of the trains, the traveling public and the police who are willing to do their share of protecting the public that severe measures should be taken. The ordinary man doesn't care to get mixed up in a fight by administering the punishment that is due because that means a prolongation of the scuffle and, possibly, the arrest of the man who is trying to quell the rowdyism. When the police are called to stop a fight in the trains they generally do not stop to ask who started the row; they get all that are mixed up in it and a man who might be trying to protect women passengers from an outburst of indecent language or rowdy actions might be an innocent victim. A few jail sentences by the courts with no extensions of time to secure a money payment would settle the train nuisances in quick order.

Paragon Park.

The centre of summer gaiety seems to be Paragon Park and the Palm Garden . .t has become a good deal of a fad now, if a little trip for the evening is to be taken, to run down to the Palm Garden for dinner while enjoying the electrical illumination, band concert, the singing of Johnny Maguire and the Paragon Quartette, with an hour or two to spare for witnessing the acts in the two ring free open air circus and taking in some of the feature attractions such as "The Spray of Life," Human Roulette Wheel, Monkeyland and the Jungle, Dance Pavilion, Vaudeville Show, Roller Coaster, Beauty Show, Tub of Fun and Incubators, Circle Swing, Diamond Lew's Wild West moving pictures, etc. It is no unusual sight to find a hundred or more special automobile parties for the evening, which usually begins, and ends, just before the departure for home, in the Palm Garden. This rapidly increasing automobile trade has prompted Manager Dodge to convert one of his buildings into an auto entrance, gate and enclosure, providing free parking privilege for all automobiling patrons of the park. Manager Dodge has everything so arranged and running in such shape that a patron may spend as little or as much as he wishes, but he has looked out for it that the man who may wish to spend no more than his admission fee has his hands full taking in all the free attractions that are provided. There will be another free fireworks' display next Saturday night.

THE MESSAGE TO GARCIA SPIRIT.

Editor Daily Ledger:

There are two ways in which one may discharge his duties to the public. He may perform them perfunctorily or with vigorous fidelity; and in either manner he can "get by." But between the man who does no more than he is paid for and the one whose first thought is to give satisfaction, there is immeasurable distance and it is plentifully dotted with the bleached bones of the men who failed in life,—figuratively speaking. These thoughts came to me Thursday morning under circumstances which, with your indulgence, I will relate, not for the purpose of giving a free advertisement to one of your business men, but merely to give point to the foregoing observations.

Wednesday night I informed a young man employed in the Quincy depot that I wanted to take the 6.43 train for Boston in the morning and he courteously offered to give my order to one of the carriage men to move my baggage. He then proceeded to forget about it and so well did he succeed that the order was not given; and a few minutes before train time I found I was in a fair way to miss connections. I rushed to the telephone, called up Mr. Penniman and explained my predicament. He said he did not believe he could get my trunk to the depot in time for me to catch the train, but would "try." There is meaning in that word "try." It suggests spirit and enthusiasm. I urged him to "try," for much depended upon his effort.

A few minutes later a team dashed down my street with two men on the driver's seat. My baggage was thrown into the wagon and I jumped in between the drivers on the seat.

On the double-quick the horse was started towards the depot, nearly half a mile away. A glance at my watch showed that the distance could not be trotted in the time at our disposal, and then I saw another exhibition of commendable spirit. The driver urged the horse to a gallop and the depot was reached as the 6.43 train was rolling in.

At first blush, Mr. Editor, it might seem that this incident was too commanplace to merit publication in a daily newspaper, but you will, on consideration, I think, decide that it points a moral so emphatically as to deserve all the publicity it can receive. The man who will send a team out to run against odds and the driver who will gallop his horse for the sake of helping a patron out of a difficulty, possess the spirit of disposition that challenge admiration wherever seen, —whether manifested in moving a trunk or carrying a message to Garcia.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Farrell, Oscar Fidden and Daniel McKennon were fined $5 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it falls to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

COMPLIMENTARY DANCE.

Members of Quincy Herd of Elks Entertained by the Hough's Neck Herd.

The Hough's Neck herd of Elks gave an invitation party to the Quincy Elks last night at the Casino, Hough's Neck. Although the weather was extremely hot there was quite a number present. The bowling alleys, pool tables and dance hall were all patronized well during the evening, Cusick's orchestra furnishing the music for the dancing. At 11 o'clock the mystic hour of the B. P. O. E., all was silent, while the toast to the absent brothers was recited.

A feature of the evening was a bowling match, between Mayor Shea and Councilman Whiton. The mayor won two out of three strings, beating the Councilman by eight pins on the three string total. The councilman won the first string by 11 pins, and then the mayor took two straight. There were also several interesting pool matches.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of George E. Urann, Joseph F. Brickley, Arthur H. Dunham, John R. S. Ross, Frank A. Leavitt, Bertram A. Brown, Thomas J. Dwyer, Archie F. Baird, Edward Smeedy, Alfred N. Larecque and Warren D. Carr.

ELECTED SUPERINTENDENT.

Former Quincy Pastor Elected As a School Superintendent.

Rev. William A. Brady, up to a few months ago, the pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, has been elected superintendent of schools for the combined towns of South Kingston and Narragansett, R. I.

But one other name was considered for the positions. He is a graduate of the Maine Normal school and Brown University and has had ten years' experience in teaching, having been at the head of the Technical high school in Kingston. The election ends a long controversy over the position.

A POPULAR RESORT.

The City Bath House a Much Sought For Resort During the Past Week.

The past week has been one of the busiest weeks in the history of the public bath house at Quincy Point, the popular resort being crowded every night. Capt. Jack Starr and his clever assistant, Henry McDonnell, have been kept on the jump all the time, and for the past two or three days they have had to be on the job for both the morning and evening tides. The continued hot weather of the past few days, has made the bath house, the mecca for hundreds of people every night and they have certainly enjoyed it. The water has been great, every night, and the house has been taxed to its utmost capacity. There are also hundreds there, who do not go in the water at all, but simply come down to watch the others and to get the cool refreshing breezes of the water. The lights, too, are proving to be a great drawing card for those who cannot swim. In past years, with very few exceptions, the only ones to go in the water at night were those who could swim. It is not so now, since the lights were installed, as the rays cast from these powerful glimmers light up the beach and the water so that it seems that it is almost day. The installing of the lights was certainly a popular move and one that has been much appreciated by all.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title-Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class o classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

Rats Responsible for Saving Damsels' Lives—Men of Large Understanding Secure Free Admittance to the Great Shoe and Leather Fair—A Funny Menagerie at the Frenzied Financier's Summer Residence—Ten Thousand Canoeists on the Charles Have to Listen to "Sing Me to Sleep."

The irrepressible Thomas W. Lawson has broken out in a new direction, and Dreamwold, his great show place on the South Shore, has the nucleus of an nteresting zoo for the entertainment of visitors. A Sabang bear, or honey bear, a Singapore monkey and her babe and a Chinese chow dog, are the first members of this institution. The bear is said to be so small that on its trip across the ocean it was in the habit of climbing up the queue of the Chinese steward and perching on his head or shoulders.

Hubbites are becoming daily more enthusiastic over the preparations for the Gloucester pageant which are coming on apace. Eight hundred school children are being drilled in the songs which are a part of the great entertainment. With the assurance that President Taft will be present, and with such representative people as Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, William Dean Howells, Professor Butler of Harvard, Maude Adams, Viola Allen, Margaret Anglin, Homer St. Gaudens and Richard Watson Gilder among the judges, popular interest is increasing daily and Gloucester is threatened with an inundation of humanity more overwhelming than the tidal wave at Galveston.

Boston as the centre of the arts and crafts enthusiasm is taking particular interest in the various sales and exhibitions which are being held at the popular summer resorts. The South Shore town of Hingham is just now conducting its annual exhibition. Many wealthy ladies from outside of New England depend upon these exhibitions for the souvenirs and remembrances which they take home in the autumn to their friends. The delicate embroideries, leather work, stencil, and brass work wrought by members of the societies of arts and crafts furnish delightful reminders of the summer's pleasures, and of late years many Christmas gifts have been carried home in the autumn trunk.

A man is fortunate in proportion to the size of his feet. One day this week was devoted by the managers of the World's Shoe and Leather Fair to the entertainment of "The Big-Footed Men." On this occasion all gentlemen wearing shoes of size nine or over were admitted free to the fair. Needless to say there was a notably large attendance. One of the most interesting exhibits at this exposition, by the way, is that of the shoes of all nations, and of every class. Strange and weird shapes and designs of which one never dreamed are among them, from tiny wooden shoes to great leather ones ornamented with vari-colored designs which make one fairly dizzy. Curious shapes twisted out of all resemblance to the human foot mark some of them, while others must have been worn in the dark ages by some giant. Notable throughout is a prevailing characteristic of gaudily ornamented footwear, quite at variance with our modern American product.

The "rat" deserves to be treated with more respect. This reference is not to the four-legged pest which spreads destruction and disease wherever it goes, but to the harmless roll of hair which occasionally deceives the public into thinking that its wearer has a real crowning glory. Three times within as many days there have come to notice reports of lives saved or injuries averted by the much maligned rat. Once it was in an automobile catastrophe in which a lady passenger was thrown through the glass shield, striking the ground on her head, and escaped serious results from the fact that she wore one of the valuable accessories. Again a pompadoured damsel sitting in a photographer's studio received the bulk of a broken plate glass window on the top of her head. Her hands, which were unprotected, were badly cut, but her scalp was uninjured, though her rat was cut and badly damaged. Finally a pretty young miss, on seeing a friend pass the car in which she was riding, sprang from her seat and leaped from the running board in an effort to stay him. Being a woman, she faced backward, and landed on one shoulder and a wealth of golden hair. Expecting to pick her up with a fractured skull several passengers jumped to her assistance, but she was on her feet smiling and unhurt before they could reach her. "Her rat saved her that time," remarked a woman passenger.

"I have seen boating on the Thames in England which I thought must be the most remarkable sight in the world, but I never saw anything like this. In fact, I never supposed there were so many canoes in the United States as there are within a mile now. Why, you could walk from bank to bank without touching water, they are so thick!" This exclamation, which was overheard on the Charles River during one of the popular band concerts, expresses a common ignorance of the spectacle which is to be witnessed every pleasant Saturday and Sunday, and on a smaller scale during the week, throughout the warm season. Few people excepting those who regularly frequent the region of the "winding Charles" have any idea of the popularity of the stream as a resort for canoeists and, of late, of motor boat enthusiasts. A trip up river unfolds a varied panorama of amusement parks, beautiful estates, club houses, and the wilderness—still as unspoiled as when the Indians dipped their paddles in the silent waters. One may join a group of canoes idly drifting down stream while from the centre of the "bunch" the clear tones of two cornets mingle in the haunting strains of "The Rosary" or "Sing Me to Sleep," or one may forsake the throng and seek a secluded nook, of which there are many, and dream or read the hours away; or again one may paddle along and take notes on the habits of canoeists in general. Lined along the shady banks are many dainty craft, in one a charmingly industrious embroiderer, listening to a story read by a browned and athletic escort; in another a trio of girls out for a "good, quiet time;" perhaps a family party occupies a third, pulled up nearby a good natured fellow who has brought out his phonograph for the pleasure of those who care to listen to selections ranging from the gems of grand opera to "I Love my Wife, but Oh, You Kid!"; some there are who bring along hammocks and on finding an inviting spot spend the afternoon on the edge of the stream. Occasionally one is passed by a lone girl, swinging the paddle as if she enjoyed every stroke—perchance one finds the same girl later on sewing or reading, or maybe writing, in quiet seclusion beneath some overhanging bough. There are the conditions to meet every taste, whether athletic, musical, amusement-seeking or rest-pursuing; and yet there are thousands of people in New England who, like the stranger referred to, have no conception of the interest of the spectacle by day or its beauty and enchantment by night.

ETHEL ANGIER.

AN INLAND WATERWAY.

The city has just completed one of the biggest contracts undertaken in recent years; that of supplying city water to Squantum. Owing to the determination of the city of Boston not to supply any more water to the inhabitants of Squantum from the big Boston mains, which run to the Boston sewer pumping station on Moon island, it became necessary for Quincy to furnish the supply. At first an attempt was made to buy the pipes owned by the city of Boston, but the cost was deemed so excessive that the city authorities determined to lay new pipes from Atlantic to Squantum and thus own a new equipment. Over 100 men have worked for nearly two months in laying the necessary pipes. Of these there were laid 2400 feet of 4-inch pipe, 1290 feet of 6-inch pipe, 1970 feet of 8-inch pipe and 5370 feet of 10-inch pipe, making a total of 11,030 feet of mains laid or over two miles.

The 10-inch pipe extends from Atlantic to Huckins avenue and will give Squantum a good pressure for fire purposes In addition to these mains laid there were placed in position 15 hydrants and 20 main gates. The houses which were connected with the Boston system were piped with material owned by the city of Boston and negotiations are now under way towards buying these house connections which will save laying new house pipes. The job of laying these pipes was one of considerable hardship, as most of the land across the causeway is marshy and the trenches were more or less flooded. A long ledge of rock was also encountered and it was necessary to do considerable blasting. The 10-inch pipe, it is estimated, will last for 40 years. The laying of this pipe to Squantum settles for all time any question about a water supply that may arise in the future. Owing to peculiar conditions existing at Squantum, the water question has been rather a ticklish one. The territory is Quincy property, but a large section is leased by Boston for the use of its sewer pipes to Moon island, where the pumping station of that system is located.

In order to equip this station properly Boston was obliged, years ago, to construct not only sewer pipes, but water pipes as well and under some agreement made with the city authorities of Boston at that time it was agreed that Boston would furnish the people of Squantum with water from the big Boston mains. A season of economy or something else having set in at Boston this year, the authorities of that city gave notice to the people of Squantum that they would have to get water in the future from the city to which they paid taxes. Hence, it was "up to" the city of Quincy to provide the water. The job is now complete and the residents of Squantum are enjoying metropolitan water through Quincy-owned pipes. That the big job was done so quickly and well was due, in a large measure, to Supt. Gleason of the water department, who took personal charge of the work and overcame many unlooked-for difficulties, which cropped out every day. He and the men who worked with him are entitled to a lot of praise for the way in which they handled the situation. Now that the water is running freely to Squantum the people of that section will not have to repeat the famous remark of the governor of North Carolina, as they had to do many times during the past spring and early summer.

—Forty kinds of bugs are now said to be making war on the browntail moths, but at last accounts the browntails were still ahead and gaining rapidly.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

THAT PLUMBING CONTRACT

Quincy, Mass., July 31, 1909.
Editor Daily Ledger:

As the oldest plumbing firm in the city and one that has succeeded in fair and open competition, we would like to set ourselves right before the reading public regarding the bestowal of the latest city contract.

At a recent meeting of the City Council the sum of twenty-seven hundred dollars ($2700) was appropriated for installing a new system of plumbing in the Gridley Bryant school. Proposals were advertised July 23 and upon our applying at the Commissioner's office for the plans and specifications Saturday noon July 24, same were not ready, although the advertisement, appearing in the Ledger of the day before would lead one to believe that they were ready for inspection upon the same day the advertisement appeared. We persisted in our effort to inspect same and our endeavor was rewarded Saturday at 2 P. M., when the supply houses in Boston were closed and it was impossible for us to get sub bids.

Handicapped as we were, we conformed to the letter of the advertisement and submitted our bid with a certified check of two hundred dollars ($200) Tuesday morning July 26 at 10 A. M.. at the time stated they would be publicly opened and read. There was no official to open the bids, as advertised at the specified hour, and it was nearly 11 A. M. before the Commissioner arrived at his office.

In response to our telephone at nearly noon we were told that we were the lowest bidder. It was not until the next day (Wednesday) that we were informed by a Boston supply house that our competitor was awarded the contract. Expecting a "square deal" and not getting it we made inquiries of the Commissioner who said that there was no contract let. Why he should stoop to falsify over a business transaction wherein the city was to profit is difficult to understand. Nor is it to be commended in any city official to go out of his way to add insult to injury as did Commissioner Bainbridge in Thursday's Ledger where he says: "he used his judgment in the matter and awarded the job to the man whom he thought would do the best job," but he does not say when the award was made, either before or after the bids were opened.

We leave the general public to pass judgment upon our work in private or public buildings and will quote the schoolhouses plumbed by us under past administations, wherein no fault has yet appeared: Willard under Commissioner Knowlton, Coddington under Commissioner Cavanagh, Adams and Mass. Fields under Commissioner Burke.

Atlantic, Marr Bros. contractors, Hurd & Gore architects under Commissioner Burke.

The above municipal work was through competitive bidding, wherein we were the lowest bidders without fear or favor.

It is hard to conceive how Commissioner Bainbridge can very well pass judgment upon our work, since we never did any plumbing for him either as "Citizen" Bainbridge or "Commissioner" Bainbridge.

In our opinion no man has the right to make a public statement that would injure a man's business. Whether or not we are right, will be settled by one higher in authority.

Respectfully Yours,
J. E. Keniley & Co.

NEWS OF ALPINE PARTY.

Quincy, July 30, 1909.
Editor Daily Ledger:

Those of your readers who knew John C. Randall, the elder, of this town, who was lost in the Alps in 1870, will be interested to know that an ice axe, which undoubtedly belonged to one of Mr. Randall's party, has just been found near Chamounnix.

Prof. Whymper, the leading authority on Alpine climbing, when in Boston some ten years ago, told me that articles belonging to those who were lost at that time, and probably the bodies, might be brought down by a moving glacier, in which case they were likely to come to human view in about forty years from the time of the disaster.

TO OPEN PLAYGROUND

The first effort at real up-to-date play ground work will be inaugurated Monday morning for one month only on the vacant lot in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building. It is the result of long planning on the part of the association officers to give to Quincy an example of a modern playground under supervision for children of both sexes from 5 to 12 years of age.

The work is now taken up in cooperation with the Women's club, they paying for the construction of apparatus, etc., and the association furnishing the lot and general supervision.

The ground will be open for all children within reaching distance, from 9 A. M. to 12 noon, daily. L. H. Clee, the boys' work director of the association will be in charge, assisted from 10 to 11 daily by a committee of young ladies who will teach special games, tell stories and promote other things of intetest and of educational value. In very hot or showery weather the gymnasium, which opens out into the lot will be used, also the piano for singing and children's dances.

This work is experimental and will have its bearing on next years municipal work in this line only so far as it demonstrates the value of supervision and how much can be done with a little apparatus.

The need is axiomatic. Hundreds of children are on the streets and vacant lots daily with little or no care and many of them need sorely to be taught how to play.

It may take a few days to get the children coming but the news will travel fast after the grounds are once open.

The members of the choir of the Methodist Episcopal Church and their friends enjoyed an outing to Nantasket Beach and Paragon Park on Wednesday evening.

CATALONIA IS NOT SUBDUED

Rebellion In Barcelona, However, Has Been Quelled

DESTRUCTION IS WIDESPREAD

Private Advices Indicate That Loss of Life Has Been Enormous—Government to Crush Uprising Out Relentlessly—Spanish Forces In Morocco Worn Out With Fighting, While Moors Are Drunk With Success

Madrid, July 31.—The government's reports from Catalonia indicate that the situation continues to improve. Both King Alfonso and Premier Maura seem satisfied that the worst is over, that the rebellion in Barcelona has been quelled and that order soon will be restored in the remainder of the captaincy-general. Nevertheless, to be on the safe side, large bodies of troops of all arms continue to be hurried to the scene.

No figures, not even estimates, of the loss of property and life in Catalonia is vouchsafed by the authorities, but private dispatches indicate that there has been great slaughter at Barcelona.

It is understood that the king regretted the necessity of using artillery, but yielded to the arguments of his cabinet ministers that half way measures or temporization might prove fatal.

The only other regions creating particular anxiety are the Biscayan provinces. The workmen in the Bilboa mining districts are well organized and have assumed a threatening attitude.

There is some apprehension also that the followers of Don Jaime, the pretender, may attempt to raise the white flag of the Carlists. The leaders who maintain a military and political organization in northern Spain are being closely watched.

In Morocco the Moors, drunk with success, believe that they can drive the Spaniards into the sea. General Marina's forces at Melilla are worn out with fighting and Spain must rush heavy reinforcements to the front or abandon the position she has occupied.

Europe is becoming restive under the situation of affairs and the papers in the different capitals are discussing the proposition of coming to Spain's assistance so that Christian civilization may not be compelled to bow before the insolent and triumphant Moor.

But Spain is taking hold of the situation with great energy, and the outcome is likely to be the complete suppression of the internal revolt and the final re-establishment of her prestige in Morocco.

SYLPH TO THE RESCUE

President's Yacht Saves Many Excursionists From Being Drowned

Biddeford Pool, Me., July 31.—Although two members of a moonlight excursion party in the power boat Item were drowned, it is believed, when the twenty-nine occupants of the boat were thrown into the Saco river by the Item's turning turtle, the crew of President Taft's yacht Sylph saved twenty persons and so aided other rescuers by means of the yacht's searchlight that seven other persons were safely taken out of the water by other power boats.

It is believed that jockeying in the boat caused the craft to keel over, resulting in the capsizing. The body of one woman was taken to Basket Island. Another young woman is missing and the drowning theory is the only reasonable explanation of her absence.

"AN OPPORTUNE ACCIDENT"

French Socialists Hope That One Will End Career of Czar

Paris, July 31.—Another big meeting of Socialists was held last night, at which violent speeches were made in protest against the visit of the emperor of Russia and resolutions adopted expressing the hope "that an opportune accident would arrest the bloody career of Nicholas II, hangman of all the Russias."

As the Socialists left the hall they sang the Marseillaise. The police then intervened and dispersed them with difficulty. Missiles of various kinds were thrown.

Cannon Backs Tariff Bill

Washington, July 31.—Speaker Cannon, in an authorized statement, declared that he was in favor of and would support and vote for the conference report on the tariff bill. His utterances were called forth as a denial of a report that he was indifferent as to the fate of the conference report.

FROM SLIPPERY BOULDER

Four Children Fall Into Agawam River and Are Drowned

Springfield, Mass., July 31.—Alice and Jennie Riley, aged 10 and 13 years, sisters, and Alice and Ethel Vincent, aged 14 and 12 years, also sisters, were paddling barefooted at the edge of the Agawam river not far from their homes in West Springfield. Alice Riley stepped on a small boulder lying in the stream, but her feet slipped on its slimy, moss-covered surface, and she fell into a deep pool. Her sister, Jennie, grasped at Alice's garments as she came to the surface, but lost her own footing and went into the water.

The screams of the Riley girls brought the Vincent sisters to the rescue, but for them also the slippery boulder and the pool proved fatal, both of them tumbling in as they strove to reach the struggling forms which they could perceive dimly in the water.

TO COVER 210 MILES

Yachts Start From Sea Gate In Race Around Long Island

New York, July 31.—A long distance sailing race that is expected to do much to popularize that form of outdoor sport is the race around Long Island which started from the Atlantic Yacht club's house off Sea Gate today. It is the intention of the Atlantic and New Rochelle Yacht clubs, under whose auspices the race is being sailed, to make the event an annual affair.

Among the contestants in today's race are craft from Massachusetts and Narrragansett, as well as boats representing the local clubs and the Long Island sound clubs. The race is for boats not over fifty feet over all. The course is down lower New York bay to the southwest spit buoy, thence to and around Montauk Point, at the easterly end of Long Island, then through Long Island sound to New Rochelle, a distance of 210 nautical miles.

MISS THOMPSON'S SANITY DOUBTED

Would-Be Slayer of Priest to Be Sent to an Asylum

Burlington, Vt., July 31.—As a means of determining by observation whether Miss Beatrice Thompson, who shot at Rev. James F. Gillis on the night of July 6 last, is insane, Judge Taylor has signed an order committing her to the state hospital for the insane at Waterbury. Miss Thompson is now awaiting trial by the grand jury. When arraigned a few days ago the highest bail in the history of the state, $25,000, was set upon her freedom.

Miss Thompson, who is about 40 years old, is very deaf. She is apparently a bitter anti-Catholic fanatic. It is to this supposed fact that is attributed her attempt against Gilis' life.

TROLLEY CARS SMASHED

Four Persons Seriously Injured In Accident on a Curve

Millbury, Mass., July 31.—Two trolley cars were wrecked in a head-on collision here and eight people were injured, four of them severely. The accident was due, it is said, to the fact that the cars' running schedule was somewhat out of the ordinary, both being "off time."

Both cars were traveling probably at a rate of from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour when they struck a curve and it was impossible for the motormen to avoid collision when they were aware of the danger. Motorman O'Neil set his brakes and jumped, escaping injury, but Motorman Leggie was caught in the vestibule and badly crushed. All are expected to recover, though Leggie may lose a leg.

TO GET $30,000 FOR AEROPLANE

Wright Flying Machine Surpasses Contract Requirements

A CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

Orville Wright and Officer of Army Signal Corps Sail Ten Miles Over Measured Course at Speed Exceeding Rate of Forty-Two Miles an Hour—Witnessed by Madly Cheering Multitude

Washington, July 31.—Orville Wright last evening attained the zenith of hard-earned success. In a ten-mile cross-country flight in his aeroplane, accompanied by Lieutenant Foulois, an officer of the army signal corps, he not only surpassed the speed requirements of his contract with the United States government, but accomplished one of the most difficult and daring flights ever planned for a heavier-than-air flying machine. Incidentally, he broke all speed records over a measured course.

Wright's speed was more than forty-two miles an hour. He made the ten-mile flight in 14 minutes and 42 seconds. He attained a height of nearly 500 feet in crossing the valley of Four Mile Run and the average altitude of his course was about 200 feet.

President Taft, who has become an enthusiastic spectator of the aeroplane trials, arrived upon the parade ground at Fort Myer just in time to see the aeroplane land and to participate in the wild demonstration which welcomed the triumphant aviators. He sent Colonel Treat, commanding officer of the artillery at Fort Myer, to bear his congratulations to the victors.

A terrific wind and rain storm early in the afternoon seemed providentially provided to clear and quiet the atmosphere in preparations for the flight.

Lieutenant Foulois, at a sign from Orville Wright, climbed into the passenger's seat beside the motor. Orville clambered into his seat behind Foulois. He gripped the levers, and Wilbur slipped the cable which released the starting weight. The aeroplane shot down the track, rose before it reached the end, and the white-winged man-bird rose, higher and higher, reached the end of the field, turned at a slight angle, and came about, facing the madly cheering multitude.

Hats and handkerchiefs were waving, automobile horns were tooting, some over-wrought spectators even wept, as the white creature turned again southward at the starting tower, and everybody in the crowd seemed intent upon giving her and her daring passengers a "God speed" on their perilous trip.

Mounting higher and higher Wright brought the machine at great speed once again fully around the field. Then the aeroplane kept its course straight to the south, and it seemed to be rising even higher as it passed over the diverse and heavily wooded country in the distance. Smaller and smaller it grew until it became a mere speck against the sky.

Suddenly the speck was lost to view and as the seconds passed a silence grew upon the crowd. Wilbur Wright, standing with levelled glasses, strained his gaze in effort to catch sight of the aeroplane when it should rise above the sky-line. Seconds seemed like minutes.

Suddenly the speck came in sight again, over the distant hill. Onward the machine came, growing with the seconds, and seemingly swerved from its course by a westerly breeze. It grew and grew, until almost every detail of it was visible. Soon the aerial navigators were home again over the drill ground. Wright steered straight across the field, and at a height of about twenty feet swung round again to the southward, and landed easily far down the field. The task was done, and in triumph.

"We were making eighty miles an hour coming back," were almost the first words of Foulois as he left his seat. He seemed disconcerted by the congratulations heaped upon him, but was plainly too delighted to talk much.

Orville Wright said: "It's easier to fly across country than round a field." He seemed more impressed by the lessons that the unusual flight had taught him than by any sense of his achievement.

"We were forced off our course by several counter-currents," he added, "and in turning at the lower end a down-trend of air took me lower than I meant to go. I was forced to climb higher in starting back."

Even more dramatic than its departure from Fort Myer was the advent of the aeroplane and its passengers at the southerly turning point on Shuter Hill, just outside of Alexandria. There was the usual crowd, gazing eagerly into the sky as if in expectation of a supernatural visitation.

Today the official board will determine the speed. It is agreed that it exceeded forty-two miles an hour. The Wrights will therefore receive $30,000, including a bonus of $5000 for their aeroplane.

STEALING IN STORES.

The Ingenuity That Is Shown by the Woman Thief.

TRICKS OF THE SHOPLIFTER.

The Satchel With a False Bottom and the Slit In the Dress Near the Belt. Some Schemes Successful Because of Their Very Simplicity.

As numerous as they are ingenious are the tricks of the modern shoplifters, declare store detectives. It keeps the detectives busy to "get on" to the devices of the men and women who live by their wits in stealing from stores. For tricks that are canny few classes of criminals, it is said, approach them.

The method of stealing by using the satchel with a false bottom is one of the cleverest of the tricks.

Well disguised, the shoplifter enters a store. Her eyes run over the counters. She perceives the object she wants—usually something small and valuable, sometimes a purse a customer has left lying on the counter.

Over the object the shoplifter places her satchel. Pretending to delve into the satchel to extract a purse or handkerchief, the thief lifts a false bottom in the bag, reaches under it, draws inside the desired article, adjusts the false bottom, closes the satchel and walks away.

"But this is only one of many clever ruses employed," declared a detective the other day. "The women especially are ingenious. Their dress, of course, helps them.

"One of the methods of stealing is for the shoplifter to have a slit in her dress near the belt. As she stands near the counter she can deftly seize the article desired. be it a piece of lace or costly fabric or a bit of jewelry, and slip it into the skirt. The folds of the skirt are voluminous and conceal the thing stolen.

"Some tricks are successful because of their simplicity. A fashionably dressed woman may walk into the clothing department, look over coat suits, pick up one, fold it neatly up, place it under her coat and walk away.

"If she is detected she will indignantly declare that she bought the suit some time before and that she has brought it back to be altered.

"Or a woman, her hands glittering with rings and dressed in the latest style, may walk into the store some winter day. She wears only a rich coat of dark fabric.

"In the coat department she will ask to see some fur lined coats. Oh, she is very particular and tries on one after another. Other customers come up, and the saleslady gets busy with them while madam is trying to suit herself.

"While the saleslady is turned she puts on one of the richest sable trimmed coats, turns on her heel and walks away. Perhaps the salesgirl may not notice the loss until there is an account of stock.

"Each month from fifty to sixty arrests are made in the average large department store. The detectives must be extremely careful, for a false charge would precipitate a suit for damages, which would mean many thousands.

"Certain departments hold especial lures for shoplifters. The jewelry department is invariably guarded. When the furs come in we have sleuths who keep their eyes open for the woman who likes to take a fur to the window to examine it, then running for the door; the woman with the false skirt and the woman who puts a fur on and audaciously walks away."

Although the sales departments and the detective departments work together, there exists between them a spirit of justifiable rivalry. If a detective perceives some one getting away with goods it casts discredit on the person behind the counter from which the goods were stolen. Therefore the sales folk keep an alert watch for shoplifters.

One might imagine that goods are dumped pellmell on the counters of the big stores. As a matter of fact, the efficient saleslady will have everything so arranged that she will notice the disappearance of an article almost immediately.

If a saleswoman suspects a person she immediately notifies the head detective. If it is a woman, a woman detective is usually put on the job. It is said store managers usually find women more efficient than men.

Few arrests are ever made in the stores, as an arrest gives only undesirable publicity. The detective usually follows suspected persons from the store and arrests him or her outside.

It is said that arrests for shoplifting in New York exceed 3,000 a year. In that city a full description of all shoplifters caught are sent to the Retail Dry Goods association, which in turn distributes the information to the various members.

Only by concerted action and with highly organized staffs of detectives can the stores cope with the ingenious shoplifters.

The detective system of the big stores, however, is now so perfect that it is dangerous to attempt shoplifting. Even the cleverest shoplifter faces a long jail term in the pursuit of her nefarious work.

More than that, if a shoplifter for any reason should escape paying the penalty of crime in one city she may not be so fortunate in another. Descriptions of all suspected persons are sent out broadcast, and arrest in another city may mean a jail term, even though the thief may have escaped punishment previously.—Philadelphia North American.

THE NEW WATCHWORD.

Confidence and Co-operation Between Corporation and Customer an Ideal Quite Possible of Attainment.

According to Professor Meyer of the railroad commission of Wisconsin, one of the chief aims of a public utilities commission should be to bring about a hearty co-operation between the cities and the utilities companies which serve them, the ultimate purpose being to secure for the consumer the best service at the lowest price compatible with a fair return upon the capital invested. According to his view, the commission is not merely on the one hand to protect companies from the open attacks of demagogues and the insidious attacks of grafters and on the other to protect cities from the rapacity of corporations whose motto is "charge all the traffic will stand." It is beyond and above this—to bring the two parties to a franchise agreement into a spirit of cordial and intelligent co-operation.

Agitators tell us that the interests of the corporation and of its customers are necessarily antagonistic. That is not true, and any city or corporation which acts upon that false assumption does so at its peril. Every day it is becoming clearer that a corporation that has a monopoly is no exception to the general rule that no business can afford to antagonize its customers and that good service is a better guarantee of permanence than a long contract. On the other hand, a city that demands the impossible is likely to get half hearted service and to involve itself in vexatious litigation and experiments. Professor Meyer reminds corporations and cities alike that it is time to abandon childish squabbles and puerile efforts to obtain petty advantages over each other—which can only be temporary—and to approach the solution of the great problems which confront them in a large and manly spirit, with open minds and, if necessary, open books. That this is no day dream is proved by the increasing number of cities, large and small, where mutual suspicion and hostility have given place to confidence and co-operation.

MUNICIPAL BANKRUPTCY.

Just as Staggering as In the Case of Private Enterprise.

Over in Massachusetts some of the cities at least are not worrying over their "debt limits." They are letting "the other fellow" walk the floor. Haverhill, for example, which some weeks ago had a slight spasm of municipal "reform," has now found out that after spending her income and exhausting all her available borrowing resources she cannot raise enough money to pay her regular bills for the current month. And in Brockton the public school teachers failed to get their salaries last week because the school department had exhausted its appropriation and overrun its available funds to the extent of $28,000.

These incidents move the Boston Herald to remark that "the question whether or not a city can become bankrupt seems to be answered in the affirmative. Private enterprise in such financial straits," it adds, "would be bankrupt. And the law of compensation is as inexorable as applied to cities as to individuals. The day of accounting cannot be forever postponed." Yes. And in all probability there are in both Haverhill and Brockton municipal ownership faddists by the hundred who would like to put the municipalities "into business"—into gas and electric light and ice manufacture, into printing and street traction and "municipal trading" in general—when the disquieting truth is that neither city can "run" its present business efficiently. What is needed is not municipal ownership, but private enterprise to conduct affairs municipal economically and profitably, and it may yet come to that.—New York Commercial.

The Real Taxpayer.

The taxes the poor man pays are the largest single item in his expenditure. If he pays $18 a month for rent, $2.50 to $3 of this is for taxes. Every pound of meat, suit of clothes and pair of shoes he buys costs more because of the taxes due to graft, waste or inefficiency. If the cost of running the city of Boston could be assessed directly so the people could know what the city was costing them, each family would have to pay about $170 a year. If 20 per cent of this amount is wasted or stolen, which under present conditions is probably setting it low, the graft cost for each family is about $35, as much as the average mechanic can earn by two weeks' hard work.—Boston Traveler.

Doubly In Debt.

Dowagiac is in the attitude of a man who must consider the purchase of a winter overcoat while his summer underwear is yet unpaid for. Twenty years ago Dowagiac put in its water works system. Bonds were issued, and in all these years not one cent of the waterworks bonded indebtedness has been paid for. Now the plant must be rebuilt. — Dowagiac (Mich.) News.

Those Whom It Attracts.

Socialism is of all creeds that which it is easiest to present to the ignorant, and in these days, like "patriotism" in the days of Dr. Johnson, it is often the last refuge of a scoundrel or of a desperate and ambitious fool.—W. H. Mallock.

City Employees.

Municipal ownership means the creation of an immense civil service that would vote always and solidly in service interests and hold an invulnerable "balance of power" in any and every election.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A bore is a man who isn't in the least interested in what you are enthusiastic over, but is enthusiastic over something for which you don't care a straw.

When it comes to American heiresses, of course the woman pays every time.

Taking the conceit out of a man ought to be synonymous with putting some sense in him, but it isn't.

The only difference is that some of us are a little more indirect and tactful than others in trying to get the best of the other fellow.

The man who has a pressing engagement should not complain if in the end he finds he has been squeezed dry.

Any kind of ready to eat living looks good to the perfectly harmless chap who has to make his own living.

Probably the reason why there are so many unhappy marriages is because the girl does not think that the young man as husband lives up to all that is implied in a solitaire engagement ring.

Keeping still is merely an imitation of being wise and sometimes is just as effective as the real thing.

A girl who treats her suitors badly ought to be severely dealt with for contempt of court.

Primitive Aerial Navigation.

The cyclone season is at hand,
And very soon throughout the land
The natives will be treated to
As fine a breeze as ever blew,
And they will see, to their surprise,
Their household treasures in the skies.

A cloud no larger than a hand
Will very suddenly expand
Until it looks as large, we'll say,
As some account you cannot pay,
And its playful onward flight
Will pick up everything in sight.

The barn before this master grip
Will from its firm foundations slip
And like a modern airship will Go sailing over yonder hill
And, evoluting wide and neat,
Will settle in a field of wheat.

To follow in its train of course
Will be a buggy and a horse,
Some cattle and a drove of swine
And other critters in that line
To come down scattered far and wide
As with the cyclone's whim they ride.

The cyclone is a playful sprite,
For things inanimate take flight
When it displays the busy sign
And sends its forces down the line.
You never know what it will do,
So do not let it play with you.

Met Some Hard Words.

"How did he come out in the civil service examination?"

"He had a bad spell."

Daybreak.

The silvery gleam
Of the rippling stream
The listless eye caresses,
And the golden ray
Of the waking day
The joy of life confesses.

But the morning bright
Brings no delight,
Though the joys of morn are thronging,
For they find me far
From the place you are,
And the day grows pale with longing.

Possibilities.

"Got a recommendation from your last place?"

"Sorry to say I have not."

"Why not?"

"I don't know. When I left the boss was running after me, perhaps to give me one, but I did not wait to see."

Depended.

"Doctor, what shall I do to remove this superfluous flesh?"

"Exercise."

"What form—hoeing in the garden or golf?"

"How much money have you got?"

Sounded Good.

"You are all run down."

"What shall I do?"

"Try nature's remedies."

"Would going to the ball game do?"

Did What He Could.

"Does he lose much at poker?"

"Not a great deal. You know, he only has a small income."

"EXAGGERATED EGO"

Ltate May Rely Upon It to Keep Thaw In Insane Asylum

White Plains, N. Y., July 31.—When District Attorney Jerome finished his cross-examination of Harry K. Thaw yesterday, Justice Mills, at whose term of the supreme court Thaw is striving to prove himself sane, assumed the role of inquisitor.

HARRY THAW ON THE STAND.

"They are going to argue with me," said Mills, "that all the way through you have shown an 'exaggerated ego.' You have had the assistance of the ablest counsel, but I have observed you constantly interrupted him and make suggestions. In your former litigations you have constantly changed your counsel. Why don't you trust Mr. Morschauser?"

Thaw was clearly nonplussed. This was a feature of his conduct upon which Jerome had not touched.

"But I do trust Mr. Morschauser," he hastened to assure the justice.

"Why didn't you trust your other lawyers—you, a man unlearned in the law," continued the court; "haven't you felt all the way through that you were better able to conduct this case?"

"No," answered Thaw, "except, perhaps, in the case of Mr. Hartridge."

Thaw admitted that he might have interrupted Morschauser, but he pleaded that it was only because he wanted to make suggestions regarding the evidence and not because he felt qualified to take the case out of his attorney's hands.

There are indications that the state will strive to belittle the prisoner's general creditable showing on the stand on the theory that he was made glib, as it were, by the "exaggerated ego."

WILL PAY $14.000 TO AMERICANS

Panama Must Also Apologize For Misdeeds of Police

Washington, July 31.—Panama has met the insistent demands of the United States government for reparation in the cases involving maltreatment of American naval officers and seamen.

She will pay an indemnity of $5000 in the Columbia case, in which several naval officers were locked up and roughly handled in Colon; an indemnity of $8000 to the relatives of Boatswain's Mate Rand of the Buffalo, who was killed in Panama, and an indemnity of $1000 to Sailor Cieslik of the same vessel, who was stabbed at the time Rand was killed. Panama also agrees to dismiss all the police officers who were present at the time of the disturbance in the Buffalo cases.

The state department accepts these promises upon the condition that persons other than police officials who were involved be punished by the court and that the payment of the indemnities proposed be accompanied by a formal official expression of regret.

HOUSE GETS TARIFF BILL

Measure Considered Likely to Be Speedily Disposed Of

Washington, July 31.—Entering upon the last stages of its consideration by congress, the tariff bill, as reported by the conferees, was submitted to the house by Chairman Payne and ordered printed in the Congressional Record.

Discussion of the conference report begun this morning, the indications being that today will suffice for its adoption. Mr. Payne opened today's proceedings with an exhaustive statement in explanation of the bill.

Miss Tiverton's Tea Basket.

By ALICIA SPRAGUE.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Miss Tiverton always poured tea at precisely 3 o'clock in the afternoon for a select circle of feminine friends.

They drank tea at that early hour so that those who were married might get home in time to prepare 6 o'clock dinners for their husbands and that those who were single might be safely housed before the early darkness of the winter evenings.

Miss Tiverton sometimes wished that they might stay later, for it was always a long, lonely stretch between their going and bedtime.

Sometimes Lavinia Greer stayed with her, and on those occasions Lavinia's brother Richard would call at 9. And these were the social oases in Miss Tiverton's desert of dreary evenings.

She always made more tea for Richard and brought out her little sponge cakes. Richard liked the little cakes, and he liked Miss Tiverton's dainty ways, her delicate pink and white prettiness and her pale rose colored house gowns.

Lavinia thought Miss Tiverton very foolish to wear muslin all winter. "Think of the washing!" she said as she and Richard walked home one evening. "And Letitia Tiverton is as poor as Job's turkey."

"She surrounds herself," said Richard musingly, "with an atmosphere of beauty."

Lavinia sniffed. She hated to have her brother say nice things about Letitia Tiverton. Lavinia had kept her brother's house for many years, and it had always been her great duty to nip sentimental affairs in the bud.

Therefore it was many weeks after that ominous remark of Richard's before she again spent an evening with Letitia. She took her work over in the mornings or went to the little tea drinkings, but she did not allow her brother to darken the doors of the little gray cottage.

One day Richard spoke of it mildly. "We haven't been to Miss Tiverton's for a long time," he said—"not, I think, for four weeks tomorrow."

Lavinia gave him a sharp glance. "How did you happen to remember the date?" she asked acidly.

Richard looked at her quizzically over his glasses. "I noted the date in my diary," he said. "I always write down the events of the day, Lavinia." He did not tell her that he had added after the formal statement, "Brought Lavinia home from Miss T.'s," the further comment, "Miss T. looked like a rose in her pink gown."

A week later he urged Lavinia to call. "She will think something is the matter," he said.

Lavinia shrugged her shoulders. "I have been there in the daytime," she said. "I don't see what more she can expect."

Richard thought for a moment. "She has told us that her evenings are lonely," he reminded his sister.

"Humph!" said Lavinia. "I don't know that we are called on to put ourselves out to go there these freezing cold nights."

Richard returned to his book, but after a reasonably judicious interval he looked up to say, "I saw a very pretty tea basket in a shop this morning, Lavinia, padded inside to keep the tea warm"—

"Who wants a thing like that?" Lavinia questioned scornfully. "I always make coffee, Richard."

Richard said nothing more. He loved tea, but Lavinia preferred coffee, and there you were. Yet the next morning he sauntered to the flaming Japanese bazaar, where were displayed native wares to tempt the tourists who were making the old fashioned southern village a halfway stopping place on their way to the tropics.

The tea basket was a quaint affair of oriental weaving with a gay pink satin lining and a green and pink cord and tassel about the handle. The pink made Richard think of Miss Tiverton. With a defiant look he went in and bought the basket and ordered it sent to her.

His heart failed him, however, when the dark skinned salesman asked him for a card to put with the gift.

"Just send it without," he said hastily. Visions of Miss Lavinia's wrath should she know of his purchase came to him oppressively.

The mysterious basket was to little Letitia Tiverton a source of infinite delightful speculation. She displayed it to her afternoon circle, the rose colored lining, the pink cord and tassel, the fine basketry.

"And I can't imagine who sent me such a beautiful thing," she ended radiantly when all had seen it.

At the first glance Lavinia Greer's eyes had hardened. Of all those women she only suspected where that basket had come from. Richard had sent it. This looked seriously like the beginning of a romance that would be most inconvenient to Miss Lavinia.

On the way home she thought over a plan. It was simple. At dinner she told Richard, "Letitia Tiverton was too silly about a basket that some one sent to her."

Richard started, and his face flushed. He realized that Lavinia had put two and two together and had guessed that it was he who had sent the tea basket to Miss Tiverton.

"I wish you had seen her," Lavinia pursued. "I wish you had heard her giggle and boast that you sent it."

Richard turned questioning eyes upon her. "But she did not know that I had sent it," he said. "There was no card, Lavinia."

Lavinia went on hurriedly. "Well, then, she guessed, for she bragged of it, Richard—it—it—it was disgusting." Miss Lavinia's face was a dull red. She did not like what she was doing now that she was doing it. But she was desperate.

"I can't imagine"—Richard's tone was incisive—"I can't imagine, Lavinia, a woman of Miss Tiverton's delicacy doing a thing like that."

Lavinia tossed her head. "You don't know much about women, Richard," she retorted.

Richard walked abroad that night consumed by angry doubts. Surely Lavinia would not lie. Surely Miss Tiverton would not brag. His gold headed cane tapped the pavement irresolutely. Then suddenly he strode down the street, irresolute no longer.

Miss Letitia, alone and a little wistful in her small gray cottage, heard the tap of the cane as she had heard it every night when Richard went forth for his evening walk.

Behind her curtains she had watched him regularly and had admired the straightness of him, the briskness of his walk, the brown waves of hair which in defiance of modern fashion he wore so long that it almost touched his coat collar.

It had never dawned on Miss Tiverton that such a great being as Lavinia's brother could look upon her and find her lovely. In her humility she had not dreamed that the basket was an offering from such a source.

She had thought the women of her circle might have clubbed together to bestow on her this gift of friendship, and her effusiveness at the afternoon gathering had been due to her gratitude.

The tap of the gold headed cane sounded right in front of her gate, stopped and began again on the stone walk that led to the front door.

Then the bell rang. Miss Tiverton answered it. Richard stepped over her threshold—for the first time without his sister Lavinia.

"I came," he said when he was seated, "to ask a question, a delicate question, Miss Tiverton. Who sent you your tea basket?"

Miss Letitia's clear eyes met his frankly. "Oh, did Lavinia tell you that one was sent me?" she asked. "It's such a beauty!" And she brought it to him, displaying the rose lining and the tassels.

Richard drew a long breath of relief. The doubts that Lavinia had planted fled. There was nothing of deceit in that childlike soul, in that flowerlike face.

"Miss Letitia," he said, with his hand on the basket, "haven't you guessed who sent it?"

Her puzzled glance met his. "No," she murmured.

"I—I sent it," he confessed, "because it reminded me of you—the rose color and the pink—like your pretty gown, your pretty self, a rose of a woman."

Miss Letitia stood half poised for flight. "Oh!" she said breathlessly, and her eyes were like stars. "Oh, Mr. Greer!"

Richard grew bolder. "I sent it because I love you, Letitia. There is no happiness that could exceed that of winning you for my wife."

It came upon little Letitia almost too suddenly, that vision of happiness, and she swayed toward him, looking just then more like a lily than a rose, and the tea basket dropped from her nerveless hand.

Richard caught it deftly as he drew her to him. "You will pour tea for me, won't you," he demanded, trying to bring the color back to her cheeks, "for the rest of my days, Letitia? Lavinia gives me coffee—but, then, oh, hang Lavinia! Will you marry me, sweetheart?"

Don't Be Cheap.

Do not hold yourself too cheap. If you do not think well of yourself others are not likely to think much of you. You are usually taken at your own value. By this is not meant a foolish self conceit, but a proper self respect.

Have a regard for the esteem of those whose opinion is worth having. No one can be admired by all. He who has no enemies may doubt whether he has real friends. Try to win the regard of the good and the wise. If the foolish take offense, pass it by.

Think too well of yourself to stoop to anything coarse, mean or untrue. However humble your station in life may be, you may think yourself worthy only of that which is good and true. To be genuine puts you on a high level. Whatever your purse, you may be rich in character. Think yourself worthy of the best to which you can attain. Aim for the highest you see, and should you fail to reach it you will still be higher than if your aim had been low.—Milwaukee Journal.

Unfeeling.

A soft air shook the honeysuckle vine, and puffs of delicate perfume floated gently to where erotic Blenkinsop sat spooning with his girl. Not a leaf stirred. Only the stars and moon above and the green earth below. All around was the atmosphere of lee-ove.

His tone was reverend and hushed. It was as if this slim and beautiful maiden were in his eyes a goddess.

"Darling," he exclaimed, pausing in his ecstatic osculations, "each time I kiss you it makes a better man of me!"

They fell to again.

A voice from above broke harshly on the night:

"What are you by now, then—saint or archangel?"

A burst of ribald laughter, the rattle of a closing window and then once more the holy calm of undisturbed night.—London Scraps.

Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Hemmenway are to move into the Gibbs house on Squantum street.

So enjoyable was the evening trolley trip from East Milton to Nantasket that another has been arranged for next Wednesday starting at seven o'clock.

The Milton Episcopal Sunday schools are to unite with Boston schools in an outing on Friday to the Point of Pines.

The current number of the Shoe and Leather Reporter of which I. Wendell Gammons is publisher and E. S. Grover, editor, certainly has good news for Braintree:

"Rice & Hutchins, Inc., Boston, are to erect another shoe factory at South Braintree, Mass., and the ground will be broken for the foundation this week. It will be built of reinforced cement and will be onet of the first shoe factories of its kind in New England. The factory will be five stories high 300 by 50 feet and a large office will be erected outside 50 feet square. When completed the firm will occupy it in the production of women's high-grade All America shoes. The factory will be ready for the next spring run or in about three months. Plans are not yet completed, but the architect is working on them, and they wil lbe ready when the foundation is completed. The two Braintree factories combined will give a capacity of 12,000 pairs of shoes daily. It is planned to operate the new factory by electricity."

Such news as this means almost a boom for Braintree. Rice & Hutchins are one of the largest incorporations in the world engaged in the manufacture of shoes for men, women and children. They are well established and busy all the time. Several additions have already been made to their factory at South Braintree, so that it is now mammoth in size. For some weeks there bave been rumors of another addition, but now comes the information from a reliable source that a new five-story factory will be erected and also a large office building.

This will give the firm 75,000 square feet of floor space additional, nearly two acres. With electric light and power, the firm will be equipped to do an immense business, about three times the present output.

This means additional help and new families for South Braintree, and there will be a demand for houses. Fortunately South Braintree has considerable desirable land for house lots and attractive cottages for sale and for rent should prove a good investment.

The guests were met at the Nantasket station by the automobiles of Messrs. Mayhew and Stephens, and enjoyed a delightful 20-mile ride, including Jerusalem road, Cohasset, Scituate and Nantasket beach. Arriving at the villa of Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew they enjoyed a good shore dinner, and had their pictures taken in different groups. They were not surprised that Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew spend as much of their time as possible at such an attractive spot, and found them charming entertainers. About 5 P. M. the guests turned their faces homeward.
